Rifts (bamboos).—One day for every five miles for any number not exceeding five hundred and one day for every additional five hundred or part of five hundred.

5. Every vessel which does not complete its voyage within the number of days allowed by rule 4 shall, for each day or part of a day in excess, be liable to an extra charge equal to one-half of the toll payable on the maundage of the vessel as per the Schedule of Rates in Appendix B, provided that in no case shall the demurrage charged exceed Rs. 5 per diem. The Superintending Engineer may, at his discretion, exempt any boats on any line of navigation, or any portion of line of navigation from the payment required by this rule.

Exemption from payment of demurrage may, at the discretion of the Collector of Tolls, be granted for vessels detained in the channels (steamers broken down and boats damaged) by stress of weather, should immediate notice of detention, for the information of the Collector of Tolls, Magra Hât channels, be given to the nearest toll-station.

6. All tolls are payable on demand and shall be paid at the toll-station before a vessel is permitted to proceed: Provided that the Collector of Tolls may, at his discretion, permit vessels belonging to individuals or firms of recognised standing to proceed without prepayment on an undertaking that the bills for tollage due shall be liquidated monthly on presentation.

7. The ticket must be kept on board the vessel and must be produced for inspection when demanded by any person authorised to do so. If, on demand, the ticket is not produced, such person shall assess the tollage as provided in rule 2, and shall require payment of toll, and unless and until the toll is paid, or the original ticket or a duplicate is produced as evidence that toll has already been paid, the vessel will be liable to seizure and detention in accordance with the provisions of section 9 of the Canals Act, 1864.

8. Duplicates of lost tickets, of which the numbers and dates can be satisfactorily established, will be granted by the Collector of Tolls on payment of a sum of Re. 1. Provided that for tickets on which the total tollage is less than Rs. 4, the fee to be charged for a duplicate shall be one-quarter of the total tollage with a minimum of As. 4.

9. A vessel, which has been detained under these rules or under section 9 of the said Act, may not be removed from the canal without the order of the Collector of Tolls until the toll due has been paid. During such detention the manjhi, owner or agent must make arrangements for the safety of the vessel and cargo.

10. All vessels, whether the property of Government or of private owners, are liable for toll, except those exempted by the provisions of Bengal Government Circular No. 11., dated the 11th July 1906.

11. Vessels may be hauled up for repairs on the banks of the canals with the previous written permission of the Supervisor or Navigation Canal Officer. A rent calculated at one-sixth the rate of ordinary demurrage will be charged for the time the vessel occupies the bank.

12. At places where mooring posts have been provided by the Supervisor or Navigation Canal Officer, vessels desiring to moor shall be made fast in single line along the banks to such posts in such manner as the Supervisor or Navigation Canal Officer may direct, and shall not be moored in any other manner.

13. The Supervisor or Navigation Canal Officer may, by written notice to be posted at the toll offices, prohibit the dropping of anchors or the putting up of bamboos or luggees in any specified part of the canals or on the banks.

14. Vessels shall be allowed to make fast in single line along the canal banks in such manner as may be directed by the Supervisor or Navigation Canal Officer from time to time, and no boat shall be made fast or be placed outside of boats so secured. No boat or raft shall be placed in such a position as to endanger the safety or obstruct the passage of other boats. Every vessel, when stationary, shall be securely fastened, and shall at all times have some person in attendance on board. Every vessel in motion shall have a sufficient crew.

15. Vessels passing through the canals shall keep in separate lines, empty boats keeping close to the bank, and those that are laden in the centre.

16. In portions of the canals where only one towing-path exists, vessels shall moor on the side opposite to the towing-path, and the towing-path side shall always be kept clear.

17. Iron-built cargo boats, with outside angle iron projecting beyond the wooden fenders, will not be allowed to enter the locks unless permanent fenders are fixed over the edges of the angle iron so as to prevent them from causing damage to the locks.

18. No fire, or open, unprotected light of any description shall be used on boats containing petroleum, jute, hay or straw in any place prohibited by the Navigation Canal Officer or Supervisor, and no fire, or open, or unprotected light (except in the case of steamers, the galley and engine-room fires and the electric light) shall be used on any vessel while in a lock basin.

19. No person shall wilfully or negligently allow a vessel to sink in the canals.

20. In every case of a sunken vessel, whether due to negligence or otherwise, the Supervisor or Navigation Canal Officer and his subordinates shall offer every assistance in removing the same.

If in three days after the occurrence of a wreck it is seen that prompt measures are not being taken by the owner to remove the sunken vessel from the line of navigation, the Supervisor or Navigation Canal Officer and his subordinates shall make their own arrangements for the removal of the same at the expense of the owner, provided that, in cases where navigation is seriously obstructed, arrangements may be made at once to remove the wreck.

21. When a sunken vessel has been recovered, the Supervisor or Navigation Canal Officer shall cause notices to be posted at the locks, toll offices or other prominent places calling on those concerned to pay to the Collector of Tolls all toll or demurrage which may be due, as well as the expenses incurred in the recovery of the vessel and cargo. Should the sum due be not paid within fifteen days of the date of notice, the vessel and its furniture, or so much of it as may be necessary for the recovery of the dues, will be sold under the procedure directed in section 9 of the Canals Act, 1864.

22. The purchaser of a vessel sold under the provisions of section 9 of the said Act shall have the right to take it out of the canal on the day of purchase, or within such time as may be allowed by the Collector of Tolls, without payment of tolls.

23. When any laden vessel which has sunk has been recovered, or when any laden vessel has been seized under the provisions of the said Act or of these rules, the Supervisor or Navigation Canal Officer shall give immediate notice of the recovery or seizure to the owner of the cargo or his agent, requiring the removal of the cargo without delay and informing him that he will be required to pay all expenses necessary for the proper custody and storage of the cargo until removed.

24. If the Supervisor or Navigation Canal Officer be unable to ascertain the name and place of business or the abode of the owner of the cargo of such vessel, the notice prescribed in rule 21 shall be effected by a notice exhibited in his office and by advertisement in at least one English and one vernacular Calcutta newspaper.

25. No steam-vessel, whose length exceeds thirty feet, shall ply in the Magra Hât channels except in the following:—Diamond Harbour creek, Usti Nainan outfall, Nazra khal, Sangrampur khal up to Sangrampur bridge, and the Sarjipur outer khal up to the Surjipur bridge.

26. Lights and Signals.—All vessels, whether travelling or moored in the Magra Hât channels, must, between sunset and sunrise, carry a white light in a lantern on the forepart of the vessel where it can be distinctly seen from all sides. All steam-vessels in motion shall carry the lights prescribed by the Board of Trade Regulations. Barges or boats attached to a steam-vessel, whether in motion or moored shall carry the light prescribed above.

27. Speed of vessels.—Every vessel plying in the Magra Hât channels must, between sunset and sunrise, limit her speed to three miles per hour. No steam-vessels shall ply between sunset and sunrise in channels detailed in rule 25.

28. No vessel shall remain in the outer entrance channels of the locks at Diamond Harbour and Uttarbhag nor in the inner lock channel and diversion channel of the Diamond Harbour lock and sluice, nor in the approach channels to any sluice. A board will be put up limiting the portion of the channels in which boats are not permitted to moor.

29. The places at which boats cannot be loaded or unloaded will be fixed by the Superintending Engineer, South-Western Circle, and will be demarcated with suitable posts and notice boards.

30. For any contravention of rules 10, 14, 15, 16, 17, 19, 20, 26, 27 and 28, the person in charge of the vessel or other person in fault shall, on conviction before a Magistrate, be liable to a fine not exceeding Rs. 50 for any one infringement, or Rs. 5 a day for any continuing infringement.

31. The channels may be closed, whenever necessary, for effecting the necessary repairs to them on one month's notice of the intention so to close them being given; but, in the event of any sudden emergency, the channels may be closed at any time without prior notice, and no claim in such cases by owners of vessels or others for compensation on account of detention or otherwise shall be entertained.

32. The term "Navigation Canal Officer," as used in these rules, shall include all persons appointed to collect tolls under section 8 of the Canals Act, 1864, and all Public Works officers or subordinates in charge of the channel, not below the grade of Sub-Overseer.

33. No vessel whose beam exceeds 19 feet will be permitted to enter the channels through the Diamond Harbour lock. The same prohibition will apply in the case of the Uttarbhag lock to all vessels exceeding 14 feet beam.

34. Any vessel which enters the channels through the Diamond Harbour lock for the purpose of taking refuge during stormy weather will be charged a nominal toll of As. 8 per boat, provided the vessel leaves the channel again as soon as the weather conditions permit, and does not load or unload cargo inside the channel. All vessels seeking refuge under this rule must anchor in the creek close to the toll-collector's office and will not be permitted to proceed up the creek without paying the usual tolls.

35. Any vessel entering the channels through the Diamond Harbour lock and proceeding to load or unload at the Diamond Harbour station only will be charged tollage at the rate of As. 2 per 100 maunds to include the return journey. Should such boats proceed up the creek, they will be charged the ordinary tolls.

APPENDIX A.

Rules for licensing and registration of saltees or vessels under class I.

1. As provided for under rule 3, no vessel coming under class I, rule 2, shall ply, whether regularly or only occasionally in, or partly within and partly without the limits of, the Magra Hât channels unless licensed and registered by the Collector of Tolls of the Magra Hât channels.

2. Every owner of a vessel or his agent or manjhi shall apply to the Collector of Tolls, Magra Hât channels, for licensing and registration, giving the owner's name and residence or those of his agent duly authorised to act for him.

3. Every license granted under these rules shall continue in force for either six months or one year from the date of issue.

4. The license is not transferable, and if the ownership or manjhi or both of the vessel be changed, notice of the transfer must be given to the Collector of Tolls of Magra Hât channels, who will endorse the change of ownership on the certificate and register free of charge.

5. The license certificate granted for a vessel should contain the registered number of the vessel, owner's name and residence, name of manjhi, the maundage measurements, amount of compounded tollage and the dates of issue and expiry and shall be kept on board. It shall be produced, when required, by a Navigation Canal Officer and shall be delivered up on the expiration of the license.

6. The charge for the issue of a duplicate license to vessels in lieu of those defaced or lost is Re. 1.

7. The registered number of every licensed vessel shall be engraved, or branded, as well as painted in figures easily discernible on both sides of the vessel for which a charge of Re. 1 will be made. These figures shall be legibly maintained during the period of the license.

8. On the expiration of the license the manjhi shall deliver up his ticket to the toll collector at the station from which it was issued.

9. No person in charge of any licensed vessel plying within the limits of the Magra Hât channels shall use or have any ticket resembling those granted under the authority of these rules.

10. Every renewal of a license shall, unless the Navigation Canal Officer considers it unnecessary, involve the issue of a fresh license certificate without alteration in the registered number of the vessel.

11. Every vessel under class I, found plying in the channels without being licensed and registered shall be charged a demurrage rate of Rs. 3 for every such offence, provided that such vessel is not proceeding to the nearest toll station for the purpose of obtaining a license and being registered

MARINE DEPARTMENT.

The 7th February 1914.

No. 20 Marine.—Mr. L. F. G. Smyth, Licensed Branch Pilot, is granted, under article 676 (a) of the Civil Service Regulations, privilege leave for ten days in extension of that already granted him under Bengal Government Notification No. 158 Marine, dated the 20th December 1913.

H. H. GREEN,
Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

The 10th February 1914.

No. 21 Marine.—In exercise of the powers conferred by section 10 of the Indian Merchant Shipping Act, 1859 (I of 1859), the Governor in Council, with the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council, is pleased to make the following amendments in the rules for the conduct of examinations for Masters and Mates of Foreign-going and Home-trade Ships and as to the qualifications to be required, published under the Notification of this Department No. 113 Marine, dated the 14th November 1910, as amended by notification No. 109 Marine, dated the 7th October 1912.

H. H. GREEN,
Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

In the first line of rule 5, after the words "sea-service" insert the words "in the foreign or home trade."

For rule 25 (1) substitute the following:—

"25. (1) Every candidate for a certificate of competency of any grade will be required to produce a certificate from the St. John Ambulance Association, the St. Andrew's Ambulance Association, the St. Patrick's Ambulance Association, the London County Council, or other approved body to the effect that he has passed an examination in First Aid to the Injured."

After rule 25 (2) add the following:—

"Certificates issued by the St. John Ambulance Association more than three years before the examination for a certificate of competency will, however, be accepted, provided that, at the expiration of three years since its issue, the certificate has attached to it the 'Voucher' or 'Label' of the Association certifying that the holder has passed re-examination in First Aid."

For rule 25 (3) substitute the following:—

25. (3) If a candidate does not possess such a certificate of proficiency in First Aid, he should apply some time before he wishes to sit for examination for a certificate as Master or Mate to the local Secretary of the St. John Ambulance Association in Calcutta, who will inform him of the available facilities for the instruction and examination of candidates in First Aid.

A list of the names and addresses of the local Secretaries of the approved Associations is given in Appendix C, page 53.

SIGHT TESTS.

26. Every candidate for a certificate of competency must pass the prescribed sight tests before a certificate can be issued to him. If circumstances render it necessary for him to proceed with the examination in navigation and seamanship before undergoing the sight tests, he should be informed that the examination in navigation and seamanship will be cancelled in the event of his failure to pass either of the sight tests.

(1) Form vision test.—Every candidate for a certificate must pass the form vision test. If he presents himself for examination before January 1st, 1914, he will only be required to possess half normal vision using both eyes together. A candidate who has obtained a certificate before that date will be allowed to obtain his higher certificates on the same standard of vision.

Any candidate may, and every candidate presenting himself for examination for his first certificate on or after January 1st, 1914, must pass a higher standard, viz., normal vision using both eyes or either eye separately.

Any candidate who has obtained his first certificate under these conditions may obtain his higher certificates, provided that he has normal vision using both eyes or either eye separately.

Detailed information with regard to the conduct of the examination and the standards required is contained in Appendix O.

(2) Colour vision tests.—These tests comprise a wool test and a lantern test, and full particulars with regard to the methods adopted are given in Appendix O.

Every candidate must undergo the colour vision tests on the first occasion on which he presents himself for examination for a certificate of competency; but, if he then passes, he will not be required to undergo the colour vision tests on any subsequent occasion. No person who holds a certificate of competency should be examined in colour vision.

(3) A candidate who fails to pass the prescribed form vision test may present himself for re-examination at intervals of three months. A candidate who fails to pass the colour vision test is not allowed to be re-examined. In the case of a candidate who is referred for further examination the Port Officer will make arrangements for a special examination, and it is also open to any candidate, who is adjudged to have failed in the colour vision test, to appeal to Government, who may, if they think fit, remit the case to a special body of examiners for decision.

(4) The Government will repay, at a rate which will be notified to the candidate, the travelling expenses of any candidate, who is referred for further examination, as well as the travelling expenses of any candidate who, having appealed against failure, is reported by the special examiners to have passed. No payment whatever will be made towards the expenses of candidates who, upon their own application, are examined by the special examiners, and are reported by them to have failed, unless Government consider that the particular circumstances of the case justify such payment.

(5) When a candidate fails to pass the colour vision test, the examiner will point out to him the conditions under which he can appeal. Appeals are to be made through the Port Officer and forwarded to Government with the examiner's remarks.

(6) Only examiners who have themselves passed the colour vision tests are to undertake the examinations.

(7) The fee paid for examination for a certificate of competency includes the fee of one rupee for examination in form and colour vision, and if the candidate fails to pass those tests, this fee will, with the exception of one rupee, be returned to him.

(8) No additional fee will be charged to any candidate referred by the examiner for special examination or for the special examination allowed to a candidate who appeals against failure. If, however, a candidate, who has been reported by the special examiners as having failed, is still dissatisfied, it will be open to him, if he so desires, to present himself for a second special examination on payment of a fee of Rs. 75, provided that he brings with him a friend to witness the examination. This second examination will, however, be entirely voluntary, and will form no part of the examination for a certificate of competency. Consideration will, however, be given to the result of such examination in determining whether a certificate shall be granted.

Insert the following as rule 27 :—

27. The sight tests are open to all persons serving or intending to serve in the Mercantile Marine, and all such persons are recommended to take the earliest opportunity of ascertaining whether their vision is such as to qualify them for service in that profession. Any such person, if desirous of undergoing the tests, must make application to the Port Officer on the Form Exn. 2a, and must pay a fee of one rupee.

This fee will be payable on each occasion on which a candidate is examined.

In clause (b), rule 31, delete the word "rough" in the second line.

For clause (l), rule 31, substitute the following :—

(l) To find on a chart or plan the course or courses to steer and the distance or distances from one given position to another; to find the ship's position together with the set and drift (if any) on the chart or plan from cross-bearings of two objects; to find the ship's position from two bearings of the same object, the course and distance run between taking the bearings being given, making due allowance for a given tide or current; also, the distance of the ship from the object or any given position at the time of taking the second bearing; and to state what the small numbers and Roman numerals found on a chart indicate, and give a method of finding approximately the time of high water at any given place without the aid of the Admiralty or other Tide Tables. See Appendix H.

After clause (p), rule 31, insert the following :—

(q) The markings, signs and abbreviations on Admiralty charts or plans.

(r) The General Notices published in the Board of Trade Summary of Notices to Mariners.

In clause (4), rule 40, before the word “paragraphs” in the first line insert the word “sub.”

For the figure “16” in the sixth line substitute “15”

For the word “six” in the last line substitute the word “five.”

Insert the following as rule 103A :—

103A. For all certificates of competency as Master or Mate in the Mercantile Marine, the qualifying service usually required is service performed in ordinary trading vessels. While the Regulations provide for the acceptance in part of certain kinds of non-trading service (e.g., that performed in fishing-boats, yachts, pilot vessels, &c.), non-trading service not specially provided for in the Regulations cannot be accepted as qualifying service unless it has been submitted to Government and their sanction obtained.

For rule 112, substitute the following :—

112. When service in charge of a watch in either the foreign or home trade is specified in the Regulations, candidates for certificates of competency as First Mate must be able to prove that during eight months at least of their service they have kept full regular watch during the whole voyage, i.e., from port to port, which, if in the foreign trade, must amount to not less than eight hours of each 24 hours' service. Where a candidate can prove eight months of such full service, service performed in cases where watches were doubled at any time during the voyage will be accepted as equivalent to half the same period of full watch-keeping service. No amount of occasional service will, by itself, be accepted as qualifying service. Candidates for certificates of competency as Master will be required to have served during the whole of the time specified by the Regulations, in full charge of a watch, and no service performed under the system of double watches except as the senior officer will be accepted as qualifying service for a certificate of this grade. Great care must be exercised by the Port Officer in regard to such service, and unless the candidate produces a clear and satisfactory testimonial specially setting forth the above facts from the Master or Owner of the vessel in which the service was performed, it must not be accepted.

APPENDIX O.

THE SIGHT TESTS.

These tests must be conducted under the strict personal supervision of the examiner. A careful record must be kept of all mistakes made by the candidate in the form vision test, and on no account whatever must a candidate be allowed to make his selections in the colour vision test during any temporary absence of the examiner.

Each examiner must keep a record of all candidates passed by him for reference when required.

1.—FORM VISION TEST.

1. Form vision test to be passed first.—The first test which the candidate is required to undergo is the test for form vision, and until he has passed this test he must not be allowed to proceed further with the examination.

2. Apparatus used.—The form vision test to be used for all candidates is that conducted on Snellen's principle by means of sheets of letters. Sets of eight of these sheets are supplied to examiners.

3. Object of the test.—The object of the form vision test is to determine whether the candidate can reach a sufficient standard of visual acuteness, or, in other words, to find out whether his eyesight is good or bad.

4. Standard of vision required.—With the exceptions indicated below (see paragraph 8), every candidate for a first certificate of competency will be required to possess normal vision. Every candidate for a second or higher certificate will be required to possess normal vision.

"Normal vision" is defined, for the purpose of these Regulations, as ability to read correctly nine of the twelve letters in the sixth line and eight of the fifteen letters in the seventh line of a test sheet placed in a good light at a distance of 16 feet from the eye.

5. Spectacles not allowed.—During the examination for form vision candidates must not be allowed to use spectacles or glasses of any kind, or any other artificial aid to vision.

6. Method of testing.—The test sheets should be hung on the wall, in a good light but not in a direct sunlight, at a height of five or six feet from the ground. The candidate should be placed at a distance of exactly 16 feet from the sheets, and exactly opposite them. This distance should be carefully measured, and should never in any circumstances be varied.

One of the sheets should then be exposed, and the candidate should be asked to read the letters on each sheet, beginning at the top and going downwards. Any mistakes which he makes should be carefully noted. If then it is found that he has read correctly at least nine letters in the sixth line and eight letters in the seventh line of a sheet, the candidate may be considered to have normal vision and the entry "5/5" should be made in the appropriate column of the form of application (Exn. 2 or Exn. 2A, as the case may be).

7. Passing or failure.—If at the conclusion of the test the candidate is found to reach the required standard, he may be considered to have passed, and the examiner should proceed to test him for colour vision. If the candidate fails to reach the standard required for the certificate entered for, he should be tested with at least four sheets, and the examiner should fill in a Form Exn. 17b, and should forward it, with any remarks he may wish to make, to the Principal Examiner for his instructions as to whether the candidate is to be regarded as passing or as failing in form vision.

8. Lower standard required in certain cases.—Candidates examined before January 1st, 1914, and also candidates examined on or after that date who are already in possession of certificates obtained before that date, may be regarded as passing in form vision if they can read correctly with both eyes at least five of the eight letters in the fifth line of a test sheet.

9. Tests to be varied.—The examiner should take care, by varying the order of the test sheets and by every other means in his power, to guard against the possibility of any deception on the part of the candidate.

10. Result of examination to be reported.—The result of every examination in form vision should be reported, in the case of a candidate for a certificate of competency, to Government on Form Exn. 2, and to the Port Officer on Form Exn. 14; and, in the case of a candidate for the sight tests only, to Government on Form Exn. 2A.

2. COLOUR VISION TESTS.

I.—THE WOOL TEST.

1. The wools provided are divided into five groups, one to each test skein. The test skeins are labelled respectively I. (Light Green), II. (Pink), III. (Brown), IV. (Purple), and V. (Yellow), and must always be used in the order named. Care should be taken that the labels do not become detached nor the skeins belonging to the different groups get mixed. To avoid this only one group of skeins should be exposed on the table at one time.

A special bag with five pockets is provided in which the wools, when not in use, must be kept in order that they may not become faded or dirty.

2. The examination in the wool test should be conducted as follows:—

The first group of wools is placed in a heap upon a table covered with a white cloth and the first test skein a little to one side of it, care being taken that no strong sunlight falls directly upon the skeins. The person examined should be requested to note carefully the colour of the test skein and then to divide the group into two parts, one part consisting of those skeins which have the same colour as the test skein in them and the other part the skeins which have none of the test skein colour in them. The examiner should explain that there is no exact match for the test skein, as the skeins which contain this colour are all either lighter or darker, and that the only question is the division of those skeins which contain the test colour more or less from those which do not. No difficulty should be experienced in explaining to the candidate what he is required to do, but if the examiner thinks he has not grasped what is required he may himself divide the heap into two parts as a demonstration, mixing the skeins up again thoroughly before allowing the candidate to do the test.

3. When the candidate has dealt with the first test skein each of the four remaining tests should be gone through in a similar manner and in the order named.

4. As the examination proceeds the Examiner should place on one side the skeins which the candidate has wrongly selected as either resembling or not resembling the test skeins, and when the examination is finished, a small piece (say one inch) should be cut off every one of the actual skeins incorrectly selected by the candidate and stitched to Form Exn. 17c under the proper heading in the spaces provided for each test.

5. The greatest care must be taken that the pieces forwarded are cut off the actual skeins selected by the candidate, in order that there may be a reliable record of the actual selections made by the candidate if any question should subsequently arise.

6. During this test the Examiner should avoid naming the colours of any of the wools and should explain to the candidate that he does not require them to be named by him.

7. The wool test should only be held in daylight. If a good natural light is not obtainable the test must be postponed. If dark or foggy weather renders it necessary to postpone the examination until after the examination in navigation or seamanship has been begun, the examiner should not fail to inform the candidate that the latter examination will be cancelled in the event of failure to pass the Sight Tests.

II.—THE LANTERN TEST.

8. A special lantern and a mirror have been provided for this test. The lantern should be placed directly in front of the mirror, so that the front part of the lantern is exactly ten feet from the mirror. Care should be taken that the lantern is properly placed, that is to say, the lights reflected in the mirror must show clearly when viewed through the rectangular aperture on the left of the lantern. The examiner should always satisfy himself that these conditions are fulfilled before commencing the examination.

9. It is essential that a Candidate should be kept in a room which is either completely or partially darkened for at least a quarter of an hour before he is required to undergo this test.

10. Before the examination commences the examiner must satisfy himself that the room in which it is conducted is so darkened as to exclude all daylight.

11. The lantern supplied for the examination is so constructed as to allow one large or two small lights to be visible, and is fitted with 12 glasses of three colours—red, white and green. At the commencement of the examination the examiner should show to the candidate a series of lights through the large aperture, and should require him to name the colours as they appear to him. Care should be taken in showing the white light to emphasize the fact that the light is not a pure white. If a candidate makes a mistake of calling this light "red," a proper red light should be shown immediately after and the candidate's attention directed to the difference between the two.

After a series of lights through the large aperture has been shown, the Examiner should make a complete circuit with the two small apertures, requiring the candidate to name the colours of each set of two lights from left to right. To prevent any possibility of the order in which the lights are arranged from being learnt, the examiner should at least twice in each circuit go back a varying number of colours.

A record of any mistakes made with either the large aperture or the two smaller apertures should be kept on Form Exn. 17C in accordance with the instructions thereon.

12. As the lantern itself forms a test for Colour Ignorance, the old Colour Ignorance test becomes unnecessary and should be discontinued.

III.—SUCCESS OR FAILURE.

13. If a candidate with either the large aperture or the two smaller apertures of the lantern mistakes red for green or green for red, he should be considered to have "failed" in Colour Vision.

14. If a candidate makes no mistakes in the wool test and if the only mistakes made by him with the lantern is to call the white light "red," and if after his attention has been specially directed to the difference between the two he makes no further mistake of this nature, he should be considered to have passed in Colour Vision.

15. If a candidate makes any other mistakes with the lantern, i.e., if he calls white "red" repeatedly or red "white" at all or confuses green and white or if he makes any mistake whatever in the wool test, his case should be reported to the Port Officer and he should be told that the decision as to whether he is passed or failed or a further examination is necessary will be communicated to him in due course. Pending the receipt of the Port Officer's instructions such a candidate should only be allowed to proceed with the remainder of the examination for a Certificate of Competency on the express understanding that the latter examination will be cancelled in the event of failure in the Sight Tests.

IV.—FURTHER EXAMINATION AND APPEALS.

16. If in the cases covered by the preceding paragraph the Port Officer decides that a further examination is necessary, arrangements will be made for a special examination to be held and the travelling expenses necessarily incurred by a candidate in attending such an examination will be paid by Government together with a subsistence allowance at a rate which will be notified to the candidate, but which will not in any circumstances exceed Rs. 5 for each day necessarily occupied in attending the examination. In these cases the above expenses will be paid whatever may be the result of the final examination.

17. If, however, on the report of the examiner the Port Officer decides that the nature of the mistakes made shows conclusively that a candidate is so colour blind as to be unfit to hold a certificate, the candidate shall be considered to have failed.

In cases where, upon the report of the examiner, a candidate is failed by the Port Officer as well as in the cases covered by paragraph 13, Government will be prepared to allow a candidate who is dissatisfied with this decision to appeal for a special examination, but Government will not pay the travelling expenses of any such candidate unless he is reported by the special examiners conducting the appeal examination to have passed.

3.—REPORTS.

18. The result of every test in form or colour vision should be reported to Government on the Form Exn. 2, and to the Port Officer on the Form Exn. 14, when the candidate is up for examination for a certificate of competency: and to Government on the Form Exn. 2A, when the candidate is up for examination in vision only.

All cases of failure should also be reported to the Port Officer on Form Exn. 17B, to which should be attached Form Exn. 17C, containing the pieces of the wools incorrectly selected by the candidate, and the record of any mistakes made with the lantern.

Every report relating to such an examination must be signed by the examiner who conducted the examination.

LIST OF BUSINESS—ITEM No. 2.*QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.*STARRED QUESTIONS.

The following questions which had been starred were put and answered—

by the Hon'ble MAULVI A. K. FAZ-UL-HAQ :—

Placing of selected officers of the Provincial Civil Service in charge of Wards Estates

* 1. (a) Have the Government ever considered a scheme for placing selected officers of the Provincial Civil Service in charge of Wards Estates?

(b) If so, will the Government be pleased to state whether any such appointment has yet been made?

The Hon'ble Mr. KERR replied :—

(a) "The answer is in the affirmative. The late Government of Bengal and the late Government of Eastern Bengal and Assam decided in 1905 and 1906 that, on the occurrence of suitable vacancies, a certain number of officers in the permanent service of Government should be appointed managers of estates under the Court of Wards.

(b) In the former province of Bengal, three appointments as managers of wards' estates were held by Deputy Collectors in 1906, 1907 and 1908, six appointments in 1909 and five appointments in 1910 and 1911. All these posts appertained to estates which are now in the province of Bihar and Orissa. In the former province of Eastern Bengal and Assam, one post of manager of a Court of Wards' estate was held by a Deputy Collector in 1910-11. Since the creation of the existing Presidency of Bengal in April 1912, no vacancy suitable for a Deputy Collector has occurred, and no appointments under the Court of Wards are at present held by officers of this class."

by the Hon'ble BABU SURENDRA NATH RAY :—

Expenses incurred by Government in the Calcutta Small Cause Court Bailiff's case.

* 2. (a) Will the Government be pleased to state whether they have been defraying the expenses of the accused in the Calcutta Police Court and in the High Court in what is known as the Calcutta Small Cause Court Bailiff's case in which Mr. A. Meredith and Mr. F. Bomeswetch are the accused?

(b) If so, will the Government be pleased to state the amount of the expenses incurred and paid by them up to date on behalf of the defence?

The Hon'ble Mr. CUMMING replied :—

(a) "Government have been defraying the expenses of the defence of Mr. A. Meredith, one of the accused in the case mentioned in the question.

(b) The amount of expenses paid by Government up to date amounts to Rs. 14,079-12. Counsel's bill for fees due for opposing the application in the High Court has not yet been submitted. Government will also pay the expenses of the defence of Mr. Meredith at the retrial ordered by the High Court which is now pending."

by the Hon'ble BABU SURENDRA NATH RAY :—concl'd.

\* 3. (a) With reference to the answers given to my Question No. 14, at the meeting of Council held on the 17th March, 1913, and Question No. 56 given at the meeting of the 2nd April, 1913, will the Government be pleased to state the number of high schools which are in receipt of grants-in-aid to the extent of one-half of so much of their income as is guaranteed from private sources (including fees, etc.,) and the number of schools which are in receipt of  $\frac{1}{3}$ rd,  $\frac{1}{4}$ th and less, respectively, of such guaranteed income?

Grants-in-aid
high schools.

(b) Will the Government be pleased to state what steps (if any) they have taken or are taking to increase the grant-in-aid where it is at present less than  $\frac{1}{3}$ rd of the income guaranteed from private sources?

The Hon'ble MR. SAMMAN replied :—

(a) "A statement giving the required information is laid on the table.

(b) Till lately it has not been found possible to accomplish anything material in the direction indicated. The recent Imperial recurring grants of one lakh fifty thousand and two lakhs twenty-six thousand for secondary schools will enable Government to make substantial additions to the grants already given to aided schools."

Statement referred to in the Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Samman to Question No. 3

* 4 (a) Will the Government be pleased to state whether any disturbances in which Gurkha soldiers were implicated have occurred in Dacca, Narayanganj and Munshiganj?

Alleged
Narayanganj Munshiganj.

(b) If so, was Mr. Seaton, the Additional Magistrate of Dacca, deputed to inquire into the matter and to report on it?

(c) Will the Government be pleased to lay on the table Mr. Seaton's report (if any)?

(d) Further, if these disturbances by Gurkha soldiers have occurred in the past, will the Government be pleased to state what measures they have taken or are taking to prevent their recurrence?

The Hon'ble Mr. CUMMING replied :—

(a) "Disturbances in which Gurkha soldiers were implicated have occurred in Dacca. Complaints relate to two sets of incidents, namely, those of 11th, 12th and 13th November, and those of 29th and 30th November and 1st December. At Munshiganj no disturbances occurred, but there was a collision between a Gurkha soldier on Sub-Treasury guard duty and a Munsif who passed by the Sub-Treasury after dark.

Complaint was also made that in the course of some training exercises some of the sepoys on one occasion entered some private courtyards.

No disturbances occurred at Narayanganj.

(b) & (c) Mr. Seaton, the Additional Magistrate of Dacca, was deputed to inquire into the matter and to report on it. The conclusions at which the District Magistrate has arrived are as follows :—The first set of incidents is attributable to the men of the 10th Gurkhas, but the accounts which appeared in the Press were very much exaggerated. There were instances of mischief and assault and of taking small quantities of goods from shops either without payment or with inadequate payment. These occurrences were partly due to the refusal of shop-keepers to sell goods and to shop-keepers demanding exorbitant prices ; they were partly due to the fact that the Gurkhas, being strangers in the town, were rudely treated by the inhabitants and believed that they were liable to be attacked. The allegations of general loot and of theft of large sums of money from shops have been proved to be false. The second set of incidents is not clearly proved to be attributable to the men of the 10th Gurkhas.

Government are not prepared to lay Mr. Seaton's report on the table.

(d) Gurkha soldiers are only allowed to enter Dacca town with special passes given by their officers, and at fixed hours. During these hours Gurkha soldiers are on duty as regimental police to prevent disturbances.

The General Officer Commanding the 8th (Lucknow) Division visited Dacca from the 19th to the 21st December last, and after examining the situation with the local Civil and Military authorities, had a conference with some of the leading residents of Dacca. He expressed to them his desire that the friendliest relations should be established between the troops and the inhabitants of the town. It is believed that the General's visit has had the effect of restoring confidence."

by the Hon'ble BABU SURENDRA NATH BANERJI :—

Alleged lawlessness by the 10th Gurkhas in the town of Dacca

* 5. (a) Will the Government be pleased to state whether it is a fact that the 10th Gurkhas were prevented from visiting the busy quarters of the town of Dacca for a week or so ?

(b) If so, what was the reason for this order ?

(c) Is it a fact that an order was passed directing constables to accompany Gurkha Guards in the town of Dacca in order to prevent lawlessness by the 10th Gurkhas and that the shop-keepers were advised to complain about any act of lawlessness on the part of the Gurkhas through the constables who accompanied them ?

(d) Is it a fact that no complaints by the shop-keepers and others were accepted by the police-stations and no first informations were recorded ?

(e) If such complaints were recorded, will the Government be pleased to give the dates on which they were recorded and the names of the complainants in each of the three police-stations in the town of Dacca ?

(f) Is it a fact that there is a panic in the town of Dacca on account of the Gurkha outrages, or the apprehension of such outrages and, if there is, will the Government be pleased to state the causes to which it is due and what steps they have taken to allay it ?

The Hon'ble Mr. CUMMING replied :—

(a) "Yes : the Dacca Bazar was closed to the 10th Gurkhas from the 14th to the 21st November last.

(b) This order was passed by the Officer Commanding the 10th Gurkhas on account of the reported collisions between shop-keepers and men of the 10th Gurkhas on the 11th, 12th and 13th November last.

(c) No such order was passed.

(d) It is not a fact that no complaints by shop-keepers and others were accepted at police-stations and that no first informations were recorded : in several cases the informants expressed unwillingness to have investigation made, and in these cases first informations were not recorded.

(e) The following is a list of the dates on which first informations were recorded and of the names of the complainants at each of the police-stations in the town of Dacca, namely :—

Name of police-station.	Date.	Name of complainant.
Lalbag ...	... 13th November, 1913	Abdul Kadir.
Kotwali ...	... 4th December ..	Radha Raman Shaha.
Ditto ...	... 12th .. ..	Moti Pashakar.
Ditto ...	... 13th .. ..	Rashi Pashakar.

(f) Information on this subject has already been given in the reply to the previous question by the Hon'ble Member."

by the Hon'ble NAWAB SAIYID HOSSAM HAIDER CHAUDHURI, KHAN BAHADUR :—

* 6. (a) Will the Government be pleased to state whether it is a fact that almost all over the Presidency grazing-grounds for cattle are gradually being brought under the plough, with the result that fodder is daily becoming scarce?

(b) If so, is any action being taken—

- (i) to protect the existing-grazing-grounds from encroachment, or
- (ii) to create or form new ones?

The Hon'ble Mr. KERR replied :—

(a) "The Hon'ble Member's attention is invited to the discussion on this subject which took place in this Council on the 13th March, 1913, and to the answer given to a similar question put by the Hon'ble Mr. Byomkes Chakravarti on the 17th March, 1913.

(b) Since last March, the question has been further considered by Government in consultation with the Commissioners of Divisions. No feasible method of dealing with the problem in private estates has been suggested, but the following measures are under consideration :—

- (1) It has been suggested that District Boards should acquire additional road-side lands and let them out for grazing purposes.
- (2) In the case of Government estates, the rules in the Government Estates Manual provide for the reservation of pasture lands and for their protection from encroachment. The Board of Revenue has been asked to consider whether these instructions should be amplified and supplemented.

by the Hon'ble NAWAB SAIYID HOSSAM HAIDER CHAUDHURI, KHAN BAHADUR :—concl'd.

- (3) Various inquiries in regard to fodder crops have been made from time to time without much practical result, owing mainly to the difficulty of inducing the raiyats to substitute fodder crops for more valuable crops. The Director of Agriculture has been asked to consider the question of reopening these investigations."

- * 7. Will the Government be pleased to state whether any senior Muhammadan member of the Provincial Executive Service has ever been promoted as a District Magistrate since the creation of the "listed" posts?

The Hon'ble Mr. CUMMING replied :—

"No senior Muhammadan member of the Provincial Civil Service has been promoted to a 'listed' post of Magistrate-Collector; but several Muhammadan officers of the Provincial Executive Service have been appointed from time to time to act as Magistrates and Collectors for short periods in local vacancies, and one 'listed' post has been held by a Muhammadan Statutory Civilian. Last year a post of Additional District Magistrate was offered to a Muhammadan officer, but for domestic reasons the officer declined the appointment."

THE BENGAL MEDICAL BILL, 1914.*List of Business—Motion No. 4.

The Hon'ble Mr. Stephenson said :— "I beg to move that the Bengal Medical Bill, 1914, be referred to a Select Committee. In doing so, I would like to add to the names of the Committee, the Hon'ble Nawab Sir Khwaja Salimullah Bahadur, and the Hon'ble Rai Priya Nath Mukherjee Bahadur. Since the names of this Select Committee were first put forward, it has been represented to Government that the Committee is perhaps rather small for a Bill which is of such importance, and that it is desirable that a representative Muhammadan opinion should be put on the Committee. I therefore have great pleasure in proposing that these two names be added to the Committee. I therefore move that the Bengal Medical Bill, 1914, be referred to a Select Committee consisting of the Hon'ble Colonel Harris, the Hon'ble Mr. Newbould, the Hon'ble Rai Priya Nath Mukherjee Bahadur, the Hon'ble Nawab Sir Khwaja Salimullah Bahadur, the Hon'ble Dr. Nibratan Sircar, the Hon'ble Raja Shoshi Kanta Acharyya Chaudhuri, Bahadur, the Hon'ble Mr. Grice and myself, with instructions to circulate their report in time for its consideration in Council at the meeting to be held on the 27th February 1914."

List of Business—Motion No. 4A. The Hon'ble Maulvi Faz-ul-Haq moved, by way of amendment to the above, that the consideration of the Bengal Medical Bill, 1914, be postponed for a period of three months, and that, in the meantime, the Bill be widely circulated for discussion and criticism.

He said :—

"It is with some confidence that I commend this amendment to the consideration of this House. I know that the opinions of an overwhelming majority of the non-official members are on my side, and I believe that the criticisms which have been directed against the Bill during the last few days from many responsible public platforms must have convinced the Hon'ble Member in charge that the provisions of the Bill are not so innocuous as they seem to be, and that they may have to be very thoroughly recast if they are to be of any use for the purpose for which the Bill is being passed into law. I do not propose, my Lord, at the present moment to enter into any detailed discussion as to the provisions of the Bill. I know that we will all have time to do that after the Bill has emerged out of the Select Committee. The very simple question which we have to consider this morning is whether a case has been made out for a postponement of the Bill, for a short period, in order to allow public opinion to be focussed on a piece of legislation which vitally affects not only the medical profession, but the general public.

"My Lord, it was my intention, when I sent notice of this amendment, to move a substantive resolution that the papers relating to this Bill might be laid on the table of this House. This resolution has been ruled out of time, but I am glad, my Lord, that the papers have been circulated to us, although late, and I may say that a perusal of these papers has rather strengthened me in my belief that the consideration of the Bill should be postponed for a fuller and a further discussion by the public before it is referred to a Select Committee. My Lord, I find from the Statement of Objects and Reasons that the Bill is intended to provide a means of protecting the public and the medical profession from irregularly qualified practitioners, whose training in medical science has been obtained in unrecognised institutions, and, secondly, to afford facilities for ascertaining whether any medical practitioner possesses recognised qualifications. With these objects we are all in perfect sympathy, but I think that the safeguards which the Bill wants to provide, to prevent the public from being imposed upon by quacks and other unlicensed medical practitioners, are of an illusory character. I have spoken rather bluntly, because I want to use words which will convey the meaning which I want the words to convey, and because I do not believe in the language of any halting or half-hearted criticism.

Amongst the papers, my Lord, that have been circulated to us, I find that there are four sets. The first set, my Lord, refers to the opinions recorded by nine associations, the second set records the opinions of five Commissioners of the five Divisions, the third set refers to the opinions of certain medical officers of Government and the fourth set is a copy of a protest recorded at a public meeting by certain homoeopathic practitioners. I find, my Lord, to give a specific instance, that amongst the Muhammadan associations which have been consulted, are the Muhammadan Literary Society of Calcutta and the Central National Muhammadan Association. It seems to me very strange that in taking the public opinion of a certain class of the community on a piece of such important legislation, the opinion of the Moslem League should have been ignored. I cannot account for this, and more so because, though it may be news to many members of this House, that the two associations whose opinions have been taken are practically controlled by persons who are themselves Government servants. The Secretaries of the two associations, the Muhammadan Literary Society and the Central National Muhammadan Association, are two Government servants. Now, my Lord, if opinion is taken of a public body, it simply stultifies the object for which the opinions are taken, if it is the opinion of a body which is practically run by a Government servant. It is not the opinion of the non-official public, and the opinion of non-official Muhammadans ought to have been sought through the Moslem League. I mention this fact, my Lord, in order to point out one important omission by way of example.

I am very glad to hear this morning that our esteemed leader, the Hon'ble Nawab Sir Khwaja Salimullah Bahadur, has been taken on the Select Committee, but that will be a matter touching the passage of the Bill through the Select Committee. Our object is not simply to consider at the present moment the details of the Bill, but whether we should not consider the very principle under which the Bill has been framed, and for that the opinion of responsible bodies, specially responsible Muhammadan non-official organizations, should be sought before the Bill is referred to a Select Committee.

As I read the Bill, my Lord, I think that its effect will be not to encourage medical practitioners, not to encourage a large number of students to resort to the medical profession, but really to put a brake on the progress of medical instruction in this Presidency. I think, my Lord, that a result like that would be disastrous. Those of us who are acquainted with the condition of affairs in the mufassil know that for miles and miles around in these villages, the people suffer not from an excess of medical practitioners, but from the want of real medical help and aid. I think, therefore, my Lord, that if I am correct in saying that the result of this Bill would be to hamper medical instruction, it should not merely be thoroughly recast, but should be abandoned altogether; because if there is any profession whose fecundity should be stifled by legislation, it is not the medical profession, but it may be the other profession to which I have the honour to belong—I mean the profession of law. I think, my Lord, I have said enough to start a discussion on the subject. I know there are several other gentlemen who want to say something on the proposed Bill, and I know that I shall have a further opportunity of saying what more I have got to say by way of reply when the other members of this Council have had their say on the subject."

The Hon'ble RAJ NALINAKSHA BASU Bahadur, said :—

"I beg to support the amendment moved by my hon'ble friend, Maulvi A. K. Faz-ul-Haq, that the consideration of the Bengal Medical Bill, 1914, be postponed for a period of three months, and in the meantime the Bill be widely circulated for discussion and criticism.

"My Lord, I come from the mufassal and I can assure your Lordship that the great majority of the people of the mufassal are not even aware that a Bill on the subject has been under consideration. As the Bill introduces a measure which has been unknown to this country even from the most ancient time, the people should be given an ample opportunity first to know its contents and then to take into their consideration whether its provisions are beneficial to them or detrimental to their interests. The Bill, if passed into law, will not only affect the medical practitioners, but the public at large for whose interests the medical men are trained. There can be no doubt that the interests of the public are as deserving of consideration as those of the medical profession. Quacks and other unqualified practitioners are as a rule not entitled to any sympathy, but it must be admitted that, owing to paucity of duly qualified practitioners, the public cannot do without them. In comparison, the qualified medical practitioners are in a microscopic minority to the unqualified doctors, and any attempt to deprive the latter of the privilege of treating medical cases would no doubt lead to disastrous consequences. True it is that the Bill does not now make any such attempt, but it must not be forgotten that the provisions of the Bill are looked upon as the thin end of the wedge. Moreover, the Bill is entirely silent as regards homoeopathic doctors and men who have already been, and who are now, trained in the several medical institutions not recognised by Government up to this time. In the circumstances, I beg to support the amendment."

"I desire to associate myself with the amendment which has just been moved by my hon'ble friend. I think a strong case has been made out for a postponement of this measure. My friend has referred to the Moslem League, which has not been consulted. I find from inquiries, which I have just made, that there are one or two other associations which are entitled to be consulted by Government, but which have not been consulted in connection with this matter; for instance, the Bengal Landholders' Association. I understand that that body has not been consulted. My friend behind me has just told us that the people in the mufassal know little about this Bill. There are two aspects of the Bill, one affecting the medical profession, and the other the general public. I think we are bound to take into consideration both these aspects of the Bill, and, looking at the matter from this standpoint, it seems to me that a case, and a very strong case, has been made out for the postponement of the measure. There have been several protests addressed to the Government. I have got copies of them in my file in which the memorialists expressed themselves in terms of alarm and apprehension in regard to the actual working of this Bill. I think, Sir, having regard to the anxiety, and, I may almost add, the sense of unrest and uneasiness which has been raised by this proposal, it is a matter of the first importance that time should be given for a discussion, for, if the alarm and anxiety are unfounded, discussion will remove them, and if you hurry the matter through, for which there is not the smallest justification, it will deepen the sense of public anxiety and apprehension which is now felt. There is no real urgency about this Bill. If it is postponed for two or three months, I do not think that any very serious harm will be done to any interest. We have gone on without a measure of this kind for 50 years, and I think, if we can go on for another six months, no serious consequences will follow. Therefore it seems to me, in view of the sense of fear and anxiety which has been awakened, of the ignorance of the general public with regard to the contents of the Bill that is before us, that a strong case has been made out for a postponement of this measure, and I hope and trust that my hon'ble friend in charge of the Bill will not object to the proposal of the mover of this amendment. I am quite satisfied that the effect of further discussion will be to remove whatever defects there may be, to allay public excitement and uneasiness and facilitate the passage of this Bill, so as to ensure for it the largest measure of public support when the Bill becomes the law of the land."

The Hon'ble DR. DEBA PRASAD SARBADHIKARI said :—

"I do not know, my Lord, whether the proposal for postponement will be accepted, or whether it will prevail if not accepted. We have therefore to consider the merits of the substantive proposal before us that the Bill be referred to a Select Committee. Important questions of principle arising out of the Bill have to be considered to a certain extent at this stage. On the question of postponement, it is hardly necessary to say more beyond calling attention to the rapidly-growing literature within the last few days round this important question, not only in public meetings and in the press, not only in memorials and representations, but also in the evidence in discussions before the Public Services Commission, which is more than incidentally considering just now important aspects of the question. These are materials, my Lord, that will help in the elucidation of questions of principle that must govern us before we consent to refer the Bill to a Select Committee. The Statement of Objects and Reasons refers to the need of protecting the public and the medical profession.

"The phrase 'medical profession' in the Bill is ostensibly and overtly used in regard to one section of the medical profession, the most important now, and the one recognized by the Government. As has been pointed out, other important sections of the profession have however been left out, and probably have had to be, viz., the homœopathic, the kaviraji, the hakimi and other systems that have held the board long, and are still holding and will hold the board for a long time. One naturally recalls to mind the gracious words of His Majesty the King-Emperor encouraging progress on modern lines while conserving and improving what is best of the olden times, and that can only be done under the fostering care of Government. It may be that there is no agency now at hand to control medical education, with regard to those three important branches of the profession to which I have referred, but, if they are recognized branches of the medical profession, recognized so far as the public are concerned, though, not by the Government, some agency will have to be found which will control those branches, because public interests are quite as affected there as in the case of those who are treated under the allopathic system. Allopathic and homœopathic systems have their own institutions which the Government do not yet recognize and so have the kavirajes; I do not know any thing about the hakims, but I dare say they have also got some sort of institutions. If they have not they probably would have if the situation demanded it. But to leave alone for all time systems that largely prevail and will prevail is no remedy, supposing there is a real strong case for effective legislative interference.

"My Lord, there is another branch of the question relating to what are deemed qualified practitioners, who are qualified as holders of allopathic degrees, but who have chosen to take to homœopathy or to kaviraji. This body is daily growing and the Bill is silent with regard to them. The matter will probably be left to the Council which will not be satisfactory, considering how these questions are dealt with in other spheres where, for example, members of the homœopathic or the kaviraji profession are not considered eligible as members of the medical faculty. There may be good reasons for such exclusion in that particular sphere, but when we are considering questions of importance to the public, like a Medical Registration Bill, supposing need for it really exists, a general aspect of things has to prevail and not a sectional aspect like that to which I am now referring.

"Then there is the question of the constitution of the Council itself. We find that the official majority is overwhelming there. References have been made to the Bombay Act because in these matters light comes from the 'West.' Reference might also have been made to the Madras Act which follows the English legislature on the subject. In both these Acts, supposing they are to guide us, we find a state of things somewhat different from that provided in this Bill. The non-official minority is much stronger there than that allowed here. This matter the Select Committee could hardly go into unless some sort of instructions are given by the Council.

"Then there is the question as to whether the nomination of the Chairman and the Vice-Chairman is to be left to the Bill itself or whether they are to be nominated by the members?

"There is another important provision in the Bill regarding the power of the Council to disqualify and remove from the registration list all those who are guilty of infamous or unprofessional conduct. No definition of the words 'infamous conduct' and 'unprofessional conduct' find place in any of the provisions of the Bill. In the present state of things, at all events, it is more than undesirable, to leave the whole question to a Council constituted as it is proposed by the Bill when important and delicate questions must constantly arise between official and non-official members of the Council. Even commonplace safeguards for the representation and defence of the accused are not provided. It is a question that will also seriously affect the public in various ways in the matter of professional etiquette and fees. I do not for a moment question that the intention of the Government is most excellent in introducing the Bill. I remember putting a question myself not long ago as to when the Bill was expected to be introduced in Council. Of course, we were in expectation of a measure that would answer all requisitions in the public mind. This Bill does not do that, and, those who asked for bread, have got a stone or something nearly allied. The Bill, as it stands, answers no requirements and a glorified Medical Directory of the allopathic profession is not what had been bargained for nor is it needed. Non-official public opinion has already spoken out as strongly as possible on the question. Having regard to all these considerations, it is of the utmost importance that some instructions should emanate from this Council with regard to important questions of principle like those which I have indicated, and that can be done only after the Government has gone into the body of literature that is growing round the question. That is why the postponement is necessary.

"We know, my Lord, there are medical practitioners who make one recall to mind a story from the north of Scotland. A cockney registered doctor, being surprised that there was no registered medical man there, was told that the people thereabouts all died a natural death. But there is no reason why quackery should be recognized or encouraged by legislation, if effective and comprehensive control is possible. As has been observed, the present legislation does not try to interfere with any amount of quackery that may go on. It will go on in spite of any Bill that we may think fit to pass if it is so entirely one-sided as this one is. The Bill confines itself to qualified doctors and medical practitioners of one particular class in whose interest it is supposed to be enacted. But, as it turns out, they are most anxious not to have it and cry out to be saved from their friends if all the friendship and protection that can be offered is what is provided in the Bill. True, we cannot take a large outlook all at once of every matter that comes before us; we can only go step by step, and one step at a time is what one can think of. But that step ought to be effective and capable of leading to another.

"Confining ourselves therefore to the very question that this Bill deals with, there are very grave apprehensions as to whether it will meet all the circumstances of the case. Having regard to its provisions only I hope it will not come about that the people who regard it with apprehension can only say that we get very little out of it and that we do not propose to be registered. It is an attitude which it is impossible to sympathise with, but it is not impossible to conceive. What do they gain? They will be allowed to give some sort of a certificate under some Acts mentioned in one of the clauses. But, as is the case now, they will not be able to sign a certificate in the case of officers drawing salaries above Rs. 50, which will have, as now, to be countersigned by gentlemen belonging to the superior branches of the profession. Then again are any scheduled appointments going to be opened out to them by mere virtue of the registration? Are the privileges enjoyed by the registered practitioners in England, who can sit for the Indian Medical Service examination, to be extended to them? None of these substantial benefits are going to be conferred, and yet there are openings and loopholes in abundance to their prejudice, which many practitioners regard with apprehension. I have therefore spoken out most unequivocally on this point. I was present at a meeting of medical practitioners last night and I came away with a feeling that the anxiety pervading the whole of the allopathic branch of the medical profession is grave and that has got to be taken into consideration. The Bill does not purport to do more than deal with their case, and their case, at all events, should be dealt with in all possible ways if the Bill is to have any justification, even if the other branches are left alone.

These matters have not been adequately taken into consideration so far because of the lack of adequate information. Such information, however, is now forthcoming, but has not been availed of. My Lord, all these considerations make us think that a postponement is necessary. I can assure your Lordship that those who support this amendment are not lacking in sympathy with the object of the proposed legislation. They demur because that object is not being and will not be carried out. We have not enough doctors for our people and many who are doing excellent work will be excluded from registration. Medical education of the country needs strengthening and supplementing and to that means we have to cast about for the real solution of our difficulties. The Government are doing a great deal and intends to do a great deal more in the near future for the promotion of non-official education. They realise that the official machinery is not adequate to cope with the needs of the situation. They have very sympathetically taken in the true situation and conferences have been held and the question has been gone into carefully, and we hope that a better state of things will prevail. Therefore it will not be right—nay, it would be absolutely wrong—to question the good intentions of the Government with regard to this legislation; but unless the matter is handled with care and tact, realization of the very objects that the unfriendly critics are attributing to this Bill will come about. We are anxious, my Lord, that that should not be the case, and therefore a very careful consideration of the measure is needed."

The HON'BLE BABU MAHENDRANATH RAY said:—

"My Lord, if the members of this Council are not opposed to the principle which is embodied in the Bill it would not be proper to resist a reference to the Select Committee. With regard to this aspect of the question the opinion, which I have formed is that the scope of the Bill is not comprehensive enough, and that, while the Statement of Objects and Reasons indicates that certain branches of the medical profession will not be affected, the Bill which has been framed will, I apprehend, substantially affect them. This is a matter affecting the principle of the Bill, and if some of us disapprove of that principle we would be justified in resisting a reference to the Select Committee.

"With regard to the other matters which have been discussed, they are all matters of detail and they may be well discussed either in Select Committee or in Council when we have received the report of the Select Committee.

"With regard to the amendment which has been moved by my hon'ble friend, the amendment can only be justified on the ground that the public had not sufficient time to study the provisions of the Bill. The Bill, no doubt, has been before the members of the Council for a sufficiently long time, but there are a very large body of men interested in the Bill outside the Council, and if I may judge from what I gathered at a very largely attended meeting of medical men last evening, to which reference has already been made by a previous speaker, I was surprised to find that most of the members who attended that meeting were unaware of the contents of the Bill. They had a vague apprehension that something was being done which would affect their privileges and would affect their interests in the profession largely. When I put to many of them the question as to whether they knew how the provisions of the Bill were going to affect them, most of them confessed that they had not yet an opportunity of studying the provisions of the Bill and most of them said that they had not had a copy of the Bill circulated to them to enable them to study it. If the experience I gathered last evening be the general experience of a large body of practitioners and others in the mufussal interested in this matter then I am afraid the provisions of the Bill have not yet been adequately considered either by the large number of men who practise the profession of Medicine or a large number of the public who are interested in this measure, and if that be so there is absolutely no reason why the postponement sought for by my hon'ble friend in his amendment should not be agreed to by your Excellency's Government. This, my Lord, is all I have got to say."

The Hon'ble DR. NILRATAN SIRCAR said :—

"My Lord, some of my hon'ble friends have approved wholesale the Statement of the Objects and Reasons of this Bill. I confess that I am not in a position to do so. My Lord, there are 56,667 persons in Bengal who practice the healing art for a living, and the Government has up to the present time trained about 4,000 men, who practise as qualified doctors in this country only: so that there are still about 52,000 or more practitioners who have to be replaced by men with medical training. I fail to see the wisdom of branding these schools and their students publicly as being dangers to the Indian public. So far as the public are concerned I do not know that they ever approached the Government with a prayer for protection against this class of practitioners. Neither do I know about medical practitioners generally; but, so far as our section of medical practitioners is concerned, I do not believe anybody has ever complained to the Government against these schools or their students. Some of these schools have been in existence for the last 25 years and have received encouragement from the Government. Successive Lieutenant-Governors of Bengal graced their list of patrons, and now and then pecuniary grants were made to some of them. Though they had no direct recognition by the Government, the promoters of some of these schools have always acted with a lively sense of their responsibilities, so much so, that one of them, I may be permitted to observe, during the last 25 years passed only 300 students. It would ordinarily be expected that these students who had a regular course of medical training for at least four years in a school and who in their humble way were trying to further the progress of the medical profession in this country should be recognised at least in the same way as the Government Military Assistant Surgeons of former days who had only 'a three years' training. My Lord, instead of that what do we find? We find that these schools as well as the students are publicly branded as being dangerous to society.

"The next point I would draw your Lordship's attention to is the reservation of large powers by the Local Government in comparison to the meagre ones that are proposed to be given to the Council. When we compare the Calcutta Bill with the Bombay Act and the Madras Bill we find a striking difference. Questions that will be finally decided in the Bombay Council and in the Madras Council will be decided in Calcutta only by the Local Government. Questions, for instance, relating to the appointment of officers, alteration in the schedule, making rules and regulations, will all be decided by the Local Government in Bengal.

"The third point which concerns me most is the question of domination not only official but departmental of the whole profession by a particular department of Government. My Lord, I am not against a Bill for registration of practitioners. The Bill has appeared in such a shape that it is impossible for me and my fellow practitioners to support it. Now the statutory appointment of Superior Officers of a particular department as President and Vice-President supported by a statutory majority of officers of the same department in the Council may be an efficient and convenient arrangement for the department, but where is the justice of it? The private practitioners will not gain anything by this Bill. They will have to lose something; if nothing else they will have to pay a small fee which will be a taxation upon them. In spite of that, what do they get? They have to place themselves under the fostering care of the Military Medical Department of Bengal. My Lord, if the Bill be altered and a non-official majority granted on the Council, I think everyone of us will be only too glad to have ourselves recognised as registered practitioners. When we compare the Bombay Act with this Bill we are at once struck with the difference. There we find thirteen members, and as a matter of fact only five officers of the Indian Medical Service have been appointed on the Council, the remaining eight are Indians. Though the Act there lays down that the Government should nominate six members and the practitioners should nominate six and the Government should appoint a President, the Government have actually nominated five Indian Medical Service officers and two Indians and the practitioners have nominated six Indians, so that there are eight Indians to five Indian Medical Service men. Instead of that in this Bill it is proposed that there should be four Indian Medical Service men to be appointed by Statutory provisions. The Inspector-General is to be the President always; then the Principal of the Medical College is to be the Vice-President; two other members of the Indian Medical Service should be ex-officio members and another member, the representative of the Medical College Council, will be the fifth Indian Medical Service officer on the Council; so that there will be only four other seats on the Council that are to be left to those outside the Indian Medical Service. If we compare the number of independent Indian as well as European practitioners with that of the Indian Medical Service officers we will at once find the iniquity of this arrangement. There are some 62 or 63 officers here in Bengal and they are to shape the destinies of the whole profession. Now, my Lord, I confess that we Indian practitioners do not easily find ourselves reconciled to the idea of accepting the head of the Indian Medical Service in Bengal as the head of the profession here. Accordingly we ask for a little time to consider the matter, and get ourselves reconciled to the idea; then perhaps we may have to accept the situation."

THE HON'BLE MAULVI MAZAR-UL ANWAR CHAUDHURI said :—

"My Lord, there is hardly any great necessity to dilate on the effects of the Bill further. In my opinion a strong case has been made out for the postponement for consideration of this measure which affects the interests of the public very greatly indeed. Various defects in the provisions of the Bill have been pointed out, but there is one defect as to which I wish to draw attention in this House, namely, the inability of all but registered practitioners to give a death certificate. So far as our experience goes in cholera cases, the Indians call in the aid of homœopathic practitioners and in the case of towns which have municipalities a death certificate is required. If these practitioners are debarred from granting a death certificate the public, although having faith in homœopathy, would have to, in the case of cholera, call in the aid of an allopathic doctor for the purpose of a certificate. In these circumstances I think a strong case has been made out for the postponement of the Bill."

THE HON'BLE MAHARAJA RANAJIT SINHA of Nashipur said :—

"My Lord, the substantive motion before the Council is that the Bill be referred to a Select Committee and I think this is the proper time to discuss the principle of the Bill. From the Objects and Reasons appended to the Bill itself it appears that the intention is to help the public in knowing who are qualified practitioners. But I find that the Bill affects only those persons who practise under the allopathic system. It is a well known fact that the people also resort to other systems of treatment, I mean Kaviraji, homœopathy and Hakimi, and there are very renowned men in those professions. It cannot be said that those systems of medicine are defective and that they cannot cure patients, because in several cases we find that where allopathic doctors have failed in curing any disease, other practitioners have been successful, so I think some provision should also be made for the registration of medical practitioners who practise under different systems of medicine. Then, my Lord, I find that the Bill does not go far enough in the regulation of Western systems of medicine. It does not restrict the quacks from practising, who will flourish as ever, and I think they are in fact a source of danger to the public. It may be said that if they are prevented from practising, the mufassal people will be put to great hardship and inconvenience, but in my humble opinion some beginning might have been made at least in the municipal towns where there are a great many qualified doctors.

"Then, my Lord, I find that qualified Medical practitioners don't derive any special advantage or benefit by registering their names. They will have to pay a small taxation in the way of registration fees but will not derive any corresponding advantage, except that they will be able to grant certificates. I think some special privilege should also be given to them.

"Then as regards the constitution of the Medical Council I find the non-official element will be in a hopeless minority. I think we should at least follow the Bombay system and have the same proportion of non-official members in our Medical Council as it is in Bombay and Madras. My Lord, there is a general feeling of consternation amongst many practitioners and they are afraid lest they will be debarred from practice, and there are many who have not been able to form their opinion as they could not read the Bill thoroughly, and so there can be no hardship in postponing the measure; but of course personally I am not at all anxious that it should be postponed because ample opportunity will be available to those who would like to submit their suggestions to the Select Committee. With these observations I beg to support the substantive motion that the Bill be referred to a Select Committee."

THE HON'BLE RAI RADHA CHARAN PAL Bahadur said :—

"I might say at once, my Lord, that the Bill, practically speaking, has recently come to the notice of the public. I mean it was criticised in newspapers and it came to the notice of the public. For my part I can inform your Lordship that not a few medical practitioners living in our part of the town have called at my house in order to see what the provisions are that are entered in this Bill. There is a vague apprehension which is perhaps unjustified that many of the medical practitioners who have not degrees from the Medical College or similar institutions will be prevented from practising in the city and elsewhere. That is a vague apprehension which I have been able to dispel by placing in their hands a copy of the Bill. That shows, my Lord, that the public are not fully cognisant of the contents of the Bill and that shows the necessity of postponing it in order to enable the public to know what the Bill contains. Not only will it be good for the public but it will be good for the Government. The good intentions of the Government will be made clear to them if they peruse the contents of the Bill.

"There is another matter to which I wish to draw attention. The intention of the Government is very clear and is no doubt laudable, but there is one passage in the speech of the mover of the Bill which shows that the Bill emanated from the representations made by the Faculty of Medicine, the Calcutta University, the Council of the Medical College, the Medical Section of the Asiatic Society and the Medical Association. My Lord, I wish to point out that all these represent allopathic practitioners. Though, of course, there is no personal animus between allopaths and homeopaths, but still we know that there is a feeling of rivalry and jealousy. We find in our society that members of our community who are practising allopaths have some sort of jealousy for practitioners of the other pathy. What we feel is this, that when it comes to be generally known, as it no doubt will be, that this Bill has emanated from the suggestion of the allopaths, of which my hon'ble friend Dr. Nilratan Sircar is a distinguished member, it will naturally raise a suspicion in their minds, unless they see the contents of the Bill and examine them. My Lord, I remember a most famous occasion when the allopathic practitioners of Calcutta, assembled at a meeting of the Calcutta University, wanted to oust and, in fact, succeeded in ousting, a distinguished member of the Homœopathic School, the celebrated Dr. Mahendra Lal Sircar, from the Faculty of Medicine of the Calcutta University. My Lord, I remember, of course, that he was an M.D. of the Calcutta University, but he took to homœopathy and practised it very successfully. My Lord, when the members of the Faculty of Medicine succeeded in ousting him, there was a tremendous agitation in the town. I think that that belief has to a certain extent subsided, though we do not know whether that feeling still pervades the allopathic practitioners of the day. My Lord, I wish to point out another fact, and it is this that there were men who had distinguished themselves in the past as successful medical practitioners who were preferred to the eminent practitioners who had got degrees of the Calcutta University. For instance, we have all heard of the name of the late celebrated Dr. Durga Charan Banarji, the father of our illustrious countryman Babu Surendra Nath Banarji. Although we have not seen him, but we all know that he was only a student of the 3rd year of the Medical College. But, my Lord, he was a most successful practitioner, and it has been handed down, from our fathers and grandfathers, that the public had such implicit confidence in his skill that almost a general belief prevailed that whenever he touched the threshold of any house, the patient was at once cured. My Lord, such was his reputation and such was his success and God had gifted him with such power of curing diseases. My Lord, these are circumstances which ought to lead us to pause.

"Then, there is another matter which ought to be considered. I do not want to take up the time of the Council, but I would only submit that the homœopathic practitioners are in high favour in our society. There is no provision for the registration of homœopathic practitioners and also members of the karicaji system of medicine which is also coming into great prominence now-a-days. My Lord, there is no provision for the registration of these schools, and when it is laid down that no certificate given by any practitioner, other than those who are registered under this Bill, will be deemed valid, this might lead to great disadvantage and great hardship to our countrymen. I do not find, as far as I can understand from the Bill, that there is any provision which affects our community more vitally than this power given to the registered practitioners only to give certificates. A poor man in the bustees in Calcutta has got a homœopathic practitioner to attend a cholera case and the patient dies, and if his certificate is not deemed valid, the poor man will have to pay an L.M.S. or an M.B. of the Calcutta University Rs. 4 to get a death certificate. I am sure, my Lord, that the Government will consider all these points in the Select Committee and as the intention of the Government is not to restrict, as has been stated by the Hon'ble mover of this amendment, practitioners other than those registered under the Bill, I am sure that these points will have due consideration at the hands of the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill."

THE HON'BLE MAULVI A. K. FAZ'UL-HAQ said :—

"My Lord, I do not wish to take up the time of this house by repeating what has already been said by the Hon'ble Members. I would not have said any word at all had not one at least of the non-official members seemed to be in favour of permitting a reference of this Bill to the Select Committee. My Lord, I did not wish to say anything further on this, but I thought that the official members on this side of the House did not need any protection from the non-official members on the other side. I think, my Lord, that the Hon'ble Member has just forgotten that the reason for which I pray for a postponement is not that I wish to hamper a useful and beneficent piece of legislation, but because I feel convinced that a short postponement will allow the general public to discuss not the details, but the principles of the Bill. My Lord, therein lies the difference between a discussion by the general public of the Bill as a whole, and a discussion of the detailed provisions of the Bill in the Select Committee. It may be said that after the Bill has been referred to a Select Committee, people are quite at liberty to send in their remarks and their criticisms to the Select Committee; and we have no doubt that the members of the Select Committee will thoroughly realise their responsibility in the matter and bring to bear on their deliberations all their own personal experience and all that they may gather from what they come to know, not only from responsible members of the public, but from public associations and other public bodies. But then, my Lord, the general public will not naturally come forward with their suggestions, and as a matter of fact they do not. We have been told by one of the speakers that it was only recently that even members of the medical profession came to know what the Bill was about, and we have also been told that even so late as last night there were members of the medical profession who had not seen the Bill at all. This may be very regrettable and even reprehensible, but things are what they are. If I may say so, my Lord, perhaps we, people of the East, generally fail to appreciate the activities of the forward-moving West, and sometimes I find that if the slow-moving East is hustled on, rather disastrous results will ensue. It is better, since the public want that the Bill should be postponed for a fuller discussion, that the postponement should be allowed rather than that the Bill should be rushed through so as to give an impression that there is some reason why even this short postponement cannot be granted. I do not see what real harm there can be if this postponement for a short period be granted. On the other hand, if the postponement is granted it will satisfy the demands of a very large body of the public. If the Hon'ble Member can satisfy us that something like a fearful cataclysm will happen if the Bill is not forthwith passed, I will not only say that the Bill may be passed into law, but that it should be passed without a reference to the Select Committee."

The HON'BLE MR. STEPHENSON said :—

"My Lord, dealing first with the amendment that the consideration of the Bengal Medical Bill be postponed for a period of three months and that in the meantime the Bill may be widely published for discussion and criticism, I have listened very carefully to the speeches of the Hon'ble Members, but I have failed to gather a single reason for the postponement. The proposal for postponement for three months seems a very moderate request, but the three months will just carry us through this session of the Council and we shall not be able to take it up before the rains or next cold weather. The Hon'ble mover of the amendment, as far as I can gather, has but one reason for bringing forward the amendment, and that is, that the Moslem League had not been consulted. He admitted that we had consulted a large number of representative associations and his only objection was to the omission of one particular association. I am sure that the Government and the Select Committee will be only too glad if that particular association will let us have their views, and there is ample time for this.

"This Government proposed legislation in the matter of medical registration in 1907, and this particular Bill was practically drawn up in its present shape two years ago. Since then, Bombay and Madras have brought in Bills on practically the same lines, and if you read the debates in those two Councils it will be found that in both cases the members of those Councils have cast what seems to me somewhat of a slur on Bengal. They said that they had been compelled to introduce their measures owing to what had been happening in Bengal. I think that it is essential that this Council should take up this session the matter of medical registration in Bengal. I do not gather that the postponement of the Bill for three months would leave us in a better position than we are at present. The Bill was published in the Gazette at the beginning of December. It was in the hands of all members of Council then, and yet we are told six weeks later that the medical practitioners of Calcutta have not yet taken the trouble to read the Bill. I think it would be a fair question to ask, if the members feel so deeply on the subject, why have they not during the last six weeks taken the trouble to explain to their friends and neighbours the exact particulars of this Bill and to remove the apprehensions and the fears which they say are so widespread.

I trust, therefore, that the Council will not agree to this postponement of the Bill, but in order to meet any desire there may be for further time to send in opinions on the Bill, I am perfectly willing to amend my motion so as to give instructions to the Select Committee to circulate their report by the 28th of February. This will give us six weeks before the Select Committee have sent in their report, and the Bill would come on for final disposal by the end of March. I trust that this will meet the wishes of the Hon'ble Members.

"Turning to the main motion itself, it is not very difficult to see that the opinions we have received from the public bodies consulted, and I think I may also say the opinions expressed in this Council, are wholly in favour of the principles of the Bill. It has been said that the Bill does not go far enough to prevent quacks from practising. As I said in my motion in introducing the Bill, and it is also the general opinion, that it is impossible to prevent these people from practising. The sole object of the Bill is to register men who have undergone a certain standard of training which, in the opinion of Government, is sufficient to qualify them for practising in Western medicine.

"The Hon'ble Dr. Deba Prasad Sarbadhikari has raised the question of what is to happen to homœopaths. This question has been threshed out in the debates in Bombay and Madras, where it was explained that the homœopaths could not under present circumstances be brought within the four corners of this Bill for the reason that they have no definite standard which could be prescribed. With regard to allopathy we have certain definite qualifications and these qualifications are recognised by everybody as providing a standard of efficiency. As regards homœopathy there are no such qualifications. Therefore, until the homœopaths themselves have organized themselves and have got some definite standard of efficiency, it is impossible to legislate for them.

"The other points taken by the Hon'ble Member were, what is to happen to a homœopath who possessed an allopathic degree, and the composition of the Council. Both these questions, I think, are questions which the Select Committee will have to go into very carefully. I do not think it is for me to discuss these questions now, except to point out that in India Government has a very much closer connection with the medical profession than it has in any other part of the world. Government is responsible for most of the hospitals in India, it is responsible for the Government Medical Services, and it is also interested in the future of medical education, and the medical interests of Government here are really greater than in any other country.

"As has been explained in Bombay and Madras, the Bill is of the nature of an experiment, and in the first years at all events of the experiment it is essential that the movement should be under official guidance. The actual composition of the Council will no doubt be very closely examined by the Select Committee, and I do not wish to say anything whatever which would bind the hands of the Select Committee in its recommendation on that point.

"The Hon'ble Dr. Nilratan Sircar raised two points which I think are due to misapprehension. He spoke a great deal about the Bill being for the purpose of protecting the public against unqualified students. It is nothing of the sort. In introducing this Bill I said definitely that it would not prevent anyone practising or the public from employing anyone qualified or unqualified. There would be no question of protection in the matter. All we claim is that it will give the public a chance of knowing who are qualified and who are not, according to the definite standard which has been accepted as the right standard of medical efficiency."

The HON'BLE DR. NILRATAN SIRCAR said :—

"My Lord, in the Statement of Objects and Reasons the first object is said to be 'to provide a means of protecting the public and the medical profession from irregularly qualified practitioners whose training in medical science has been obtained in unrecognised institutions.'"

The HON'BLE MR. STEPHENSON said :—

"I think I explained that when I introduced the Bill. Its main object is to give the public a chance of knowing who are qualified practitioners.

"The other point that the Hon'ble Dr. Nilratan Sircar raised was the placing of the private practitioner under the ægis of the Medical Department. That is not a fair criticism. I have already explained that it is necessary to have an official majority on the Council, and as things are in India the Government Medical officers will of course belong to the Indian Medical Service. But I protest against the spirit displayed in the Hon'ble Member's speech as to rivalry and opposition between private practitioners and Indian Medical Service men. I think the Hon'ble Member's speech in itself gives a very good reason why we should bring in this Bill. I hope the constitution of this Council will do a great deal to bring the independent medical practitioners into closer connection with Government Medical officers and will do away with this spirit of rivalry.

"There is only one other point which I wish to touch upon, and that is that there is a considerable amount of misapprehension with regard to the question of giving certificates. The giving of a health or life certificate does not come under the Act. The only certificates that come under the Act are certificates under the Lunacy Act, and I think under one of the Municipal Acts. There are only three cases altogether, and I can show the Council that the application of that provision will not work harshly in any way.

"I will not take up the time of the Council any more in discussing the principles or the details of the Bill.

"The main principles have been accepted not only by members of this Council, but also by all public bodies consulted, and it remains now to send the Bill to the Select Committee in order that the details may be carefully considered, and all the questions raised this morning. I have no doubt, will be very carefully weighed by the Committee.

"I therefore move that the Bengal Medical Bill, 1914, be referred to a Select Committee consisting of the Hon'ble Colonel Harris, the Hon'ble Mr. Newbould, the Hon'ble Rai Priya Nath Mukharji Bahadur, the Hon'ble Nawab Sir Khwaja Salimullah Bahadur, the Hon'ble Dr. Nilratan Sircar, the Hon'ble Raja Shoshi Kanta Acharyya Chaudhuri Bahadur, the Hon'ble Mr. Grice and myself with instructions to circulate our report by the 28th February 1914."

The amendment moved by the Hon'ble Maulvi Faz-ul-Haq was then put to the vote, and a division was taken with the following result :—

AMENDMENTS IN THE BENGAL LEGISLATIVE RULES, 1912.

The Hon'ble Sir William Duke said :—

“My Lord, I have now to move certain amendments in the Bengal Legislative Rules, 1912. Mr. Watson, the Secretary to the Council, has addressed a circular to members on the subject, and he has discussed with them points to which exception was taken by some of them. Only one amendment has been received, and I trust that the changes proposed will be found to have commended themselves to the general sense of the Council. The original motive of the changes is admittedly the convenience primarily of the Legislative Department, and in the next place of all the departments of Government which may have from time to time to promote new legislation ; but these changes have also commended themselves to Government from the conviction that they will, in fact, tend to improve the quality of our legislation by permitting of amendments proposed by non-official members being more maturely considered. It will be observed that whenever Government has claimed more time for itself, it offers corresponding concessions to the private members. I may claim some experience of the business of legislation in this Council. I have sat in it since 1908, and it so happens that during the whole time I have worked in close association with the Legislative Department. During that time we have dealt with some measures which were at once voluminous and contentious. I may instance the Excise Bill, the Calcutta Police Bill, the Calcutta Improvement Bill and the Orissa Tenancy Bill. All of these measures produced floods of amendments, in some cases many hundreds. I have seen how both the Administrative Departments and the Legislative Department were driven in order to deal with these, and it is not too much to say that when such numbers of amendments are received only a few days before they are to be considered in Council, neither can the proposals of members receive the consideration to which they are entitled, nor can Government have the assurance that if it tries to meet the views of members by accepting their proposals in whole or part it will not make some serious mistake and leave deplorable gaps in its legislation. In the past, we had to rely for protection on the extraordinary care and industry of Mr. Wigley and the event has generally justified this confidence; but I do not think that it is fair to demand from anyone such extraordinary exertions as he and his staff have several times had to make in the past in the days preceding the consideration of an important Bill in Council.

These alterations in the rules will, of course, considerably extend the normal time in which a measure can be passed through the legislative stages. I doubt, however, whether upon the whole they will really increase the average time between the introduction and the passing of large measures of importance. In my experience appeals have very frequently been made to Government to allow time for more mature consideration. Sometimes these have been acceded to with the result of postponing legislation from one session to another; in others Government has found it impossible to give way and has incurred the reproach of rushing legislation. It seems to me that much of this might be avoided if our procedure allowed time for the consideration of the views of private members as embodied in their amendments. In times of severe pressure, the line of least resistance on the part of the Administrative Department is to refuse to consider any new proposal. Before any amendment of importance can be accepted, it must be dealt with by one or more Secretaries in the Administrative Departments and considered by the four members of the Government and then examined and put into shape by the Legislative Department. That all takes time. Under the present system when extremely little time is allowed, no one has time enough to give second thoughts to an amendment, and unless it secures his assent at the first blush he must make up his mind straight off to accept or reject it, and if in doubt he is pretty certain to adopt the latter course. In such a state of hurry, there is little opportunity for negotiation. It may well happen that, although Government cannot concede all that is asked, it might, if there were time to discuss the proposal, be prepared to meet an amendment half way, but time and opportunity may be wanting and the amendment gets rejected summarily. I think then that it will be recognised that private members stand to gain at least as much as the Government by the extension of the time during which their amendments are under consideration.

As regards the individual changes, I will make a few explanatory remarks.

Perhaps it would be more convenient if I make these all at once instead of endeavouring simply to put these amendments in succession.

As regards rule 21, we should take some time for consideration of new Bills. I think no member who wishes to introduce a Bill will grudge Government time in which to consider it.

As regards rule 22, we wish to make "fifteen days" the ordinary time which we should have for the consideration of amendments, and in the case of Bills which produce multitudinous amendments that the President should be able to extend the time to thirty days. In the latter case, however, we propose to give members as long to prepare their amendments as we will have to consider them. We had said "if possible" because we thought that it might not always be possible to give the full period of 60 days and we did not wish to be tied to an exact period which might be inconvenient to all concerned, but as there is evidently some feeling against the want of precision which these words import, we have decided to do without them and to drop amendment No. 8 in which they are contained.

Under rule 41 (2), as it used to be, a member could object to a report being taken into consideration unless he had been furnished with it a week before, but as under rule 22 (1) he was required to give notice of amendments at least five days before, he might only have the difference between a week and five days, i.e., two days in which to prepare his amendments. The amendment as originally proposed would have given at least five days for this purpose, a clear gain of three days. Some members desire ten days and an amendment to that effect is on the agenda, but I must say that after very careful consideration Government has come to the conclusion that there must be some limit to liberality in this respect. We propose to go as far as seven, and "seven" will be substituted for "five" in the amendment. This means that a Bill cannot be taken in Council until at least 7 + 15, i.e., 22 days after the report of the Select Committee has been circulated, and we do not think that we should be justified in making a greater delay inevitable in ordinary cases.

In rule 51, we have extended the time for circulation of the list of business from two days to four, but in view of possible pressure owing to the number of items we had put in the qualifying words "whenever possible" and subsequently altered them to "if time permits." Some exception has been taken to these words, and I understand that "ordinarily" will be regarded as more satisfactory. I shall accordingly move the amendment in that form; but, as the next amendment will show, the time in the most extreme case will now be two days instead of one."

With Your Lordship's permission, I will now move the amendments.

List of Business—Motion No. 7. The Hon'ble Sir William Duke moved that, in rule 21 of the Bengal Legislative Rules, 1912, for the word "five" the word "ten" be substituted.

The motion was put and agreed to.

List of Business—Motion No. 8. The Hon'ble Sir William Duke moved that, in rule 22 (1) of the same rules, for the word "five" the word "fifteen" be substituted.

The motion was put and agreed to.

List of Business—Motion No. 9. The Hon'ble Sir William Duke moved that, in rule 22 (2) of the same rules, for the word "six" the word "sixteen" be substituted, and for the word "five" the word "fifteen" be substituted.

The motion was put and agreed to.

List of Business—Motion No. 10. The Hon'ble Sir William Duke moved that, in rule 22 (3) of the same rules, for the word "fifteen" the word "thirty" be substituted.

The motion was put and agreed to.

List of Business—Motion No. 11. The Hon'ble Sir William Duke, with the permission of the President, withdrew the following motion:—"that in line 1 of rule 22 (5) of the same rules, after the word "shall," the brackets and words "(if possible)" be inserted.

With His Excellency's permission, the Hon'ble Sir William Duke moved the following motion in the place of Motion No. 12* which stood in his name:—

"that in rule 41 (2) of the same rules, for the words "when he has not been furnished for a week with a copy of the Report," the following be substituted, viz., "unless such Report was forwarded to him at least seven days before the final date fixed for the receipt of notice of amendments."

List of Business—Motion No. 12 A. The Hon'ble Mr. Byomkes Chakravarti moved, by way of amendment to the above, that in rule 41 (2) of the same rules, for the words "when he has not been furnished for a week with a copy of the Report" the following be substituted, namely:—

"unless such Report was forwarded to him at least ten days before the final date fixed for the receipt of notice of amendments."

*List of Business—Motion No. 12. The Hon'ble Sir William Duke to move that in rule 41 (2) of the same rules, for the words "when he has not been furnished for a week with a copy of the Report," the following be substituted, namely:—

"unless such Report was forwarded to him at least five days before the final date fixed for the receipt of notice of amendments."

He said :—

“ I frankly confess that I personally feel grateful to the Hon'ble Mover for the courtesy with which he has met the Hon'ble Members in this part of the House, who wanted certain concessions. He has already made two concessions, i.e., with regard to the omissions of the words “ if possible,” and also with regard to the substitution of the word “ ordinarily ” for “ if time permits,” and that satisfies us so far as these two matters are concerned. In the same way, we feel grateful that he has himself extended the five days to seven days, and if it were possible for me to accept, without seeming to appear ungracious with regard to the concessions that have been made, I would have done so. But the difficulty which has been pressed upon me (and it is not only my personal view, but it is the view which has been to a considerable extent insisted upon by the Hon'ble Members of this part of the House, or rather by some of the Hon'ble Members) is that the matter stands in this way. There is no doubt that the Hon'ble mover is perfectly right that we are getting more by the amendment which he now proposes. Formerly the time for sending in amendments was five days before the meeting, and we were only given a week, which really meant two days, for the framing of the amendment. I am not oblivious, nor are my friends in this part of the House oblivious, of the substantiality of the concessions which the Hon'ble mover proposes to make, but at the same time what has been pressed upon me is this. My friends say that where the Government had five days to consider the amendment, it will now have 15 days—three times five. We do not grudge that. We say “ by all means.” Legislation is a very important matter, and with regard to it we cannot have too much time. In the same way, where the time was only six days, Government is now seeking (we do not grudge it to Government) to have it recognized that it ought to be 16 days. Now, in the same way, where it had been 15 days, 30 days. By all means have plenty of time for consideration with regard to these matters of legislation which do require consideration—you do not see things at the first blush. But what we find is this, that, notwithstanding the concession which the Hon'ble Member is prepared to make in our favour, the position stands in this way. The Hon'ble Members in this part of the House are not all residents of Calcutta. Some of them come from Dacca, some from Chittagong, and, in the ordinary circumstances, a letter sent to the address of a member who resides in Chittagong will not soon reach him, because after all he does not reside here. It may be sent to his address in Calcutta, then the letter has to be forwarded and, assuming that there is no delay (and that we can manage that there shall be no delay), that the letter is forwarded to him at once, I am told that it takes about three days before the letter reaches him. Then, if he has to write back, with his amendment, another three days will be required, for purposes of transmission of the amendment, which gives him really only one day. My Hon'ble friend, Maulvi Fazl-ul-Haq, said, in connection with another matter, that in the East we like to do things leisurely, we do not want to be hustled, but if the Government, with English training, and that English instinct and English promptitude, requires 15 days in the place of five days to consider the amendment, I think we Easterners may be justified in asking that we ought to have more than one day. I refer to the members not resident in Calcutta to consider our amendments, and in point of fact I venture to think that if this concession is made by the Hon'ble Member it will really tend to the saving of time in the long run, because, if an Hon'ble Member has an opportunity of considering the amendment which he desires to put forward, it is bound to be done with a considerable degree of care and caution, rather than the sending in of an ill-adjusted amendment which will cause the Hon'ble Members who have charge of these Bills more trouble than would a matured amendment sent in. In these circumstances, it only means three days more—that, by giving three days more, practically the member who comes from Chittagong will get about four days to consider his amendment. Otherwise, with regard to the gentlemen who come from Chittagong or Dacca, they will be placed in a considerable amount of difficulty in regard to the amendments which have to be sent in. I beg the Hon'ble Member not to understand that I am putting forward this amendment in a spirit of antagonism or in a spirit of carping criticism with regard to the concession which he has already made so handsomely, but with a view to obviating a grievance which appears to me to be a reasonable one. The point is this. Either this Council should be deprived of the assistance of the Hon'ble Members who reside at a distance with regard to what light they can throw upon legislative measures put forward in this Council, or the result would be that they would send in some sort of amendment which would give my friends on the other side of the House trouble, rather than any assistance at all. I think therefore that, with regard to the further extension of two days more—it is now, according to the calculation which has been made by the Hon'ble Mover, about 22 days—this will be increased by another three days. With regard to any amendment or measure which requires immediate attention from the Council, I have no doubt whatever that Your Excellency will exercise the power which is vested in you, i.e., suspend the rules. The business must go on. If there is urgent business, nobody, I venture to think, on this side of the House, will object to an urgent matter being treated as an urgent matter, but with regard to ordinary matters I do hope that the Hon'ble Mover will see his way to accept the suggestion which I have made in my amendment, and that will only extend the time to three days more. We are very grateful for his now having given us seven days. With regard to resident members in Calcutta, that will probably be sufficient; they ought to be able to get out their amendments in this time, but many members in this part of the House are not residents of Calcutta. They are really the minority, and it will work a certain amount of hardship; and, after all, let there be give and take. My friends are taking 15 days where they had only five, and we are only asking that from seven days the number of days should be 10. I hope, therefore, my Lord, the Hon'ble Mover will see his way to accept this amendment."

The Hon'ble Sir William Duke said :—

"I am afraid, my Lord, I may rather appear to put myself in the position of one of straining at a gnat after swallowing a camel. If we allow 30 days in one place it seems rather ungracious to stick at a miserable three in another but, as a matter of fact, I do not think we ought to go to extremes. The hon'ble gentleman's arguments make one wonder how members got on at all before, with only two days' time in which to frame their amendments, and I think it is curious that a proposal for extension came from me and not from them. I do not remember there having been any agitation on the subject of increasing the time until I spontaneously proposed to do it. I think that I must ask the Council to say that the Hon'ble Mr. Chakravarti is asking for just a little too much. It is true that we have extended our time from 5 to 15 days, but then we have extended it for Hon'ble Members  $3\frac{1}{2}$  times, that is from 2 days to 7. I do not feel it desirable to give the extra three days. I think that that would make the normal procedure somewhat too long and would create occasions which I should deprecate, for frequent suspensions of the rules. I am afraid I must oppose the extension."

The Hon'ble Mr. Chakravarti :—

I think it is hardly worth while taking your Lordship's time for a division, and so I withdraw the amendment.

The amendment was then, by leave of the President, withdrawn.

The Hon'ble Sir William Duke's motion (No. 11) was then put to the vote and agreed to.

With His Excellency's permission, the Hon'ble Sir William Duke moved the following motion in the place of Motion No. 13.*

*List of Business—Motion No. 13. The Hon'ble Sir William Duke to move that, for the first three lines of rule 51 of the same rules, the following be substituted, namely :—

"A list of the business to be brought forward at a meeting of Council shall, if time permits, be despatched by the Secretary to each member at least four days before such meeting."

That, for the first three lines of rule 51 of the same rules, the following be substituted, namely :—

“ A list of the business to be brought forward at a meeting of Council * shall ordinarily be despatched by the Secretary to each member at least four days before such meeting.”

The motion was put and agreed to.

List of Business—Motion No. 14. The Hon'ble Sir William Duke moved that, in the proviso to rule 51 of the same rules, for the words “ sent to each member at least one day before the meeting,” the following be substituted, namely :—

“ sent so as to reach each member at least two days before the meeting.”

The motion was put and agreed to.

List of Business—Motion No. 15. The Hon'ble Sir William Duke moved that, for rule 54 (1) of the same rules, the following be substituted, namely :—

“ (1) to draft all Bills originated by the Government of Bengal and the Reports of Select Committees to which such Bills are referred; to settle the Statement of Objects and Reasons appended to such Bills, and to prepare the Notes on Clauses (if any).”

The motion was put and agreed to.

THE CALCUTTA MUNICIPAL (LOANS) BILL, 1914.

List of Business—Motion No. 16. The Hon'ble Mr. Stephenson moved that the Report of the Select Committee on the Calcutta Municipal (Loans) Bill, 1914, be taken into consideration.

He said :—

“ I have to move that the report of the Select Committee on the Calcutta Municipal Loans Bill be taken into consideration by the Council. In doing so, as it is nearly a year since the Bill was last before the Council, I may perhaps be permitted to review shortly the progress of the Bill and the attitude of Government in connection with it. In introducing the Bill I explained that its object was to remedy the defects in the Corporation Sinking Fund and to provide a system for the future which would prevent these defects from recurring. It may be taken generally that our proposal for making good the existing deficit, as well as the subsidiary proposals included in the Bill which do not bear upon the constitution of the Sinking Fund, have been accepted and the opposition is concentrated on the proposals which Government has made for the constitution of the Sinking Funds in the future. As an impression appears to have got abroad that Government is trying to impose a retrograde measure upon an unwilling Corporation without listening to their protests, it may assist the Council if I note briefly the representations which have from time to time been made by the Corporation and the action that Government has taken upon them. In their letter of the 10th March before the Bill was sent to a Select Committee the Corporation urged.”—

- (1) that the Bill should provide for a system of repayment of each loan on a term equated to the average life of the works according to the system set forth in Collins' Book and that a Committee of experts be appointed to work out this equation ;
- (2) that power be given to the Corporation to reserve part of new loans for their own investment ;
- (3) that they should be allowed to cancel their debentures in the Sinking Fund ;

- (4) that while there should be separate accounts for the Sinking Fund of each loan, the money for purposes of investment should be treated as a common fund ;
- (5) that there should be a provision for giving the Corporation the option of repayment of debentures at an earlier date in the case of long-term loans ;
- (6) that the Corporation should have power to raise emergent loans without applying to any body for sanction ; and
- (7) that the Trustees should be abolished.

“ The demand for the power to raise emergent loans has since been abandoned. The Select Committee provided for the reservation of part of new loans for the Corporation's investment, for the treatment for purposes of investment of the Sinking Fund money as a common fund, for giving the Corporation the option of repayment of debentures at an earlier date in the case of long-term loans and for the abolition of Trustees. The only points therefore on which the Select Committee were unable to meet the wishes of the Corporation were with regard to the cancellation of debentures and to the equation of a loan to the average life of the works. It appears from the report of the Corporation meeting last week that the Corporation have now abandoned their proposal for the cancellation of debentures in the Sinking Fund, and a perusal of the debates of the Corporation in July will show that they have now abandoned Collins' work as out of date and are apparently prepared to admit that the proposal they put forward last March for equating a loan to the average life of the works for which it was raised is impracticable. These facts appear to be a complete justification for the attitude of the Select Committee and, after their report had been submitted, Government felt confident that a further opportunity for reflection would convince the Corporation of the soundness of the Bill, and the consideration of this report of the Select Committee was postponed. In August the Corporation approached Government again with a further representation, and the five points on which they laid particular stress were the following :—

- (1) They asked Government to insert in the Bill a maximum period of indebtedness of 60 years as in the case of the Bombay City and Madras Municipal Acts ;
- (2) that a provision adjusting the period of indebtedness suitably to the life of the works should be inserted ;
- (3) that clause 139 dealing with the loan taken in 1912 should be omitted ;
- (4) that a system of purchase and extinction of debentures as a method of repayment of loans should be provided for ; and
- (5) that the Common Sinking Fund should be utilized for the purpose of repayment of loans as well as for investment.

It was admitted that the provisions of the Bill did not restrict the possible period of loans, but were absolutely elastic ; but the Corporation were apparently under some apprehension that in practice they might not receive the same treatment at the hands of the Government of India as is accorded to Bombay and Madras. They therefore wished that their Act should be assimilated to those of Bombay and Madras. As the ultimate sanctioning authority is the Government of India and this Government was desirous to remove as far as possible the apprehensions, and perhaps I may say misapprehensions, of the Corporation with regard to the Bill, the Government of India were addressed on the subject. The Government of India have met these representations in a very full degree. The recent speech of His Excellency the Viceroy in Calcutta must have removed any apprehension the Corporation felt that they would not receive the same treatment as is accorded to other Presidency Corporations, and in a letter which has been communicated to the Corporation the Government of India have definitely stated that their intention is to treat the Corporation of Calcutta in respect of the currency of their loans in precisely the same way as the other Presidency Corporations, and they give the assurance that in determining the currency of a loan due regard will be had to the duration of a work. The Government of India have gone further to meet the views of the Corporation and have agreed to waive the conditions under which the loan of 1912 was taken. This is a concession outside the Bill inasmuch as the conditions regarding this loan were imposed before the Bill was introduced and the provisions of the Bill were only intended to give effect to the conditions which had been imposed. The Government of India have now agreed to release the Corporation from these conditions, and clause 139 of the Bill will be omitted. The first three points, therefore, on which the Corporation laid particular stress have been fully met, and one of the remaining two the Corporation has since decided not to press. I think the Council will agree that this history of the Bill shows at least that Government has all through been anxious to meet the wishes of the Corporation where this can be done without sacrificing a principle which Government considers vital. That principle is that the simplest form of a Sinking Fund with no complications is the most suitable method of repayment of debt for local bodies in the present circumstances of India. The difference between Government and the Corporation now is that the Corporation wish to introduce certain practices which are prevalent in England and to graft them on to the Sinking Fund system that we have set up in the Bill. I do not propose to deal with these practices now as they will be debated when the amendments are taken into consideration. I only wish to make quite clear what the attitude of Government is. In England, provided that the proper contributions are paid to the Sinking Funds or Loans Funds or whatever the form of the repayment fund may be, the local authorities are allowed the very freest hand in dealing with the monies in that fund, and we must admit that such a free hand may in some circumstances be of financial advantage to the authority concerned. But in England there is financial expert advice available for the local authority to an extent which will not be the case in India for very many years, and notwithstanding the possession of this expert advice there is an extremely strong Government Department with enormously wide powers whose sole duty it is to look after the operations of these local authorities. In many other ways the conditions of the local authorities at home are essentially different from those of the Calcutta Corporation, but the principal point is that the local authorities in England have infinitely greater opportunities for obtaining financial advice and are nevertheless supervised to an extent undreamt of in India by a very powerful special Department of Government. These proposals were very carefully considered in 1910 and the arguments for and against fully weighed, and this Government then deliberately decided that it would incur a very grave responsibility if it placed in the hands of even the most advanced Corporation in India these wide powers of dealing with their Sinking Funds, and that the soundest system for Corporations in India was the simplest form of Sinking Fund which would ensure without complications that when the debt is to be paid off the money shall be there to meet it. The whole case was placed before the Government of India, who entirely agreed with the views of this Government. No fresh circumstances or arguments have been produced since that date to shake the confidence of Government in the opinion then come to, and I think the Council need only reflect that under the system in force in England the present deficiency in the Sinking Fund, whether it was due to a flaw in the Act or a flaw in practice, could not possibly have accrued to realize that until we have in India the safeguards of expert financial advice and a strong Government Department it is essential that Government, on whom the responsibility finally rests, should be very slow to depart from those simple forms of procedure which give the best assurance of safety. The advantages of these simple forms of procedure in the case of Municipalities in their present stage of development in India far outweigh any possible advantages from any financial operation which the Corporation could indulge in if they were given a free hand with their Sinking Fund money, and the risk in the present circumstances in giving them such a free hand is one which Government cannot afford to incur. I do not desire to raise now any controversy on these points which will be dealt with in the discussions on the amendments as they come before the Council, but I only wish to make it clear to the Council that the matters at issue are now reduced to two or three main questions, all the other proposals put forward having been either accepted by Government or withdrawn by the Corporation, and that the points on which the Corporation is now in opposition to Government are points where this vital principle is involved and the unwillingness of Government to accept their views on these matters arises not from any arbitrary exercise of power, but from a deliberate consideration of what is in the best interests of the Corporation itself. I would ask the Council now to take the Bill into consideration and to proceed with the discussion of the individual amendments."

The motion was put and agreed to.

DEBATE ON THE AMENDMENTS TO THE BILL.

List of Amendments—Motion No. 1.—The Hon'ble Mr. Apear moved that the words "Act Amendment" be substituted for the brackets and word "(loans)" in clause 1.

He said :—

"This Bill when passed is to be substituted, as will be seen from clause 2, for Chapter X of the Calcutta Municipal Act and will form part and parcel of that Act. But from its title it will be taken to be an independent Act and in no way connected with any other Act. If my amendment is accepted, the Bill when passed would bear the title 'The Calcutta Municipal Act (Amendment Act.)' I feel sure that my hon'ble and learned friends will corroborate me in the most unqualified manner, that if the Act is called what it really is, an Amendment Act, it will facilitate research and will save time, whereas the title it is proposed to give, is calculated to mislead. I can hardly think that it has been sufficiently appreciated, how great the advantage is by giving a proper title to an Act, as near as it can be given. I can personally speak to the help that that method has been to myself in the present discussion.

My Lord, with relation to the Calcutta Corporation, we have the Calcutta Municipal Consolidation Act, 1876. That Act was amended in 1881, and we find the amended Act called 'The Calcutta Municipal Consolidation Act Amendment Act, 1881,' and the very title itself has been of help to those who have desired to trace out the law in the present discussion. This advantage will be lost if we adopt a fancy name. The method of nomenclature of course is derived from the practice in England. I will take the English Public Health Act as an instance. I have had frequent occasion to refer to that Statute in the present discussion when I have desired to make sure whether any provision in that Statute has been amended. By simply looking down the table of Statutes we are able, without further trouble, to detect which are the amending Acts to the original Act. The original Act is called the Public Health Act, 1875. The amending Act that follows is named the Public Health Act Amendment Act with the year stated in which the amendment was made: and so we come in its turn to the Public Health Acts Amendment Act, 1890, the Public Health Act being expressed in the plural number because other amending Acts intervened.

I plead for nothing more than that, instead of a fancy name, however pleasing to the ear, a name that will be of practical use be given to the new law."

The Hon'ble Mr. STEPHENSON said :—

"I cannot claim to have made the researches indicated in the hon'ble member's speech and that is perhaps why I do not quite appreciate the hon'ble member's reason for his proposed nomenclature. The hon'ble member brought the amendment forward in the Select Committee, and we then decided that we would consult an authority, namely, Mr. Wigley, our then Secretary, and would abide by what he said. Mr. Wigley was very strongly against any change in the nomenclature and declared that it would be contrary to all recent statutory precedent. He was of opinion that the present form of nomenclature is the correct form from the drafting point of view. Therefore, as we decided in the Select Committee that we would abide by Mr. Wigley's opinion, I do not think we should change the name which is, as I have said, in accordance with all recent statutory precedent both in England and in India."

The Hon'ble Mr. APCAR said :—

"I cannot accept the hon'ble member's assurance that my motion is not in accordance with practice, as one sees in English Statutes that amending Acts are always called amending Acts, and therefore I thought it was necessary to bring the matter forward before the Council."

The motion was then put and lost.

List of Amendments—Motion No. 2.—The Hon'ble Mr. Apear moved that the words "of a permanent nature, that is to say, works the cost of which ought, in the opinion of the Government, to be distributed over a term of years" be substituted for the words "under this Act" in clause 128 (1)(a).

He said :—"Under the present Calcutta Municipal Act the Corporation are empowered to borrow only 'for the construction of works of a permanent nature.' The amendment under discussion will permit the Corporation to borrow for any kind of work without restriction, even for maintenance of buildings, repairs of roads or other works, which are always regarded in Municipal administrations as being of a transitory character. The change in the law would permit the moneys raised as capital to be employed on works that cannot be regarded as capital works, and I view with grave apprehension the removal of all limitations, such as is proposed to effect by the terms of the Bill. My Lord, I am so unhappy as to be in issue with the Corporation, who desired to be allowed free scope to borrow for any purpose without any statutory restriction, under any loan sanctioned by the Government. My Lord, I greatly value the consideration the Commissioners have extended to me in electing me on so many occasions to represent them in Council. But here let me say, once and for all, that I cannot regard myself as merely a delegate in Your Excellency's Council. The Corporation have every right to demand from their representative his time and his labour. And I have ungrudgingly given them that service in every question that may affect the interest of the Corporation. But I claim to exercise my own judgment in questions in which I hold strong convictions. In the present question I have urged my views with insistence on frequent occasions. They were well known for many years before my present election, and they cannot come as a surprise to the Corporation. I conceive my position in your Excellency's Council to be, to assist within the limits of my very humble power in framing laws which in my opinion will be on proper principles and for the benefit of the people whom they will affect, and with that intention I propose to persevere with my motion and very seriously to urge its adoption.

It is recognized in Great Britain as it is in the sister Presidency towns of Bombay and Madras that it would be inadvisable to give such unrestricted powers as have been proposed in the Bill. The Madras Corporation have followed the Calcutta practice which the Bill now proposes to displace and under their Act, passed in the year 1904, they can borrow only for the construction of works of a permanent nature, in the exact terms of the present Calcutta Act and which the proposal in the Bill will change. The Bombay Corporation have adopted the provisions of the English Public Health Act of 1875 and have incorporated them in their Act passed in the year 1888. That law has been maintained with approval, and is in force in Great Britain and in Bombay to the present day. It upholds the principle that money can be borrowed only for permanent works, but since those words if strictly construed might operate unduly to restrict borrowing, the meaning to be attached to the phrase "permanent works" is expressly explained to be "works the cost of which ought in the opinion of the Local Government Board to be distributed over a term of years." In Bombay of course the Government of India is the controlling authority, as it is proposed to be made in my amendment. This qualification gives all the elasticity that is required for all practical purposes. But the principle is incorporated in the Act as a guide to Municipal administrations and as a standard to be maintained by the controlling authority.

The change proposed in the Bill for Calcutta is very noticeable. The first Act under which general borrowing powers were given to the Corporation was in the Act of 1863, and under that Act loans could be raised only "for the construction of permanent works." Under all the general amending Acts that have followed, passed in the years 1876, 1888 and 1899, respectively, the same limitation, in exactly the same words, has been imposed. I think that the words are too rigid if they are strictly interpreted. I was in Council when the last Act was passed, but I did not venture to propose a change. The words given in the law were interpreted to include the construction of such works as drainage, water-supply and buildings. Our finances were being carefully administered and our expenditure carefully adapted to our income, under these conditions and as there had been no difficulty experienced, I could not have pointed to any specific reason for an amendment, caused by the words used in the Act, and that would have been the answer of the Government to any attempt I might have made to obtain an amendment.

It is very intelligible for the Corporation, when the Government go so far as to offer to them the prospect, to be glad to place on loan funds as much as possible, so that they may have as much money available for immediate expenditure as possible. I fear that there will not be that care exercised in the administration of our funds which public interests demand, if the cost of only 5 per cent. as loan charge money can be obtained for expenditure which should be paid wholly out of revenue, and in other Municipal Corporations are paid out of that fund. Just as it is thought inadvisable in Great Britain and in Bombay and Madras, I think, from my experience of nearly 30 years, that it will be inadvisable for such powers to be given to the Calcutta Corporation.

The deliberate removal not only of the limitation to the extent that existed before, but of every limitation such as exists in Great Britain, Bombay and Madras must be interpreted as having some meaning; and in future I think that it is inevitable that the change will be so regarded, even by the Government. In the circumstances it may be said, quite rightly I think, that the intention is to give to the Calcutta Corporation wider powers of borrowing than are given to other Municipal Corporations and for purposes that will not be permissible in other Municipal Administrations.

Whatever the material facts with which I am furnished, I have no intention of entering into details at the present stage of our proceedings. But I can state as historical facts that our finances have not continued always to be carefully administered, that this has led to difficulties in balancing our expenditure with our receipts, and, that, in order to avoid showing deficits, the framers of our Budgets have succumbed to the temptation and adopted methods, not considered legitimate in the accounts of public bodies. And let me say here, with sorrow, that the Government cannot be the first to throw a stone at the Municipality. It may, however, perhaps be necessary to state at once that to lighten the expenditure side of the revenue, they have transferred items previously charged to revenue to loan funds and when the law rigidly limits the Corporation borrowings "for the construction of permanent works" conservancy ponies have been placed in the category of "permanent works," and I suppose their purchase has been interpreted as being the construction of the permanent works. I have known under one regime ready acquiescence to the inclusion in the loan fund an item of the value of Rs. 1,000 and under the régime that has followed, the Corporation have received intimation that only items of the value of over Rs. 15,000 could be placed on the loan fund. I may have thought such a direction rather indiscriminating, but I have had to plead guilty before the Corporation of my approval of the policy underlying it. When I have seen the indulgence of the Government and their policy vary with such a wide range and the encroachments of the framers of our Budgets, I trust that hon'ble members will understand my anxiety, and the Government I hope will now sympathize with my desire, to maintain the central idea of permanent works for which loans can be raised. I on my part spontaneously say that the present law is too rigid. If strictly interpreted, I cannot think of any other object than land coming under the description of permanent. An amendment to meet this objection is very far from the proposal in the Bill. After the series of Acts that have been passed in this connection surely the strongest reasons are required to justify a change that sweeps away all limitations. My amendment, taken from the English Public Health Act of 1875 and adopted in the Bombay Municipal Act, gives all the elasticity needed: that is to say, express power to borrow for objects the cost of which ought, in the opinion of the Government, to be distributed over a term of years. Under the proposal in the Bill, capital money can be used, as I have said before for purposes which cannot be said to be capital works. The Calcutta Corporation ordinarily are required to pay out of revenue for maintenance of works and depreciation, and they would be authorized also to borrow for such purposes. I submit that this is not sound finance. Will not the hon'ble member in charge, whatever his own ideas and views, examine to see what is the meaning of the desire that all such limitation as exist under the English Public Health Act of 1875 should be removed? What can it be but that the Corporation want to place on loan funds the charge for works the cost of which cannot be distributed over a term of years? To say that the admission of any item on the loan funds would be under the control generally given to the Government in sanctioning loans would be a sufficient safeguard, when we cannot forget the fact the personnel of our controlling authorities, from the exigencies of their service, cannot be expected to be continuous, when, however firmly certain views may be held by them in the present day, they cannot predicate the views of a successor who may be new to the office. I beg to be pardoned if I say, from my personal knowledge and experience in the past, that this argument is not convincing. I hold to the words "permanent works" as a sheet anchor. If we do not incorporate them the range of borrowings will become wider and wider. With the limitation to permanent works removed there will be no restraining influence to bring the borrowings back to a proper standard.

And then it has been formally notified to us, in the last communication the Corporation have received from the Government, that the period to be prescribed for the repayment of loans will be judged according to the durability of works, but if there need be no durability, as the deliberate omission of the word "permanent" will indicate, unless the works are to be in some degree permanent, how can the period be judged according to the durability of works. Again, is not the omission of any mention of the word "permanent" inconsistent with the declaration which has also been formally made to us, questioning whether improvement of streets and roadways are legitimate items of capital expenditure. Some members of the Corporation, of whom I humbly admit I am one, think that items of petty improvements should be paid for out of revenue. Is the hon'ble member in charge opposed to that policy which was pressed upon the Corporation by his former chief, the late Sir Edward Baker, when Lieutenant-Governor of this Province. I think that many items of expenditure which fairly might be paid for out of loans under a strict interpretation of our present law cannot legitimately be placed on loan funds, and to that extent I am entirely in favour of an amendment of the law, but the proposals in the Bill go from the Scylla of uncompromising rigidity to the Charybdis of absolute negation of durability and permanence. I ask that equilibrium be restored. Mr. Maddox supported the provision in the Bill in Special Committee, and the hon'ble member in charge may excusably have been influenced, as I understood at the time was the case, by Mr. Maddox's attitude. But afterwards Mr. Maddox spontaneously wrote to me to say that if I moved in the Corporation in terms of my proposal in Select Committee he would second me, and one of his last acts before his illness compelled him to resign his office of Chairman of the Corporation, was to come to the Corporation meeting—one of the last, if not the last, which he attended—to give effect to his offer to second my proposal in the terms of my amendment which I beg to move for acceptance by the hon'ble member in charge of the Council.

The phrase "permanent works" under my proposal is expressly defined to mean works the cost of which, in the opinion of the Government of India, can be spread over a term of years. This meets any reasonable objection that could be taken to the present law. Steam road-rollers, street lamps under any new system of lighting could come under my amendment, and in fact these items are permitted by Local Government Board in England. All I say now is that we should have incorporated in the Bill the phrase "permanent works" to be a guide and to exercise some restraining influence; otherwise those who desire to keep the administration of Municipal Funds within more strict limits would have no ground to oppose any effort being made to place any item of expenditure whatever on loan funds."

"My Lord, this is a motion which was moved by my hon'ble friend Mr. Apcar, in the Select Committee, but after some discussion it was not accepted by the Select Committee. This is a motion which was urged in the Corporation, but it was not accepted by the Corporation. This is a motion which was fully considered by the financial expert of the Corporation, the Vice-Chairman, on whose opinion and judgment, I believe, my hon'ble friend has great faith, and he deliberately advised the Corporation that if the words "of a permanent nature" were inserted, it would be against the best interests of the Corporation. In the definition suggested by my learned friend, the word 'permanent' is most objectionable, and if it were incorporated in the Act, it would be ambiguous and misleading. The late Chairman, Mr. Maddox, pointed out in the Select Committee that it was represented to the Corporation that if the phrase "works of a permanent nature" were dropped, Government would be able to sanction loans for works of a more varied class. Then, My Lord, in the Statement of Objects and Reasons it is stated that provided the term of the loan and the amount of the sinking fund is suitably adjusted to the life of the works, it may be desirable in exceptional cases to finance from loans, works which cannot be described as of a permanent nature. The loans that would be raised from year to year would be subject to the approval of the Local Government. It will be quite within the option of the Local Government to grant a loan for any particular item or to refuse, and here, My Lord, the power has been expressly taken in order, that the Government might, if any exceptional occasion arises, be in a position to help the Corporation. It has been stated that ponies have been bought out of borrowed money. My Lord, perhaps it is not well explained by my learned friend that the first equipment of the Gowkhana was met from it, but the renewals, year after year, were paid from revenue. The loan statement of the Corporation during the last five years has been subjected to a very careful scrutiny of Government, and if any order is passed for omission or modification of any item the statement has to be modified accordingly before sanction is granted. In some cases it was directed by the previous Government that any expenditure on permanent works below Rs. 15,000 should not be met from borrowed funds. So, My Lord, everything is in the hands of the Government, and it is at the discretion of Government to sanction or not to sanction any item in the loan statement. What benefit do we, the Corporation, derive by imposing a restriction on the discretion of the Government, for when any exceptional occasion arises, it would fetter the hands of the Government than otherwise. I think, having regard to the fact that it has not been accepted by the Select Committee, nor has it been agreed to by the Corporation, and, above all,—I believe it will carry some weight with the Hon'ble Mover—it has been opposed by the Vice-Chairman of the Corporation—the Council will think very carefully before accepting the motion of my hon'ble learned friend."

The HON'BLE MR. STEPHENSON said :—

" My Lord, the Hon'ble Mr. Aparar complains that the restriction in the present Act 'of a permanent nature' is too severe and he would have it modified. But he objects to its omission altogether as being too lenient. In the past Government has not interpreted 'of a permanent nature' in a strict way, but in the present Bill we are altering the system of payments to the Sinking Fund and proposing that they should be based on the duration of the loan, we therefore considered that there is no reason why the Corporation should not be allowed loans for short-lived works, provided they pay the debt within the life of the works. For that reason Government and the Select Committee decided to omit this phrase. The Hon'ble Mr. Aparar wishes now to restrict Government or the Corporation, but he proposes the words 'of a permanent nature, that is to say, works the cost of which ought, in the opinion of the Government, to be distributed over a term of years' be substituted for the words in the present Act. In the first place, I would point out that it is not the phrase used in the Public Health Act or in the Bombay Act. The words in those Acts are 'of a permanent nature including' and the hon'ble member will no doubt see that this is a different thing from a definition. But taking the words as they are, I do not see what restriction they do really put on the Government or the Corporation. At present, the power of sanctioning a loan is with the Government of India and not with the Corporation. This amendment says in effect that Government may grant a loan to the Corporation for works for which Government think that a loan may be given to the Corporation. If we put it in those terms, it imposes absolutely no restriction on anybody. For these reasons, I am afraid I must oppose this amendment."

The motion was then put and lost.

The following motion was, by leave of the President, withdrawn.

List of Amendments—Motion No. 3.—The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Baha-lur to move that the word "forty-seven" be substituted for the word "thirty" in line 3 of the first proviso to clause 128 (1).

List of Amendments—Motion No. 3A.—The Hon'ble Mr. Aparar moved that, for the existing provisos to clause 128 (1), the following be substituted, namely :—

" Provided as follows :—

- (i) no loan shall be raised without the previous sanction of the Local Government, or (if the loan exceeds Rs. 5,00,000 or is to be repaid after a period exceeding thirty years) the Government of India ;
- (ii) the rate of interest to be paid for any loan, and the terms (as to the time and method of repayment, and otherwise) upon which any loan is to be raised, shall be subject to the approval of the Local Government, or (if the loan exceeds Rs. 5,00,000 or is to be repaid after a period exceeding thirty years) the Government of India ;
- (iii) the period within which a loan is to be repaid shall in no case exceed sixty years."

He said :—

“I have very willingly undertaken to move this amendment at the request of the hon'ble member in charge. Clauses (i) and (ii) of the Amendment reproduce in effect the two first provisos of clause 128 of the Bill, but, if I may be permitted to say so, in a better form than was originally framed.

A third proviso, however, is included with the object of placing an arbitrary limit of 60 years on “the period within which,” it should be observed the clause runs, “a loan is to be repaid.”

My Lord, in considering this last point, we should not lose sight of the fact that under the English Housing Acts the limit is 80 years and in the London County Council it is 100 years. But personally I think that repayment in 60 years, that is, in two generations, is a sufficient period. I have an amendment to that effect lower down in the list. I personally prefer the terms of my own amendment for more than one reason. But I have accepted the invitation of the hon'ble member in charge in the spirit in which I have believed it to have been given, that is, in courtesy to myself in view of the amendment of which I already had given notice. When we both have the same object in view. I am, in the present instance, indifferent as to the terms. The limitation proposed is the same as that found in the English Public Health Act of 1875. I have a definite purpose in limiting the period. But as I shall have to refer to the point later, I refrain from entering into it now. Without further words, I beg to propose the amendment that I have been called upon by your Lordship to move.”

The HON'BLE MR. STEPHENSON said :—

I beg to accept this amendment on behalf of the Government.

The HON'BLE RAI RADHA CHARAN PAL BAHADUR said :—

“My Lord, the motion which has been moved by the Hon'ble Mr. Apear, has, personally speaking, taken me by surprise ; for, My Lord, having regard to the motion which stands in his name in the subsequent pages, I fail to understand how this motion can be put forward at this stage. My Lord, the Bill, as it stands, I must say, is much better without the amendment than with the amendment. The Bill gives power to Government to sanction loans upon such terms and method of repayment as the Government think fit. My Lord, the provision is sufficiently elastic. As has been well explained in the letters of the Government of India and the Government of Bengal, it will enable any future Government, if they chose, on the representation of the Corporation in any exceptional case to grant a loan extending over a period of even, say, 70 or 80 years. But, My Lord, the discretion of the Government would be fettered if the amendment is accepted and they would not be able to sanction any loan extending beyond the period of 60 years. We do not know, My Lord, what we gain by the amendment which has been proposed by the Hon'ble Mr. Apear. I believe, My Lord, that Government would not be unwilling to leave the provision as it stands. It may be said that the period of loan will not be extended beyond 60 years, but when the controversy is forgotten, and the Corporation be in a better position to place before a future Government a very strong case, for instance, the remodelling of our outfall on account of the silting up of the Biddyadhuri, I think we may reasonably expect that even a longer period than 60 years will be granted by Government. We should not consider, and I for my part never consider, the Government to be unreasonable. I think that if we now restrict the power of the Government in this way by imposing a maximum period where there is no period now fixed under this clause, it will be a suicidal step on our part. I am therefore constrained to oppose this motion for this reason.”

The HON'BLE BABU SURENDRA NATH BANERJI said :—

"My Lord, may I just put in a word or two? My friends here, who do not belong to the Corporation, find themselves in a somewhat awkward situation. Here are two members of the Corporation, experts, thoroughly familiar with all matters connected with the Corporation; they are our guides, our friends and our philosophers. In this controversy, one says that we ought to accept the amendment and another says that we should not. I do feel, My Lord, that we, the independent section, are in a somewhat embarrassing position. But I think that there is just a slight ray of light which may lead us out of this difficulty. This is a restrictive measure fixing a maximum for the repayment of a loan. This restrictive measure I for one object to, and it is in conflict with the declared intentions of the Government, so far as this Bill is concerned. From the opening statement of the Hon'ble member in charge it appears that the Government is willing to restrict the time with due regard to the life of the work, but, My Lord, suppose the work is of such a gigantic character (as my hon'ble friend Rai R. C. Pal Bahadur has just referred to) that the repayment of it may take more than 60 years, we are here hampered by the provisions of this clause. It is conceivable that a case may arise in which the contingency is almost certain to happen where the repayment cannot possibly be made within 60 years. But this must be done if we accept this amendment. Therefore I think that we on this side of the house ought to oppose this motion and the Corporation ought to have more liberty. I think therefore, that even if this motion is accepted by the hon'ble member in charge, the fact will not persuade us to vote for it. The Corporation ought to have more liberty, and the restriction is inconsistent with the declaration of the Government that the repayment ought to extend over the life of the work."

The HON'BLE DR. DEBA PRASAD SARBADHICARI said :—

"My Lord, I desire to associate myself with the opposition, but I do not deplore this division in the camp of experts. My friend will remember that they are both non-officials who vote in the interests of the rate-payers to the best of their light. There is no undue combination for the purpose of defeating the Government. We approach questions with the best of our light, and in a spirit that appeals to us and we vote accordingly. Apart from that, My Lord, it is not a chimerical view of things that the Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur is placing before the Council. In cities like Glasgow provisions for loans are for periods of more than 60 years in connection with questions of lands and buildings and other suitable assets that do not deteriorate in a hurry. I think there is every reason for extending the period of the loan as far as possible. The Government will be the best judge of the merits of every case in detail as it comes up, and they ought to have more liberty in a matter like this."

The HON'BLE BABU MAHENDRA NATH RAY said :—

"My Lord, I am opposed to prescribing a maximum period for the repayment of the loan. In connection with this there is a remark in the letter which was recently addressed by Your Excellency's Government to the Corporation which is somewhat singular. The Corporation expressed an apprehension that as the clause stood as drafted by the Select Committee it is possible that Government may not in a number of cases sanction a loan exceeding a period of 30 years, and in the letter which was addressed to the Corporation an attempt is made to remove that apprehension by not keeping the period of loan open, but by prescribing a maximum period. That letter we have recently read, and a portion of that letter runs thus :—'A proviso fixing a maximum term of 60 years for the currency of the Corporation's loan will therefore be added to clause 128 (1).' That is exactly what my hon'ble friend Mr. Apear says, and the Governor in Council trusts that the apprehension of the Corporation with regard to this matter will be removed by the declaration of the intentions of the Government of India contained in the foregoing quotation. The object is, I take it, with reference to what the Government of India told Your Excellency's Government, to remove any apprehension that in a large number of cases an application for a loan for a period exceeding 30 years would not be entertained. That apprehension is best removed by keeping the term open, and not by prescribing a maximum period. I take it, therefore, there is something wrong in the drafting of the letter which was addressed, and, if that is so, we can well see that instead of attaining the object which Your Excellency's Government had in view, namely, of removing any apprehension, an apprehension is likely to be caused in the case of any very large and extensive works and the insistence of a maximum period of 60 years may be fraught with considerable inconvenience."

The Hon'ble Mr. LYON said :—

"My Lord, it may be of some assistance to the Hon'ble Mr. Apcar if I intervene in this discussion to explain a small point. The weight of the argument which has been put forward by the Hon'ble Mr. Surendra Nath Banarji, that liberty should be allowed to the Corporation in this matter, is somewhat diminished by the fact that the Corporation have themselves asked for the imposition of this limit. This request seems to me to be the dominant factor in all arguments referring to this amendment. As to the apprehension to which the Hon'ble Babu Mahendra Nath Ray has referred ; if the correspondence is fully perused, it will be seen that the main apprehension which was expressed with reference to the question of the length of a loan was that the Corporation of Calcutta was going to be treated in some manner different from that in which the Corporation of Bombay was treated by the Government of India, and it was for that reason that the Corporation themselves thought it desirable that the same limitation that is entered in the Bombay Act should also be entered in the Calcutta Act. In these circumstances I think the weight of argument lies with the imposition of a limit of 60 years. I will not trouble the house by further arguments on this point, but I should like the house to note that the main reason for the limitation of 60 years is that some limit must be placed on the burdens which we may place on posterity in connection with works which we now consider to be best for the city of Calcutta."

The Hon'ble Mr. APCAR said :—

"I have been very willing to recognize that some limit can fairly be placed on the length of our loans, and it is in order that we should be facilitated in obtaining that which we so earnestly desire, that the period of the loans should be according to the life of the assets that I have consented to an arbitrary limitation of 60 years, for which we have a precedent in the English Statute. It has been urged, and it could be urged with great force, that we are seeking an indefinite length of time for the repayment of loans, and that it is very possible that various changes may occur which will necessitate other expenditure and that the expenditure incurred for our works, without a definite specific period of limitation, will really operate seriously against posterity. It is in order to meet such arguments as these that I have advanced on my own part the amendment which I am glad to propose in this Council. If hon'ble members seek guidance from the Corporation, I can reassure them, as the hon'ble Mr. Lyon has already stated, the Corporation themselves have asked for the limitation for which I move. This view was accepted unanimously in Committee and confirmed without a dissentient voice in the Corporation meeting. It is not that I am desirous of restricting the powers of the Corporation, but it is in the hope of getting better treatment and more consideration in what I consider the most vital question in this discussion, that is, to be permitted to get our loans on such terms as will not be prejudiced by having a period of 30 years fixed in anticipation, but to have a term prescribed in accordance with the life of the asset with however the arbitrary limitation of two generations. That limitation is accepted in England and I do not think that we should object to it for Calcutta."

The motion was then put and agreed to.

The following motion was, by leave of the President, withdrawn.

List of Amendments—Motion No. 4.—The Hon'ble Raja Hrishikesh Laha to move that after the second proviso to clause 128 (I), two new sub-clauses be inserted, namely :—

"(1a) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (I), the period of repayment—

- (a) for a work likely to last over 30 years, shall be either 60 years or the life of the work, whichever is longer ;
- (b) for a work likely to last 30 years or less, shall be either 30 years or the life of the work, whichever is shorter ; and
- (c) for a loan raised for works of varying lives shall be fixed according to the equated life of each of such works ; and, for the purpose of raising emergent loans (for sums not exceeding 5 lakhs) repayable within six months, it shall not be necessary for the Corporation to secure the previous sanction of any other authority.

(1b) The rate of interest of an emergent loan shall be fixed by the Corporation, which shall have no power to raise any further loan of this kind until every previous loan so taken together with all interest due thereupon, has been repaid in full."

List of Amendments—Motion No. 5.—The Hon'ble Raja Hrishikesh Laha moved that, after the second proviso to clause 128 (I), the following new sub-clause be inserted, namely :—

"(1a) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (I)—

- (a) when a loan is raised for a work, the life of which exceeds 30 years, but does not exceed 60 years, the period of repayment shall be equal to the life of the work ; and when such loan is raised for a work, the life of which exceeds 60 years, the period of repayment shall in no case be less than 60 years ;
- (b) when a loan is raised for works of varying lives not exceeding 30 years in duration, the period of repayment shall be fixed according to the life of each work, and the cost of each of the said works shall be treated as a separate item for the discharge of loan charges :

Provided that—

- (i) debentures may ordinarily be issued for a period not exceeding 30 years, and
- (ii) in the event of any portion of the said loan not being fully paid off at the maturity of the debenture, the Corporation shall be entitled to re-borrow so as to make provision for the balance still due."

He said :—

" Clause 128 provides that the Corporation may from time to time raise loans for the construction of works, for the acquisition of land, and for other purposes, subject to the previous sanction of either the Government of India or the Local Government, according to the amount and period of the loan.

The restriction thus placed on the Corporation is no doubt salutary, inasmuch as a central controlling authority is necessary to exercise beneficial influence by preventing the raising of loans for unnecessary purposes and for keeping down the period of repayment, but the second proviso to sub-clause (1) of this clause leaves too much discretion to Government. The absence of any statutory direction to the authority which sanctions the loan is not at all desirable, and it is therefore necessary that some provision should be made for its guidance so that there may not be the least apprehension in the public mind of any possibility of an arbitrary exercise of power. In the extract from a Resolution of the Government of India in the Finance Department No. 6564A., dated the 14th October, 1907, published in the Calcutta Gazette of 9th April, 1913, it has been expressly laid down "that a term not longer than 20 or at most 30 years ought always to be sufficient, and no proposal for exceeding the latter period will be entertained unless it is supported by the strongest reasons, of which the immediate relief to the rate-payers will not be admitted as one." And in the letter from the Secretary to the Government of Bengal No. I. M., dated the 1st January, 1914, to the Chairman of the Corporation of Calcutta, the same view reiterated in the following terms: "The Government of India also desire it to be understood that the normal presumption will be that period not exceeding 30 years is a sufficient term for the repayment of a loan and that the burden of proof that a longer period is required and justified in a particular case will rest on the applicant." On the face of such declaration of policy by Government and in the absence of any provision in the Bill for fixing the period of repayment, the conclusion becomes irresistible that the above-mentioned resolutions would form the bases of sanctions for all loans to be raised by the Calcutta Corporation except in extraordinarily exceptional cases. It in a manner prejudices the whole question of Municipal loans, and gives rise to a doubt that no sanction for repayment will be made so as to equalize with the life of the asset. It would be against the trend of the present policy of the British Parliament, as we find in 'Turner's Repayment of Local and other Loans' "the present general policy of Parliament and of the Government departments charged with the duty of fixing the respective periods of repayment operates in the direction of equalizing the period of repayment and the life of the asset." We further find: "It is also contended that if the repayment of the debt be spread over a very extended period, the interest paid equals and soon exceeds the amount of the principal. This is not itself a very good reason against the extended period of repayment seeing that its effect is to spread the burden over a greater number of generations who derive benefit from the outlay, provided always that the works continue to meet the needs of the community and subsequent generations do actually derive the benefit therefrom." This puts the whole problem in a nutshell. The Calcutta Corporation does not want anything more than what is so succinctly stated above. The most important point involved is the life or the durability of the work, and my submission is that the period of the debenture of a long-term loan exceeding 30 years should correspond with the life of the work, so that when the life is extinguished the loan would be extinguished too. I do not therefore propose that in a long-term loan there should be any power of re-borrowing, and my reason for doing away with this power is this. Since 1885 trade and commerce have expanded to a considerable extent, and with the large influx of capital the rate of interest has considerably fallen, and with this fall the Calcutta Corporation has been able in former years to reduce the rate of their interest from 6 per cent. to 4 per cent. But in the present condition of things it is not possible to make any further reduction, as then the Corporation debentures will have to stand the risk of a competition with Government promissory notes. It will lose its character of a favourite investors' stock and surely be left very much behind in the race with Government papers. It may be argued that if Government reduce their interest to 3 per cent. there may be a chance for the Corporation to reduce its interest also to 3½ per cent., but there is no possibility of Government repeating their sad experience of a 3 per cent. loan with the paper at a discount of about 19 per cent.

If ordinarily each generation of rate-payers were to undertake to fully finance the cost of works initiated by it, then the incentive to substantial and useful works of permanent character or long projects which require much outlay, the repayment of which extends beyond the life of a generation, will be taken away, as the present generation will always try to shirk the works in order to avoid imposing the whole burden of expenditure upon itself. This means increase in taxation caused by the payment of contribution to the Sinking Fund at a much increased rate.

It may as well be here discussed what effect a long-term loan would have on the finances of the Corporation. There is always a fear expressed that we will be doing a great injustice to posterity if we place unfair burden on their shoulders when they have no voice in the initiation of an undertaking and when they have their own requirements to provide for. But if we consider this question carefully, the advantages would far outweigh the disadvantages in the long run. There may be some obsolescent works which they will have to pay for, but they will become possessors of many works in connection with lands and buildings, the loans for which the present generation has repaid, and for which they will not have to pay a single pice, not to mention lucrative undertakings, such as markets which bring in a handsome return. The life of land is perpetual, and that of buildings over a century if kept in proper repairs. Would it therefore be fair and equitable to demand that the interests of the present generation should be sacrificed to those of posterity by imposing on the former the entire burden of payment of the loan charges. If a loan is repaid within the period of the life of the work, then both the present generation and posterity will have no cause for complaint, and both will enjoy the benefit of the work during their lifetime. If we examine what effect a loan of 30 lakhs, redeemable in 30 years, will have on the revenue of the Corporation, we will find the contribution to the Sinking Fund at 2 per cent. would be Rs. 60,000, and interest to debenture-holders at 4 per cent. Rs. 1,20,000, that is, the revenue fund will have altogether to pay Rs. 1,80,000; but if the loan be redeemable in 47 years, the amount of loan charges at 1 per cent. would be Rs. 30,000 and interest Rs. 1,20,000 together Rs. 1,50,000. The loss to the Corporation will amount to Rs. 30,000. The Vice-Chairman of the Calcutta Corporation has demonstrated by actuarial calculation that it is the more advantageous to repay a loan of 34 lakhs in 47 years than in 30 years, and, if yearly payments of loan charges are made, there would be a saving in the longer period as compared with the shorter period, of Rs. 82,292, and if half-yearly payments are made, of Rs. 98,372. Hence it is not so uneconomical to extend the period of repayment from 30 to 47 years, as it has been supposed to be, and it would not be helping a "policy of waste" as it has been stated. Nor am I convinced by the recent pronouncement made in the letter already referred to, viz., "that the payments on account of a 47-year loan and a 30-year loan are the same actuarially, and they do not appear to detract in any way from the force of the criticism that in actual practice the Corporation loses heavily over the aggregate payments in the case of longer loans."

It has been said that the long-term loan is more advantageous to the lender than the borrower, as the money which leaves the hand of the latter brings in no pecuniary return, but is only applied to improvement conducive to health and public convenience. It is no doubt unproductive in the sense that the result does not admit of pecuniary measurement. On this point I state the reasons given by Mr. Crozier in his 'First Principles of Investment,' which are apt and to the point, and which I hope will be considered cogent and conclusive. "It is true that the loans are expended as often on financially unremunerative as on productive works. Education, bridges, highways, street improvements, sewerage and parks, for example, yield no pecuniary return and; as business propositions, are apparently nothing but an incubus on the rates. But this is not really so, for it is precisely works of utility, convenience, ornament or sanitation like these that add to the value of the house property on whose rates a large part of the security of these loans is founded; so that they are rather an additional security than a detriment."

Under the circumstances it would be a better policy to hold that the term of a loan should be coeval with the life of the work for which the loan is raised, and without handicapping the Corporation as representing the present generation of rate-payers with the burdensome task of repaying the full amount of the loan, the benefit of which will also be enjoyed by the future generation, leave the Corporation to carry out its own projects which mean improvement and progress of the town. The fight for a short-term or a long-term loan is a fight for a principle, and I will quote only the report of the Select Committee appointed to enquire as to statutory conditions limiting the periods for the payment of loans by the local authorities in England and Wales in order to show that posterity is not palced at a disadvantage. "Although the Committee have thought it right to devote special attention to the financial aspect of the question submitted to them, they do not consider that the divergent interests of the present and the future rate-payers can be satisfactorily adjusted upon purely financial consideration. Posterity may derive advantage of a moral and physical character from some portion of the expenditure of the present day. It is not possible to set any accurate pecuniary value upon these advantages."

I am convinced that it is not only sound finance, but good morals that a public body in borrowing money for the construction of works of a permanent nature should be authorized to fix the period of repayment of a loan on the basis of durability and continuing utility of the works, even though the period should be over 60 years. But out of deference to the view taken by the Government of India and the Corporation, I am willing that the maximum period of repayment for a loan should be fixed at 60 years.

As regards my second amendment, loans which are raised for works of varying lives and which are not supposed to exist for 30 years, such as machinery, steam rollers, stone-setting, kerbing and channelling, etc., a period of repayment of debentures for the same shall be a period less than 30 years. But in that event a subsidiary loan for a short term, that is, for the period which would be required to improve the Sinking Fund to the full amount of the balance of the original loan, will be necessary. The power of reborrowing a short-term loan is necessary in order not to make the loan charges a heavy burden on the revenue funds of the Municipality. The average of the short-term and long-term loans that would be raised every year would not, I think, curtail the borrowing capacity of the Corporation to any serious extent. It will, however, make the Corporation very careful in submitting estimates for miscellaneous works; for if they undertake any work without proper consideration, the contribution it will have to make to the Sinking Fund will make a heavy inroad upon their revenue, and will automatically act as a check upon ill-digested and ill-considered undertakings. Government will also exercise restrictive influence by investigating each case in order to see that the period of utility and repayment agree before they come to a decision."

The Hon'ble Mr. CHAKRAVARTI said :—

"MY LORD, I support this amendment, and I frankly confess that I have not had the experience of the Hon'ble Raja Hrishikesh Laha with regard to municipal finance, or that of the other members from the Corporation; but it strikes me from the point of view of an ordinary citizen that the amendment should commend itself to this House. The position is this: What is contended for is that, when a piece of work is executed by raising a loan which not only benefits the present generation, but must, from the nature of the work, benefit the next generation, everybody who participates in the benefit arising from the work should contribute towards the expense. It seems to me sound and fair reason. As far as I have heard, the objection to this fair treatment of the present generation and the next seems to be this: In the first place, there is no Local Government Board here to check the action of the Corporation, and therefore what has been found to be financially sound and fair to the present generation and to posterity in England, where municipal government has gone on for a great length of time, and where, after a great deal of groping, they have come to a similar conclusion—that principle which is accepted there ought not to be accepted here. Well, my answer with regard to this argument is twofold : In the first place, if the difficulty is because there is no particular institution for the purposes of check over the action of the Corporation, have such an institution. My other answer is : In point of fact no loan can be raised without the sanction of Your Excellency's Government or the Government of India, and surely I am entitled to say that there is such an amount of talent in your Lordship's Government as well as in the Imperial Government that before sanctioning a loan and in deciding as regards the period of repayment (that is, the life of a work) there will be plenty of enlightened knowledge for the purposes of check. Then, another argument has been put forward, that the Corporation is bound to go on, and that in point of fact we ought to have the instinct of a shopkeeper,—that we are to look at the rupees—but that we ought to be generous towards posterity. Well, my Lord, when a question of finance arises, I always try to look after myself. This is for the benefit of the present generation as well as the next. Everybody who benefits ought to contribute towards the expense. I do not quite see that this is a benevolent institution, and therefore I am to contribute 2 per cent. during my lifetime for 30 years, in order that the man who comes after me is probably for another 17 or 20 years to enjoy the benefits of the work which my money has contributed towards providing.

It has been suggested that we ought to be charitable. Well, so far as private charity is concerned, anyone is quite welcome to contribute towards the public funds for the purposes of conferring benefit upon the next generation ; but when we have to take into consideration not the rich ratepayers only, but also the poor ratepayers, who are concerned with regard to the contribution which is to be paid into the Sinking Fund of 2 per cent., one must bear in mind that they can hardly make both ends meet. The cost of living has gone up, the ratepayers' life is very hard and, under these circumstances, I am bound to say, out of a somewhat benevolent desire to confer benefit upon posterity, we are to place on them burdens which are not morally the burdens of the present generation. •

Then, further, my Lord, what has been pointed out is this : that scientific improvements, especially as regards sanitary measures, are proceeding so fast that we may set up some work now on which we spend a large sum of money, and in a few years it may be found out that the work is obsolete. My answer with regard to that is that the apprehension does not seem to be based upon reason. Conceivably there may be an occasion like that and it may happen in any part of the world ; but here the municipal government by a corporation is an introduction from the West. The policy is a policy of imitation so far as is possible for the conditions of this country. We are practically taking the particular Acts which have been passed in England as our model for legislation in this part of the country. If invention, especially in regard to sanitary measures, proceeds apace—it does proceed apace in England, and if there, notwithstanding the fact that the people are inventing things from time to time which supersede previous appliances, they do not have any apprehension with regard to these questions of any particular work becoming obsolete, we might take their action as a guide to model our legislation upon. I notice that the Hon'ble Raja Hrishikesh Laha has restricted the period to 60 years. That is in accordance with an amendment which has already been carried, and apparently it is in accordance with the wishes of the Corporation and the wishes of the Government of India. Therefore I venture to think that the amendment that he has proposed—I mean the first part of it—ought to commend itself to this House. Then with regard to the second part, what the amendment says is this : There may be a number of works for which a particular loan is raised, and the life of the work is not more than 30 years. Well, under those circumstances, money has to be raised by a loan, and the loan is raised for a particular period ; that is, the debenture may mature at a period when the loan is not liable to be repaid, or it may be liable to be repaid. In any event, what is sought for is this : That in effect if there should be still a certain period to run after the maturity of the debenture, the Corporation should have power to borrow for the balance, the amount already in the Sinking Fund being not sufficient to pay off the loan. In these circumstances I have great pleasure in supporting this amendment."

"MY LORD, in dealing with this amendment it is necessary to examine briefly the policy of the legislature in the past regarding the repayment of loans. From 1863, when the Corporation of Calcutta was established with a nominated body of the Justices of the Peace for the town of Calcutta, the interest to be paid for loans and the time of repayment of the loans were left to the Justices subject to the approval of the Lieutenant-Governor. In 1876, when a partial elective system was introduced under the government of Sir Richard Temple, in the Act of that year the sinking fund contribution was fixed at not less than 2 per cent., thereby binding the Corporation to a loan of not more than thirty years. For four years this Act was in operation and it was found that the burden upon the revenue fund became so heavy as to cripple the resources of the Corporation and to retard the development of the city. Two courses were open to the Corporation to adopt—one was to raise municipal taxation to meet the heavier sinking fund charges of yearly-increasing loan works, and the other was to amend the law by reducing the sinking fund contribution from 2 to 1 per cent., thereby extending the period of repayment from 30 to 47 years. With regard to the first course, the then Lieutenant-Governor, Sir Ashley Eden, observed in his letter to the Government of India : "Municipal taxation in Calcutta is very high and the Lieutenant-Governor believes that any increase in the rates will seriously interfere with the progress of the town." Under these circumstances, the Lieutenant-Governor recommended to the Government of India a reduction of contribution from 2 to 1 per cent., that is to say, the period of repayment of loan was extended from 30 to 47 years. When I contrast the legislation of 1881 with the legislation of to-day, I cannot help observing that, in a small nominated Council, a non-official member, the accredited mouth-piece of the Corporation, was permitted to introduce a Bill with the object of reducing the sinking fund contribution from 2 to 1 per cent. and succeeded in passing it through the Council with the support of the Government. To-day in this expanded Council, an official member introduces a Bill repealing the beneficent legislation of the past. From 1881 up till now, the Corporation have been raising loans for the execution of new works with a period of repayment of 47 years. The outstanding loans from 1881 to date amount to nearly five crores. The borrowed money has not been spent in vain. The assessed value of the town increased since 1881 from Rs. 1,31,71,000 to Rs. 3,92,81,000 in 1913. The borrowing capacity has increased during the same period. It will thus be seen that 47 years' term of loan has not in any way jeopardised or even remotely affected the financial position of the Corporation. On the contrary, the development of the town has been accelerated by the larger amount of money rendered available by reason of the Sinking Fund contribution being limited to 1 per cent., or, in other words, the period of repayment being lengthened from 30 to 47 years and the finances of the Corporation are consequently in a thoroughly sound condition. If such reduction from 2 to 1 per cent. had not been allowed, the Corporation would have been forced to spend considerably less money on works for the development of the town. The Loans Chapter of the current Municipal Act did not require any amendment but for one unfortunate defect in one section of the Act which prevented payments of interest and sinking fund contribution to the full period of 47 years, on the amount withdrawn from the sinking fund for repayment of debentures before the period of maturity of the sinking fund in the same period. If the debentures had been issued for 47 years instead of for 15, 20 and 30 years, as was actually the case, the 1-per-cent. sinking fund would have continued to the end of 47 years and the full amount of the loan would have gone on accumulating without interruption and there would not have been any difficulty in accumulating the entire amount required to repay the loan in full. The shortage in the sinking fund was discovered by our Vice-Chairman and although, until the Act is amended, the Corporation cannot pay into the sinking fund the sum required to make up the shortage, still they are setting apart as advised by our learned Vice-Chairman by voluntary annual contribution a certain sum of money into a reserve fund in the Bank of Bengal to make up the shortage. Sir Edward Baker considered the amendment was necessary only to cure the defect in the law to enable the sinking fund to grow, but expressed a decided opinion that sinking contribution should not be increased or in other words the 47 years' term for repayment of loans should not be shortened. Although Sir Edward Baker intimated, in his letter of the 16th August, 1910, that legislation would be undertaken to remedy this defect, the publication of this Bill in its present form has taken the public by surprise. The main provisions of the Bill are not only opposed to the intention of the Government of Bengal, as expressed in 1910, but also opposed to the views as expressed by such officers of Government as Mr. Gauntlett and the Hon'ble Mr. Payne. Mr. Gauntlett observed "the burden of the loan is regulated by the sinking fund and it would be a serious reversion of the Government policy for the last thirty years if the order is now passed that the payments to the sinking fund be made at a rate which will extinguish the loan in thirty years." The Hon'ble Mr. Payne observed "the present provision of 1 per cent. sinking fund was decided upon after much argument; it does not appear to be advisable to go back upon it." The Corporation had submitted that the period of repayment of loan may be fixed at 47 years with the obligation to continue the payment of contribution to the sinking fund to the end of that period to discharge the loan. Finding the Government inexorable they submitted that the period of repayment be equated to the average life of various kind of loan works on the lines laid down in Collin's book. They have still further modified their request in order to conform, as nearly as possible, to the wishes of the Government on the matter. What they now want is that the term of a loan should be suitably adjusted to the life of the works, as is well stated in paragraph 3 in the Statement of Objects and Reasons of the Bill. My Lord, the Government letter, dated the 11th September, 1912, contained the following declaration: "The normal term of 30 years would not be extended, except on the strongest grounds." The Corporation was alarmed at this declaration and prayed that at least the period of the repayment of a loan be adjusted to the life of the works and even offered to submit to a maximum term of 60 years if the durability of the works executed out of loan fund was held to be the sole guiding principle in determining the period of repayment of a loan. My Lord, in the reply of Government to this representation communicated to the Corporation at the beginning of this month, it is stated "the Government of India also desired to be understood that the normal presumption will be that a period not exceeding 30 years is a sufficient term for the repayment of a loan and that the burden of proof that a longer period is required and justified in a particular case will rest on the applicant." Further, while agreeing to fix a maximum term of 60 years for the currency of a loan it was stated "that while due attention will be paid to the expected durability of the works for which a loan is proposed, the intrinsic durability of such work is not the sole factor to be considered." My Lord, I fail to understand what concession has been made, as we were led to believe from the very kind and sympathetic reply of His Excellency the Viceroy to the address from the Corporation. The existing provisions to clause 128 clearly contemplate the possibility of loans for a longer period than thirty years. The addition of the proviso restricting the maximum period to 60 years does not at all improve the situation, but, on the contrary, I venture to submit, is more disadvantageous to the Corporation. For, if in the future an exceptionally strong case is made out for a loan for a term exceeding 60 years and the Government be convinced of the justice of the case, no loan for a period exceeding 60 years could be granted. I admit, my Lord, that we have to thank ourselves and some of our colleagues in the Corporation for this against the advice of our financial expert. I frankly confess that, to my mind, the existing proviso without a restricted maximum, if we are to lose the term of 47 years which we are destined to lose, is better than the proposed proviso with a maximum restricted to 60 years.

My Lord, it has been abundantly shown that in England the period of repayment of a loan is fixed according to the life of the works for which the loan is raised. According to the English Public Health Act, the period of durability of works is the only principle on which the period of repayment is fixed. Turner, in his book entitled "Repayment of Local and Other Loans" observes: "The present general policy of Parliament and of the Government departments, charged with the duty of fixing the respective period of repayment, operates in the direction of equalizing the period of repayment and the life of the assets." It is needless to say that the adoption of this principle equalises the burden upon the generations of the ratepayers benefited by the works. On this point the Select Committee of the House of Commons reported as follows: "Your committee, however, are not unmindful of the fact that it is neither wise nor just to place upon the shoulders of present ratepayers too large a burden of necessary or useful works from which succeeding generations will derive benefit. To do so would be to put a serious check upon the execution of such works."

Assuming that a long-term loan involves payment of the same amount in value as that of a short-term one, the resultant benefits to be derived from the former far outweighs those of the latter. For a long-term loan enables the borrowing authority to execute additional useful works with the available loan charges than a short-term one and the earlier execution of such works enhances the value of land and buildings and makes for profits and development of the city. For example, assume that loan charges available are Rs. 2,04,000. With this available amount a loan of 34 lakhs could be raised repayable in 30 years, but, if instead of a loan of 30 years a loan repayable in 47 years be raised, then the loan charges will be Rs. 1,70,000 and that there will be a saving of Rs. 2,04,000—1,70,000=Rs. 34,000. On this saving of Rs. 34,000 a further loan of Rs. 6,80,000 could be raised repayable in 47 years; so that more capital works could be executed for the improvement and development of the city which again will enhance the borrowing capacity of the Corporation.

My Lord, unless the period of repayment of loans is made conterminous with the life of the work, there is the danger of saddling the present generation of ratepayers with too heavy a burden of the cost of the works which should fairly and justly be shared by the succeeding generations. It is inevitable that the execution of necessary and useful works will be put off or abandoned and the city will inevitably suffer. I earnestly hope Your Excellency's Council will see its way to affirm the principle adopted in England by accepting the amendment which has been moved."

The Hon'ble RAI PRIYA NATH MUKHARJI BAHADUR said:—

"In the consideration of the proposal just made by my hon'ble friend, may I crave the permission of the House to direct its attention to a few points of municipal finance?

In theory, the rates that the Corporation levies for the year ought to provide for all the municipal amenities of the town. But that would be impossible without having very high rates which would press heavily on the ratepayers. Therefore it has to raise loans which is only another way of making the revenue of future years available in the present; so that you are practically using other people's money for which it is necessary that there should be safeguards. We cannot put the present and future generations into separate compartments. We must extend our range of vision over a large series of years and treat the ratepayer as an entity which has, as Sir Oliver Lodge lately said, a continued existence. We, the present generation, are the heirs to a great many things which our predecessors have done for us, and there is no reason why we should not be prepared to do a few things for our successors : at the same time they should also bear a reasonable share of the burden.

The next point we come to is—After we raise loans, how shall we repay them? We have to repay them. Prudence in all commercial undertakings dictates that we should repay in the shortest possible time. But in actual practice it really depends on the Corporation's ability to pay without embarrassing itself and the period is fixed accordingly. For a big loan with heavy loan charges to pay it would make all the difference whether you are paying 2 per cent. to the Sinking Fund for a 30-year loan or  $\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. for a 60-year loan. If you have a loan of a crore, you will have to pay two lakhs to the Sinking Fund at 2 per cent. and at  $\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. you pay only half a lakh; one lakh and a half is a big difference and you cannot always afford to pay that. With a small loan the case might be different. Now, surely, the life of the work should be the principal factor in fixing the term of the loan. It cannot be held to be the sole factor. If you are going to strictly regulate the period of the loan to the life of the work, that is, to equate the period of the loan to the life of the work you might get into serious difficulties. First, in the case of land, if the loan is invested in land, the land will last for all time. You may not be paying back your loan at all, but that will not certainly be seriously contended; in fact, the Hon'ble Raja Hrishikesh Laha has said that, in the case where the life of the work exceeds 60 years, it should be paid within 60 years. We must not exceed that period.

In every work there will be machinery, plant, building and land, and each of these has a different life, and many such works, each containing parts with different lives, will be comprised in one loan. In England, they generally go into the market for a big loan for a big work; but in the Calcutta Corporation we all know—and I had reason to know for some years—that they put twenty or thirty different things into a loan of thirty or forty lakhs.

Then, as has been admitted, there is no department here like the strong Local Government Board of experts in England who send down an Inspector who goes and looks into local conditions and sees under what conditions the work will be carried out, and advises the Board to fix the term of the loan. Here we would enter into endless argument before the life of the work was at all fixed. Then, of course, the probable duration of a loan may be shortened for reasons which we may not be able to foresee at the time the work is begun. Here we have the case of the Harrington Incinerator at the top of Dharamtala Street, which was scrapped in five years, although the loan was to be repaid in probably thirty years; in fact, the loan may be running now. At a certain period in the history of the Corporation, pumping was supposed to be the correct thing for waterworks and they constructed a chain of pumping-stations elaborately equipped at great cost. Mr. MacCabe came along and he advised the Corporation that the gravitation system was the best and the whole of the pumping-stations were scrapped for no fault of their own, but for the fact that something better came along.

Then, again, there is the threatened silting-up of the Bidyadhari river and any day the Corporation may be called upon to construct a new drainage system on that account. So that the life of a work cannot be fixed for certain when you are constructing the work. All the above factors enter into the consideration of fixing the period of a loan.

If you want, as in clause 2, to cut up the loan into bits for each thing which is intended to be constructed with the loan and treat each bit separately for calculating the loan charges upon it, it will be tremendously inconvenient. We ought, therefore, to consider these points before we accept this Motion.

The Hon'ble MR. SHORROCK said :—

“ It seems to me that, if this amendment be adopted, it will provide a pretty problem for some one to solve ; for, as we have just heard, what is the life of a work ? It is certainly not the life of the materials of which that work is composed. A better definition is probably “ the period of utility ”. With a new work who is going to say or know what that period may be ? It is no uncommon thing, as we have also just heard, to find a work which, on its day of completion, represented the last word in construction and mechanical appliances scrapped long before any deterioration of material had taken place, simply because it had ceased to perform the functions for which it was intended. How do we know that a body of expert opinion may not some day arise who will say that Calcutta must have a water-supply 20 miles farther up the river in order to insure a purer supply ? How do we know that Sanitary Engineers may not come and change the whole of the sanitation and drainage arrangements ? How do we know that the whole of Calcutta street-lighting may not become obsolete in a few years ? If a community demand conveniences, the community must pay, and the cheapest form is to pay cash ; but, as it is impossible in municipal works to provide ready cash, the payment must extend over a period and the only fair thing is to spread such payments over the generation that is to enjoy the conveniences. Each generation should pay its way and Calcutta can afford to do so. In my opinion it would be sounder if this Bill clearly defined that all loans must be repayable in 30 years. Exception might be made in certain cases. In the case of land, the date of repayment with the approval of Government may be extended to more than 30 years. Such being my views I am opposed to this amendment.

The Hon'ble MR. LYON said :—

“ I wish to intervene for a few moments with reference to a point which seems to have escaped a great many Hon'ble Members who have supported the amendment and which has specially escaped Mr. Byomkesh Chakravarti. It seems to me that, in the argument he used, which was entirely addressed to the principle that the length of a loan should be determined by the life of a work, he was setting up a man of straw for the pleasure of knocking him down. The history of this case must be recalled to understand what the point is which is brought before us now. It will be in the recollection of this Council that the gravest objections were expressed, when the Bill was first brought in, both in the Corporation and in this Council, to certain restrictions which had been imposed, not in the Bill but in a letter from the Government of India, as to the length of the loans which would be sanctioned in the future. The statements made in the letter practically implied that the Government of India would never consent to any loans except 30-year loans. I think it is on the basis of a state of affairs which existed then but which does not exist now that a great deal of the Hon'ble Raja Hrishikesh Laha's address has been founded. We have gone a good deal further since then. We recognised that this was a great stumbling block, for the same reason as in the other case I referred to in speaking on another amendment just now, that loans are being granted to another Corporation for a longer term than 30 years at the present time, and that this Corporation did not understand why it should be restricted to 30-year loans if another Corporation could get them for a longer period. It was also said that there were no indications that the question of the life of the work would be considered at all by the Government of India when it was dealing with this question. These matters appeared to this Government to be of some importance and to warrant apprehensions which had to be considered by us as a responsible Government, and that was one of the chief reasons why a postponement of the Bill was arranged for in order that these apprehensions might be dealt with and that we might be in a position to explain the matter more fully to Council. We heard further from the Corporation on the subject and, on the receipt of a letter from the Corporation, we wrote to the Government of India.

The Government of India have, on reconsideration, dealt with the matter from a different point of view from that assumed by them originally. They have now said—and the papers are before the Council—that they do not desire that the currency of such loans shall in practice be invariably restricted to 30 years. I call the attention of the Council to the very great difference between that announcement and the announcement previously made by the Government of India. They have met us fully on the point. They have assured this Government that the Corporation is to be treated in this respect entirely on the same lines as the Corporation of Bombay, and such importance was attached to the subject that His Excellency the Viceroy went out of his way, in addressing the Corporation, to allude to this particular matter. I think in view of that position taken up by the Government of India—the view that they will not invariably restrict the loan to 30 years in the future, and the further statement that they propose to have due regard to the life of the work in considering the length of the loan adopted is a great advance on the previous state of affairs. The whole argument used by Mr. Byomkesh Chakravarti and two or three other speakers have ignored this statement of the Government of India, and they have proceeded on the assumption that we will not have any regard to the life of the work and that we are determined to have short loans as against long loans. As a matter of fact we have granted the general principle that the probable life of a work must be considered when the term for a loan for its construction is determined, but with the necessary qualification—which has been ably explained by the Hon'ble Mr. Mukherjee and the Hon'ble Mr. Shorrocks—that the life of the work is not the sole consideration to be taken into account. This being the state of affairs, the question before us now is—Are we going to trust to the statement of the Government of India, which has been specifically made in order to meet our views, and be content with that statement, and leave the discretion with them, as in Bombay and in Madras and elsewhere in India, to decide as to the term of the loan, or are we going definitely to declare that we propose to restrict their discretion and insist by statutory provision that they shall have regard to the life of the work? I need hardly point out that the long amendment now proposed gives many loopholes for lawyers, and Mr. Apear will bear me out when I say that, while it would be practically impossible for a municipality in England to go to law with the Local Board on the subject of the terms of a loan, I have reason to doubt whether, with our experience in India, we can be entirely confident that a legal point will not be brought up in a Civil Court to defeat the determination of Government in such a matter. I think that this is a strong argument against forcing our hands in this way and against insisting on statutory provisions to take the place of the undertaking already given by the Government of India. I don't think this is the time when we can impose limits on the discretion of the Government of India in their control of the Corporation in loan matters. It seems to me that it is absolutely necessary that everything should be done to support the credit of the Corporation, to encourage investment and to avoid the introduction of qualifications or alterations which are likely to induce any doubts in the minds of timid capitalists. For this reason I think it would be unwise at the present moment to restrict the power and discretion of the Government of India by insisting on a statutory limitation or statutory qualification of their discretion in the matter of the terms of a loan."

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRA NATH BANARJI said :—

"UNDER the terms of the amendment moved by the Raja I don't think it is proposed in any way to limit the discretion of the Government of India by any statutory provision. As I read the resolution it seeks to give effect to that declaration by making the period of repayment coincident with the life of the work. I think that is all the Raja wants to do. There has been some difficulty raised with regard to the life of the work. My hon'ble friend, Mr. Mukharjee, has observed that in the loans, which the Corporation is in the habit of contracting or which it contracts from time to time, very many little things are brought in and it would be very difficult to estimate the life of the work, having regard to the manner in which these loans are contracted. I should think there ought to be no difficulty. It ought to be possible to eliminate these little things and to estimate the life of the work. In other countries—in European countries there is no difficulty. In Bombay and Madras they find no difficulty; why should we have any here? I think this is a matter of administration which can be easily controlled. That is one of the points which have been raised by my learned friend.

Then, another point that has been suggested is that we have not the same controlling agency as they have in England in the shape of a Local Government Board. The Local Government Board exercises great powers of superintendence and control which the Government here does not. It would be easy enough to establish a Local Government Board and if the financial difficulty stood in the way of the creation of a Local Government Board it would be easy enough to arm Government with such powers of control in respect of these loans. I think these two objections should not stand in the way in determining the repayment of loans by reference to the life of the work. The principle has been laid down by the Government of India, my friend says, in the statutory provisions. We appreciate that. I say in view of the dictum of the Government of India and of the answer given by His Excellency the Viceroy in reply to the deputation that the life of a work is a determining factor in the repayment of loans—I do not think the Government can go back on that declaration—I am sure it will not go back. I hope and trust this Council will not allow the Government to go back upon that declaration. We have that statement definitely made by the highest authority and I think we are entitled to ask the Local Government to give effect to it, if not as a matter of statute, at least as a mandate and a direction."

"I FEEL some difficulty in this matter, having already had some mathematical training when I was a young man. This resolution moved by the Raja and some others that follow make the assumption that the life of a work can be calculated not approximately but with exact precision; because I find in some of these resolutions—at any rate in the resolution which is before us—the expression "life of the work." That presupposes the possibility of determining with mathematical precision the life of a work. It is not a question of approximate calculation within certain limits. I should therefore be obliged if Mr. Lyon or Mr. Stephenson would enlighten us whether, as a matter of fact, from a purely theoretical point of view, they could enlighten us, whether, given the elements which constitute the work, the life can in each case be determined with exact precision; because, if it cannot be, this resolution aims at something which is impossible. For instance, this particular motion before us says, "when a loan is raised for a work, the life of which exceeds 30 years but does not exceed 60 years, the period of repayment shall be equal to the life of the work." That contemplates as an exact possibility, the determination of the life of a work—not an approximate calculation but a precise one. If, therefore, we are informed (because this is a vital point, of the opinion of experts from the theoretical point of view that the life of a work can be calculated, then, there is, from the point of view of principle, no objection to accepting the amendment. On the other hand, if the life can only be determined approximately within certain limits or within a range, then the very wording of the resolution would be unacceptable. This is the difficulty which I feel and I have no doubt that either Mr. Lyon or Mr. Stephenson will be in a position to give us the necessary information."

The Hon'ble DR. DEBA PRASAD SARBADHIKARI said :—

"It is not an exact accurate mathematical datum on which to proceed to an approximate limit which has always been adopted for business purposes.

If, for example, by calculations, with which my friend seems to be less familiar than even non-mathematical men, actuaries find that the life of a work is fifty years, they make a reasonable and sometimes a more than reasonable deduction and fix it at forty years. That is the idea underlying the question of equality of this life of a work—call it equal, equated or equivalent. We are fully protected for the time being in that the judge of such life is the very Government which will have to sanction the loan. We are not starting afresh to-night upon an experiment of an unknown kind in determining the age of these loans, as if the art of the ultra accurate calculations that has frightened my mathematical friend had to be taken entirely into consideration. If you could afford it, the Hon'ble Mr. Shorroek's plan would be the best, "Pay cash for whatever you can." That would suit the trades' and the merchants' ideal. On the other hand, loans payable when able would be excellent from the borrower's point of view. Like the Jew of old, the pound of flesh must not however be extracted at the moment if practical reality be considered and a via media between these extremes ought to be the real ideal. The Government has the sole controlling voice in the matter. They have accepted certain principles with regard to which statutory signposts will be useful; so that in Secretariats there will be no likelihood of mistake. For even Homer sometimes nods and if, now and again, the High Court's aid is invoked to rouse and keep straight a nodding Homer, I hope the Hon'ble Mr. Lyon will have no lasting grievance with regard to that. Having these prominent statutory signposts before them, the chances of nodding will be less. That is all that this amendment aims at. I do not know, sir, after the Government's declaration, why there should be any objection to emphasise the matter and to make it as clear as possible. We are not trying to usurp the right for the Corporation, as the Government will have to sanction the loans.

The Hon'ble Mr. Surendra Nath Banerji referred to the division of opinion in the expert's camp, so far as non-official members are concerned; but we notice the same division in the official camp.

The Hon'ble Mr. Mukharji's opinion has great weight. He was Secretary to the Corporation for a long time and he worked very satisfactorily. But, what about the Chairman, the Hon'ble Mr. Payne, who is here and has most unmistakably said that it would be a great mistake to go back upon what was arrived at at the instance of the late Krista Das Pal whose battle is now being fought by his worthy son (Rai R. C. Pal Bahadur)? We had expert official opinion with regard to that. Official opinion of a different kind is propounded by the Hon'ble Mr. Mukharji. Mr. Banerji's difficulty in regard to non-official division of opinion extends to officials as well. Therefore I do not think that we shall be losing much if we accept this amendment. After the lurid way in which the image of these fast-decaying scientific works has been painted to-night, we should not be able to embark on any undertaking at all, because in five years—nay—less, certain works may be obsolete. We have to take chances and we have to take risks. Those who know the situation in Europe and America better are taking the lead and we are following them. As the Hon'ble Mr. Chakravarti has pointed out, I do not think that posterity will have anything to complain of with regard to the rigour and severity towards the prodigal son. Of course we have all to look after posterity. We are trying to do it in the best way open to us. The constantly-flung "fur coat" theory must not stand in the way of our doing our duty and the whole duty to ourselves and posterity."

The Hon'ble Mr. PAYNE said :—

"SIR, I think that the Hon'ble Dr. Sarbadhikari has singularly failed to meet the Hon'ble Babu Mahendra Nath Ray's contention with regard to the period of the loan and the life of the work. He has strayed away from the terms of this actual amendment as, I think, many members have done in their speeches, and he has said that, if we cannot fix the exact life of the work, we can fix the approximate life. Of course you cannot fix an approximate period of a loan; you must fix an exact period, and what he says is—Supposing that the life of the work is 50 years, we might take a loan for 40 years.

Having said that, will he kindly read the words of the amendment and see whether they are consistent with what he has said? The amendment reads as follows: "When a loan is raised for a work the life of which exceeds 30 years but does not exceed 60 years, the period of repayment shall equal the life of the work." What he is suggesting is something entirely different from the amendment which he is supporting.

It has been said, sir, that this amendment is based upon English practice. That is entirely incorrect. It is not based on English practice of any kind, either the actual practice of the Local Government Board or the practice embodied in any Act. The most that has ever been embodied in any Act is that which has been embodied in the Public Health Act, which says that due regard shall be had to the life of the work. This amendment goes very much further than that and says that the period of the loan must be equal to the life of the work.

I have a book here—it is a recent book of 1912 which has been quoted by many members—in which this very question is dealt with. The author makes it perfectly clear that the life of the work is not the sole consideration upon which the period of the loan should be fixed. He says that the repayment of a loan must be spread over an extended period depending upon (1) the probable life of the asset upon which the money is expended, (2) the liability of the future generations to provide further works of public utility which may then be required, and (3) the judgment of those immediately responsible for the adequacy of the present outlay."

The Hon'ble Mr. APCAR said :—

"Is the Hon'ble Member referring to Mr. Turner's book?"

The Hon'ble Mr. PAYNE said :—

"Yes. It appears clearly from this that the life of the work is only one consideration and is not and cannot be the sole consideration. Again, further on, in summing up the whole question, Mr. Turner writes :—

'Consequently, the modern Parliamentary practice is right, namely, to require the repayment of the loan to be spread over a period well within the life of the asset created out of the loan.'

This is entirely different from any statement that the period of the loan must be equal to the life of the work. I will also point out one other objection to this amendment. The last part of clause (a) of this amendment reads :—

'When such loan is raised for a work, the life of which exceeds 60 years, the period of repayment shall in no case be less than 60 years.'

We have already carried an amendment fixing the maximum period at 60 years, and to accept the amendment now proposed fixing 60 years as the minimum in certain cases seems to me to be clearly absurd."

The Hon'ble Dr. DEBA PRASAD SARBADHIKARI said :—

SIR, may I say a few words by way of personal explanation? To quote the Hon'ble Mr. Payne's own words, he has singularly failed to understand what I wanted to convey to the Council. The words in the amendment "equal to the life" are used in the sense of "approximation."

The Hon'ble the VICE-PRESIDENT said :—

That is a matter of debate and not of personal explanation.
The motion was then put and lost.

The following Motions were, by leave of the President, withdrawn :—

List of Amendments.—Motion No. 6.—The Hon'ble Raja Hrishikesh Laha to move that the word "or" be inserted at the end of sub-clause (c) of clause 128 (I), and that the following sub-clause be added, namely :—

"(d) to repay the balance of any short-term loan referred to in clause (b) of sub-section (1a)."

List of Amendments.—Motion No. 6A.—The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur to move that, after the second proviso to clause 128 (I), the following be inserted, namely :—

"Provided further that—

(i) the period of repayment of any loan shall be equal to the life of the work for the construction of which the loan is raised, and

(ii) the said period shall be deemed to be the prescribed period of such loan under this Act."

List of Amendments.—Motion No. 7.—The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur to move that, after the second proviso to clause 128 (I), the following be inserted, namely :—

"Provided further that the period for the repayment of every loan taken for the construction of works shall be equated to the average life of such works, and that the period so equated shall be deemed to be the prescribed period for the repayment of such loan."

List of Amendments.—Motion No. 8.—The Hon'ble Mr. Apcar to move that the following proviso be added to clause 128 (I), namely :—

"Provided further that the period for the repayment of every loan taken for the construction of works shall be equated to the average life of such works, and that the period so equated shall be deemed to be the period prescribed for the repayment of such loan."

(2) the period so determined shall be deemed to be the prescribed period of a loan.”

List of Amendments.—Motion No. 9A.—The Hon'ble Mr. Apcar to move that the following proviso be added to clause 128 (1), namely :—

(2) the period so determined shall be deemed to be the prescribed period of a loan.”

The following Motions were, by leave of the President, withdrawn :—

List of Amendments.—Motion No. 9B.—The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur to move that the following proviso be added to clause 128 (1), namely :—

“ Provided that the period fixed for repayment of a loan shall in no case be less than 30 years or exceed 60 years.”

List of Amendments.—Motion No. 10.—The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur to move that the word “forty-seven” be substituted for the word “thirty” in line 5 of the second proviso to clause 128 (1).

List of Amendments.—Motion No. 11.—The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur moved that the word “exclusively” in line 5 of clause 128 (2) (ii) be omitted.

He said :—Sir, it is provided in clause 128 (2) (ii) that no portion of the borrowed money shall be applied to the payment of salaries of any municipal officers and servants other than those who are exclusively employed upon the works for the construction of which the money is borrowed. This is an altogether new provision which does not exist in the present Municipal Act. It is an unnecessary provision, for it is in the power of Government under the law to allow or not to allow any portion of salaries of officers not exclusively employed in loan works to be charged to loan funds. No difficulty has been experienced in the absence of any similar provisions. The insertion of this clause might lead to difficulty in future. As an illustration I will cite a concrete case. Suppose our Chief Engineer Mr. McCabe goes on leave, and Mr. Ball-Hill, the Executive Engineer in charge of Suburban and Fringe Area Drainage Works, officiates for him, in addition to his own duties, which has not unoften happened. His regular salary is paid from the loan fund, and the additional remuneration he gets for so officiating is met from the revenue funds. Now, if this clause in the Bill becomes law, he will not be deemed to be exclusively employed in loan works. Is then his entire salary to be paid from revenue ?

Then, again, I fail to understand, when, for a temporary period, an officer employed partly on loan works and partly on revenue works is to be paid his remuneration partly from the loan fund and partly from the revenue fund, why a different principle is to be followed in the case of permanent officers like the Chief Engineer or the Assistant Engineer, Waterworks, and other officers who have ordinarily to attend to and look after both revenue and loan works during the term of their service, and why the salaries of such officers should not be apportioned to the revenue and loan funds. The proportion may vary according to the amount of the revenue and the loan works. In the Corporation there are very few officers who are exclusively employed in loan works alone. Practically the entire Engineering establishment is not only employed in revenue works but also in loan works. The higher officers of the Engineering Department who are paid from the revenue fund are all employed in the preparation and execution of the schemes carried out of loan funds. Their salaries have been fixed in view of the loan of works which, on an average, amounts to nearly 30 lakhs per annum. If separate establishment had been maintained for the preparation and execution of works carried out of loan fund, surely a very large sum would have to be spent out of that fund. Officers on higher salaries have been appointed for revenue works alone, but especially in view of the extensive and important works carried out of the loan fund. Mr. McCabe, the Chief Engineer, gets a salary of Rs. 2,500 and the proceedings of the Corporation will show that the salary of the Chief Engineer was raised from Rs. 1,800 to Rs. 2,500 in order to obtain a superior man to prepare and supervise the execution of important schemes, the cost of which is met from the loan funds. More than half the time of Mr. McCabe is taken up in loan works. We all know how much time and labour not only our Chief Engineer but our Water Engineer and the Superintendent, Waterworks, had devoted to the overhead reservoir, the laying of steel mains, the installation of pumping machinery, etc. Similarly, extensive municipal buildings costing several lakhs, markets, gowkhanas and other works were all constructed under the supervision of our officers paid from revenue. I ask in justice and fairness that some portion of the remuneration of those officers should be paid out of loan funds.

My Lord, we are fighting for the principle that the present generation should not be solely burdened with the charges which should in fairness be shared by posterity for the benefit they will reap. No work can be set up without a staff. But the works which will benefit posterity as well will be executed by the staff paid for by the present generation of ratepayers alone. Why should we rob Peter to pay Paul? Is it not therefore meet that both the present and the future generation should bear an equitable share of the cost? I hold in my hand a rough approximate expenditure from revenue and loan funds during the last three years. These figures work out on an average Rs. 32,79,000 spent out of the revenue fund and Rs. 27,21,000 spent out of loan funds on works for the improvement of the town. The Engineering establishment on these works costs about Rs. 2,70,000. I repeat—Is it not reasonable to pray that certain percentage of this establishment should be debited to loan funds? The Port Commissioners debit a certain percentage of the cost of the Engineering establishment to the loan fund.

My Lord, I do not urge for any fixed percentage, large or small. It would be for the Government to decide every year after perusal of the statement of revenue and loan works. My Lord, I am not only of this opinion. The Government auditors suggested that the oncost should be charged at a fixed percentage on the actual cost of capital works done. Mr. Gauntlett, who was then a member of the Corporation and a financial expert, was consulted and he suggested that the proportion of supervision of revenue works to that of capital works should be 3 to 1. The Government of Bengal, in their letter, dated the 19th February, 1910, ordered that no portion of the cost of general establishment other than that of the Engineering staff was to be charged to loan funds, while in the latter case a more exact basis of calculation should be adopted. It will be thus seen that it was the opinion of the Accountant-General, Bengal, and the auditors and even of Government of the day that at all events some portion of the cost of the Engineering establishment might be charged to capital. My motion therefore is quite in consonance with the opinions and directions I have quoted."

The Hon'ble Mr. STEPHENSON said :—

"SIR, in opposing this motion, I think, it is only necessary to trace the history of this question. The oncosting for the establishment of the Corporation works appears to date from the year 1893-94. In 1898-99, a lump sum of Rs. 12,000 was debited to loan funds on account of the general supervision charges of the Corporation. This gradually rose in 1899-1900 to Rs. 30,000 and this figure remained for five years. In 1904-05, somebody found that a percentage was possibly more advantageous, so they started to calculate a percentage on the cost of the general supervision and the maintenance of municipal offices and of the collection of rates. The total sum so charged to capital in 1908 was Rs. 1,22,321. At that point the Local Government intervened and we consulted the Auditing authorities, and we wrote to Bombay and Madras as to the practice in those places. Madras said that it debited no portion of the charges for supervision, etc., to capital account. Bombay said that they would look with grave suspicion on any suggestion for on costing any portion of these charges to capital account, both as being extravagant and leaving the way open to grave abuses. Government then consulted the Comptroller-General who said that from the account point of view solely there was a case for oncosting a portion of the supervising Engineering charges. The Port Commissioners also debit capital works with an establishment charge of 2 per cent.

The Government wrote to the Corporation and said : "In future you shall be allowed to charge to capital nothing but a portion of your supervising Engineering charges, and we would ask you to go carefully into the question and see what that portion properly debitable to capital, from an account point of view, is." The Corporation then sent in their loans statement for 1910. They said that they had calculated that a reduction in their permanent establishment to the amount of Rs. 36,000 might be effected if they had no further loan works ; instead, however, of charging that Rs. 36,000 to capital they proceeded to reduce it to a percentage on the average amount of loans borrowed, with which it had no possible connection, and in the result on the basis of this percentage, they proposed in the next year to debit to capital altogether a sum of Rs. 1,09,000 as the share due from capital works for the cost of supervising Engineering charges for that year. The total supervising Engineering charges for that year were Rs. 1,06,000 or Rs. 3,000 less than the share they proposed to charge to capital, which was a reductio ad absurdum. That made it absolutely incumbent on Government to write to the Corporation and say that in future the Bombay practice, the Madras practice and the practice, as approved by the Comptroller-General, shall be followed, and no debit whatever shall be made to capital except for the actual establishment solely employed on capital works. I do not think the Council will follow the Hon'ble Member in his wish to reopen this question."

The Hon'ble RAI RADHA CHARAN PAL BAHADUR said :—

"MAY I, with your permission, sir, say a few words? It has been stated, so far as I have been able to follow the Hon'ble Member, that the Corporation has charged something like Rs. 1,09,000, a very extravagant sum, to capital, on account of the salaries of officers who perform the dual function of supervising both loan and revenue works. I am not proposing to lay down any definite principle or sum. It should be entirely in the hands of Government, as at present, to allow or not to allow any cost to be charged to capital.

The provision inserted in the Bill which I oppose is not in the present Act ; but has there been any difficulty in the exercise of the power of Government? Quite recently the Government had disallowed the payment of any portion of the salaries of municipal officers employed both in revenue and loan works from loan funds and the Corporation had to submit to it. The revenue fund is paying the entire salaries of such officers.

If you lay down by a statutory enactment that no portion of the salary of any officer not 'exclusively' employed on loan works will be permitted to be paid out of loan funds, difficulties will arise. Take for instance Mr. Ball-Hill's case. He is the Executive Engineer in charge of Suburban Drainage Works. His salary is paid out of loan funds. When he is appointed to officiate as Chief Engineer, in addition to his ordinary duties, as is often the case, his additional salary is paid out of revenue funds. If the proviso, that no portion of the salaries of officers not 'exclusively' employed on loan works would be charged to capital is passed, then Mr. Ball-Hill will not be deemed as an officer 'exclusively' employed on loan works for the period he would be acting as Chief Engineer and it may be contended that his whole salary should be paid out of the revenue fund.

Such difficulties might arise, and therefore I respectfully submit that the word 'exclusively' might be omitted from the Bill."

The motion was then put and lost.

List of Amendments—Motion No. 12.—The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur moved that the following proviso be added at the end of clause 128 (2) (ii), namely :—

"Provided that, with the previous sanction of the Local Government, the Corporation may charge a percentage against any sum so borrowed on account of the employment of officers or servants who are not exclusively employed upon the works for the construction of which the money was borrowed."

He said :—

"THE same arguments apply, sir, and I need not weary this House with any further observations."

The Hon'ble Mr. STEPHENSON said :—

"THE same arguments apply in reply, and I need not trouble the Council."

The motion was then put and lost.

List of Amendments—Motion No. 12A.—The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur moved that clause 128 (2) (ii) be omitted.

He said :—

"SIR, with your permission, I shall move the next amendment. Of course it is put at the far end of the meeting, when everyone is anxious to go away, and nobody is rising to support me. I move that clause 128 (2) (ii) be omitted. It will place us and the Government in exactly the same position as they are now. It will be entirely in the hands of Government to sanction the loan, subject to such terms and conditions as the Government please. I venture to suggest that this motion will not in the least affect the power of Government to disallow any item they choose from the loan statement and therefore I formally move it."

The Hon'ble Mr. STEPHENSON said :—

"WITH regard to that argument, which is a new one, I beg to point out that the charge to the loan fund is incurred after the loan is taken. Government can only interfere before the loan is taken. When you have taken the loan, if you have the power to charge to capital, Government cannot stop you from so charging, and therefore it is necessary to insert this clause."

The motion was then put and lost.

CALCUTTA MUNICIPAL (LOANS) BILL, 1914.

(On the resumption of the debate, the discussion of Motions Nos. 8A to 9A, which had been postponed from yesterday's meeting, was proceeded with. His Excellency the President called upon the Hon'ble Mr. Aparcar to move Motion No. 8A, on the List of Amendments.)

Clause 128.

List of Amendments.—Motion No. 8A.—The Hon'ble Mr. Apear moved that the following proviso be added to clause 128 (I), namely :—

“Provided also that, in determining the amount of any loan sought to be raised under this Act, the Local Government or the Government of India, as the case may be, shall have regard to the provisions of section 130 and to the present and future resources and requirements of the Corporation.”

He said :—

“The discussion of yesterday on the amendment of my hon'ble friend, Raja Hrishikesh Laha, has served a useful purpose. It has elicited a very clear exposition by my hon'ble and learned friend to my right (the Hon'ble Mr. Chakravarti) on the question of the period of loans being prescribed in accordance with the life of the asset. I have also given Hon'ble Members, who support the Government, an opportunity to express their views with regard to the apprehension they feel regarding the difficulties and dangers of that rule being pressed. My Lord, I am sorry I don't see my hon'ble and learned friend (Hon'ble Babu Mahendra Nath Ray) here who referred to the life being required to be accurately adjusted, but there is no intention at all in these questions in fixing the life with the precision he supposes. It is not wanted that the life should be fixed for, say, 25 years and so many months and so many days and so many hours. If the Bill itself is read or rather the amendment (3 A), which I moved and which was accepted (clause 3), it will be seen that ‘the period within which a loan is to be repaid shall in no case exceed 60 years.’ I lay particular stress on the word ‘within’. That would apply to any period within that period. There are other considerations, no doubt, which will have influence and which I do not dispute on my part. Again, there is the view expressed, on which the Hon'ble the Chairman of the Corporation placed so much reliance both here and before a meeting of the Corporation, in Mr. Turner's book for the Repayment of Local or other Loans, and with which I quite agree. But there is no necessity to have what is there stated incorporated in the Act. Stress was laid on the circumstance that it was a new book. But I go back even ten years beyond the date of Mr. Turner's book and I also rely on the procedure that has been in force for, I dare say, perhaps 40 years. Mr. Turner does not ventilate new ideas at all. I have no doubt the Hon'ble Chairman of the Corporation has read the proceedings of the Select Committee on the Repayment of Loans in 1902, and there we find a highly-placed official of the Local Government Board, giving a statement on this very particular question. He says there—I am giving questions and answers—with regard to the considerations given by the Local Government Board in prescribing the period for loans :—

“Q. With regard to the repayment of loan, I take it you have no regard to the meritorious character of the work ?

A. No.

Q. You have simply regard to its prospective permanency of benefit, if I may use that expression ?

A. Yes.

Q. You would endeavour, as far as possible, to make it certain that the amount borrowed will be entirely paid off before the work is obsolete or before it is in danger of being superseded ?

A. Yes.

Q.—And that is the guiding principle upon which you settle the period of the loan ?

A.—Yes.

Q.—That is the guiding principle and the chief one ?

A.—And the chief one.”

The Hon'ble Mr. STEPHENSON said :—

"May I ask what amendment is being moved? The Hon'ble Member has not told the Council exactly what amendment he is moving."

The Hon'ble Mr. APCAR said :—

"I have been called upon by your Lordship to move motion 8(A) on the List of Amendments and I am moving that amendment in the agenda."

"Only 8(A)?"

The Hon'ble Mr. APCAR said :—

"I think, my Lord, it would be convenient if I take motions 8(A) and 8(B) together."

The PRESIDENT said :—

"That can only be done with my leave."

The Hon'ble Mr. APCAR said :—

"I ask for the leave."

The PRESIDENT said :—

"The Hon'ble Member must explain to me why he desires to take the two motions together."

The Hon'ble Mr. APCAR said :—

"I informed the Secretary verbally this morning that I would seek Your Excellency's leave to do this. I may explain that motion 8(A) really is meant as an invitation to Government to have express statutory authority to exercise their discretion in respect of certain circumstances in considering the amount of a loan to be sanctioned. I do not think it is really absolutely necessary to embody motion 8(A) in the law, because I think that the consideration of the advisability and expediency of a loan is involved in the control proposed to be given in my second amendment, and if the Government do not think it necessary, I shall drop motion 8(A). But, after hearing the expressions of opinion on the subject from certain Hon'ble Members of the Government, I thought I would give them full opportunity of obtaining express authority to have regard, among other matters, to the effect of impending expenditure of any exceptional and unexpected nature."

The PRESIDENT said :—

"In these circumstances, I am quite willing to allow you to move the two motions together."

The Hon'ble Mr. APCAR said :—

"Thank you, my Lord. I will read the next amendment, 8(B).

* It runs as follows :—

* That the following proviso be added to clause 128 (I), namely :—

'Provided also that, in determining the period when any loan so raised shall be repayable, the Government shall have regard to the probable duration and continuing utility of the works in respect of which the same is required.'

He said :—

"The 'probable duration and continuing utility'. These are the words on which I lay considerable stress. It will be seen that the question which has been raised by the Hon'ble the Chairman of the Corporation of the necessity of a special provision being required, to the effect that in prescribing the period of a loan for a work the 'chief consideration' shall be the durability of the work, or that the durability of a work shall not be the sole consideration, really has no place. There is nothing more required than that found in the English Public Health Act of 1875. That statute was passed after the particular principle, as I may call it, prescribing the period of a loan according to the life of the asset had been established for some time previously, and since 1875 the Local Government Board have apparently been acting under the law in the manner that was stated before the Select Committee in the year 1902. That, again, we must take to be a settled practice. I do not know why it is that Hon'ble Members representing the Government seem to think that they have an entire monopoly in the desire to be fair. It certainly is my desire and anxiety that there should be no unfairness to either present ratepayers or their successors? It is my consistent policy to ask that the prescribed period of the loans should be according to the life of the asset, because, as the Hon'ble Mr. Chakravarti has explained, it is only fair and just that those who enjoy the benefit of a work should contribute towards it and those who do not enjoy it should not be required to pay for it.

Then, there have been remarks made with regard to the Incinerator which had stopped working after a short period. I have had no wish to bring that matter into the discussion in Council. I have heard that particular matter referred to before in interviews, but it has not been brought up in Council and the Hon'ble Member (Hon'ble Rai P. N. Mukharji Bahadur) rushes in to quote that as an illustration; but I would like to ask this to be considered: With whom lies the responsibility of sanctioning that item of work for construction out of loan funds? There was strong opposition to its adoption, but the proposal was carried by a majority, with the support of the Chairman, and it was sanctioned by Government. The responsibility really lies with the Government. It points to the necessity of better supervision by the Government in sanctioning loans, of considering the continuing durability of a work, of prescribing a period having regard to the life of the asset, and in not indiscriminately fixing a period determined in anticipation by statute, whatever may be the work undertaken. And, after all, so far as that particular item is concerned, the land still remains; the building and the apparatus may be out of use, but the land is not in any way damaged and is useful for any other purpose. Then, the Hon'ble Member insists upon bringing up the pumping-stations that have been discarded to give place to a new system of water-supply. Are we never to venture on any new system! Passing by the circumstance that some of the pumps referred to in the instance have served their full time, and others are being utilised in the new system; if we undertake a new work, we should have regard for its probable durability and continuing utility in prescribing the period for repayment. If there is something else found to be better, are we to be prevented from having an improved system introduced? Is not there a profit and benefit from an improved system? Does the Hon'ble Member mean that we are never to abandon a worse system for a better one? If we take the Hon'ble Member's own instance, where is the continuing utility of his own argument when we know that the Incinerator was abandoned in five years? How far would his own illustration help him when, under the plan he supports, the period to be prescribed would be 30 years? So that, while I do not in any way say that the only consideration is the life of the work, to be fixed exactly to the hour and the minute. But I say that in prescribing the period it is essential that you should have regard to the probable duration and continuing utility of the work. I do not ask the Government of India or the Government of Bengal to go beyond what is the practice of the Expert Department in England and I have already explained what that is.

I am embarrassed by the battery of hour-glasses in front of me. I have got a heavy task before me and, under the special circumstances of having to explain a difficult and technical question with a time-limit, I feel embarrassed. I am fighting with my back to the wall, and to fight with one hand tied behind me is hard work and I ask your Lordship's consideration not to restrict me to the time-limit under the Rules. I am moving two motions, and if I were to move them separately I should be given more time."

The PRESIDENT said :—

"I understand the Hon'ble Member's point and I sympathise with him. I do not wish to prevent him from having more time, but I beg him not to take more time than is necessary."

The Hon'ble Mr. APCAR said :—

"If I am found to be speaking only for the purpose of saying something and not that I have something to say, I trust your Lordship will exercise your authority most ruthlessly. I find myself under special and peculiar circumstances, because the debate on this Bill is a difficult matter and I am much obliged to your Lordship for your consideration in having granted me the extra time.

Before I proceed further I should like to express my acknowledgments to the Hon'ble Members of your Lordship's Council through whose support, in the first instance, the adjournment of this matter was granted. It has enabled me to study the matter more closely. We in India, are not so familiar with the subject as those in England where they can obtain expert opinion which is of great value. I am very much interested, because I myself submitted the address that I ventured to make to the 'Trades Association on their invitation to certain experts in England and they all supported my contentions, and one of them, a very distinguished expert, says, 'As regards your address delivered to the Calcutta Association on the 9th May, 1913, when your colleagues in the Council thoroughly understand the principles on which sinking funds are fixed for the United Kingdom, they will unanimously support you in your attitude to obtain for Calcutta similar powers.' It is a pious wish and I hope it may be realised. I can only convey what I think and believe, with the concurrence and support of eminently-qualified expert opinion in Great Britain to be the true principles, to the Hon'ble Members.

I am constrained to refer to the letter of the 11th September, 1912. The Hon'ble Members will recall that the particular sentence in it which caused us so much anxiety ran as follows: 'In this connection I am to observe that, as loans for a longer term than 30 years are uneconomical and involve the aggregate repayment of very much larger sums than shorter loans, the normal term of 30 years will not be extended except on the strongest grounds.' Personally, I have never entered into the calculations that this declaration has evoked with the ardour that they have excited in others. My chief contention, and one which I have consistently pressed, has been that the period to be prescribed should be adjusted to the life of works and that the repayment of loans should be according to the most approved methods recommended by experts and such as have been adopted in England. I cannot pass over the assertion or rather reassertion in Council of the view which was expressed in the letter of the 11th September, and I would ask for an answer to a very simple question: Which course is to the advantage of the debtor: to repay a sum due at the commencement of a year, or to have the enjoyment of it through the whole year and to repay it at the end of the year? As I understand the question in connection with the calculations, that seems to me to be the test with regard to the calculations made. What we, however, have got to look to is, according to my theories and my views, the life of the work. I have heard with some little anxiety an opinion expressed by my hon'ble friend to the right (Hon'ble Mr. Shorrocks) as to the limit of time based on his own commercial ideas. I do not know exactly what my hon'ble friend means when he says that 30 years is sufficient for any work. So far as I am concerned, I consider myself now only in the position of a legislator, if I may assume such an exalted character. I am only concerned to see that there is a proper law enacted to be administered: as to the details of its administration I have nothing to do. That responsibility rests with those charged with that responsibility. Whether the loan is going to be 30 years, or 50 years or 60 years is no concern of mine. If the life of the asset is 15 years, then let the period of repayment be prescribed for that term. All I want is that your Lordship's Council should insert in this statute a very simple provision, and that regard be had to the probable duration (not the exact, precise duration) and the continuing utility. What I do protest against is that there should be any indication in anticipation as to what the period should be. I do submit that the onus with regard to this matter should not be thrown upon us. Every matter will come up for adjudication by those responsible. When they consider what period ought to be prescribed they will prescribe it. But it is a different thing to say before you approach the consideration of a question that the normal period shall be anything, or that, there shall be any variable or invariable practice. That is the only and sole ground upon which I take exception to what has been urged. It is not as if I were speaking on my own authority. I am only a plagiarist before the Council and the contentions I urge are not ideas of my own. I am simply setting forth the recognised principles and practice, and it seems to me that the merits, precedent, practice and experience are all on the side of the particular four issues that I am so anxious should be adopted. I am glad, as I have said, that Mr. Turner is quoted as an authority, because I have his views in the first place on this particular question of a fixed period being prescribed for the repayment of a loan. I will not go through all he has stated—though I am tempted to—but let me put his words before the Council: He says: 'the grant of a period of 30 years for all loans, irrespective of the life of works is far from sound. There is an injustice to the present in repaying a loan for waterworks in 30 years for which 50 or 60 years might be reasonably allowed. There is an injustice to the future in allowing 30 years for the repayment of a loan for an asset which will certainly require renewal in 15 years.' He continues ('I will not read the whole. I shall have present in my mind the consideration shown to me by the latitude your Lordship has shown me): 'In fixing the annual contributions at 1 or 2 per cent., the Indian Government appear to be acting upon a basis which has been abandoned in England for many years in favour of the more scientific method of basing the period during which the loan shall be repaid upon the productive life of the asset.' And, he further says, 'Coming now to the immediate problem before your Corporation, if the life of the asset is actually 30 or 47 years and the sinking fund accumulates in a normal manner, the loan will be repaid when the asset is worn out. If the life of the asset is actually 30 years and a period of 47 years is granted for the repayment of the loan, the final 17 years of the repayment period will bear a burden in respect of an asset from which they cannot possibly derive any benefit and in addition have to contribute towards the cost of a new asset to replace the one worn out. If the life of the asset is actually 47 years and a repayment period of 30 years is granted for the repayment of the loan, the asset will be written off 17 years before it is worn out and the final period of 17 years will be in enjoyment of an asset towards which they will not have contributed any part of the cost. If I am correct in assuming that this is the present practice of the Indian Government, I can only say that it is absolutely opposed to the practice in England.' He goes further and says, 'you will have gathered from my previous remarks that the paramount factor is the life of the asset and that a uniform period should not be granted for the final repayment of the debentures unless it is the same as the life of the asset.' I give that writer's own language which he has communicated directly to me. He tells us that all those qualifications mentioned from time to time, as to the chief consideration and not the sole consideration in the life of the asset, are really implied in the words of the statute under which they grant their loans in Great Britain.

I will now refer to the letter of the Government and it is very important indeed—of course it must be—having regard to the conditions under which sanction is obtained for these loans by the Calcutta Corporation. In paragraph 2, page 2, it is distinctly enough stated, and I am glad to see it, that due regard will be had to the duration of a work, so that, the principle for which we so anxiously contend is admitted, that regard will be given to the life of the work. I accept absolutely the sincerity with which this is put forward and the intention to carry it out, but where my difficulty comes is in the other portions of this particular document. In that same paragraph it says, 'as regards the question of period to be fixed for the currency of Corporation loans, I am to say that the Government of India do not desire that the currency of such loan shall in practice be invariably restricted to 30 years.' So that it may be construed that it is decided that ordinarily it must be 30 years. If the life of the asset is 15 years, I protest against the prescribed period being made 30 years. I protest against a contribution at the rate of 2 per cent. when, if the life of a work is 15 years, it would be over 5 per cent. It is not that I am an advocate for long-period loans or short-period loans, but I am anxious that there should be a proper system. However excellent the intention, there seems to be much uncertainty of expression, and therefore I pray that the Hon'ble Member in charge will consider whether it is not wiser to accede to our humble request that we should only have what is stated to be the proper principle on which such matters are conducted, and on which the Local Government Board have proceeded for 40 years. This danger is emphasized when we go further. We are told 'the Government of India also desire it to be understood that the normal presumption will be that a period not exceeding 30 years is a sufficient term.' Why have any presumption? Why not give fair consideration without any onus on the Corporation? If you jump to a conclusion and say in anticipation that we are going to have 30 years prescribed, that, as Mr. Turner has shown, is unfair and I myself will more particularly show that, if your Lordship will permit me, it is not just that that should be done. I find a little sentence regarding the durability of a work, overweighted by pronouncements immediately preceding and following it, and I feel genuine anxiety that it will be overlooked. Therefore it is that I ask that there should be greater care exercised and in order to secure the intention expressed in the letter of the 1st of January, 1914, we should have a clear provision in the Bill, in the words of the English Public Health Act of 1875, and which I have incorporated in my Amendment 8 B, whatever may happen to my amendment 8A.

Then, my Lord, there is a difficulty raised by commercial members with regard to this question. They are rather inclined to judge of our municipal affairs according to commercial methods. Well, that is a point which I cannot deal with in the same admirable manner as has been done by Mr. Turner, and if any one has done me the honour to read the pamphlet which I have circulated, the difference which he draws between commercial and municipal enterprises will be seen in it.

I have set out Mr. Turner's letter in extenso. It will be found at pages 66 and 67 of my pamphlet. He says in paragraphs 2 and 3 of his letter :—

'In my letter of the 13th instant, I draw attention to the fact that it is not always correct for a local authority to set aside one or two per cent. as a Sinking Fund, unless the percentage bears a relation to the life of the asset. In my paper reported in the Accountant of the 27th April, 1912, I mention that it was a common practice for commercial undertakings to do this. It may appear not quite correct to condemn a local authority for doing what a private concern may do. May I briefly state what I mean? A local authority has not any capital except the power to levy a rate or assessment to provide works of public utility. A private concern may provide its capital in many ways, either by the issue of share or loan capital, and it may within very wide limits vary the nature of its capital. In such case the writing off of wasted assets is effected by charging the profit and loss account with the proper amount of depreciation, which is quite distinct from the repayment of the loan.'

My Lord, I dare not go further and explain more in detail what all this means, because it would occupy time. I am now really directing my words to Hon'ble Members who can understand for themselves without my entering into any further explanation.

Later, Mr. Turner says : ' The setting aside of a Sinking Fund by a local authority is the provision of communal capital to be represented, as far as possible, by actual assets, and this can only be carried out by making the term of the loan and the life of the asset coterminous. This cannot be done by fixing an arbitrary period of whatever length. The question of the relation between the Sinking Fund and depreciation is a difficult one. I have made a lengthy investigation into the question and the general conclusion to which I have arrived is, that where the life of the asset bears a relation to the period of the loan, and there is not any residual value, the two funds are equivalent over the whole period, although not so during each year. On the other hand, where there is a residual value, the Sinking Fund is more than the equivalent of the depreciation fund, by the amount of the residual value, because the whole of the outlay will have been written off out of the revenues or rates of the authority. ' Permit me to say now,' Mr. Turner proceeds, ' in conclusion, I hope that what I have written to you will be of use, and that you will be successful in inducing the Government to adopt your views. I think that they are sound financial practice.'

I beg Hon'ble Members who have no experience in municipal administration not to hastily adopt commercial methods, because they are distinct. I have reason to say that there is a tendency in certain quarters to rely on the practice of private mercantile and other trading concerns to deal with the loans of municipal corporations, which, in distinction from the former, are not profit-earning institutions. The loans of the latter are met out of the rates which must be paid by thousands of citizens, who can only look to the utility of the work undertaken at their expense, as a return on the money which they are under statutory obligation to contribute. Municipal Corporations have no capital except their borrowing capacity, which depends on the rates and taxes.

I propose to examine (A) the system provided by law for the Calcutta Corporation of a fixed proportionate contribution to be made periodically ; (B) that of equated loans and (C) which I may describe as the present perfected form of contributions now adopted in England for repayment according to the life of each item of work included in the total aggregate amount of a single loan raised for the construction of several works.

For illustration, I will take a loan of Rs. 3,00,000, for three items of work, each of the value of Rs. 1,00,000 and of the life of (1) 15 years, (2) 30 years and (3) 60 years, respectively, and I will compare the relative merits of these three systems.

A. The system of a stated annual contribution, fixed by an Act, in anticipation, to apply to all loans to be raised under the authority of that statute when the contribution is 1 per cent. and the rate of growth at 3 per cent. compound interest as at present in Calcutta.

- (1) For the item with a life of 15 years, the annual contribution on account of it must be continued for the full period of 47 years, that is to say, for a period of 32 years after the work had worn out : consequently, ratepayers, for 32 years, after the first 15 years, who are deriving no benefit from a work, are compelled to contribute to its cost ;
- (2) for the item with a life of 30 years, in the same way, for a period of 17 years after the work had ceased to exist, ratepayers are compelled to contribute towards its cost without deriving any benefit from the work ;
- (3) for the item with a life of 60 years, ratepayers will have paid the whole cost in 47 years and thereafter, for a period of 13 years, its benefits would be enjoyed by those who would not be contributing at all towards its cost. Under (3), the hardship on those who have paid wholly for the cost, and the unfairness, in that the ratepayers of a later period are not called upon to contribute towards it, is obvious ; but the disadvantages will be even better appreciated when it is understood that the acquisition of land is an object for which hitherto the limit of 60 years arbitrarily has been fixed, and land, perhaps alone among all the undertakings of Municipal administration, can be regarded as of a 'permanent nature'.

B. Equated Loans.—Proceeding on the illustration I have adopted, of a loan of three lakhs for three items, each of the value of one lakh, and of the life of (1) 15 years, (2) 30 years and (3) 60 years, respectively, the average life is arrived at under recognized mathematical rules as follows :—

(1)	15 years	×	Rs. 1,00,000	=	15,00,000
(2)	30 "	×	" 1,00,000	=	30,00,000
(3)	60 "	×	" 1,00,000	=	60,00,000

1,05,00,000

1,05,00,000

= 35 years.

3,00,000

So the average life of the three items is taken to be 35 years, and that period would be prescribed for the repayment of the loan of three lakhs under this system.

Item (1)—is worn out in 15 years ; but the annual contribution on the aggregate amount of the loan must continue for 20 years beyond.

Item (2)—is worn out in 30 years ; but the annual contribution must continue for 5 years after it has ceased to exist.

Item (3).—The whole cost will have been paid, in full, in 35 years, and for a period of 25 years the ratepayers coming after will enjoy the benefit without contributing towards its cost.

It therefore is not surprising that system 'B' was also abandoned after trial. Mr. Dicksee in his work on Depreciation, Reserves and Reserve Funds comments on this system as follows :—

'It is understood that this practice of sanctioning loans over a period dependent upon the average life of a number of dissimilar assets has now been abandoned by the Local Government Board'.

I know that the Corporation themselves in the first instance accepted the equated period ; but, as we proceeded to enquire further into it, we found that that method has been abandoned, and I am now going to place before your Lordship's Council that which I think I may well call a perfected system, wherein the cost of each work is paid for according to its life.

C. This form has now been accepted with approval in England, and I venture to say that, when it is once brought to the notice of the Government and the Council in the form I seek to present it to them, it will recommend itself, on its merits, as the most fair system of repayment. Under this scheme contribution on account of each item of work is required to be made only for so long as its durability lasts, and ceases with its period of utility. The scheme is worked in the following manner, the rate of growth of the contribution to the Sinking Fund being calculated with compound interest at 3 per cent. for—

(1) with a life of 15 years, an annual contribution of 5·37 per cent. would be paid into the Sinking Fund for 15 years. At the end of that period no further contribution would be wanted, because, in that time, the full cost of the work, one lakh of rupees, will be held in the Sinking Fund on account of the work in question ; for—

(2) with a life of 30 years, an annual contribution of 2·1 per cent. would be paid into the Sinking Fund for 30 years ; and for—

(3) with a life of 60 years, an annual contribution of ·6 would be paid into the Sinking Fund for 60 years, and at the end of the respective periods of 30 years and 60 years, in the same way as in the case of (1), no further contribution would be wanted, because the Sinking Fund would, by that time, hold the full cost of the work on account of which the annual contributions had been paid. It will be seen that the ratepayers enjoying the benefit of each work will have paid for its cost, and no payment will be extorted on account of any work after its usefulness has ended, nor will any class of ratepayer get the use of any work, towards the cost of which he has not contributed.

It is in connection with the last-mentioned scheme of repayment that the importance of the distinction between the period of repayment of debentures and of loans is best realized. My Lord, the Select Committee on the application of Sinking Funds for repayment in the exercise of borrowing powers of municipal corporations have distinctly stated that the life of the debenture may be the same period as the loan, or longer or shorter. It is not necessary to be coterminous; but it must be clearly understood that the Sinking Fund cannot be confused with the life of a work, and the period of repayment of debentures does not depend on the life of a work, and debentures should not be confused with the life of a work. A debenture is a contract between the Corporation and the debenture-holders. With regard to the life of a work, that is altogether a distinct and separate principle, and they cannot and should not in any way be confused. It is well recognized, I repeat, in theory and practice, that debentures can be issued for the same period, or for a longer or shorter period than the prescribed period or periods for the discharge of the loan or loans. It will therefore be seen that no difference between the period for the repayment of a loan and the period for the repayment of debentures of that loan will affect the functions of the Sinking Fund.

As I have indicated, the loans required for the execution of the three items of work, although with different periods prescribed for repayment, can be borrowed under a single issue of debentures issued for any period fixed according to the condition of the money market. The Calcutta Corporation have been in advance of municipal corporations in Great Britain in having had the legal authority to invest the money from the Sinking Fund in their own debentures; and this is the form of investment which alone, under a resolution in that behalf, the Calcutta Corporation for some time past have adopted. This circumstance will facilitate, as will presently be seen, the adoption by them of the manner of repayment to which reference is now being made.

The investment of the accumulations by annual contributions and growth at 3 per cent. compound interest in the Sinking Fund on account of each loan will be completed and the whole of each of the several loans will be held in the Sinking Fund by the end of their respective periods; consequently, on the expiry of the period prescribed for a loan, no provision for it will be required out of the revenue of the Corporation. On this, which is the merit of the system, has been founded a question how, in such circumstances, can payment be continued of the interest as it accrues on the outstanding debentures? The answer is that the revenue fixed will no longer be charged with the payment of the interest, but the investment of the money paid into the Sinking Fund on account of the debentures of the issue, in respect of the loan in question, will be yielding 4 per cent., which sum will be transferred by the Sinking Fund to the holders among the public of the outstanding debentures of the issue in question. This system perhaps will require more careful organization, but to a slight degree only, than under a proportionate contribution fixed by statute which entails a common period for repayment for all works undertaken, of whatever durability—a rough method which has now been rightly abandoned with the advance of the science of municipal finance.

Now, my Lord, a Municipal Corporation ordinarily undertakes works of a recurring character from loan funds. It would be a simple matter for the Government, in communication with the Corporation, to fix the durability of each such work, and classify them in a schedule. Whenever an application might then be made for a loan, the period for repayment for each item could easily and expeditiously be fixed; there would be no practical difficulty in arriving without delay at the life of the work, and prescribing the period of repayment accordingly. So, my Lord, there is no difficulty to be experienced in fixing the life of each work. I have seen a regular schedule used in certain corporations in Great Britain in which certain works are set down as being of a certain length of time, and when application is made for a loan, you look down this schedule and you fix the period of repayment accordingly. If you think there is danger of any kind of a work becoming obsolete, you take that into account. It is the continuing utility of a work that is all that we have to look at, and I pray that that contention may be allowed.

My submission consistently has been that, whatever the life of a work, whether a short or a long life, the time for repayment must be fixed accordingly, within the limit of 60 years. I no more desire that 30 years should be fixed on account of a work of the durability of 15 years than that that period should be fixed on account of a work of the durability of 60 years. The illustration of the three items of work which I have presented is intended to show that the system, which now is approved, of contributions into the Sinking Fund for the discharge of loans, is adapted to meet varying degrees of durability of works, the aggregate cost of which is to be borrowed in one sum.

You borrow in one sum, but, so far as the cost of each is concerned, the ratepayers of 15 years pay for the cost of a work of 15 years' duration, and the ratepayers of 30 years pay for the cost of a work of 30 years, and so on. But it is not sufficient to employ a method of contribution which appears to be correct, nor will it be sufficient to fix a maximum period, however high, for the repayment of loans. It is essential to know and to adhere to the true principle on which the method of repayment is founded. We find that principle incorporated in the English Public Health Act of 1875, that it may stand as a direction and guide to the responsible authorities in considering the very important question at the time for the repayment of loans. I will give the terms of the clause in that behalf from the English Statute:—

'In determining the time when a loan shall be repayable, the Local Government Board shall have regard to the probable duration and continuing utility of the works for which the loan is required.'

If it has been considered advisable by Parliament to state the principle with precision in Statute law applicable to municipal corporations in Great Britain, where expert Departments of Government exercise control, it seems impossible to find valid reason for rejecting the principle, or its expression, in an Act to apply to our local Municipal Corporation. I have formulated amendments in this behalf by way of addition to clause 128 of the Bill. I have adapted section 234 of the English Public Health Act in a form to meet any possible objection that may be taken. I think that, in the control given to the Government, the consideration of the advisability and expediency of a loan is implied. I, however, have prefixed a proviso to make it clear that, when a loan has been actually sanctioned, the principle of the English Statute shall apply, but that the intention is not to limit the discretion of Government with regard to the borrowing capacity of the Corporation, nor, with regard to the amount of the loan, the effect of impending expenditure of any exceptional and unexpected character, such as may be caused, as for instance, by the silting-up of the Bidyadhari river, or in considering the comparative necessities of the Corporation for borrowing immediately or in the near future or any similar question.

My Lord, I am anxious that this principle of the life of an asset should be accepted, because unless that is accepted, what is regarded as the perfected system of contribution cannot be adopted. Now with regard to what I have called a perfected system. Is there anything to be said against this? If it is that it would be too much trouble to have this system of fixing the period of each loan, I would ask—Why is it that the trouble that may be entailed is to be regarded as so great? My Lord, I do not know whether this contention will be seriously urged by responsible members of your Lordship's Government. If your Lordship's Government are to be daunted by trouble in adopting proper and fair measures widely, is the idea to be applied and is it to be applied merely to the financial interests of this important Corporation? In regard to penal laws, can you, because you have not got at the moment some particular agency sufficient for coping with any kind of mischief for which legislation is required, hesitate to enlarge your agency? And so, here, I do not think, my Lord, that there should be any hesitation because of any idea of the trouble that may be caused by the adoption of a fair and just measure. But, in fact, there will be no such difficulty as is apprehended. The procedure is simply to fix the life of all works, and then you will proceed almost automatically. It is for the reasons I have submitted that I venture now to submit to your Lordship's Government my proposals, and I desire again to thank your Lordship for the consideration shown to me."

The Hon'ble Mr. STEPHENSON said :—

"It is with considerable surprise that I heard the Hon'ble Member characterise this amendment as being the most important in the whole programme, and it was with greater surprise that I heard him ask for an extension of time in order to move it. It certainly was my impression that the Council yesterday debated this question at considerable length, and finally decided that the continuing durability of the work was not the whole consideration to be taken into account."

The Hon'ble Mr. APCAR said :—

"I have not said that it is."

The Hon'ble Mr. STEPHENSON :—

"THE Hon'ble Member had an opportunity of speaking on that Motion, but he did not avail himself of it."

The Hon'ble Mr. APCAR—

"My Lord may I explain? I do not know that this is quite fair to me—I deliberately postponed speaking yesterday. The proposals that were made before were distinct in character. If your Lordship's Government were pleased to accept them, well and good. I need not then have moved my present amendments. But there were considerations and questions underlying my hon'ble friend's amendments which I, for my part, thought were open to criticism, and I therefore did not say anything. I have brought forward an amendment which is free from, and meets all, the objections that have been taken so far in relation to the proposal of my hon'ble friend, and to be twitted with not taking up your Lordship's time by supporting proposals I could not myself adopt was not expected."

The Hon'ble Mr. STEPHENSON :—

"The fact remains that the Council rejected an amendment which was to the effect that the durability of a work should be the sole consideration in fixing the period of a loan. The Hon'ble Member's speech consists very largely of setting up puppets for the pleasure of knocking them down. He has destroyed several puppets which we had not set up, and the remainder of the speech seems to me to consist of copious extracts, with marginal explanations, from his work on the Loans Bill. The Hon'ble Member has very kindly sent me a copy of that work, and I have studied it. I do not propose, however, to review it in Council, more especially as the Hon'ble Member, at the beginning of his speech, admitted that the continuing utility is not the sole consideration, and he went on to say that he only wishes that due regard should be had to the continuing utility. That is the position the Council took up yesterday and that is the position which Government have taken up, and the Government of India have definitely stated that they will have due regard to the continuing utility of the work, and therefore I think that the Hon'ble Member's wishes are fully met. I should like on this point to say one thing about the opinions with which he has lashed Government from Municipal Corporations and Treasurers at home. I do not wish to go into them, but I will only say that, from the two which he has quoted, it would appear that a very great deal lies in what the terms of reference were. In one case we are told that one authority has written that the grant of a period of 30 years, irrespective of the life of a work, is unsound. Government do not propose 30 years irrespective of the life of a work. It was never the Government's intention to give a period of 30 years for a loan for a 15-year work. The second opinion was that, in fixing the payment to the sinking fund at 1 or 2 per cent., Government are following the practice which was abandoned years ago in England. The practice that is thus condemned is precisely the practice in force under the present Act. It is precisely the practice which we are abandoning, and which this Bill was brought in to abandon and to the abandonment of which, when I first introduced the Bill, the Corporation objected. I think, therefore, it is clear that the value of these opinions of people who undoubtedly are experts in their own line depends very much upon what the terms of the reference were, and until we have seen them I do not think we can say that these gentlemen at home are against the proposals that Government put forward. It would not be altogether easy to follow the Hon'ble Member's speech to find out exactly what the proposals which he puts before the Council are; but I think we may start from the common fact that both he and Government are agreed that due regard should be had to the continuing utility of the work. That being so, we can come to the amendments to which, if I may venture to say so, the Hon'ble Member has paid very scant attention in the course of the oration to which the House has been listening for the last hour. The amendments are two. The first is that—

In the first place, I think it is clear that the genesis of these two amendments is that, at the back of the Hon'ble Member's mind, he realizes that there are other considerations which must come in in any case. The question that the Government of India has to consider is—Whether it shall grant a loan of such an amount to the Corporation. This cannot be decided only on consideration of the durability of a work. The Hon'ble Member, realising that, seeks to make an absolutely fictitious distinction between the amount of the loan and the period of the loan."

The Hon'ble Mr. APCAR said :—

"So far as the first amendment is concerned, I will withdraw it if the Hon'ble Member does not want it."

The Hon'ble Mr. STEPHENSON, continuing, said :—

"For this distinction he has given no authority either in practice or in books. The Hon'ble Member says he is willing to withdraw the first part of the motion, and I would only point out that all it really amounts to is that the Government of India or the Local Government shall have regard to the provisions of this Act ; and it is absolutely without precedent that you should put into a statute that Government shall have regard to the provisions of that particular statute. Of course they have got to have regard to it.

The only question therefore is whether we shall put it in the statute or not. The intention of the Government of India is perfectly explicit. The Hon'ble Member wants it to be put into the statute because it is in the Public Health Act at home ; but I would point out that there is considerable difference between Acts at home and Acts out here. It is inconceivable that a public body at home would test the decision of the Local Government Board with regard to the period of loan by application to the Lower courts. I think the Council will realise that it is not inconceivable that a corporation in India should go to the High Court for an injunction on the Government of India ordering them to fix a given period for a loan because there is this provision in the Act. It is a well-known principle of legal drafting that the more you put into a Bill the more you exclude ; if you say that one thing shall be done, twenty other things may not be done. If you put this into the Bill, that Government shall have due regard to the probable duration, you thereby increase the possibilities of raising the presumption that Government may not have regard to the other considerations which the Hon'ble Member's own authority says must be regarded. Therefore, my Lord, I can see no advantage in placing this actually in the statute. We have the letter of the Government of India, which gives the Hon'ble Member practically all he wants and I think there are very distinct disadvantages in putting this expression of intention into the Act. Therefore I oppose the amendment."

The Hon'ble RAI RADHA CHARAN PAL BAHADUR said :—

"My Lord, the Hon'ble Mr. Apear has moved amendments Nos. 8A and 8B, but I believe that he has withdrawn his amendment No. 8A."

The PRESIDENT said :—

"The amendment cannot be withdrawn except with the permission of the House."

The Hon'ble RAI RADHA CHARAN PAL BAHADUR said :—

"My Lord, as the Hon'ble Mr. Apear has said nothing with regard to motion 8A, I suppose he proposes to withdraw that amendment. Therefore I will not touch upon that.

Then, with regard to 8B, my Lord, what we find is that the Hon'ble Mr. Apear practically suggests in a modified form what was suggested in a previous amendment, that the basis of fixing the period of repayment of loan should be the durability and continued utility of the work. My Lord, as some objection has been raised to the words that the period of repayment of loan shall be equal to the life of the work, I believe that the amendment which has now been moved by the Hon'ble Mr. Apear obviates the difficulty that has been raised by the interpretation put by the Hon'ble Babu Mahendra Nath Ray. My Lord, it is quite clear from the letter of the Government of Bengal, as well as that of the Government of India, that the intention of the Government of India is that, in fixing the period of repayment of the loan, the question of durability and continued utility will be taken into consideration. In that respect, I believe, the Government and the members of Council agree ; but the difference is this, that the Hon'ble Member in charge does not desire to insert that expression, apprehending that it may give rise to difficulties in future. My Lord, I believe, the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill refers to the friendly suit which was instituted by the Corporation with regard to the application of the common sinking fund for repayment of the loan. It is well known to the Hon'ble Member and to many Members of this Council that it was a friendly suit instituted in the High Court in order to elucidate the legal position of the Corporation. Therefore I do not think that it should be taken as if the Corporation was acting in a way hostile to Government."

The Hon'ble Mr. STEPHENSON said :—

"My Lord, I may explain that the matter of the friendly suit was not in my mind."

The Hon'ble RAI RADHA CHARAN PAL BAHADUR said :—

"My Lord, if these words are inserted I do not think that it would complicate the situation in any way. If there is any doubt as to the meaning of these words, I think the Hon'ble Member will do well to suggest any wording or modification in the amendment which will obviate the difficulty which, he fears, may be raised in future, because the views of the Hon'ble Member in charge coincide with ours. I desire to bring to Your Excellency's notice that, as a matter of fact it appears from the papers which I have been able to obtain relating to the London County Council Loans, the periods of loans are fixed by His Majesty's Treasury. These papers, which a member of the London County Council has been good enough to favour me with, show that the period for repayment of a loan raised by the County Council is subject to the approval of His Majesty's Treasury. Then, my Lord, follows seriatim, separately numbered, the fixing of years for which loans for particular works can be raised, and further it is also stated that no expenditure for renewal will be charged to capital account except in cases in which the cost of renewal cannot in the opinion of the Finance Committee be defrayed from the revenue of one year. It will be thus seen that the practice in England, as I have been able to learn from these papers, is that His Majesty's Treasury fixes a schedule showing that, within certain periods, loans for works of a certain nature are to be repaid. Therefore, my Lord, there would be no difficulty if this amendment is accepted, because the Government will no doubt take all the circumstances into consideration in fixing the period of loan. At the same time, I must say that clause 128 (2) (c) also gives the same power to Government in a vague and general way, because it is stated there :—

'provided that loans shall be raised subject to the approval of the Government as to the term and method of repayment.'

My Lord, I believe that wording is quite comprehensive ; but all we want is this : that this principle, which has been agreed upon both by the Government and the Council should be incorporated in the Bill. I have nothing further to say and hope that this amendment will be accepted by this House."

The Hon'ble Dr. DEBA PRASAD SARBADHIKARI said :—

"My Lord, the amendment of the Hon'ble Mr. Apcar really occupies a very much lower plane than the one we discussed last night and to which the Hon'ble Mr. Stephenson referred. Many of the objections that applied to yesterday's amendment do not apply to this amendment, and there has been no attempt on the part of the Hon'ble Member in charge to show that they do so apply.

My Lord, the letter of the Government of India makes an important concession, and all that this amendment seeks to do is to have a clear statutory acknowledgment of that principle laid down. The question of durability is not to be the sole factor according to the letter of the Government, and this amendment does not seek to place it any higher than that, nor does it seek any very accurate mathematical deduction which was a puzzle to many Members yesterday. All that the amendment asks for is that the Government shall have due regard to the probable duration and the continued utility of works. It therefore gets rid of the apprehension with regard to the vanishing utility of sanitary works and scientific apparatus and machinery. What is demanded is that these two factors shall be taken into consideration in deciding various matters referred to in the amendment. Reference was made last night and reference has been made this morning to the likelihood of High Court litigation. With regard to a matter like this, I do not know, my Lord, why Your Excellency's Council should be troubled with the possibility of litigation. If there is good cause for litigation, there will be, and is sure to be, litigation, whatever statutory safeguards we may provide in these Acts, according to the recent trend of things. There will be no effective litigation, if there be no good cause and I think we need not be nervous about that. There has been only one instance, I believe, in which there was a friendly suit by consent to which the Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur referred, but applicability of which has been disclaimed by the Hon'ble Member in charge. There has been no fruitful source of litigation with regard to an uncertain state of the law, and now that matters are to be further secured the chances of litigation will be much less. But if there is good cause for going to the High Court, people will never be deterred from litigation by hedging provisions like those. That nervous apprehension by itself ought not to preclude our making quite clear as to what is passing in our minds and which, following the Government of India concession, we desire definitely to legislate. We have got to bear in mind that the Government of India's letter says that in practice the duration shall not be invariably restricted to 30 years. What do these words convey? Ordinarily then the duration will or may be 30 years; but if it is to be otherwise, the onus of proof will be on the applicant, and we are anxious that this onus should not be thrown upon those who have the future dealing of the situation.

That is all that this amendment seeks to emphasise and bring out clearly."

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRA NATH BANERJI said :—

"My Lord, before the matter is put to the vote, I desire to associate myself with the amendment which has been placed before the Council by the Hon'ble Mr. Apear. There seems to me to be sufficient agreement between the mover of the amendment and the Government, and the only question is whether what the Hon'ble Mr. Apear proposes should be incorporated in the law or not. The Hon'ble Member in charge seems to have a sort of apprehension that, if that were done, it might give rise to trouble. The spectre of litigation flashes across his vision, and he supported himself partly in that view by what took place in the past history of the Corporation in its relations with the Government; but I understand that it was a friendly suit—and not only a friendly suit but it was a suit started as the result of a conference between the representatives of the Government and the representatives of the Corporation. The object of the suit was to elucidate the legal position of the Corporation. As my friend (Rai R. C. Pal Bahadur) has just pointed out, it is not likely that such a friendly suit will be started again except under similar conditions. It may be that the Corporation may not use the legal powers but any ratepayer might do so. My Lord, we are after all not a litigious people as some imagine us to be. The laches of the Corporation are as numerous and as countless as the sands on the seashore and yet how many suits have been instituted in the High Court or elsewhere? Take for instance the question of the water-supply. It is incumbent on the Corporation by Statute to give us continuous water-supply, but they have not been able to do so and yet there have been no suits, so far as I know. We have got our own business to attend to and cannot think of suing the Corporation for laches like these. This Council knows very well how many laches are committed in connection with the disposition of charitable endowments. Our mahants and matwalis dissipate public funds in a most scandalous way. There have been many complaints and protests, but how many suits have been instituted? Occasionally a patriotic person, concerned in the administration of these funds, perhaps moves the Court, but he does not always command the financial resources necessary to prosecute the case and it collapses. Therefore, my Lord, the spectre of litigation is one which really may vanish from our vision, and inasmuch as there is a substantial agreement between Government and the non-official Members, so far as this matter is concerned, I think that statutory effect may be given to it by providing it in the Bill. I do hope that the Hon'ble Member in charge will see his way to accept the amendment moved by the Hon'ble Mr. Apcar."

The Hon'ble Mr. Lyon said :—

"My Lord, I do not think that I need add very much to what my hon'ble friend Mr. Stephenson has said already, but several other points have been dealt with by subsequent speakers. With reference to the Hon'ble Mr. Apcar's very long speech, I wish emphatically to endorse the remarks made on it by the Hon'ble Mr. Stephenson. It seems to me, with all possible respect for Mr. Apcar's erudition and his researches into these matters, that it is somewhat hard on this Council to have to discuss this question afresh to-day, seeing that the Hon'ble Mr. Apcar did not favour us with his views when it was discussed at considerable length yesterday, and yet the points which he has raised now are almost exactly those which were debated yesterday. The Hon'ble Member took extra time to deal with this case, because he said he was pressing two amendments. But when my hon'ble friend Mr. Stephenson referred to one of those amendments, Mr. Apcar at once said, with some contempt in his voice, that he was perfectly willing to withdraw that amendment. If this be so, I can only express my regret that the Hon'ble Member should have taken so long in moving it, or rather, should have taken extra time to move it and then, to all intents and purposes, not done so. This Council has important functions to perform, and I submit that its time should not be treated in this fashion. The Hon'ble Mr. Apcar waxed indignant over the imaginary refusal of the Government to adopt principles long accepted in England. The best answer to that is, 'Read the Government of India's letter'. He has in fact failed throughout his speech to deal with the real point, and we are obliged to the Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur for bringing us back to it, and to the Hon'ble Mr. Surendra Nath Banerji for dealing with it. That point really is—whether this principle, which has been accepted by the Government of India, is to be put on to the Statute-book or not. I ventured to say something yesterday in dealing with this matter and we came to a conclusion on that point. I gave then some reasons why it was undesirable that we should bring these words on to the Statute-book, and I do not wish to take up the time of the House in repeating my view that it is somewhat dangerous at the present moment to restrict and fetter the discretion of the Government of India in dealing with the terms of these loans. It is not the time when we should do anything to weaken in any way the credit of the Corporation, and I do believe that, in removing these restrictions and these safeguards, we shall to a certain extent injure the credit of the Corporation."

The Hon'ble Dr. Deba Prasad Sarbadhikari said with emphasis that, if there were no good cause for litigation, there would never be any. I am doubtful whether any of the Hon'ble and learned Members of this Council who plead before the High Court will entirely endorse that view. I think that this Council would hardly be prepared to accept a statement that when there is no real cause for litigation no litigation ever takes place.

The Hon'ble Mr. Surendra Nath Banerji referred again to the friendly suit which took place between the Corporation and the Government in the High Court. I can only but emphasise Mr. Stephenson's personal explanation that no reference whatever has been made to that suit. Such a suit is entered upon with the concurrence of both parties in order to clear up some difficulty which has occurred in the interpretation of an Act. The sort of litigation to which he referred is entirely different and I do think that there is some danger of these matters being brought into the Civil Courts.

There is one more point. The Hon'ble Dr. Deba Prasad Sarbadhikari suggested that this amendment does get rid of the 'vanishing' utility of the work, because it says that the term will be dependent upon the continued utility of the work. I would again emphasise the fact that the Government of India have to decide beforehand, that is, before the loan is granted, what is the probable duration and continuing utility of the work, and this vanishing utility renders it an extremely difficult matter to determine what is the probable duration. The consequence is that the Government of India have to take many matters into consideration; above all, they have always to bear in mind the rapid progress of sanitation and Calcutta's and India's advance towards the civilization of the West when they consider the terms of a loan. For these reasons I wish to support the Hon'ble Mr. Stephenson in opposing this amendment."

The Hon'ble Mr. AICAR said :—

"My Lord, I am astonished myself that the Hon'ble Member is surprised that I should have moved my amendment after the amendment of my hon'ble friend Raja Hrishikesh Laha had been rejected yesterday. I am sorry that he has not been able to discern the difference between this amendment and that of my hon'ble friend. All the objections that were taken with regard to the amendment of the Hon'ble Raja Hrishikesh Laha are met in mine. It seems to me that it is useless to attempt to move Government to consider what we desire, but it is perfectly plain and simple to see what the difference is. Because I did not speak yesterday on the amendment which I would not myself support throughout, is it to be thrown in my teeth that I did not take up the time of the Council? I could not have expressed the same view then as I have now expressed in connection with my amendment. What the Hon'ble Member is afraid of is of suits being brought. So far as India is concerned, I do not know of many suits. In the municipal corporations in England ratepayers have constantly and repeatedly instituted suits when they have had any real grievance against a municipal corporation. I am sorry to say that the public of Calcutta are not sufficiently alive to their own rights and that they remain perfectly quiescent, although hundreds of instances occur in which they could move against the Corporation. Why should it be supposed that the Corporation of Calcutta are an unreasonable body and will captiously take objections and and rush into litigation? The Hon'ble Member says that the Corporation will move; we have not shown any disposition to move in the past, but we are supposed to be going to move in the future. The attitude of the Hon'ble Member is, what he has said he has said. He can easily state reasons against me, but are they sufficient reasons? I have given the Hon'ble Members opposite an opportunity of reading in advance all the arguments that I have advanced and I have pointedly invited them to answer me, and I can claim that my arguments have not been answered in any particular. I submit that, so far as this amendment is concerned, it leaves everything in the hands of the Government. I do not know what Government really desire. They have not shewn themselves afraid of litigation in the past. They are law-abiding no less than we are. They say that they will give us what we seek; then, why are they so much afraid to have a simple proviso, embodying what they say they intend to give to us, incorporated in the statute? If the Houses of Parliament in England have not hesitated to subject the Local Government Board to the provisions of a law, then why do the Government in India refuse to incorporate exactly the same terms with reference to such a humble body as the Corporation of Calcutta? My Lord, among other things, the letter of the Government has been relied on. I admit that there is an expression used about the durability of the work; but it is contradicted in effect by other portions of the letter. If it was not so, I would not have myself been so much concerned. When I framed my amendment, I had not seen this letter of Government, dated the 1st of January, 1914. My amendment was meant to meet the intention as expressed in their letter of the 11th September, 1912. When I saw the second letter, I felt that I could not withdraw the amendment, because I think that whatever the distinction attempted to be drawn, there was no real difference between the two letters. All those objections that were taken to the first letter are all reproduced in the last letter. When you are going to consider the durability of the work, why should there be a presumption started that we are ordinarily to have a loan of 30 years? Can it mean anything but that ordinarily the period of repayment will be 30 years? What is meant by the normal presumption of 30 years prescribed for every loan? I do not object to the term of 30 years in the least bit, but what I protest against—and I have quoted there authorities because of that objection—is that, when you fix a proportionate contribution to the Sinking Fund, as has been the practice hitherto, how are you going to discriminate with regard to the several items with varying durability? Are these several lives to be contributed for according to the length prescribed for each, or how is it to be done? Is there to be a single loan to include all the items of varying periods of durability or how is it to be done? It seems that when the whole of these important questions are left undefined and uncertain, there is reason for asking for a definite provision to define what is uncertain and undefined."

The motions were then put together and lost.

The following motions were, by leave of the President, withdrawn :—

List of Amendments.—Motion No. 8C.—The Hon'ble Mr. Apcar to move that the following proviso be added to clause 128 (I), namely :—

" Provided further that—

- (1) the period fixed for the repayment of a loan shall in no case exceed 60 years, and
- (2) the period so determined shall be deemed to be the prescribed period of a loan."

List of Amendments.—Motion No. 9.—The Hon'ble Mr. Apcar to move that the following proviso be added to clause 128 (I), namely :—

" Provided further that—

- (1) the period fixed for the repayment of a loan shall not ordinarily exceed 47 years and shall in no case exceed 60 years, and
- (2) the period so determined shall be deemed to be the prescribed period of a loan."

List of Amendments.—Motion No. 9A.—The Hon'ble Mr. Apcar moved that the following proviso be added to clause 128 (I), namely :—

" Provided further that—

- (1) the period fixed for the repayment of a loan shall not ordinarily exceed 44 years and shall in no case exceed 60 years, and
- (2) the period so determined shall be deemed to be the prescribed period of a loan."

He said :—

“If we are not going to have our contributions according to the life of the work—which is my policy and which has always been my policy—and you are going to arbitrarily fix a period, then I say, let us have what they have in Madras. In Madras, the law is in terms of my amendment and I ask that the Calcutta Corporation may be given the same terms for the repayment of their loans.”

The Hon'ble Mr. STEPHENSON said :—

“The Council has really made up its mind with regard to this and there is no need to discuss it further. We decided yesterday in amendment 3 that we would have a maximum period of 60 years. The whole includes the part and therefore the Council will not agree to putting in any intermediate period. Forty-four years means nothing.”

The Hon'ble RAI RADHA CHARAN PAL BAHADUR said :—

“I support the motion of my friend Mr. Apcar. I do not think it is in conflict with the previous amendment which has been accepted, that the maximum period may be for 60 years. What is asked for here is that the period fixed for the repayment of loans shall not ordinarily exceed 44 years and in no case 60 years. It is stated in the letter from the Government of India that the intention of the Government of India is to treat the Corporation of Calcutta in this respect in precisely the same way as the other Presidency Corporations and this is also emphasized in the very kind and gracious reply of the Viceroy to the address of the Corporation. This amendment is also in consonance with the procedure prevailing in Madras which is one of the Presidency Corporations in India, and I believe this amendment will also be in harmony with the views expressed in the Government of India letter which is quoted by the Hon'ble Mr. Stephenson in his communication to the Corporation. With these observations I support the amendment.”

The Hon'ble Mr. LYON said :—

“I am not quite sure whether the Hon'ble Rai Bahadur is under the impression that the amendment suggests that the ordinary term for repayment of a loan should be 44 years. That is not the effect of it. Its effect is still further to limit the term of the loan. There is absolutely nothing in the amendment which is inconsistent with the policy laid down by the Government of India, that the term should ordinarily be 30 years. To say that it shall not exceed 44 years is merely to interpose an intermediate limitation and to suggest that the term would only very rarely reach 60 years. That appears to me to be entirely contrary to the views expressed by the Hon'ble Member and other gentlemen in that part of the House yesterday.”

The Hon'ble Mr. APCAR said :—

“I should like to make some observations with regard to the speeches made on behalf of Government. As I understand the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill, he treats with absolute contempt the law in force in Madras. What I am now quoting is actually the law in Madras and we are told ‘You need not consider it ; it is a matter of no account.’ We have nothing to do with it.’ That is what Mr. Lyon said and I do not know really what to reply to it. The Government letter itself says that it shall not invariably be 30 years and here it is 44 years, and he makes light of it and says, ‘It does not mean anything.’”

The Hon'ble Mr. LYON said :—

"It shall not ordinarily exceed 44 years."

The Hon'ble Mr. APCAR said :—

"I suppose it means there is the presumption of 44 years. Here the normal presumption is to be 30 years and it is also said it is not invariably to be restricted to 30 years : that means that ordinarily it is to be 30 years. If it is not ordinarily going to exceed 44 years, let us have the presumption that it will be 44 years. I say this, if you give us really what I believe will be a true principle incorporated in the law as a guide or some acknowledgement of the principle, that will satisfy us that in future the life of the work will be regarded. I do not want an arbitrary time fixed at all. If you will not give us the principle we seek to be acknowledged, incorporated in the law, then I say, let us have an arbitrary period fixed as in Madras. In the first place, the law of Madras is put aside and you tell us that this letter of the Government is to be construed in the same light as the Madras law. All I can repeat is that people who do not want to agree with you can always find reasons."

The motion was then put and lost.

The Hon'ble Mr. STEPHENSON said :—

"Before we discuss amendments 13 and 14 which deal indirectly with the question of the Sinking Fund, I think it would be convenient if we took up clause 136 which deals with the setting up of the Sinking Fund, and passed on to amendments 26 to 31, returning to amendments 13 to 25 later."

The Hon'ble Mr. APCAR said :—

"So far as I am concerned, I would like to have made my contention centre upon clause 135. My amendment No. 19 brings the different funds into one and the amendments that follow really depend on the issue of the common sinking fund."

The Hon'ble the VICE-PRESIDENT said :—

"I gather that the member in charge thinks that clause 136 is the main issue in regard to the question of a common Sinking Fund, and that it will be preferable now to take amendment No. 26."

The Hon'ble Mr. APCAR said :—

"Very well."

The Hon'ble MAULVI A. K. FAZ-UL-HAQ said :—

"I find that the motion which I was going to put (No. 26) is identical with the one which Mr. Aparcar will put. I think it would save time if Mr. Aparcar started the discussion."

The Hon'ble Mr. LYON said :—

"Is the amendment in the Hon'ble Mr. Haq's name withdrawn ?"

The Hon'ble the VICE-PRESIDENT said :—

"It must be withdrawn if Mr. Aparcar is to move an identical motion."

The HON'BLE MR. APCAR said :—

"I was going to withdraw amendment 27, but I have not withdrawn it. Will that preclude the insertion of the proviso in motion 27A. The two motions are almost identical. The difference is that there is a proviso to 27A, and I would ask to be permitted to put that later. The contest is really with regard to the common sinking fund. My amendment 27A is the same as 27 with the addition of the proviso."

The HON'BLE THE VICE-PRESIDENT said :—

"I am afraid the amendment, whether 27 or 27A. must be moved as a whole."

The HON'BLE MR. APCAR said :—

"Can I not move 27A separately in two parts?"

The HON'BLE THE VICE-PRESIDENT said :—

"I am afraid I cannot allow that in this instance."

The HON'BLE MR. LYON said :—

"Would it not meet the Hon'ble Mr. Apar and the Hon'ble Mr. Haq if 26 and 27 go out and 27A is moved in full?"

The HON'BLE MR. APCAR said :—

"That is, as I understand, what the President suggests. There are some reasons why I may be embarrassed because it would have been at my option to have withdrawn 27 or not. However, I have no more to say."

The following motions were then, by leave of the President, withdrawn :—

Clause 136.

List of Amendments—Motion No. 26.—The Hon'ble Maulvi A. K. Faz-ul-Haq to move that the following be substituted for clause 136 (1), namely,—

"(1) The Corporation shall establish and maintain a sinking fund for the repayment of all loans raised by the issue of debentures, and shall pay into it, in respect of each of such loans, on the first day of every half-year (commencing from the half-year next after that in which the loan is raised), until the end of the prescribed period of such loan, such equated sum as would, with accumulations in the way of compound interest at the rate prescribed under sub-section (2), be sufficient, after payment of all expenses, to repay the loan at the end of its prescribed period."

List of Amendments—Motion No. 27.—The Hon'ble Mr. Apar to move that, for clause 136 (1), the following be substituted, namely,—

"(1) The Corporation shall establish and maintain a sinking fund for the repayment of all loans raised by the issue of debentures, and shall pay into it, in respect of each of such loans, on the first day of every half-year (commencing from the half-year next after that in which the loan is raised), until the end of the prescribed period of such loan such equated sum as would, with accumulations in the way of compound interest at the rate prescribed under sub-section (2), be sufficient, after payment of all expenses, to repay the loan at the end of its prescribed period."

List of Amendments—Motion No. 27A.—The Hon'ble Mr. Apcar moved that, for clause 136 (1), the following be substituted, namely,—

“(1) The Corporation shall establish and maintain a sinking fund for the repayment of all loans raised by the issue of debentures, and shall pay into it, in respect of each of such loans, on the first day of every half-year (commencing from the half-year next after that in which the loan is raised), until the end of the prescribed period of such loan, such equated sum as would, with accumulations in the way of compound interest at the rate prescribed under sub-section (2), be sufficient, after payment of all expenses, to repay the loan at the end of its prescribed period :

Provided that, in respect of all outstanding loans raised by the issue of debentures before the commencement of the Calcutta Municipal (Loans) Act, 1914, notwithstanding anything contained in this sub-section, the Corporation shall pay into the sinking fund every half-year such sum as is mentioned in section 138, clause (1) (b).”

He said :—

“With regard to this question again, it will be necessary to see what the Government say in their letter of the 1st January, 1914. They say that ‘for all practical purposes the sinking funds are in the same condition as they would be if the proposal of the Corporation were carried out.’ If they are for all practical purposes the same, then why compel the Corporation to maintain separate sinking funds, which will lead to much confusion in our administration? When we are most anxious to have a common sinking fund, when it is admitted that for all practical purposes that which is proposed in the Bill is the same as a common sinking fund, and when a new provision actually was introduced in Select Committee to give, for investments a common sinking fund, we are to have now, under clause 138 of the Bill, a common sinking fund : under clause 138 (a), what humourously is called a common sinking fund for loans that have been repaid, and under clause 138 (b) the same sinking fund to be used for loans which are outstanding. I invite the Hon'ble Member in charge to tell me whether he considers that there will be embarrassment or confusion or shortage with regard to this common sinking fund for loans of over five crores of rupees, and a common sinking fund that will continue as a common sinking fund for 40 or 50 years? If there is to be a common sinking fund for loans that are outstanding and also for loans that have been repaid (which must be maintained as a common sinking fund for 40 or 50 years to come, when it cannot be suggested that it will result as a shortage), what reason is there to deny us a common sinking fund for our future loans? May I not say, does it not seem absurd to start separate sinking funds in the present day, to be maintained collaterally with a common sinking fund for loans for over five crores of rupees, that will endure for over 40 or 50 years?

Then there is another point. If the common sinking fund is a system that must cause shortage, it will be inherent in the system. In Bombay there is a common sinking fund, but there is no complaint of shortage, nor is there any talk of the common sinking being changed for a separate sinking fund. In England a common sinking fund is approved and is almost universally maintained. I understand that it is exceptional to find separate sinking funds. At first in Great Britain, Municipal Corporations started with separate sinking funds, they have advanced and a common sinking fund is almost universal. They have master minds there who consider these questions, and when they find that one system is not as good as another, they adopt the new system. They consult the best interests of administrations entrusted to their charge. Here we are going back after having started a common sinking fund in 1876, long before they started it in England. When the common sinking fund has been approved, after trial, in England, we are to be made to say ‘we do not want a common sinking fund. We were in advance of you, and we were right, but by a most unfortunate mistake, we are going back to the separate sinking fund system, which has been condemned after good reason, after trial by you.’

If we have, for 38 years, maintained a common sinking fund, what is the reason that we are required to change? Surely we want the strongest possible reasons to justify such a change. Are the reasons relied on, that there has been a shortage, and if so, we must see, what has led to the shortage? It will not lie in the mouth of the hon'ble member in charge, if we had supreme confidence in the law that was given to us by the Government. We trusted that law, and that law was found to be defective, and owing to the defects in the law led to this unfortunate shortage. The Government have expressly recognised that the law is defective. It was necessary either to define the meaning of "prescribed period" or to specify the prescribed period of a loan, and the omission of a single phrase in one section of the Act has caused all our difficulties. I have gone into this question very fully in my Note of Dissent to which I would refer hon'ble members. An extract relating to the question is set out, for the more ready reference of hon'ble members who may desire to be informed, in the pamphlet that I have circulated. It is supposed that when the debentures were issued for 30 years, that the loan was to be repaid in 30 years. Whereas we know on a contribution of 1 per cent. it will take 47 years. The time for the extinction of a loan depends, in some measure, on the rate of growth to be calculated at compound interest. The rate was not given to us by Government, until so late as 1907, so that we really could not know precisely the "prescribed period" for our loans, that was 47 years, although we have been issuing loans from 1876, until the year 1907. Is it right for the Government to say that we are responsible for that shortage, particularly when they placed their experts to be Trustees of our sinking fund? The Trustees of the sinking fund who are ex-officio, under the law, the Financial Secretary to the Local Government and the Accountant-General did not suspect, through the long series of loans, that there was any likelihood of shortage recurring. It was left to the Vice-Chairman of the Corporation, Babu Nilambar Mukherji, who was the first to be put on the inquiry, to discover the shortage. It was then suddenly found that we had been proceeding on a wrong system all these years because we had not been able to pay—the law had prevented us paying—that which was necessary should be paid into the sinking fund when money was borrowed from it. Under these circumstances I do not think it lies with the Government to say that we are altogether responsible. We have not been free to act: the Government have given us a law which made it absolutely impossible to really comply with the requirements necessary to accumulate the amount of the loan. In that discussion, I remember, we had the then Financial Secretary, the Accountant-General in esse and the Accountant-General in posse and the whole of their collected wisdom amounted to this: they said that the sinking fund was the security for the debentures when the law expressly states that the security for the sinking fund were the rates, taxes and fees leviable under the Act. The provision is in the same section which makes these officers of Government Trustees of the sinking fund, and on the debentures scrips themselves it is stated what the security is. In this connection I wish to draw attention to the statement made before the Select Committee of the House of Commons in 1909, on the application of sinking funds in exercise of borrowing powers, by Mr. Clare, whom I have been informed, the hon'ble member in charge has met. Mr. Clare, as I have stated elsewhere, is the distinguished City Treasurer of Birmingham, and represented the Association of Municipal Commissioners before the Select Committee. His statement I submit is important as showing the position of the lender and the Corporation. Mr. Clare's view was confirmed by all the other witnesses examined by the Select Committee who have had a practical experience of municipal administration. He said:—

"The security on which almost every lender of money to the Corporation relies—I speak from personal experience in negotiating many thousands of loans, as well from a knowledge of the opinions of some of the leading Stock brokers of Birmingham—is the financial standing of the particular Corporation to which he lends money, or whose Stock he takes up, and it is my firm belief that he does not concern himself in the slightest degree as to the technicalities of loan funds or sinking funds or as to the book-keeping in connection therewith."

Even though we have continued to maintain a common sinking fund for nearly 40 years, and the onus should be on those who seek to change the system, we are asked by those who are unfamiliar with municipal administration to justify a common sinking fund. The separate sinking fund was used at first after the passing of the English Public Health Act of 1875, but it was early found to be faulty and we have the best proof of all, that the common sinking fund is the better system, by the almost universal adoption of the common sinking fund by municipal administration in Great Britain. I will quote from Mr. Fleming's work on "Sinking Fund and Loan Repayment" in the second edition published in 1897. "To keep a separate sinking fund account in respect of every loan is impracticable, and the necessity for an alteration of the law requiring a separate sinking fund for every loan may be seen from an example. Say, a local authority borrows fifty sums of £100 each, the whole to be redeemed within 30 years by means of sinking funds. The rate of interest paid on the loans is £4 per cent., and the sinking funds are based on a £3 per cent. rate, and are invested in consols. At the end of the fifth year, the amount in each sinking fund should be £11 3s. 2d., or £557 19s. 5d. in the aggregate. The local authority cannot, as before stated, legally apply a sinking fund in repayment of any other loan than that in respect of which it is set aside, and if, with a view to effect a saving in the amount of interest paid to the lenders, they desire to apply £500, part of the aggregate sinking funds, towards the repayment of loans, they must pay off, say, £10 in respect of each loan, if they can so arrange with the lenders. But, instead of repaying fifty sums of £100 each, and reborrowing the like number of £90 each, it would be much more convenient to repay five of the £100 loans.

"It is found in practice that the Local Government Board do not insist on separate sinking funds being formed and applied in respect of each sum borrowed, however small, of an aggregate amount authorized, but so far as practicable, they treat the aggregate amount authorized or borrowed as the loan in respect of which the sinking fund has to be set apart."

Later he says :—"Much inconvenience is experienced by local authorities keeping a number of separate sinking funds, in the application of such funds towards the repayment of loans. It frequently happens that the aggregate amount in the several sinking funds is sufficient to redeem a loan falling due, or which it is desired to repay, but as only one of the sinking funds is usually applicable to the repayment of that particular loan, the local authority are unable to apply any other sinking fund."

And then it goes on "that the whole system of separate sinking funds had been abolished."

The Stock Regulations of 1891, made under the Public Health Amendment Act of 1890, and the County Council Stock Regulations of 1891, made under the Local Government Act of 1888, both framed by the Local Government Board, contemplate a common sinking fund.

Let us now see what is the actual practice in such important City Corporations as Birmingham, Newcastle-on-Tyne, Manchester and Glasgow.

Mr. Claro (City Treasurer of Birmingham) writes to me, under the date 5th August, 1913 :—

"I am quite in agreement with you in your opinion that it is not necessary to keep a sinking fund for each loan, separate and distinct from each other. This is important as a matter of book-keeping, but it is quite unnecessary from the point of view of management of the funds.

"You may take it that the Birmingham practice in forming a common sinking fund for mortgages is typical of most existing schemes in this country, and I do not regard it as necessary to quote other cases which only differ in purely local and minor details."

Mr. E. Darnell, City Treasurer of Newcastle-on-Tyne, writes (his letter dated 9th October, 1913) :—

"The same class of Stock or Debenture should have a common sinking fund for its operations."

Mr. John Williams, City Treasurer of Manchester, writes (his letter dated 14th October, 1913) :—

“ By the introduction of a common sinking fund, the obligation to make separate investments of small sums set aside each year to a number of different sinking funds is done away with, and a Corporation is enabled, to its great advantage, to apply to the extinction of any loan any money which the Corporation may have in hand for the repayment of debt. A great simplification in the matter of repayment of loans is thus effected, as the Corporation can freely apply to the discharge of any portion of the debt the sums standing to the credit of the sinking fund. It must be clearly understood that when a common sinking fund is set up, it is still necessary to calculate separate contributions to such fund in respect of the amount raised under each exercised borrowing power.”

That is exactly what we are doing today, and there is not a shadow of doubt as to the propriety of the manner in which our sinking funds are now accounted. We are now keeping this separate account, and everything is going smoothly and rightly simply by keeping a separate account of each loan, but holding all the funds in the aggregate together.

In addition to the practice of the Corporations I have mentioned I can quote, as I before have said the Bombay Corporation, as another which has a common sinking fund.

I again shall read from my pamphlet. I wrote it mainly to inform the Hon'ble Member of my arguments in advance. The Hon'ble Member has received a copy of my pamphlet from me. I have deliberately invited him to answer me and I have been waiting to hear what he has to say to meet my arguments. So far, I am afraid, I have been unable to elicit any answer from him. “ The Calcutta Corporation have been required by law, since the year 1876, to maintain a common sinking fund, under successive Acts of the Bengal Council. And in this they have been in advance of municipal administration in Great Britain. There are advantages in this common system, and when this has been recognized and has grown more and more into favour and is generally adopted in other parts of the world, the Calcutta Corporation are required after 38 years' use of the system, so widely acknowledged to be the better system, to change and revert to a system that has been condemned and abandoned. Are we then to admit to the world we have been right by a mistake, and that when we have got a good system, even if by mistake, that we cannot recognize that it is a good system, and that we are so little capable of appreciation of what is right to be done, that even when we have been enjoying the right system for 38 years, we needs must change it for a system that many years ago was found to be faulty and has been abandoned ? ”

I am again reading from the pamphlet which I have written, and I am waiting to hear what the hon'ble member has to say in reply. So far I am afraid I have not derived much advantage.

“ I do not question that the Government, if they desire it, can impose this change or any other measure they may choose ; but we are entitled to say that the change can be made only for some strong reason, and that we are entitled to be told what those reasons are. The reason that has been advanced is that the shortage that has occurred in our sinking funds is due to a common sinking fund. I unhesitatingly aver that it is impossible to uphold the assertion. The shortage has been due to (1) defects which are admitted by the Government to exist in the law, which prohibited contributions into the sinking fund after their debentures were repaid, and (2) the confusion that has been caused by the idea that the loans of the Calcutta Corporation, with an annual contribution of 1 per cent. indicating a life of about 47 years, were coterminous with the period for the repayment of our debentures which never exceeded, and on occasions were less than 30 years. I claim irrefutably to have shown that the shortage certainly cannot be attributed to a common sinking fund, in my Note of Dissent from the Report of the Select Committee.”

The proposal of the Government as expressed in their letter of September, 1912, is ordinarily to prescribe the period of loans at 30 years, and so, with an annual contribution of 2 per cent., make the life of loans coterminous with the period for the repayment of debentures, to produce in the sinking fund at the time for the repayment of the debentures, which also would be the end of the time prescribed for the repayment of the loan, the full amount wanted to discharge the loan; and this representation has been advanced in support of the proposal for separate sinking funds. I have shown the flaw in this contention in my address to the Trades Association inasmuch as the full amount is not obtained by the payment of 2 per cent. annual contribution: taking for example Rs. 1,00,000 as a loan, that the sum of Rs. 60,000 would be collected in 30 years from the contributions, leaving the balance of Rs. 40,000 to be made up by investment at compound interest and that immediately we come to the necessity of investment to make good the balance of Rs. 40,000, the theory of separate sinking funds, as I shall presently explain, is undermined.

Well, Sir, there is another later letter from Government, and in which I cannot see that there has been any practical difference from what was stated in their original letter.

Then, Sir, the Hon'ble Member in charge has quoted from a letter from the Chairman of the Corporation written, I think he said, in March last to the effect that the Corporation has sought a common sinking fund for investments only.

Well, Sir, that is very great news to me, very strange news, for so far as I know our contention has been consistent that we should have a common sinking fund for all purposes. We do not see what letters are written by the Chairman. I do not know, perhaps in those days the then Chairman did not quite appreciate the differences underlying this question, and in this respect he would not be different from persons in more exalted positions. The Hon'ble Member says that we only ask for a common sinking fund for investment. Well, I must respectfully repudiate any such idea. I have asked, and we have always asked, for a common sinking fund, and we are now asking for a common sinking fund, and that is really what is necessary for us to have and I can say that the late Chairman from whose letter the Hon'ble Member has quoted before he left, I think in August last, was entirely in favour of a common sinking fund such as I seek. Then, Sir, the effect of the amendment that was introduced in Select Committee is that on account of whatever loan contributions may have been received, they may be invested indiscriminately without regard to the particular sinking fund to which they may belong. This is a distinct advantage over the original proposal because it may be that only small sums are waiting for investment in separate sinking funds, which if they had to be invested severally, no opportunity, or, if any, only on disadvantageous terms, could be found: while if invested in the aggregate, wholly or partially, favourable investments might be available. We are told that separate sinking funds are desirable for the purposes of simplification of accounts. What has been the consequences of this separation of the investments? It has resulted in one amendment in this connection being replaced by another. It was after the Bill had been amended in Select Committee that the Hon'ble Member gave notice of an amendment of the clause which has been circulated (I am bound to say that the Hon'ble Member has thrown himself completely into a mire in that new proposal of his), but apparently he was warned, and warned in time. The amendment first proposed, which no doubt was devised with care and in consultation with the best advice available, showed utter want of comprehension of the principles and practice of the subject. It was discussed among us, and possibly the change that has now been made is due to the communication that may have been made to the hon'ble the Chairman of the Corporation, because I know one with whom I was discussing it was very much struck by the defects which were of the most absurd nature contained in the amendment first proposed, and he ran to the Chairman to point them out to the Hon'ble Member. I observe that I am not mistaken and the hon'ble the Chairman will not deny that I have stated what is a fact. So that when we talk about simplification of accounts, the point I take is that the Hon'ble Member in charge does not quite appreciate all the difficulties that there are. He certainly accepted the draft amendment that was first presented, and another draft was proposed to be substituted for it, which I have no doubt would have been passed by this Hon'ble Council at the call of the Hon'ble Member, with all its defects stuck in it but for the warning I have referred to; not so much from the appreciation of the absurdities of his proposal but because the warning came from an acceptable quarter, and even now the proposal in its amended form is such that it is open to very serious criticism. All this confusion would be swept away, all these difficulties would disappear at once, if there is a common sinking fund, and then debentures at due date could be repaid from a common sinking fund and also investments, which do not require separate accounts, for different loans which are held in the aggregate could be made from one common sinking fund. Of course contributions on account of different funds would be kept in separate accounts, but investments would not require the elaborate and confusing machinery that the Hon'ble Member has attempted time after time to create.

I shall resume my reference to my statements in the pamphlet to which I have drawn the Hon'ble Member's particular attention. Our request for a common sinking fund in its entirety may perhaps be better understood if I explain that when the time for repayment of debentures arrives, the amount required to repay the holders of the outstanding debentures is obtained by the sale of the investments held in the sinking fund. Our contention is that it would be best that all the investments (especially when they have been purchased and are held indiscriminately) should be held for sale in common in respect of all loans, so that whichever of the investment it is most favourable to sell on the due date might be sold for the repayment of the outstanding debentures of the issue in question. It would be essential to keep a pro forma account, for each loan, according to the practice in England, which exercises a satisfactory check, as well against shortage as against over-payment, in order to ensure that proper charges are made as against the revenue account during the whole, and not more than the whole of the prescribed period, and to show that the proportionate contributions are paid into the sinking fund in respect of each loan.

In whatever form the investments for the sinking fund may be maintained the separate system would be a disadvantage for the Calcutta Corporation and particularly so when their investments solely are in their own debentures.

It is imperative to invest the money in the sinking fund forthwith. It would be not merely a financial disadvantage, but impracticable to limit investments to the debentures of the particular loan connected with a sinking fund, or to expect that the sinking fund of a particular loan will hold only the debentures of that loan. It would be no less impracticable to bar any issue of debentures from investment by the sinking funds. The investments must be made in such debentures as may be available in the market: investments must therefore be made in debentures of loans other than the particular loan for the sinking fund of which investments are required. Then, when the time for the repayment of the debentures of the particular loan will arrive, all the investments held in its separate sinking fund must be sold to provide the amount required. Without elaborating the argument, I will ask, what then is the effect of such sale? The answer briefly is, the debentures of other loans will serve to repay the debentures of the loan in question. I could proceed to demonstrate further that by whatever designation the sinking fund may be termed in the Bill in effect it will be a common sinking fund and it will be wiser and save confusion to openly recognize it to be a common sinking fund. Our Vice-Chairman's comment on the issue of the Select Committee's Report that it follows, when the sinking fund has been made a common fund for investment, it cannot be prevented from becoming also a common fund for repayment, can be seen, by any test of the practical administration of the fund, to be correct.

I cannot understand why when the Government are driven to the admission that for all practical purposes the sinking fund that they are forcing upon the Corporation will be a common sinking fund, we are still not allowed to have a common sinking fund. The position will be anomalous and inconsistent in the extreme. The Corporation are authorised under the present law, and will continue to be authorised when this Bill is passed, to invest the money of the sinking fund in their own debentures. This will unavoidably result in the investments of sinking funds other than that of the loan to be repaid being utilised for its repayment, and yet by law we are to be barred by a fictitious law from doing what the law authorises us to do. All these anomalies and difficulties and confusion could be swept away by a stroke of the pen, by a simple acknowledgment in the law of what is expressly admitted by the Government in their letter of the 1st January, 1914. I do not know who is directing our present legislation. It is so very difficult to know if it is entirely in the hands of those who are in charge of the Bill here. When I have approached them I have been made to understand that it is not. I do know this, and I make no secret of it, because no secret was made of it by Sir William Meyer himself—when the Financial Member was down here, he told me that I could have whichever I liked, a common sinking fund or a separate sinking fund. I at once said, of course, "I take the common sinking fund." I would not have mentioned this if Sir William Meyer had not openly stated that we could have a common sinking fund to others, to the Vice-Chairman of the Corporation for instance, who repeated it to me. When Sir William Meyer mentioned to me what I have just stated, I replied "I will not further discuss this point with you, as we have much to get through, and our time is limited," but I wrote to him to the same effect to remind him of what had transpired. There was no room for any misapprehension in the matter. Then, Sir, when we presented an Address to His Excellency the Viceroy, he told us that we would have the same consideration in respect of our loans, precisely the same as had been allowed to the other Corporations. I immediately recognised that inasmuch as Bombay has a maximum limit of 60 years and also has a common sinking fund, we also should have one. I do not know whether it will be said that it was a mistake, but after all the Government cannot ask the Corporation to keep separate sinking funds when they at the same time say that what the Bill contemplates is practically and substantially a common sinking fund. There will be great disadvantage, and great confusion, if you keep separate sinking funds. But is not the word of a Viceroy, when it is admitted on the part of the Government there is no practical difference, sufficient to carry the day? Whatever mistake may be represented to exist, there can be no mistake of His Excellency's intention graciously to convey that consideration would be shown to our representations. Is that to be treated as meaning nothing? If the Corporation are not allowed even a common sinking fund, the practical result will be there will have been no consideration shown to the representations of the Corporation. And, Sir, with regard to the common sinking fund, when we have these difficulties, when by law we are entitled to invest our own sinking fund in our own debentures, is it not inconsistent to say that you are to keep all these separate sinking funds when in effect you cannot keep them separate, but what you do is to create a great deal of confusion and a great deal of complication in having them kept separate? What is to be the result now under the Bill? For every new loan you will have a separate sinking fund under section 136. There will be a common sinking fund for over five crores of rupees (section 138). The present sinking fund "A" is to be maintained. There will be another separate sinking fund under section 138 (4) and yet another sinking fund on the consolidation of any of the loans. Which is the more confusing and elaborate—to have all these distinct and separate sinking funds or to have one common sinking fund with a pro forma account, to let us know exactly what we are doing with reference to contributions to our sinking fund? I do hope that there will not be further persistent opposition to our very reasonable representation for a common sinking fund."

The HON'BLE MR. STEPHENSON said :—

"The Hon'ble Member has again spread his net so wide that I cannot follow him on all his points in the brief time at my disposal. I shall, therefore, leave out any allusion to amendment 67 A and touch very briefly on some of his points. He has spent some time in proving that the shortage was due to a defect in the law. I do not propose to follow him there. He also spent some time in discussing the position of the Trustees. The Trustees are now going to be abolished. I do not propose to discuss them, or to say anything further except that I do not accept his statement of the case in regard to that particular point which he has raised.

Hon'ble MR. APCAR : You were not there, I was.

Hon'ble MR. STEPHENSON, continuing said : The third point he made was that one of the Trustees was the Accountant-General, but that he did not find out the shortage. I think you will find it definitely stated, my Lord, in the correspondence, that the Accountant-General and the Vice-Chairman found the shortage out independently at the same time ; but the whole trend of his argument with regard to the Financial Secretary and the Accountant-General being the Trustees, and this deficit still occurring, surely will force home to the Council what I said yesterday, that until we have a department of experts, we should be very careful before we give these powers to the Corporation. I do not propose, as I have said before, to review Mr. Apar's book. I have not the time, and this is not the place, but I would like to quote one short extract which perhaps will show the lines on which I should review the book if I had time.

Mr. Apar has quoted to the Council Mr. Clare, City Treasurer of Birmingham. He said :—

"I am quite in agreement with you in your opinion that it is not necessary to keep a sinking fund for each loan, separate and distinct from each other. This is important as a matter of book-keeping, but it is quite unnecessary from the point of view of management of the funds.

You may take it that the Birmingham practice in forming a common sinking fund for mortgages is typical of most existing schemes in this country, and I do not regard it as necessary to quote other cases which only differ in purely local and minor details."

I may point out that mortgages are different from debentures.

The Hon'ble Member does not emphasize this point. The other quotation he made was :—

"To keep a separate sinking fund account in respect of every loan is impracticable, and the necessity for an alteration of the law requiring a separate sinking fund for every loan may be seen from an example, say, a local authority borrow fifty sums of £100 each, the whole to be redeemed within 30 years by means of sinking funds. The rate of interest paid on the loans is £4 per cent., and the sinking funds are based on a £3 per cent. rate, and are invested in Consols. At the end of the fifth year, the amount in each sinking fund should be £11 3s. 2d., or £557 19s. 5d. in the aggregate. The local authority cannot, as before stated, legally apply a sinking fund in repayment of any other loan than that in respect of which it is set aside, and if, with a view to effect a saving in the amount of interest paid to the lenders, they desire to apply £500, part of the aggregate sinking funds, towards the repayment of loans, they must pay off, say, £10 in respect of each loan, if they can so arrange with the lenders. But, instead of repaying fifty sums of £100 each, and reborrowing the like number of £90 each, it would be much more convenient to repay five of the £100 loans.

"It is found in practice that the Local Government Board do not insist on separate sinking funds being formed and applied in respect of each sum borrowed, however small, of an aggregate amount authorized, but so far as practicable, they treat the aggregate amount authorized or borrowed, as the loan in respect of which the sinking fund has to be set apart."

Well, it is not a question of borrowing sums of £100 each. I take it that was based on the practice that is in vogue in Scotland, to a very large extent, of borrowing small sums on short mortgages of 3, 5 and 10 years. The Calcutta Corporation borrows its sums in bulk. There are two other points in the Hon'ble Member's speech. I am not able to enter into a controversy as to what Sir William Meyer may or may not have said in a private conversation with the Hon'ble Member.

The HON'BLE MR. APCAR : I have correspondence relevant to that conversation. I can now show to the Hon'ble Member copies of letters that will support what I have said.

The HON'BLE MR. STEPHENSON : I do not doubt the Hon'ble Member's word in the least. I only wish to point out that I am in a position to know the official view of the Government of India, and that, I think, is the official view of Sir William Meyer on the subject, and that is that the Corporation should not be allowed to borrow from the sinking fund. Whether the fund is common, or whether it is separate, is not a matter of any consequence to Sir William Meyer, I have no doubt he did say what the Hon'ble Mr. Apcar has stated, but he and the Government of India are against borrowing from the sinking fund. The other reference the Hon'ble Member gave was to His Excellency the Viceroy's speech, and he implied that His Excellency had given a promise to the Corporation practically that they should have a common sinking fund.

The HON'BLE MR. APCAR : That is what was understood.

The HON'BLE MR. STEPHENSON : Allow me to read His Excellency's speech :—

"There is one other purely municipal matter, which you have not referred to in your Address, about which I should like to say a few words, and that is in connection with the Calcutta-Municipal (Loans) Bill. I understand that there has been an impression that the currency of the Corporation loans will in practice be invariably restricted to a period of 30 years. Orders, however, are under issue which will remove this impression. The Government of India have agreed to the insertion of a provision in the Bill, as in the case of the Bombay City Municipal Act, fixing a maximum term of 60 years for the currency of a loan, and it is hardly necessary for me to say that their intention is to treat the Corporation of Calcutta in respect of their loans in precisely the same way as other Presidency Corporations."

The HON'BLE MR. APCAR : Yes, "in precisely the same way" in respect of their loans. The sinking fund cannot be disconnected from our loans.

The HON'BLE MR. STEPHENSON : I can find not a single word in that speech with regard to common sinking funds, and to say that the Bill does not carry out the promise of His Excellency is, I think, a very mischievous suggestion.

HON'BLE MR. APCAR : Sir, I protest against any remark of mine being referred to as a mischievous suggestion.

The HON'BLE THE VICE-PRESIDENT said : I think it is not an unparliamentary expression.

The HON'BLE MR. STEPHENSON : I did not mean it in any offensive manner, but I think it is pregnant with mischief to say that this Government is going behind the words of His Excellency the Viceroy.

Turning now to the actual amendment itself, the history of the amendment is, I think, instructive. Amendments 26 and 27 were sent in last year, but presumably Hon'ble Members recently discovered that if all outstanding loans were brought under a common sinking fund under the amendment, the prescribed period for such loan could only be taken at 30 years; therefore they would have to pay such equated sums as would pay off these loans by the end of 30 years from the dates they were taken. The essential distinction between the sinking funds of the old and new loans.

therefore forced itself on the notice of the hon'ble member, and while trying to bring all the funds into one fold he has been obliged to admit that Sinking Fund A as it is called, being based on different principles, must really be treated differently. This Sinking Fund A is the only one that will be in existence when the Act comes into force; it is at present a common sinking fund and it will remain a common sinking fund, but the Act will not allow it to be amalgamated with other sinking funds which are based on essentially different principles. This sinking fund A is for the repayment of 5 crores of debt; the payments into it will be over 5 lakhs a year. What then is the complaint of the hon'ble members, not that this is not being amalgamated with future sinking funds, or that the Corporation is being placed under any disadvantage whatsoever in the matter of managing the Sinking Fund or getting interest from it; but that under the Bill they are not allowed, when they have to repay a loan, to take more out of the Sinking Fund than they have paid in and accumulated on account of that particular loan. That is the cause of the lament. I have it on the authority of the Vice-Chairman that a common sinking fund without permission to borrow from it to repay a loan will not be acceptable to the Corporation, and this is the point at which they are at issue with Government. This is their grievance, and this is one of the instances in which they seek to graft an English practice on to our simple form of Sinking Fund. The precedent of Bombay is quoted, but though in form the power may exist in the Bombay Act, in practice Bombay never has borrowed and never can have any occasion so to borrow. They were in advance of us, and adopted from the first these sinking fund principles which we are now seeking to establish in the Bill; for all their loans they pay into the Sinking Fund such equated sum as will with accumulations amount to the total of the loan by the end of the period sanctioned for repayment. When the loan is due, therefore, there must be sufficient in the Sinking Fund to repay it out of the accumulations on the separate account of that loan; no question of borrowing from the sinking fund can ever possibly arise. It may also be noticed that the wording of section 109 (e) of the Bombay Act distinctly presupposes separate sinking funds as far as the repayment of debt is concerned, and that sub-clause (g) contemplates borrowing from the public, and not from the Sinking Fund, for the repayment of loans. The section is:

"The Corporation may at any time apply the whole or any part of a Sinking Fund set apart under this section in or towards the discharge of the monies for the repayment of which the fund has been established; provided that they pay into the fund each time that interest would have been received by the Corporation in respect of the Sinking Fund or the part of the Sinking Fund so applied, and accumulate, until the whole of the monies borrowed are discharged, a sum equivalent to the interest which would have been so received."

Nor can the case arise in future in Calcutta save in one instance. If a long-term loan is sanctioned with option to the Corporation to pay it off on an intermediate date, the Sinking Fund payments will be calculated on the whole term of the loan, and there will not of course be enough to repay the loan on the intermediate date; the Bill provides that the balance shall be borrowed in the open market; the Corporation would wish to borrow it from the sinking fund. In every other case as regards future loans there will be sufficient in the sinking fund of that particular loan to repay it and no borrowing will be necessary. The borrowing is really asked for by the Corporation to meet the case of outstanding loans. I have already pointed out that the sinking fund A, which covers all these outstanding loans, is a common sinking fund and will remain a common sinking fund, but the Corporation are forbidden to borrow from it. From this sinking fund the Corporation have between now and 1921 to pay back 179 lakhs of rupees; on the 31st March last there were 25 lakhs in the fund, by 1921 with fresh payments and accumulations there will be about 80—90 lakhs there; how will borrowing from the sinking fund benefit the Corporation? Under the Bill about half of each loan will be repaid from the sinking fund and the rest borrowed; if the Corporation had their way the first few loans would be completely repaid from the sinking fund and the remaining loans would have to be reborrowed. Where is the advantage? Even if all the other sinking funds were raided, the Corporation would be practically no better off.

In point of fact the Corporation cannot point to any advantage from borrowing from the sinking fund. Let us recognize that it is borrowing—and the provision for the continued payment of interest to the sinking fund on the money so taken out shows clearly that it is borrowing—and if you recognize this, it becomes clear at once that there is no essential benefit. Borrowed money has to be repaid; there is no provision for its repayment out of revenue, and it must therefore be reborrowed; and this principle of repayment from a common sinking fund resolves itself into merely postponement of borrowing. The claim that 1 per cent. in interest was saved by this has been abandoned (and this perhaps is one of the justifications of the nine months' postponement of the Bill); as the loan has to be raised eventually there is no ultimate saving in stamp duty, and the only possible claim to advantage is that the payment of stamp duty may perhaps be shifted from those who ought to pay on to the shoulders of a future generation who can't help themselves.

But it will be asked why, if there are no advantages, is the system quoted with approval at home? I have already explained the circumstances which justify Corporations at home being given a very free hand with their sinking funds, but this form of repayment from a common sinking fund may be of great advantage to them. In the first place, local bodies at home, speaking generally (there are a few exceptions, of which Glasgow is one) as a class are not allowed to hold their own debentures; if their sinking funds are invested, it must be in outside securities. The London County Council pays  $2\frac{1}{2}$  millions into its Sinking Fund yearly; the amount paid by all local authorities is therefore very large, and up to comparatively recently the bulk of this had to be invested in Trustee securities. It very often followed that the Corporation could not get on its investments the same interest that it had to pay on its loans. In Calcutta the Sinking Fund is entirely invested in municipal debentures. A second point is this: a very large proportion of the stock at home, as an example the whole of the several millions of Birmingham stock, is redeemable at the option of the local authority on or after a fixed date; that is to say, that as long as the local authority pays into the Sinking Fund the necessary amount to redeem the loan at the time fixed by the Local Government Board, they need not redeem the stock at any time at any particular date; if on the date fixed they have not got the money in their Sinking Fund, they don't exercise the option and instead of reborrowing they run on the same securities. This power the Calcutta Corporation do not possess, and it makes a very great deal of difference in the matter of borrowing from the Sinking Fund. The Calcutta Sinking Fund is invested in municipal debentures; it is not cash lying idle and the illustration of separate tills I have heard given on several occasions is not an apt one. If you want to borrow from the Sinking Fund to repay a loan, you must sell out these debentures before you can get the cash. If the money market is adverse to the raising of a new loan, there will be equally a loss on the sale of the debentures. It is a moot point whether it is better to sell old debentures or raise new ones. I understand the Vice-Chairman is of opinion that it is cheaper to raise a new loan, and in that case this proposal to borrow from the Sinking Fund is distinctly disadvantageous. But in any case you cannot have it both ways; you cannot ask for cancellation of debentures, because it is cheaper to raise a new loan than to sell the debentures, and at the same time ask for a system of repayment from the common sinking fund, because it is cheaper to sell debentures than to raise a new loan.

I oppose this proposal for borrowing from the Sinking Fund for the repayment of loans. That is practically what it comes to. The Corporation themselves admit that, so far as anything else is concerned, the power which we give them over the separate sinking funds under the Bill is equal to what they would get under a common sinking fund, except in this matter, that they cannot borrow to repay a loan from them; and it is on this point that Government is opposed to a common sinking fund. I oppose this, because it offends against the principle which, as I explained yesterday, Government considers vital ; viz., that the sinking fund should be in the simplest possible form which will ensure that on the date on which the debt is to be paid, the money will be there. But I claim to have shown that all other advantages of a common sinking fund are inherent in our proposals, and that Calcutta is not placed at any disadvantage in comparison with other Presidency towns. I ask the Council therefore to reject the amendment."

The Hon'ble RAI RADHA CHARAN PAL BAHADUR said :—

"Sir, since 1876 under successive Acts of the Bengal Council a Common Sinking Fund has been maintained by the Calcutta Corporation. Since then the Act has been amended no less than four times, but the provision for a Common Sinking Fund was never deemed unsatisfactory nor called for any amendment. Sir, now that it is proposed to make a change by substituting separate funds for a common fund, it is pertinent to enquire what are the reasons which have led to the proposal for the change. I do not think it is seriously urged that the Common Sinking Fund is responsible for the shortage that has occurred in the fund. It cannot be too often reiterated that the shortage occurred on account of the cessation of payment to the end of 47 years of the Sinking Fund contribution and interest on the money withdrawn from it for repayment of certain debentures. These debentures were issued, some for 15 years, some for 20 and some for 30 years. It is well known that 1 per cent. yearly contribution from the revenue to the sinking fund, growing at 3 per cent., compound interest, would produce the full amount of the loan at the end of 47 years. After 15, 20 or 30 years, at the time of repayment of those debentures, the money for their repayment was withdrawn from the common fund, but on account of a defective wording in the Act the interest would not be paid and the Sinking Fund contribution was not continued on the amount withdrawn, but if the same had been paid for the remaining unexpired term of such loans there would not have been any deficiency in the common fund. If the said debentures had also been issued for full 47 years instead of 15, 20 and 30 years, the Sinking Fund contribution would have continued according to law, and the full amount of the loan would have accumulated in 47 years. There would have been no shortage and no occasion would have arisen for the amendment of the Act. The period of debentures was with the sanction of Government made shorter than the period of the loan for obvious advantage to the Corporation. Debentures in the past with currency for 20 or 30 years carried interest at 5 and  $4\frac{1}{2}$  per cent., and the Corporation was enabled to take advantage of the money market after 20 or 30 years to reduce the interest to 4 per cent., which they would not have succeeded in doing if the debentures had a currency of 47 years, the full period of the loan. How can it therefore be contended that the Common Sinking Fund was in fault? How does the necessity arise for abolishing the Common Sinking Fund? In the letter of the Government of Bengal issued over the signature of the hon'ble member in charge, it is stated that the Government of Bengal wrote to the Corporation, as soon as it was brought to its notice, that there was a shortage in the Sinking Fund, that necessary separate accounts of the sinking funds should be kept and that it was to be ensured that each loan could be paid from its own sinking fund. This might be done either by raising the Sinking Fund or by lengthening the term of the loans; but there were objections to both courses. All that is now necessary with a view to prevent further shortage is to ensure the continuance of payment to the Sinking Fund of interest and yearly contribution for the amount already withdrawn or required to be withdrawn for payment to the debenture-holders before the expiry of period of the loans, and also to authorise the payment of the amount due on account of the shortage that has already occurred owing to the defect in the Act. I respectfully submit therefore that the necessity for separate sinking funds does not arise. The common sinking fund is recognised not only in the Calcutta Municipal Act for the last 38 years, but for several years in Bombay the law regarding repayment of loans out of a common fund has been administered with advantage. The Select Committee recognized the utility of a common sinking fund for investment purposes only and not for repayment, and the advantage of treating the sinking fund as common for selling the debentures held therein is obvious, as then the Corporation would be free to sell out of the common fund whichever investment is advantageous to sell at due date of repayment of outstanding debentures when they fell due. Separate accounts will be kept to ensure the payment of sinking fund contributions in respect of each loan. Whenever money is available in the sinking fund it must be invested, and the investment may be in municipal debentures. The sinking fund of a particular loan might contain debentures of different loans, and when the time for the repayment of the debenture of one particular loan arrived, the debentures of other loans invested in the sinking fund of that loan would have to be sold to repay the debentures of the loan in question for which separate sinking funds are created. In effect, therefore, it will be a common sinking fund. In several English municipalities the sinking fund is recognised as common both for purposes of investment and repayment. In such municipalities specific loans are treated as debts, for a whole and a common sinking fund is set up for all loans. In the report of the Select Committee appointed by the House of Commons the following reference was made to the St. Helen's Corporation Act, 1898 :—

"This Act (St. Helen's Corporation Act, 1898) contains a series of sections, . . . to set up a common sinking fund and a common interest fund for all loans . . . to enable the Corporation to use for new borrowing powers moneys paid to the common sinking fund. The general effect was to establish specific loans under specific powers. No loan would be earmarked to any particular fund, account or borrowing power, but would merely represent to the lender a security for a certain sum of money borrowed by the Corporation under all their borrowing powers taken together, and to the Corporation so much debt."

The Local Government Board in England do not insist upon the keeping and maintenance of a separate sinking fund for each loan, and the Stock Regulations of 1891 framed by the Local Government Board in England contemplate a common sinking fund. As to the advantages of a common sinking fund I beg to refer to the report of the Special Committee of the Corporation on the Calcutta Improvement Bill in which the Hon'ble Mr. Payne, the then Acting Chairman, stated as follows :—

"The experience of the Corporation has shown that separate accounts should be kept of the sinking fund of such a loan, but this should not prevent the Trust from utilizing the money in the whole fund for the repayment of any particular loan."

This is, Sir, the opinion of our Chairman and, I believe, that he still holds that opinion.

Now, Sir, the Report, from which I have quoted, states that there is not much objection to the recognition of the common sinking fund, but it is merely stated that it is much simpler, although the difficulty could be obviated by the insertion of a clause that a separate account would be kept; but still the Government finds that this procedure of treating each loan separately for repayment is much simpler. I do not find any particular except this general statement that in the absence of any substantial advantages to the Corporation, the Government is unable to reconsider their decision. That shows that Government has not altogether made up its mind, but if the Corporation would make out some case for the continuance of the sinking fund, then perhaps Government would be prepared to allow the clause to stand in the present Bill.

Sir, as I have stated, I have not been able to understand what good grounds have been urged for abolishing the common sinking fund. I think the onus is on the Hon'ble Member in charge, as he wants to take away this provision from our Act. Then as regards the substantial advantages to the Corporation—of course I have listened to his very able speech—I must admit that the case can be argued from both sides. It has been argued very ably by the Hon'ble Member in charge from his point of view. I have been consulting our financial expert and discussing this from the opposite point of view, and what I find is this. Assume there are five sinking funds for five separate loans (a), (b), (c), (d) and (e), and in (a) we have got 20 lakhs accumulated, (b) 15 lakhs and so on and the total accumulation in the five funds amounts to 50 lakhs, when the time comes for repayment of loan (a) amounting to say 50 lakhs we cannot only withdraw the 20 lakhs accumulated in (a), but also the remaining 30 lakhs from the common fund (b) to (e), and in order to avoid shortage in the common fund the Corporation should continue to pay loan charges on the whole amount of the sinking fund applied to the repayment of the loan."

The HON'BLE the VICE-PRESIDENT said :—

"I must warn the hon'ble member that he is about to reach his time-limit, as I don't want to stop him summarily."

THE HON'BLE RAI RADHA CHARAN PAL BAHADUR, continuing, said :—

"Sir, I have a motion on this subject but on somewhat different lines.

What I find is this, that under the existing law a sum of 30 lakhs is to be borrowed from the Common Sinking Fund, and when the next loan (b) is to be repaid, say after 10 years, we have to borrow the excess over the actual accumulation in the common Sinking Fund at the time, but the advantage is this that we shall not have to pay the stamp duty which must be paid if a new loan is raised for 30 lakhs from the market instead of borrowing from the Sinking Fund. We shall be saved payment of stamp duty for 10 years thereby, and we shall have the advantage of that sum to carry out further additional work. That is a point, Sir, which goes in our favour. Of course the advantage is not very considerable, but still when we have got it, it should not be taken away.

In view, however, of the warning given by you, Sir, I must now conclude."

The HON'BLE MR. NORMAN MCLEOD said :—

"Sir, I have listened with great care and with the greatest respect to the speech of the hon'ble Mover of this amendment. While he favoured us with many opinions gathered from outside sources as to the advantages of a common sinking fund, I failed to find a single argument in his speech as to what particular substantial advantage such a fund would be to the Calcutta Corporation. It might be my fault, but I may say in this I have many associates.

It is admitted that the practice in England permits of a common sinking fund and the borrowing therefrom.

But what is admissible in an English town may not be expedient in Calcutta.

Conditions here are entirely different and anything to do with public finance should be placed upon the simplest basis.

The Indian community in this city are only just beginning to realise the duties and responsibilities of municipal life based on Western ideals, and the European community as a whole is far too busy to take any active and direct interest in municipal affairs. We have no leisured class to give up a large portion of their time in criticism and in assistance. All we can say is that like some of the western cities of America, we are willing to pay to have things properly done.

The effects of allowing the Municipality greater discretion in the manipulation of its finances and sinking funds, theoretically legitimate though that manipulation may be, may produce results little expected by those who advocate such discretion.

It may injuriously affect the credit and borrowing power of the Municipality

The general public may refuse to lend money to the Corporation at 4 per cent., unless it be clearly understood that under a rigid system of contributions to sinking funds, the cash to redeem such loans, on due dates, becomes automatically available and is specially earmarked for that purpose.

I have it on the best authority that the Bank of Bengal are the largest individual supporters of municipal loans in Calcutta, more than 50 per cent. of the total amount tendered for the last two loans having come from them, and anything tending to alienate the sympathy of that Bank should be carefully avoided.

And I strongly advise my hon'ble friends to drop this idea of a common sinking fund in the meantime, if it carries with it, as I understand it does, the intention to borrow from it for other works, for, amongst other things, I think it will injure the borrowing power of the Corporation. Which therefore is it best to choose, the possible advantage of a common sinking fund, or the possibility of a decrease in the popularity of our Corporation securities. As a business man I should certainly say let the Common Sinking Fund go.

I must, therefore, oppose the amendment.

The HON'BLE MR. CHAKRAVARTI said :—

“ Sir, I shall be very brief indeed, but I want to put this matter before this House from the point of view of a man who has no experience as a Municipal Commissioner and who does not pretend to be a financial expert. The point is this, that, so far as this question is concerned, it appears to me that this Bill does recognize a sinking fund. The whole difficulty is as regards the question whether that sinking fund may be utilized for purposes of paying loans. That is to say, if each of the loans is to be earmarked then the money in each of the particular till or particular account can only be utilized for the purpose of paying off that loan. Well, from the point of view of an ordinary man, for example, if I am indebted to the extent of Rs. 5,000, with regard to a particular person and I keep three accounts, and I have in account A Rs. 2,000, in account B Rs. 2,000 and in account C Rs. 2,000, it would strike an ordinary man that I am entitled to take the Rs. 5,000, say Rs. 2,000 from account A, Rs. 1,500 from account B and so on, and pay off the loan. But what I understand is this, that although the total accumulation in your sinking fund, may amount to the whole sum which is necessary for paying off the Rs. 5,000, you must go and borrow from the money-lender in the open market. Perhaps, you go to a private individual,—I am not suggesting this in regard to a Municipal Corporation,—say a Hathkhola money-lender, and pay 15, 20 or 30 per cent. interest. From the point of view of an ordinary man it seems to me that it is a mysterious thing.

It is suggested that in point of fact there is a difference with regard to the English practice and the Indian practice, because in England the Corporations borrow on mortgage, and here in India you do not borrow on mortgage, but you borrow on debentures. That is rather a startling statement to a lawyer because debenture after all is a mortgage in law. It is nothing else, but a mortgage, and where you have a sinking fund in connection with the English Corporations, the mortgage there must mean a mortgage by means of a debenture. Then, what is suggested is that it makes a difference because the money in your three tills which I have referred to may have been invested in Government securities in England, but here they have to be invested in Municipal debentures. What difference does it make? I have got the money and if I am allowed to pay the money out of the three tills I can pay off. I think that what is suggested is that you must not take a single rupee from the other tills for the purpose of paying off your loan, but you must go to the general public for the purpose of raising a loan. It may be sound finance : I do not pretend to be familiar with finance and I cannot appreciate it.

Then the next thing is this. The motion which stands in the name of the hon'ble Mover with regard to the amendment (67A), which authorizes the investment of the Sinking Fund money as a common fund without any necessity to allocate to any particular fund, makes it absolutely impossible to resist the conclusion that if there is no allocation with regard to the debentures to any particular loan, then when you float those debentures in the way of selling them for the purpose of getting liquid cash then you are really borrowing from one fund to the other fund. However, this is only for the purpose of pointing out the confusion we are getting into by our learning and by references to Turner and Clare and all the names celebrated with regard to these matters. What we are doing is this. It is to be noticed that there is a provision in the Bill [clause 141(e)] under which the Accountant-General is authorized to look into the account of each Sinking Fund and he is to count the cash, he is to count the securities, and if the funds are not equal to the amount which ought to be in that till then he can call upon the Municipality to put that money into that till. Well what is to happen? You hold these debentures as securities against all your loans, and when the Accountant-General comes and looks into the account and says with regard to this particular loan that you have not allocated any debentures to this, and therefore the securities are short, you get into confusion worse confounded. It is suggested, for example, with regard to Bombay that although they have the power they do not exercise it—that may be so. It is much better, it appears to me, instead of shewing particular zeal for innovation, to follow the English practice where they have dealt with this matter for ages. They have groped and groped, and by experience they have learnt, and, we cannot do better than to follow them. I am not impressed very much by what fell from my friend, the Hon'ble Mr. McLeod.

If in point of fact there are any conditions, and you point out that there are conditions in Calcutta which make it impossible or make it unfair that the English practice is to be followed, then by all means take into consideration the local conditions. Now it is suggested that there may possibly be a depreciation, that is, that the debentures will not be valued so much as they are valued now. In point of fact, the credit of the Calcutta Corporation in the money market stands fairly high, and no debenture-holder has suggested that he is in any way concerned about the common Sinking Fund, although it has existed for the last 30 years. Under these circumstances my submission to the house is that this is a measure which ought to be accepted. I know in point of fact that it will not be accepted, and I might describe this more as a sinking ship than an amendment to the common sinking fund. Those are the observations I desired to make."

"I am sure we have all listened with very great interest to the speech of the Hon'ble Mr. McLeod on this subject. He does not often speak, and as a commercial man he is entitled to speak with authority on a matter like this; but apart from the personal authority which he must carry in a controversy of this kind, his arguments must be tested like the arguments of other persons unconnected with commercial concerns. One of the very first observations which the Hon'ble Mr. McLeod made was "I don't find the smallest justification for a common sinking fund". I think the case ought to be stated just the other way. We have a common sinking fund at the present moment. You propose to make a departure. The burden of proof is upon you, not upon me. I am in favour of keeping the old state of things as they are. You propose to make a change. That change is in entire conflict with the traditions of Municipal Government in this country, and I may add in conflict with the traditions of Municipal Government elsewhere. I contend that the onus of proof is not upon me, but upon you. Have you discharged the responsibility which lies upon you? I say, no you have not. The Hon'ble Mr. McLeod observed, "Take care you don't make a leap in the dark. You may be jeopardising the credit of the Corporation." Let us therefore take our stand on the credit of the Corporation. We have had a common Sinking Fund since 1876 or perhaps earlier, and since that time the credit of the Corporation has grown by leaps and bounds; it has steadily grown, from 6 per cent. the interest came down to 5 per cent., from 5 per cent. it came down to 4 per cent., and if the Government will allow the Corporation to borrow on their own account, it will still further be reduced. Therefore the fact stands out in clear relief that having a common Sinking Fund the credit of the Corporation instead of being depreciated has risen. Therefore there is not the smallest chance of their credit disappearing or even being jeopardised by continuing the system under which the credit has risen to that extent. Further, not only is there no chance of our jeopardising the credit of the Corporation, but I say you may perhaps jeopardise that credit by taking a leap in the dark and having a separate instead of a common sinking fund. The experiences of civilised mankind—I use the expression in a very broad sense—the experience of municipal institutions in all other parts of the world testify to the fact that the common sinking fund has been found to be useful, profitable and serviceable, and that is the opinion, as my hon'ble friend behind reminds me of Mr. Payne, the head of the Calcutta Corporation. That being so, what is the justification for your making this departure? I know what the justification is. Some little hitch occurred some two or three years back in connection with a particular Municipal fund and then an explanation was forthcoming as to that hitch. The explanation was from the then Lieutenant-Governor, the late Sir Edward Baker, a trained financier. He did not suggest that you should dispense with the common sinking fund, and have a separate sinking fund. If that was the remedy that occurred to him, that trained financier would have made the suggestion. The suggestion was not that there should not be one common sinking fund, but that there should be separate accounts. That is what we pray for—to have a common sinking fund, with separate accounts. I think there is not the smallest justification for doing away with this common sinking fund. I think it is a risky experiment upon which you are embarking and you are embarking on it in the face of the unanimous testimony of Municipal Corporations all over the world and in the face of the deliberate and weighty opinion of the Corporation supported by its official head. I think you are committing a mistake, and it is my duty to record my most emphatic protest against a leap into the dark opposed to the traditions and experiences of Municipal Corporations in India and elsewhere. I hope, therefore, my hon'ble friend's amendment will be accepted."

The HON'BLE MR. BOWPAS said—

"May I as a rate-payer of Calcutta be allowed to say a few words with regard to what the Hon'ble Mr. Surendra Nath Banerji calls a "little hitch." This "little hitch" was a shortage in the sinking fund of several lakhs of rupees and it has been treated throughout the discussions which have taken place in regard to this Bill as a minor matter by the two non-official representatives of the Corporation. We are told that the Corporation is not responsible. There was a little defect in the law which unfortunately prevented them from arranging to pay their debts. If the provisions in the law had that effect, and we will assume they had, it was their duty to bring it to the notice of Government and to have it remedied. Unfortunately they allowed it to go on for years making no arrangements for the payment of the debts of their predecessors. Mr. Apcar said that it was a trifling matter and that the sinking fund does not constitute the security for loans that the general rate of Calcutta is security for loans. That is true in a sense, but it does not help the rate-payers regarded as individuals. If you ask me what is the result of this shortage to me and the present generation of rate-payers, I say that we for the next ten years will have to pay two-thirds of a lakh of rupees annually for improvements that were carried out about 1881, and of which, for all I know, the utility has been entirely exhausted. According to the pledges held out to the public that should have been paid for by our predecessors. This is the little hitch that the Hon'ble Mr. Surendra Nath Banerji referred to. If such a miscalculation had occurred in the affairs of a Corporation in one of the large towns in England, it would not be called by any words that would tend to represent it as an insignificant matter; but everybody concerned in the affair would have had to quit the service of the Corporation. I think every business man will agree with me in that statement. If the non-official members of the Corporation had come in sackcloth and ashes and admitted that their predecessors did make a mistake, and that they appreciate that it was a serious mistake, instead of defending it as they do, and undertaken that they would make arrangements to insure against an recurrence of that mistake, it might be possible to place some reliance on the spirit in which they deal with their finances; on the contrary it is minimised by Mr. Apcar and his supporters and I as a rate-payer prefer that there should be some hard-and-fast system. The point is that the control of Government over a common sinking fund was insufficient to detect the shortage that was occurring, and I, as a rate-payer, would be perfectly pleased, if Government says we will have a simple system which will render it easier to control that fund. That seems to me to be a justification for the Government policy. It is true that in England you find common sinking funds advantageous: but it is not so simple a question as Mr. Chakravarti

Whatever you do it is a question of borrowing money in one way or another. Of course it is possible that you might save a certain amount in stamp duties by borrowing from the sinking fund instead of from the public. That is the only advantage, so far as I know. And the counteradvantage—I am not speaking from the point of view of an investor, as Mr. Norman McLeod did but from the point of view of the rate-payers in Calcutta who will have to pay for what their predecessors should have paid for—is a greater simplicity which will render effective control by Government easy.”

The Hon'ble Mr. LYON said :—

“I would like to say a few words before Mr. Apcar replies. I wish, with reference to a phrase used by Mr. Apcar, to make our position quite clear. Mr. Apcar referred to the “persistent opposition” that we were offering to these proposals. I think we have some right to deprecate that phrase, considering to what a very large extent and with what a great deal of care we have met the Corporation and the Hon'ble Mr. Apcar on every point on which we found that certain principles we could not abandon were not involved. But when the Hon'ble Mr. Apcar referred to persistent opposition, he must realise, as this house has, I think, realised for some time, that the word “compromise” is not included in his vocabulary. If we grant him a concession on a point on which we think we can grant it without weakening the principles we are defending, Mr. Apcar at once takes up his position on that new point in order to fight us the better on the points we have not conceded. I speak for the Government when I say that we have the greatest appreciation for the industry and care with which Mr. Apcar has dealt with this question, and I think it is a matter of great congratulation that the Corporation of Calcutta possesses a member like Mr. Apcar who is ready to devote his time and energies to dealing with important questions like this. We realise also the great authority of the books and Acts that he has quoted, and we fully understand how sound the advisers are whom he has consulted. But it is our misfortune that our standpoint with reference to this case is so entirely different from his that we are quite unable to trust the case he has put before these counsellors. I have very little doubt from reading the quotations that he has given in his pamphlet, that if we had the placing of our case on the present Bill before the same authorities that Mr. Apcar has consulted, we should have obtained from those authorities an emphatic approval of the Bill that we are now putting before the Council. And one of the reasons for this is that in the case that Mr. Apcar has placed before his advisers he has failed from his own showing to suggest that there should be any difference whatsoever between municipal legislation in this country and municipal legislation in England. In the course of his pamphlet he has pointed out several times that this perfected legislation to which he has invited our attention is of comparatively recent growth in England, that a few years back they were wallowing in the same marsh in which we are wallowing now, and that they had not then received the enlightenment that they now possess. Is it too much for me to suggest that in the progress that we have hitherto made in municipal law and municipal practice in India, we have not advanced beyond the state of England a few years back? And a remedy which may be good in England at the present moment may not be good for us. I made reference yesterday to the fact, and so did Mr. Stephenson, that we have not got a body like the Local Government Board at home, and the Hon'ble Mr. Surendra Nath Banerjee, with that quickness in debate for which he is conspicuous, said : “Why not create one?” My answer is that it is entirely impossible. It is not a question merely of placing three or four men on a Municipal Board to deal with these matters. These men cannot be given the experience of the transactions of large Corporations, with their own complicated legislation, which forms such an invaluable training for the Local Government Board in England. That Board has had many years' experience of large financial transactions connected with many Corporations, whereas we in India have perhaps only two bodies to compare with those Corporations. For anything in that way it is quite impossible that we should have either the means or the experience at present, and that is one of the reasons why we are bound at the present moment to be cautious in dealing with the question of a common sinking fund. The Hon'ble Mr. Surendra Nath Banerjee has told us that the whole of the experience of civilisation supports him in the claim for a common sinking fund for Calcutta, but he omitted to state that the reason why a common sinking fund was required in other countries is that it is required for the purpose of borrowing from it; and we have already heard from the Hon'ble Mr. Stephenson, and it has not been controverted, that unless the Corporation are permitted to borrow from that sinking fund and to utilise it in the repayment of loans, they do not attach any importance to it. I regret, as Mr. Stephenson regrets (and I associate myself with him in the words he used), that the Hon'ble Mr. Aparcar should have tried to argue that the Government were detracting from the gracious message conveyed to the Corporation by His Excellency the Viceroy. I think that it is extremely unfortunate that the Hon'ble Mr. Aparcar should have made such a charge or such a suggestion. It is well known to the Council that the policy which has been adopted by the Government of India in the matter which was referred to by His Excellency the Viceroy is the policy adopted at our request and on our suggestion, and to turn and twist a phrase of His Excellency the Viceroy's into a suggestion that he promised something further than that which we are prepared to grant is, I think, a suggestion which should not have been made. The Hon'ble Mr. Chakravarti suggested, "as a plain man without special financial experience" that he would like to deal with these funds just as a private gentleman might deal with his own cash kept by him in separate private tills, but I would suggest that there is something different between tills in which a shop-keeper keeps his money and the trust funds which have been created for the satisfaction of the creditors from whom he has borrowed. Practically these sinking funds are trust funds which have been created to sustain the credit of the Corporation, and to ensure that the money which has been borrowed will be repaid at the proper time. I do not think that we should deal with the money in those funds in exactly the same way as we should deal with our private balance at the bank. He also suggested that the power to invest in their own debentures which we have given to the Corporation means just the same as the borrowing to which we object. In that, again, I hardly think we should agree with him, because by means of our separate sinking funds we insure that in each sinking fund must remain, whatever the securities may be, the proper amount which should have accumulated from time to time in that fund. I would remind the Council, finally, that in the action which we are now taking, we have the support of an exceptionally strong Select Committee, which, with the exception of the two members of the Corporation who objected to this part of the Select Committee's Report and wrote notes of dissent therefrom, approved the course which we propose to take. We have also—and I value it very greatly—the support of the commercial community of Calcutta, and I hold that the commercial community of Calcutta are in a better position than any other body of men whom we could consult to consider what is good for the credit of the Corporation of Calcutta. Our proposals are made in defence of the credit of the Corporation of Calcutta, and it is that credit which is being attacked in the proposal which is now made."

The HON'BLE MR. APCAR said :—

"Mr. President, the whole of this discussion lately has been pursued with regard to borrowing from the sinking fund, if it is going to be a common sinking fund. What is the meaning of borrowing from a common sinking fund? It is no more borrowing from that fund than borrowing from any separate sinking fund. The mercantile representative, on whom the Hon'ble Mr. Lyon relied so much, said that our borrowing capacity would be impaired. Does he know what our borrowing capacity is? I should like to know if he does know. Will he tell me what our borrowing capacity is, in what it consists?"

The HON'BLE MR. McLEOD : No.

The HON'BLE MR. APCAR :

"No; he says he does not. One of the advantages of a common sinking fund is to avoid borrowing to repay debentures at due date. If the Corporation are made to have a separate sinking fund, they will have to borrow when with a common sinking they need not borrow. The Hon'ble Mr. Norman McLeod appears to think that the borrowing capacity is increased by borrowing. That is his policy. If that is his mercantile policy, I hope he may soon change it, because if he thinks that by borrowing you increase your credit, then may Providence save his companies and his firm. I cannot help thinking of what Sir Herbert Risley said with regard to his community, that those who are the least qualified to judge are most ready to criticise. So far as our borrowing capacity is concerned,—it is in the Bill : he has not read it : if the Hon'ble Member will look at section 130, he will see that it is 10 per cent. on the rateable value. That is what the borrowing capacity is based on. We say that is not wise when we have plenty of funds in our hands, when we can pay out of funds which we hold, that we should be compelled to go into the market to borrow for the repayment of debentures. Let me refer the Hon'ble Member to clause 130, where he will find that our 'borrowing capacity shall not exceed 10 per cent. of the annual rateable value of buildings and land.' That is what our borrowing capacity is. As for borrowing from our common sinking fund, it is no less borrowing than from any separate sinking fund. It is a matter I shall better deal with in my reply to the Hon'ble Member in charge. It is one of the strongest arguments that has been inspired by the Hon'ble Mr. McLeod, that it is our borrowing capacity that would be constantly affected by our going to the market to borrow if we have to maintain separate sinking funds. I understand, the Hon'ble Member to say that our borrowing capacity would be affected."

The HON'BLE MR. MCLEOD said :—"The borrowing capacity is the ability to borrow."

The HON'BLE MR. APCAR, continuing, said : "Our ability to borrow is limited only by the reserve funds that may be available to pay loan charges, and our borrowing capacity of 10 per cent. on our rateable value of buildings and lands to which I have referred. We have not nearly encroached, and so far as the Corporation are concerned, the more fresh loans we have raised, the better has our borrowing capacity grown because we use the fresh loans for the improvement of the amenities of the town, and that enhances our rateable value. That is what our experience has been. Our rateable value has grown by leaps and bounds accordingly as we have borrowed and spent money to improve the amenities of the town. The hon'ble the Chairman of the Corporation is present here, and I know that he will agree with me when I say that the enormous strides that we have made in the increase of our income is a very remarkable fact. I have been led to refer to this point because of the criticisms that have been passed on our excessive borrowing. But in borrowing to repay debentures, the money obtained from which has already been expended on capital works, different considerations are involved. Then with regard to other matters, there is the Hon'ble Mr. Lyon who has, not for the first time, twitted me. I do not mind in the least, but he must not take it amiss if I retaliate. It is said by the hon'ble gentleman that we cannot have a Local Government Board, but he forgets possibly that it was one of the recommendations of Lord Morley that we should have a Local Government Board or something in the nature of one."

The HON'BLE BABU SURENDRA NATH BANERJI said : "Lord Ripon."

The HON'BLE MR. APCAR : "No ; I beg the Hon'ble Member's pardon. Lord Morley, in his despatch, most distinctly said that it would be advisable to have a department similar to the Local Government Board at Westminster and that is what I have relied on again and again. That is what I think perhaps is all that is necessary to have municipal affairs properly conducted. But for a common sinking fund such a department will not be required. The Accountant-General could exercise all the control that would be required. Why should we not have a Local Government Board ?"

The HON'BLE MR. LYON said :—"I beg the hon'ble gentleman's pardon. I did not say that it was impossible to constitute a Local Government Board. I said that our Local Government Board would be very inferior to the Local Government Board at home, which is a very different matter."

The HON'BLE MR. APCAR, continuing, said :—"Well, I daresay it will, but that is no reason why you should not have a Local Government Board such as is possible, and get experts out from England to advise us how to set it up ; but we do not do anything. I have been urging the necessity of a Local Government Board for years and I am met always by a non possumus. It is not as if we were asking for anything bad, but the want of an expert department of Government is a source always of confusion and want of confidence in the sanction and construction of our large works. That is what we want—the best we can get in the interests of the public.”

The Hon'ble Mr. Lyon depends very much on what has been done and the enlightenment and advance we have seen in our municipal affairs. Why, Sir, from the first we have been half a century behind ! In 1875, this very proposal with regard to the life of an asset in prescribing a loan, which I have had the honour to submit, was passed by Parliament, and at that very time, in 1876, nothing was done by the Government out here to obtain information, to legislate, and to give a system that had been tried and approved in Great Britain ; but we were given a system that had been abandoned long years before ; and we have continued not in an enlightened but in a benighted way. When the Hon'ble Member says that I have not the word “compromise” in my vocabulary, I could not help thinking as the Hon'ble Member was speaking that I regard our proposals very much in the nature of two and two making four. I do not want to disparage the hon'ble gentleman's capacity at all, because great minds overlook such little details. I remember a story how Lord Kelvin, when lecturing to his students in Glasgow, made a ridiculous slip in simple addition of the same character. It is said, now that it is conceded that two and two make four, that I must accept as a compromise that two and three do not make five. That is the Hon'ble Mr. Lyon's idea of a compromise. The Hon'ble Member's idea of a compromise is on the same plane as that, and it is nothing but that. How can I compromise, on such terms ? When enlightenment comes to the Hon'ble Mr. Lyon, what will he say of me, if I agree, like a courtier, who always acquiesces in whatever proposition is made to him. If, therefore, I agreed that two and three do not make five, would it not be handed down for ever against me, and when enlightenment comes to the Hon'ble Member, will he not think me a noodle for my complaisance ? Unfortunately, as the Hon'ble Member says, our standpoints are different. I am sorry that they are, and if only the hon'ble gentleman had taken the same precautions as I have, he would have been able to place the matter such as it stands before the same experts, or any experts he might have chosen. I know what their answer would have been. The statement on which the experts have given their views is in my address to the Trades Association, of which the Hon'ble Member had a copy for a long time. I challenge criticism of it. It is a perfectly fair and true representation of the matter. It is one of my grievances that there has been no attempt by the Government to get any opinion or any expert views. What have we perceived ? The Select Committee on this Bill the Hon'ble Member speaks of as a strong Committee. In what was their strength ? In their knowledge of the subject ? The Committee was composed of the most estimable gentlemen, but did any one of the Government Members or the mercantile Member know anything about the subject which they were called upon to revise ? Do they know anything about municipal finance ? In England this is not the way in which affairs are conducted. There, they are not too superior to ask advice, but get witnesses before them to give their expert testimony, and then they are able to judge ; but here, apparently, minds are closed—the responsible authorities proceed as if they have nothing more to learn. Why, Sir, talk about the Select Committee ? What, from first to last, is this precious Bill which has come to this Council ? Is it such as would be considered correct anywhere else ? What would the experts, legal or financial, say of it ? I would very much like the hon'ble gentleman to have submitted this Bill for opinion to the Local Government Department. It would be a wholesome experience for the Government to learn what they would say. But the Hon'ble Member in charge has been in England on leave. I have reason for thinking that he has been in communication with the Local Government Board. Why is he so reserved regarding what he learned ? As for our desires being to a large extent met, I am always glad to compromise where no principle is involved, but what has been met ? The most important principle which we have pressed for has been clear and distinct. We have wanted it to be made clear and distinct, free from the ambiguities and uncertainties caused by the letter of Government, but the amendment by which we tried to secure that result was thrown out. What could be more directly controverted than the idea which has been entertained that a common sinking fund would be lowering our borrowing ability or capacity or whatever is said? The security for our loans does not depend on the sinking fund. I do not minimise the fact of the shortage. The Hon'ble Mr. Bompas, with that finality of expression of opinion which I so much admire, has come to tell us that I have been representing that the shortage was only a minor matter. I have never thought it a minor matter: I think it is a very serious matter, and as for immediately submitting the matter to Government and seeking or doing anything to prevent its recurring, we did do all that. As soon as it was found out, we communicated the fact to the Government and we voluntarily have been placing to the credit of a separate account large sums of money annually, over Rs. 3,00,000. It is earmarked for the purpose of meeting this particular shortage."

The Hon'ble Mr. STEPHENSON said :—

"Sir, may I ask if there has been any attempt to pay that money into the sinking fund, whether under the provisions of this Bill or otherwise?"

The Hon'ble Mr. APCAR, continuing, said :—

"May I ask the hon'ble gentleman whether we have got any authority now to pay it into the sinking fund? It is a most amazing thing if the Hon'ble Member in charge even yet does not know that the Corporation cannot pay it into the sinking. The law forbids it, and that is how our present difficulty has been brought about. As a matter of fact, we have been setting apart a sum annually since we discovered the shortage, but I do not know whether it is permissible by law for us to do it, nevertheless we have continued to set it apart and we do not touch it. We do not pay it into the sinking fund because we cannot do so. If such a thing were discovered in England, the Local Government Board would come readily to help, in order to enable the difficulty to be overcome, but here we have been only able to earmark a sum annually and this we have been doing for years, and we have done this because we wish to show that we are to be true to our Trust. As for the control of the sinking fund being with Government, in what manner is that control to be exercised by Government? In what manner would it be different if there was a common sinking fund and separate accounts were kept? With a common sinking fund we would be in the best position; it would be a more simple arrangement, we should know exactly how matters were by our accounts, that is, each separate loan would have a distinct pro for and account: we would know exactly what we were doing, that we were not falling short in our payment from reserve, and that we were not paying over and above what was due. That is what has been done, and it is being continued to be done, with perfect regularity elsewhere. There is no difficulty about it: the difficulties are only in the imagination of those who desire to oppose us. If the Hon'ble Members will only look at it fairly and squarely, it will be seen that these accounts are all that we need, to make our common sinking fund practicable and useful. It is rather difficult for me to take up each word of criticism by the Hon'ble Mr. Lyon, but I cannot pass over the disparaging remarks which have been made, in the last instance, by the hon'ble gentleman upon my comment on what His Excellency the Viceroy said. It is as well for me to state plainly just what was said. Mind you, Sir, we did not invite this opinion; we did not seek it. It was volunteered spontaneously, on a public occasion, as a gracious intimation of the consideration shown to our representations on a question of public importance, and we were much obliged for it. The words were these: "It is hardly necessary for me to say that the intention is to treat the Corporation of Calcutta in respect of their loans in precisely the same way as the other Presidency Corporations." "In respect of their loans"—and is the sinking fund unconnected with loans? Why do we have it in the Municipal Loans Bill if it is? It is directly connected with loans, and I for one at once said when I heard His Excellency's speech (and was glad) that it was consistent with what I had heard from Sir William Meyer, that we were going to have a common sinking fund. I do not withdraw anything that I have said, and I repudiate and throw back all the aspersions which it has been attempted to throw upon me. When His Excellency was here, I knew nothing of what was being evolved in the local Financial Department. All I can say is that Sir William Meyer himself—and he has not in any way qualified it and I would not mention it if he had made any secret of his statement to me—told me when he was lately in Calcutta that we should have a common sinking fund. All I can say is that if we are not to have one, the vitality of a Government department is very great. (The Hon'ble Member was stopped at this stage, having exceeded the time-limit.)

A division was then taken with the following result :—

The result of the division being Ayes 16, Noes 31, the motion was lost.

The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur then said : " Am I not at liberty to move Amendment 28 ? "

The Hon'ble the Vice-President said : " I think not. It is identical. The rule is that identical amendments go out. "

The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur said : " Amendments 26 and 27 have been withdrawn, but I submit that I have not withdrawn Amendment 28. I may very briefly put it— "

The Hon'ble the Vice-President said : " Rule 12 is that where identical motions stand in the names of two or more members, the President shall decide whose motion shall be moved, and the other motions shall thereupon be deemed to be withdrawn. "

The Hon'ble Mr. Apear's amendment has been dealt with and lost, so that your identical amendment goes also. "

The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur said : " I respectfully submit that Amendment 27 A has not been moved by the Hon'ble Member. "

The Hon'ble Mr. Apear : " That is what I have just moved. "

The Hon'ble the Vice-President said : " We have been discussing it for the last two hours. The Hon'ble Member is out of order in seeking to move Amendment 28. We must proceed, please. "

The following motions were then, by leave of the President, withdrawn :—

List of Amendments—Motion No. 28. The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur to move that, for clause 136 (1), the following be substituted, namely :—

" (1) The Corporation shall establish and maintain a Sinking Fund for the repayment of all loans raised by the issue of debentures, and shall pay into it, in respect of each of such loans, on the first day of every half-year (commencing from the half-year next after that in which the loan is raised), until the end of the prescribed period of such loan, such equated sum as would, with accumulations in the way of compound interest at the rate prescribed under sub-section (2), be sufficient, after payment of all expenses, to repay the loan at the end of its prescribed period :

Provided that, in respect of all outstanding loans raised by the issue of debentures before the commencement of the Calcutta Municipal (Loans) Act, 1914, notwithstanding anything contained in this sub-section, the Corporation shall pay into the Sinking Fund every half-year such sum as is mentioned in section 138, clause (1) (b).

List of Amendments—Motion No. 29. The Hon'ble Mr. Apear to move that, for clause 136 (3), the following be substituted, namely :—

" (3) A separate account shall be kept showing the proportionate contributions paid into the Sinking Fund in respect of each loan and the proportionate growth of that fund. "

List of Amendments—Motion No. 30. The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur to move that, for clause 136 (3), the following be substituted, namely :—

" (3) A separate account shall be kept showing the proportionate contributions paid in to the Sinking Fund in respect of each loan and the proportionate growth of that fund. "

List of Amendments—Motion No. 31. The Hon'ble Maulvi A. K. Fazul-Haq to move that, for clause 136 (3), the following be substituted, namely :—

" (3) A separate account shall be kept of each loan, showing—
 (a) the amount of borrowed money spent,
 (b) the half-yearly contribution paid in respect thereof, and
 (c) the proportionate growth of such contribution at the rate of interest prescribed under sub-section (2). "

The discussion of Motions Nos. 13 to 25 which had, by permission of the President, been postponed to Motions Nos. 26 to 31—see page 19—was then proceeded with.

Clause 130.

List of Amendments—Motion No. 13. The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur to move that the words "the Sinking Fund" be substituted for the words "Sinking Funds" in line 5 of clause 130.

List of Amendments—Motion No. 14. The Hon'ble Mr. Apcar to move that the words "the Sinking Fund" be substituted for the words "Sinking Funds" in line 5 of clause 130.

Clause 131.

List of Amendments—Motion No. 15. The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur moved that the words "the Chairman, or Vice-Chairman and two Commissioners" be substituted for the words "such person" in line 2 of clause 131 (1).

He said :—

"My Lord, I beg to move that the words "the Chairman, or Vice-Chairman and two Commissioners" be substituted for the words "such person" in line 2 of clause 131 (1).

In clause 131 (1) it is provided that "all debentures issued under this Act shall be in such form, and signed by such person, as the Corporation may from time to time prescribe with the previous sanction of the Local Government. The present procedure is that the Chairman, or Vice-Chairman and two Commissioners sign the debentures. I believe this procedure has not been objected to by Government because no inconvenience or disadvantage has been found, and it would be much simpler to lay down the existing procedure by the substitution of the word "the Chairman, or Vice-Chairman and two Commissioners." The existing debentures are signed by the Vice-Chairman and two Commissioners, and I do not think there will be any objection to have the present procedure continued."

The Hon'ble MR. STEPHENSON said :—

"My Lord, the words "such person" have been put in by the Select Committee. The object of putting them in was to give the Corporation as wide a discretion as possible. The Corporation can adopt the present practice of having the Chairman, or Vice-Chairman and two Commissioners " or they can make it "two Commissioners" or "one Commissioner" with the previous sanction of the Local Government. The Hon'ble Member gives no reason why the discretion of the Corporation should be limited in this way, and I would suggest that it is not necessary to so limit it."

The Hon'ble MR. APCAR said :—

"My Lord, at all events the Hon'ble Member in charge will see that I am consistent in supporting the amendment. If it is to be permitted that any person can be delegated, then even a clerk can be delegated."

The Hon'ble MR. STEPHENSON said :—

"They can delegate it to anyone with the sanction of the Local Government."

The Hon'ble Mr. APCAR said :—

"I think it is better that it should be in the form that the Hon'ble Member has moved it, and for that reason I shall support the amendment."

The Hon'ble RAI RADHA CHARAN PAL BAHADUR said :—

"My Lord, I may point out that people have got accustomed to the debentures, as now issued, signed by the Chairman, or Vice-Chairman and two Commissioners, and I think it would be better to retain the present practice by statutory provision in the Bill. If this practice is changed, although the value of debentures would not in any way be affected thereby, still different signatures of different officers at different times may not perhaps be so acceptable to the public, and, as there is no harm in continuing the practice, I would ask the Hon'ble Member in charge to accept the amendment."

The motion was then put and lost.

The following motions were, by leave of the President, withdrawn :—

List of Amendments—Motion No. 16. The Hon'ble Mr. Apar to move that the words "the Chairman, or Vice-Chairman and two Commissioners" be substituted for the words "such person" in line 2 of clause 131 (1).

Clause 135.

List of Amendments—Motion No. 17. The Hon'ble Mr. Apar to move that the words "Act Amendment" be substituted for the brackets and word "(Loans)" in line 3 of clause 135.

List of Amendments—Motion No. 18. The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur to move that the words "all other loans raised by the Corporation, by issue of debentures, before the commencement of that Act, shall also be repaid by either of the following methods" be substituted for the words "by such of the following methods as may be so approved" in lines 6 and 7 of clause 135.

List of Amendments—Motion No. 19. The Hon'ble Mr. Apar to move that the words "all other loans raised by the Corporation, by issue of debentures, before the commencement of that Act, shall also be repaid by either of the following methods" be substituted for the words "by such of the following methods as may be so approved" in lines 6 and 7 of clause 135.

List of Amendments—Motion No. 20. The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur to move that the word "the" be substituted for the word "a" in line 1 of clause 135 (a).

List of Amendments—Motion No. 21. The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur to move that the words "in respect of the loan" in lines 1 and 2 of clause 135 (a) be omitted.

List of Amendments—Motion No. 22. The Hon'ble Mr. Apar to move that the words "all loans raised by the issue of debentures" be substituted for the words "the loan" in line 2 of clause 135 (a).

List of Amendments—Motion No. 23. The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur to move that the words "in respect of the loan" in line 2 of clause 135 (c) be omitted.

List of Amendments—Motion No. 24. The Hon'ble Mr. Apar to move that the words "in respect of the loan" in line 2 of clause 135 (c) be omitted.

List of Amendments—Motion No. 25. The Hon'ble Raja Hrishikesh Laha to move that, for the words "clause (c) of section 128" in line 6 of clause 135 (c), the following be substituted, namely :—

"Clauses (c) and (d) of section 128."

Clause 137.

List of Amendments—Motion No. 32. The Hon'ble Maulvi A. K. Faz-ul-Haq to move that, for clause 137, the following be substituted, namely :—

“ 137. Notwithstanding anything contained in section 136; if at any time the sum standing at credit of any loan in the separate account kept under section 136; sub-section (3), is of such amount that, if allowed to accumulate at the rate of interest prescribed under sub-section (2) of that section, it will be sufficient to repay the loan within the period prescribed for such repayment, then, with the permission of the Local Government, further half-yearly payments into the Sinking Fund may be discontinued.”

List of Amendments—Motion No. 33. The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur to move that the words “separate account” be substituted for the words “Sinking Fund established for the repayment” in lines 3 and 4 of clause 137.

List of Amendments—Motion No. 34. The Hon'ble Mr. Apcar to move that the words “separate account” be substituted for the words “Sinking Fund established for the repayment” in lines 3 and 4 of clause 137.

List of Amendments—Motion No. 35. The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur moved that the word “discharge” be substituted for the word “repay” in line 7 of clause 137.

He said :—

“My Lord, the amendment which I propose is a simple one. I beg to move that the word “discharge” be substituted for the word “repay” in line 7 of clause 137. We were advised in the Corporation when this Bill was being considered by our lawyers that this would be the proper word, and it is for the Hon'ble Member in charge to consider whether it can be accepted or not.”

The Hon'ble Mr. STEPHENSON said :—

“My Lord, the Select Committee decided at the first meeting that they would use the word “repay” as applied to a loan all through the Bill, and they have done so. I think the Hon'ble Member has overlooked the fact that this is the only occasion on which he objects to the word “repay,” and that he has passed the word “repay” elsewhere in the Bill.”

The motion was then put and lost.

The following motions were, by leave of the President, withdrawn :—

List of Amendments—Motion No. 36. The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur to move that the words “end of the prescribed period” be substituted for the words and figures “time approved under the second proviso to section 128 (1)” in lines 7 and 8 of clause 137.

List of Amendments—Motion No. 37. The Hon'ble Mr. Apcar to move that the words “end of the prescribed period” be substituted for the words and figures “time approved under the second proviso to section 128 (1)” in lines 7 and 8 of clause 137.

List of Amendments—Motion No. 38. The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur to move that the words "the Sinking" be substituted for the word "such" in the penultimate line of clause 137.

List of Amendments—Motion No. 39. The Hon'ble Mr. Apear to move that the words "the Sinking" be substituted for the word "such" in the penultimate line of clause 137.

List of Amendments—Motion No. 39 A. The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur moved that, for the first five lines of clause 138, the following be substituted, namely :—

"In respect of all loans raised by the Corporation under this Act between the 1st April 1881 and the commencement of the Calcutta Municipal Loans Act, 1914, the following provisions shall have effect, namely":—

He said :—

"The Government having kindly conceded to treat the last loan of 34 lakhs in the same way as the loans that were raised before the 1st April 1912 and after the 1st April 1881, and having kindly consented to include the loan raised after the 1st April 1912 in that category, I think, my Lord, that this is a necessary amendment in order to enable that loan to be included in this section and, therefore, possibly this motion will be accepted by the Hon'ble Member in charge."

The Hon'ble Mr. Stephenson :—

"My Lord, I accept the amendment."

The motion was then put and agreed to.

The following motions were, by leave of the President, withdrawn :—

List of Amendments—Motion No. 40. The Hon'ble Mr. Byomkes Chakravarti to move that, for clause 138, the following be substituted, namely :—

"138. The Corporation shall pay into the Sinking Fund the following sums :—

into Sinking Fund.

(a) on the first day of every half-year, commencing from the 1st July 1914, in respect of such of the said loans as were repaid before the 31st March 1914, a sum representing four per cent. per annum on the amount of each of such loans, such payments to be continued, in the case of each of such loans, until the expiry of a period of 47 years from the date on which the loan was raised, and

(b) on the first day of every half-year, in respect of such of the said loans as have not been repaid before the 31st March 1914, a sum representing one per cent. per annum on the amount of each of such loans, until the expiry of a period of 47 years from the date on which the loan was raised."

List of Amendments—Motion No. 41. The Hon'ble Mr. Apear to move that the first five lines of clause 138 be omitted.

List of Amendments—Motion No. 42. The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur to move that the first five lines of clause 138 be omitted.

List of Amendments—Motion No. 43. The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur to move that the figures "1913" be substituted for the figures "1912" in line 3 of clause 138.

List of Amendments—Motion No. 44. The Hon'ble Mr. Apcar to move that the words "maintain a Sinking Fund in respect of all such loans, and shall" in lines 1 and 2 clause 138 (1) be omitted, and that the words "the Sinking" be substituted for the word "such" at the end of line 2 of the same clause.

List of Amendments—Motion No. 45. The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur to move that the words "maintain a Sinking Fund in respect of all such loans, and shall" in lines 1 and 2 of clause 138 (1) be omitted, and that the words "the Sinking" be substituted for the word "such" at the end of line 2 of the same clause.

List of Amendments—Motion No. 46. The Hon'ble Mr. Apcar to move that the word "raised" be substituted for the word "taken" in the last line of clause 138 (1) (a).

List of Amendments—Motion No. 47. The Hon'ble Mr. Apcar to move that the words "expiry of a period of forty-seven years from the date on which the loan was raised" be substituted for the words "loan is repaid" in lines 5 and 6 of clause 138 (1) (b).

List of Amendments—Motion No. 48. The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur to move that the words "expiry of a period of forty-seven years from the date on which the loan was raised," be substituted for the words "loan is repaid" in lines 5 and 6 of clause 138 (1) (b).

List of Amendments—Motion No. 48 A. The Hon'ble Mr. Stephenson moved that, for the letters and figures "Rs. 47,297," in the last line of clause 138 (1) (c), the following be substituted, namely :—

"Rupees sixty-six thousand."

He said :—

"This alteration is necessary because clause 138 (c) provides for the making up the deficit by paying four per cent. on the loans that have already been repaid, and the delay of one year has affected the calculations."

The motion was put and agreed to.

The following motions were, by leave of the President, withdrawn :—

List of Amendments—Motion No. 49. The Hon'ble Mr. Apcar to move that clause 138 (3) be omitted.

List of Amendments—Motion No. 50. The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur to move that clause 138 (3) be omitted.

List of Amendments—Motion No. 51. The Hon'ble Mr. Apcar to move that the words "Act Amendment" be substituted for the brackets and word "(Loans)" in clause 138 (3).

List of Amendments—Motion No. 52. The Hon'ble Mr. Apcar to move that clause 138 (4) be omitted.

List of Amendments—Motion No. 53. The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur to move that clause 138 (4) be omitted.

New Clause 138 A.

List of Amendments—Motion No. 53 A. The Hon'ble Mr. Byomkes Chakravarti moved that, after clause 138, the following clause be inserted, namely :—

“ 138 A. All securities and cash jointly or severally held, before the commencement of the Calcutta Municipal (Loans) Act, 1914, by the Secretary to the Government of Bengal in the Financial Department and the Accountant-General, Bengal, as Trustees for and in respect of Sinking Fund A referred to in section 138, clause (3), shall forthwith be transferred by them to the Corporation, and the Corporation shall hold the same as part of the Sinking Fund established under section 138.”

He said :—

“ If I may say so, my Lord, this is a lawyer's amendment. In looking through the Bill I notice that although in point of fact the present securities stand in the names of certain trustees, the present Bill provides that there will be no trustees in the future, and therefore if there were no such clause there would be difficulty in having these securities transferred to the Corporation, and I have reason to believe that the Hon'ble Member in charge will accept this amendment.”

The Hon'ble Mr. STEPHENSON said :—

“ My Lord, this amendment does seem to fill a gap in the Bill and I am much obliged to the Hon'ble Member for this suggestion. I accept the amendment.”

The motion was put and agreed to.

The following motions were, by leave the President, withdrawn :—

List of Amendments—Motion No. 54. The Hon'ble Mr. Byomkes Chakravarti to move that, after clause 138, the following clause be inserted, namely :—

“ 138 A. All securities and cash jointly or severally held, before the commencement of this Act, by the Secretary to the Government of Bengal in the Financial Department and the Accountant-General, Bengal, as Trustees for and in respect of Sinking Fund A, shall forthwith be transferred by them to the Corporation, and the Corporation shall hold the same as part of the Sinking Fund established under section 136.”

List of Amendments—Motion No. 55. The Hon'ble Mr. Apcar to move that, after clause 138, the following clause be inserted, namely :—

“ 138 A. All securities and cash jointly or severally held, before the commencement of this Act, by the Secretary to the Government of Bengal in the Financial Department and the Accountant-General, Bengal, as Trustees for and in respect of Sinking Fund A, shall forthwith be transferred by them to the Corporation, and the Corporation shall hold the same as part of the Sinking Fund established under section 136.”

List of Amendments—Motion No. 58. The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur to move that, after clause 138, the following clause be inserted, namely :—

“138 A. All securities and cash jointly or severally held, before the commencement of this Act, by the Secretary to the Government of Bengal in the Financial Department and the Accountant-General, Bengal, as Trustees for and in respect of Sinking Fund A, shall forthwith be transferred, by them to the Corporation, and the Corporation shall hold the same as part of the Sinking Fund established under section 136.”

Clause 139.

List of Amendments—Motion No. 57. The Hon'ble Mr. Apar moved that clause 139 be omitted.

He said :—

“This follows, my Lord, on the amendment which has been made to clause 138, and I formally move for its acceptance. It affects the 34 lakhs which we protested against being included in the Bill as a loan on which 2 per cent. would be required to be paid as contribution, and the Government have been graciously pleased to see the justice of our demands.”

The Hon'ble Mr. STEPHENSON said :—

“My Lord, I accept the amendment.”

The motion was put and agreed to.

The following motions were, by leave of the President, withdrawn :—

List of Amendments—Motion No. 58. The Hon'ble Mr. Byomkes Chakravarti to move that clause 139 be omitted.

List of Amendments—Motion No. 59. The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur to move that clause 139 be omitted.

List of Amendments—Motion No. 60. The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur to move that the words “the loan of Rs. 34 lakhs” be substituted for the words “every loan” in line 1 of clause 139.

List of Amendments—Motion No. 61. The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur to move that the words “and such rate of interest shall be deemed to be the prescribed rate of interest” be inserted at the end of clause 139 (2).

Clause 140.

List of Amendments—Motion No. 62. The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur moved that the word “discharge” be substituted for the word “extinction” in line 1 of clause 140 (3).

He said :—

“This is merely a verbal amendment, and is according to the suggestion made by the Solicitor to the Corporation that “discharge” is the proper word.”

The Hon'ble Mr. STEPHENSON said :—

“I think the Hon'ble Member wishes to use the word “discharge” here instead of the word “extinction.” The wording was settled in the Select Committee, and in the absence of any particular reason I do not think we should alter it.

I may point out that in clause 141 the word “extinguishing” is used to which the Hon'ble Member has not objected.”

The motion was then, by leave of the President, withdrawn.

Proposed New Clause 140 (1).

List of Amendments—Motion No. 63. The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur moved that, after clause 141, the following be inserted, namely :—

“ 141. (1) Notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained, the Corporation may, in its discretion, pay off any debentures before the due date thereof if, before issuing such debentures, it reserved a right to do so and notified the fact of such reservation.”

He said :—

“ My Lord, such a provision is necessary in the interest of the Corporation. Clause 141 is not clear on the point. The loan is to be sanctioned subject to such terms and method of repayment as the Government may determine. I think there is no clear provision to the effect that the Corporation may at its discretion pay off the debentures before the due date if a notification is made before the issue of the debentures. This would enable the Corporation to take advantage of the money market and to reduce the interest on the debentures, if it is advantageous to the Corporation to do so. I do not think that any question of principle is affected in the amendment which I have moved and I hope the Hon'ble Member in charge will have no objection to accept it.”

The Hon'ble MR. STEPHENSON said :—

“ My Lord, it is not quite clear to me what the Hon'ble Member means. As far as I read the amendment it only gives the Corporation power if it notifies before the issue of such debentures that it reserves the right to do so. Does the Hon'ble Member want to give statutory power that certain conditions may be imposed in the debentures? If so, I think it would be dangerous. The conditions which the Corporation may impose on its creditors under the debentures are not matters for statutory declaration: that would be a matter between the Corporation and its creditors.

As regards the second part, the paying off of debentures before the due date, it is not clear how they can be paid off before the due date. This can only be done under clause 135 (c), that is, by taking another loan and partly from the Sinking Fund. If the Hon'ble Member has in his mind that he wants to provide for a case where the Corporation is allowed to take a long-term loan and is allowed to reserve the right in the debenture to repay on or after a fixed date, then I think no such provision is required. There is nothing in the Bill to prevent the Government of India as part of the conditions of the loan allowing the Corporation to issue the debentures with this condition, and if the Government of India do so give the permission and the Corporation exercises its option, then the debentures may be paid off under clause 135 (c) by borrowing with the sanction of the Government of India for the balance of the loan.

I do not think this is required as it might operate to restrict the conditions which the Corporation may put in their debentures, and I consider that it is not advisable to have it.”

The Hon'ble RAI RADHA CHARAN PAL Bahadur said :—

“ My Lord, I beg to state that that is exactly what is in my mind. If the Corporation at the time of issuing the debentures declare that they reserve the right to recall the debentures and pay off before the expiry of the date of the debentures, I think the Corporation should be in a position to do so, but as there is no express provision to that effect I think such a provision might be inserted. The principle is agreed to, as far as I understand from the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill, and I do not see what harm could be done by inserting this provision in the Bill. On the contrary I think the matter will be made clearer.”

The motion was then put and lost.

Proposed new clause 141A.

List of Amendments—Motion No. 63 A. The Hon'ble Mr. Apar moved that—

- (1) the present clause 141 AA be placed after clause 128 and be numbered as clause 128 A ;
- (2) the present clause 141 A be numbered as clause 141 AA ; and
- (3) the following be inserted as clause 141 A, namely :—

141 A. (1) The Corporation may at any time apply the whole

Application of Sinking Fund by Corporation.

or any part of the Sinking Fund as follows (that is to say) :—

- (i) in or towards the discharge of the principal moneys or any of them for the repayment of which the fund is established, provided that the yearly sums to be paid to the fund shall not be affected by such application ;
- (ii) where the Corporation is authorised by this Act to raise money for any purpose, it may, instead of raising such money by the issue of fresh debentures, with the previous sanction of the Government of India, use for such purpose the whole or any part of any monies for the time being forming part of the Sinking Fund, and monies so used shall be deemed to be monies borrowed under the borrowing powers conferred by this Act ;

Provided that, when exercising this power, the Corporation shall—

- (a) withdraw from the Sinking Fund a sum equal to the amount of the borrowing powers proposed to be exercised under this Act by the use of moneys from such Sinking Fund ;
- (b) credit such account or accounts in the Sinking Fund as the Corporation may determine with the repayment of an amount of the principal monies, for the repayment of which the fund is established, equal to the sum withdrawn from the Sinking Fund, and thereupon the amount so credited shall be deemed to be principal monies discharged by application of the Sinking Fund ;
- (c) debit the account of the borrowing power proposed to be exercised with an amount of principal monies equal to the sum withdrawn from the Sinking Fund, and thereupon such borrowing power shall be deemed to have been exercised as fully as if the said amount had been raised by the issue of fresh debentures, and the provisions of this Act relating to repayment and re-borrowing shall apply thereto accordingly.

(2) When any of the principal monies are discharged by the application of any part of the Sinking Fund, the principal monies so discharged shall be deemed to be in respect of the borrowing powers conferred by this Act under which the principal monies for the repayment of which the Sinking Fund is established were borrowed.

He said :—

“My Lord, my reason for moving this amendment is that this clause has connection with the flotation of a loan, and it seems to me that it would be better grouped with the flotation of loans rather than where it is now placed with regard to Sinking Funds. If any action is to be taken it would be taken at the time when application was being made to Government for a loan. In the communication that would be presented would be a representation to permit the Corporation to tender for debentures. That is the only reason why I have suggested it. I think it would be better there than in its isolated position here."

The Hon'ble Mr. STEPHENSON said :—

"My Lord, the object of the Select Committee was to give the Corporation power to invest in the new loan and therefore we put this clause in after the investing clause. I think it is quite suitable to place it there."

The Hon'ble Mr. APCAR said :—

"My Lord, I thought that it would be an improvement in the Bill. However, if the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill will not have it, let it be dropped."

The Hon'ble Mr. STEPHENSON said :—

"Do I understand that the Hon'ble Member does not proceed further with this amendment?"

The Hon'ble Mr. APCAR did not reply.

The motion was then, by leave of the President, withdrawn.

The following motions were also, by leave of the President, withdrawn :—

List of Amendments—Motion No. 63 B. The Hon'ble Mr. Apcar to move that, at the commencement of the present clause 141 A, the following words be inserted, namely :—

"Subject to the provisions of section 141 A."

List of Amendments—Motion No. 64. The Hon'ble Mr. Apcar to move that the word "the" be substituted for the word "a" in line 1 of clause 141 A (1).

List of Amendments—Motion No. 65. The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur to move that the word "the" be substituted for the word "a" in line 1 of clause 141 A (1).

List of Amendments—Motion No. 66. The Hon'ble Mr. Apcar to move that the word "appropriate" in line 3 of clause 141 A (2) be omitted.

List of Amendments—Motion No. 67. The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur to move that the word "appropriate" in line 3 of clause 141 A (2) be omitted.

The Hon'ble Mr. STEPHENSON said :—

"My Lord, I beg with your permission to move that for the amendment standing in my name in Motion No. 67 A* of the List of Amendments, the following be substituted :—

"That for the existing clause (2a) of clause 141 A, the following be substituted, namely :—

'(2a) Monies standing at the credit of one or more Sinking Funds may, at the discretion of the Corporation, be invested together as a common fund, but it shall not be necessary for the Corporation to allocate the securities held in such investments among the several Sinking Funds.'

* List of Amendments—Motion No. 67 A. The Hon'ble Mr. Stephenson to move that, for the existing clause (2a) of clause 141 A, the following be substituted, namely :—

"(2a) A separate account for each Sinking Fund shall be maintained in respect of every investment made under sub-section (1), but it shall not be necessary for the Corporation to allocate the securities held in the investments specified in that sub-section among the several Sinking Funds established under this Act."

"The new amendment was circulated to Hon'ble Members yesterday, and combines the first part of the existing (2a) and the latter part of the amendment I proposed. The sole object is to ensure that the Sinking Funds shall be allowed to be invested together. It was pointed out in Select Committee that there was no intention to insist that each Sinking Fund should be invested separately, and I personally adhere to the opinion that there would never have been any practical difficulty. The Corporation would have invested exactly together as is done at present, but the question was raised and in Select Committee we first of all put in the present (2a). The objection was raised afterward by the Hon'ble Mr. Apar that although it gave power to invest together it did not specifically give power to sell out, and there might be difficulty in selling out when we had occasion to use one of the Sinking Funds to repay its loan. Government desires that there should be no doubt on the subject, and after consulting the Accountant-General and our legal advisers I have framed the section in this way, so as to give what both we and the Corporation desire. As a matter of fact I do not think that, whatever the form of words used, there will be or can be any practical difficulty. The operation of the Sinking Fund will be entirely in the hands of the Corporation, and they will do what any practical man would do."

The Hon'ble Mr. BYOMKES CHAKRAVARTI said :—

"My difficulty is, and I say so only from the point of view of a lawyer, in construing this Bill. My difficulty is that it seems to me to be in conflict with clause 141 E if it stands in the form in which it is now. The position is this, if I may explain, my Lord. As I understand it you can take money from a separate Sinking Fund and invest in debentures and these debentures you do not equate to any particular loan. I will presume there are ten loans and out of ten loans you take out ten lakhs of rupees and invest in debentures but these debentures are not allocated or credited to any of the particular ten loans, but the provision in the Bill is that there is to be a separate Sinking Fund and naturally there must be a separate account. 141 E provides that—

(1) All Sinking Funds established under this Act shall be subject to annual examination by the Accountant-General, Bengal, who shall ascertain whether the cash and the current value of the securities at credit of such funds are actually equal to the amount which would have accumulated had investments been regularly made and had the rate of interest as originally estimated been obtained therefrom.

(2) The Corporation shall forthwith pay into any Sinking Fund any amount which the Accountant-General may certify to be deficient, unless the Government of India specially sanction a gradual readjustment.

(3) If the cash and the current value of the securities at credit of any Sinking Fund are more than equal to the amount which should have accumulated in the circumstances described in sub-section (1), the Accountant-General shall certify the amount of such excess sum, and the Corporation shall thereupon transfer the excess sum to the General Fund.

As I read it and especially clause (2) makes it clear to my mind that the Accountant-General must every year count the monies and the securities to the credit of any of these particular Sinking Funds and if in point of fact one of the Sinking Funds is shown to be deficient with regard to what ought to have been paid into it, then the Corporation ought to make it good. My difficulty is if 67 A as the Hon'ble Member has now moved it stands, that is to say, that the debentures are to be purchased and there is to be no allocation of any of these particular accounts, then 141 E will have to be changed in order to be in conformity with the clause which the Hon'ble Member has just moved."

The Hon'ble Mr. APAR said :—

"I support my friend in what he says. I think there are very grave difficulties in this matter having reference to section 141 E, sub-clause (3), because it will be seen it says those "cash and current value of the securities at credit of such funds are actually equal to the amount, etc." There are to be quite separate Sinking Funds, and if the Accountant-General is to certify the amount of excess or deficiency, how will he be able to do so if there is to be no allocation of the different securities to the different funds?"

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRA NATH BANERJI said :—

"Will not the account show it?"

The Hon'ble Mr. APCAR said :—

"The account of each fund is to be separate. It would require the recasting of clause (3) to enable it to be done. It would require a proportionate value of securities held for investment, and so on. As it now is I think the Hon'ble Member in charge if he looks into it will find great difficulty. I do not want anything to be enacted which will cause a difficulty if it can be altered, and I would advise him to seriously reconsider what we say."

The Hon'ble Mr. STEPHENSON said :—

"The objection is admittedly a lawyer's objection. The practical difficulty, as I understand it, is not connected with the amendment I now move but is in connection with the possible difficulty in the way of the Accountant-General under section 141 E. I can assure the Council what will happen with the Accountant-General under that clause. What will happen is what happens now, and that is that the Accountant-General will test the separate Sinking Funds to see whether the Corporation have paid in the right amount and whether that amount is credited in the books as accumulated to the right sum. He will then take the totals of the separate Sinking Funds against the totals of investments. I am told by the Accountant-General himself that that is the only possible method of doing it and it is the way it will be done. Therefore there will be no practical difficulty in the working of section 141 E, and I hope the advantage of not allocating the securities is far greater than any lawyer's objections to section 141 E. I think therefore the Council may safely accept this present amendment."

The motion was then put and agreed to.

The following motions were then, by leave of the President, withdrawn :—

List of Amendments—Motion No. 68. The Hon'ble Mr. Apear to move that clause 141 A (2a) be omitted.

List of Amendments—Motion No. 69. The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur to move that clause 141 A (2a) be omitted.

Clause 141 A A.

List of Amendments—Motion No. 69 A. The Hon'ble Mr. Apear moved that in line 1 of clause 141 AA, after the word "may," the following words be inserted, namely :—

"for the purpose of investing any portion of its funds, including its Sinking Fund or Sinking Funds."

He said :—

"I think, my Lord, as it now is phrased this clause will cause some confusion, because while in the marginal note it is stated that this clause is for the purpose of giving power to the Corporation to reserve a portion of loan debentures for investment on Sinking Fund there is no mention of Sinking Funds in the body of the clause at all, and if we are to be guided by the marginal note then the municipal funds cannot be invested. In that way I think it will be an advantage if it is intended for Sinking Funds to be tendered for debentures that it should be made clear on the face of the clause. As it now reads it is 'the Corporation may, with the previous sanction of the Government, &c., &c.' There is no mention anywhere of the Sinking Fund being able to be utilized. All I suggest, to avoid confusion, is that there should be something done to meet this omission and I have volunteered my suggestion that those words be inserted."

The Hon'ble MR. STEPHENSON said :—

"I am perfectly willing to accept the amendment of the Hon'ble Member if he thinks it is desirable to mention the Sinking Fund.

The motion was then put and agreed to."

The Hon'ble MR. BYOMKES CHAKRAVARTI said :—

"With regard to my amendment No. 70 which stands in my name, I will not detain the House for any length of time. It was intended to be moved only for the purpose of bringing the Bill into conformity with the English practice, but it has been pointed out to me by the Hon'ble Mover, and I accept that, that in the Corporation of Calcutta there are three distinct authorities : there is the Chairman of the Corporation, then there is the Corporation itself, and then there is the General Committee. Therefore it will be better to have it in the name of the Chairman, and I therefore beg to withdraw the amendment."

The following motion was then, by leave of the President, withdrawn :—

List of Amendments—Motion No. 70. The Hon'ble Mr. Byomkes Chakravarti to move that the words "Corporation of Calcutta" be substituted for the words "Chairman of the Corporation of Calcutta, on behalf of the Corporation," in lines 4 and 5 of clause 141 AA (I).

List of Amendments—Motion No. 71. The Hon'ble Mr. Apear moved that the inverted commas after the word "Calcutta" in line 5 of clause 141 AA (I) be omitted, and be inserted after the word "Corporation" at the end of the said line.

The Hon'ble MR. STEPHENSON said :—

"We followed the Bombay wording in the present Bill, but I think the Hon'ble Member is right and the inverted commas should come out, and I accept the amendment."

The motion was then put and agreed to.

List of Amendments—Motion No. 72. The Hon'ble Mr. Apear moved that the words "at par" be inserted after the word "issued" in line 6 of clause 141 AA (I).

He said :—

"My amendment is that after the word "issued" the words "at par" be inserted. Those debentures will have to be paid at par, and I think it is only right when the debentures are being tendered for by the Corporation that they should pay as much as they are going to get back, otherwise they are under discount, and I don't think it would be fair that they should be paid less to get more later on at the end of the period of issue. That is the reason I move this, as the position attacks the present generation if there is going to be unfairness. I understand the member in charge is willing to accept that."

The Hon'ble MR. STEPHENSON said :—

"I am afraid I cannot accept the amendment in its present form. Will the Hon'ble Mover move instead that the words "at par" be inserted after the word "issue" in the third line?"

The Hon'ble MR. APCAR said :—

"Certainly, my Lord."

The motion was then put in the altered form and agreed to.

The Hon'ble MR. APCAR then said :—

"May I inquire when my Amendment No. 63 A is going to be taken? Your Lordship has omitted 63 A."

The PRESIDENT said :—

“The Hon'ble Member is in error. We have already disposed of Motion No. 63 A. It is too late now, by our rules, for the Hon'ble Member to move 63 A again. The Hon'ble Member has already done so, and the motion was not carried.”

The Hon'ble MR. APCAR said :—

“If I have made a mistake in this matter it is due to the manner in which the amendments are set out in the List. I am anxious to move that particular amendment now, as it is an important one, and I have not moved the whole of it.”

The PRESIDENT said :—

“I fear the time for that is past. We have our rules, and we must keep to them.”

The Hon'ble MR. APCAR said :—

“I have to pay very heavily for my bad eyesight. I regard that amendment as one of the most important elements in the Bill.”

The PRESIDENT said :—

“Order, order. The Hon'ble Member must accept my ruling. Whether the amendment was important or not, we are now at No. 73 A, and must proceed.”

73 A. The Hon'ble Mr. Apar moved that, after clause 141 AA, the two following clauses be inserted, namely :—

Proposed new clauses 141 A.A.A and 141 A.A.A.A.

“141 AAA. (1) Notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained, it shall be lawful for the Corporation, with the previous sanction of the Local Government, to extinguish and cancel any municipal debenture held in the Sinking Fund, and upon such extinction and cancellation, the loan to the extent of the amount of the nominal or face value of any such debenture cancelled shall be deemed to be duly paid off; but any interest or dividend due on any such debenture shall be continued to be paid into the Sinking Fund during the unexpired period of any loan in respect of which any such debenture was issued in the same manner and subject to the same conditions as it would otherwise have been payable on any such debenture, if the same had not been so extinguished and cancelled.

(2) The Corporation may also, with the previous sanction of the Local Government, purchase any municipal debenture for extinction and cancellation from time to time out of the sale-proceeds of any land or other undertaking belonging to the Corporation or out of any other available funds, which may, in the opinion of the Corporation, be not required to be applied at any early date to any work of a permanent nature (including under such expression any work the cost of which ought, in the opinion of the Government, to be distributed over a term of years), and on such cancellation the same and all interest or dividends which have not already become payable thereon shall be deemed to be extinguished.”

“141 AAAA. (1) The Corporation shall, as part of the general account of the Sinking Fund, cause to be maintained—

Statement of account to be kept by Corporation.

(a) a separate account showing the proportionate contributions paid into the Sinking Fund in respect of each loan and also the proportionate growth of that fund;

- (b) an account showing the securities on which all sums paid into the said Sinking Fund are from time to time invested ; and
- (c) separate accounts relative to each undertaking or purpose for, or in respect of which, any principal monies for the repayment of which the Sinking Fund is established were borrowed.

(2) The said separate accounts shall clearly distinguish and show the amounts of all principal monies outstanding for the time being which are chargeable to each undertaking or purpose."

He said :—

"With regard to these two clauses the Secretary will bear me out when I say that in sending my notice for these two clauses in item No. 73 A I intimated my intention to move them separately, if permitted so to do by the Chair, and to speak on them separately. They are with reference to two distinct powers : one is for the purpose of the purchase of debentures out of the Sinking Fund and the other is for the purchase out of the Municipal funds."

The PRESIDENT :—

"The Secretary has gone into this matter, and he tells me that there is no possible objection if the Hon'ble Member desires to proceed as he says. There is one point which the Secretary points out, and that is that the time-limit is half an hour for the whole amendment."

The Hon'ble MR. APCAR said :—

"I cannot argue it in that time. I would ask that these two parts of the amendment should be separated and that I should be given the full time limit for each. Is the time limit running against me all this time?"

The PRESIDENT said :—

"Yes."

The Hon'ble MR. APCAR said :—

"Then I had better hurry on. The powers which it is proposed to confer on the Corporation under my amendments in this behalf are—

"To extinguish by cancellation any debenture issued by that Body which is held in the Sinking Fund, or has been purchased with money taken from the Sinking Fund."

The cancellation under this clause will be of the principal only, the loan charges being still payable out of Revenue funds.

This is distinguished from clause 2, where power will be sought for the Corporation to purchase their own debentures out of the proceeds of the sale of land or their surplus cash balances available for such purpose and extinguish such debentures. Under the latter clause both principal and payment of loan charges would be completely extinguished.

Borrowing by mortgage-deed by local authorities in Great Britain is one of the oldest, as it is the most popular, method of contracting loans in Great Britain. And it is interesting to learn in this connection the following opinion expressed by Mr. George Biddell in his book, Loans of Local Authorities, to which I before have referred :—

"One of the chief advantages of the mortgage system is that it allows of the application of the Sinking Fund, from time to time, to the extinction of the debt if the whole amount of the loan is not secured by one bond, but is divided among several, and some of them are redeemable in fairly short periods from the date of borrowing."

After the method of obtaining money by the issue of debentures came into practice, debentures afforded to local authorities empowered to invest the money in the Sinking Fund in their own debentures even greater facilities than mortgage-deeds for gradually extinguishing their debt. It is intelligible, therefore, after the latter method of obtaining money came into practice that the system of purchase and extinction of their own debentures began to be adopted. I find powers to that effect in the Newcastle-upon-Tyne Improvement Act, 1882. I first obtained information of the practice from this Corporation, and my amendments are based on the provisions contained in their statute.

The system had been sufficiently widely tested for acceptance by the Local Government Board, and a provision for that purpose was included in their Stock Regulations of 1891 for Urban Authorities and their County Council Stock Regulations of the same year. These provisions are maintained by the Local Government Board in the latest revision of their Stock Regulations.

Mr. Turner, who writes to me under date of 19th of November 1913, says —

“A golden rule in local authority finance is to apply the Sinking Fund as quickly and as completely as possible in the absolute extinction of the debt. There is nothing gained by keeping the Stock alive as an investment of the Fund. It comes to the same thing if the revenue account is charged with the amount of interest which would have been earned by the amount so applied.”

Mr. J. Williams, City Treasurer of Manchester, in his letter to me refers to this subject. He says :—

“In cases where the securities representing debt can only be got in at the termination of the full period authorized for its payment, the Sinking Fund must, of course, be kept unapplied until that time arrives. Where, however, the Sinking Fund is provided for the redemption of stock which can be purchased from time to time in the market, it is certainly desirable to use the monies for the purchase and cancellation of such stock whenever opportunity presents itself, provided that the price paid is not greater than the nominal amount of debt redeemed. By this operation, any loss through a fall in the value of the Sinking Fund's investments is avoided, the credit of the Corporation is enhanced by the actual reduction of debt, whilst a saving to the Corporation may be effected in consequence of the fact that the rate of interest borne by the debt extinguished may be greater than that which an investment of the Sinking Fund would have produced.”

Mr. E. Darnell, City Treasurer of Newcastle-upon-Tyne, whose Corporation, as we have seen, have been empowered to Purchase and Extinguish their Debenture since 1882, in his letter to me refers to the question as follows :—

“As to purchase and cancellation of debentures, it is quite obvious that if purchase be at par, the loan charges, say,  $3\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. to the Stock-holder, and a Sinking Fund accumulation based at 3 per cent., the future annual contributions for redemption to the fund will be continued, and a further 3 per cent. will have to be contributed in view of the interest on the fund applied in extinction of the debt, thus saving  $\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. as far as we are concerned. If the Stock is purchased below par, of course there is a greater saving. We never buy above par. The policy of the purchase of stock must be regulated of course by the conditions of the money market.”

It seems supererogatory for me to justify the system of purchase and cancellation of their own debentures that has been in use by local authorities in Great Britain, certainly over 30 years, and continues to be practised there in the present day without suspicion of its financial unsoundness. The power is found in laws of general application in Great Britain and in very many local laws. And when, to any local authority who by chance is not already possessed of it, the power if desired would be included in any special local law without question by the Parliament at Westminster, any opinion against it in Calcutta on the merits of the system would not be very convincing. I feel it to be less presumptuous to accept it without demur.

On the surface of the question, when the Corporation are not only empowered by law to purchase their own debentures but that is the only form of investment made from their Sinking Fund instead of holding them in that fund until the due date for their repayment arrives, it may be for 20 or 25 years, it seems preferable to give authority for their cancellation with the sanction of the Local Government (the amendment proposes that cancellation cannot be effected without the approval of Government) who could exercise full authority to control the discretion of the Corporation, have regard to the condition of the money market, or any other circumstance, and could impose any conditions, such as to the particular issue of debentures which should be cancelled: and of course could refuse to sanction for any reasons they might think fit.

In the Corporation of Newcastle-upon-Tyne where the rate of interest payable on their securities is  $3\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. and the rate for growth is calculated at 3 per cent., the saving to the Revenue funds of the Corporation, we have learned from their Treasurer, is considered to be at  $\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. annually, an economy which, as we have seen, is appreciated by them. In the Calcutta Corporation where the interest on our debentures is 4 per cent., the saving would be 1 per cent. And even if that saving would be made over to the Revenue fund under special provision in our Bill, from the point of view of the Corporation as Trustees of public funds, they should not overlook the gain to be obtained by avoiding payment of brokerage on sales when effected in the open market, and commission due to the Bank whenever money is handled by them.

The Sinking Fund is constituted for the purpose of paying the debts of the Corporation, and it would be only in performance of one of its chief functions to cancel a debenture and so enable the Sinking Fund from time to time to be applied to the extinction of their debt. It would afford an opportunity of purchasing at discount when their debentures are being sold below par, instead of being compelled helplessly to wait, even in such circumstances, until the full period of the issue when repayment must be made at par; it would avoid probably the trouble of seeking for purchasers through brokers, and the risk of selling at a discount and perhaps of fraud while the debenture remains valid for full effect as a negotiable document.

Whenever monies (or investments of the money) of that fund are withdrawn from the Sinking Fund, it is imperative that its accumulation and growth, to provide at its maturity the full amount payable, must not be interrupted. The loan charges must scrupulously be continued to be paid out of Revenue funds into the Sinking Fund. The proceeding is accurately described by Mr. Darnell in his letters to me. He writes:—

“Loans may be paid off temporarily out of Capital Account, or they may be extinguished out of Sinking Fund. Where the latter course is adopted, a deficiency is sure to occur in the Sinking Fund, if the calculated annual instalment to redeem the loan is not continued, and if in addition to this there is not carried to the fund interest at a rate of least 3 per cent. on part of the fund so applied in the extinction of the debt. This is necessary because the Sinking Fund has been withdrawn from investment and the earning capacity of that fund so curtailed. In other words, by withdrawing it before maturity you must put into the fund what it would have earned had it been allowed to remain there.”

Mr. Turner also makes it very plain in one of his letters to me. He says :—

“ In England, the annual Sinking Fund instalments are required to be set aside and invested. If during the Sinking Fund period any part of the amount in the fund be applied in redemption of the loan, the Sinking Fund should be recouped the amount of interest which would have been earned by the amount of the fund so applied. This is a statutory obligation imposed in all cases, and follows naturally from the normal principles governing all Sinking Funds.”

It will therefore be seen that in the scheme for cancellation of debentures, taken from the Sinking Fund, there is no danger of the Sinking Fund falling short of the full amount required at the end of the prescribed period.

One of the objections taken has been that in the system of purchase and cancellation there would be an element of complication and speculation. The fear of complication suggests want of knowledge of the subject, because only the simplest of accounts would be required. By speculation is implied purchase in the hope of a large profit with the risk of a loss. Any examination of the question would quickly reveal that whatever the objection, certainly the charge of speculation would never lie. The Corporation would buy at their own option, at their own time and at their own price, and never above par. At the time of purchase they would know exactly what they would pay, and exactly the price they would receive, which must be the par value. By purchase and cancellation, speculation would, on the contrary, be prevented, because if the Corporation purchased as an investment, they could not say what price they would receive when forced to sell for the repayment of other debentures on their due date. Another objection taken is that the withdrawal of debentures from circulation would compel re-borrowing at a future date. But whether the money required is obtained from the public by the sale of old debentures or by the issue of new, a loan is floated. And the Vice-Chairman seems to have correctly contended that in the meantime commission for the service of the loans which is paid on the aggregate of outstanding loans would be paid on the uncanceled debentures, and when the time arrived for the sale of old debentures, brokerage must also be paid, and that, even if the cost of stamps is incurred on the new issue, at some future time, it should remember that in the interval the money would be available for the improvement of the town which is calculated to raise its valuation and consequently to increase the revenue of the Corporation.”

The Hon'ble Mr. STEPHENSON said :—

“ Dealing with the first part of this amendment, it is a proposal that has been before the Government on several occasions on behalf of the Corporation and which has eventually been withdrawn by the Corporation. At their last meeting the Corporation by a majority decided that they did not want it on the ground, as I understand from a perusal of their proceedings, that there was no saving or advantage to them in this. At all events in this case it is the Hon'ble Member who is introducing something new. Hon'ble members will agree that the onus is upon him to prove the advantage. I have listened carefully to the Hon'ble Member, but I have not been able to follow him possibly because the time is short and he has hurried through, and I have not been able to gather what the advantages were that he put forward. The proposal is that when you have got money in your Sinking Fund all invested in Municipal debentures, you should cancel your debentures and go on paying the interest on them into the Sinking Fund and so pretend to pay them off. It is a pure paper transaction and you have not reduced your debt. Instead of owing your creditors the face value of your debentures you owe it to your Sinking Fund. My objection to it is that it is another form of borrowing from the Sinking Fund. You cannot get away from the fact that it is borrowing from the Sinking Fund and you admit it is because you have to pay interest to the Sinking Fund. In the Corporation debates on it Mr. Mougens, who is an authority on accounts at all events, opposed this motion strongly and said it was a fictitious method of enhancing your credit; that you do not pay off your debt and you do not enhance your credit; that you simply transfer your debt from outside to the Sinking Fund. Further, what happens when you have to repay your loans? You have no money in the Sinking Fund; you have only cancelled debentures. As you go on paying interest into the Sinking Fund you go on purchasing debentures and cancelling them. You will have the whole of the debentures of a given loan cancelled in the Sinking Fund. You hold a certain number but you have got to pay off the rest. It can hardly be hoped that when you pay off loans and you borrow from the Sinking Fund you hold a certain number which are cancelled and you have to borrow the rest. If you have a separate Sinking Fund you cancel the certain number of debentures you hold, and you have certain number of debentures of other loans and you sell them and get the money to repay. Under the proposal of Mr. Apear you have nothing to sell out but you have to borrow. It is solely a question of selling old debentures or borrowing on new ones. When speaking on another motion this morning, I said there was a difference of opinion as to which was cheaper. In any case there is not the marked difference that would support the cancellation of debentures. Mr. Apear has referred to the practice at Home again in support of it. There is one difference between this and the municipalities at Home. They have to cancel their debentures because they are not allowed to hold them. It is not considered a safe investment for a municipality at Home to keep its Sinking Fund in its own debentures. It may invest in the municipality next door. It does do so. It gets round in that way. Under the law they are not allowed in the majority of cases to hold debentures; they therefore have got to sell. The disadvantage under which they labour at Home can hardly be brought forward as a reason for introducing the practice here.

I think, your Excellency, that I need not detain the Council any further. As a matter of fact I think the Council have really passed an opinion on this by declining to have a common Sinking Fund. I take it that that opinion of Council is based on the necessity of having a simple form of Sinking Fund with no form of complications and one that will ensure that the money is there when it is wanted. This system does introduce complications; it does mean re-borrowing, for you have to pay your debt, and as I say neither Mr. Apear nor the Corporation in their meeting have been able to produce any reason which shows the slightest advantage on the proposal."

The Hon'ble Mr. APEAR said :—

"The Hon'ble Member in charge has told us that there is a great distinction between Municipal Corporations in Great Britain and the Calcutta Corporation, because in Great Britain they cannot hold their own debentures as investments, but when they elect to purchase their own debentures and are then compelled to discard them, it is an option which is deliberately exercised, so that as a matter of fact they pursue that system with approval. And as a matter of fact there are Municipal Corporations in Great Britain with power of investing in their own debentures where the same power as I seek exists and is exercised. The Hon'ble Member in charge has referred to the Corporation as having on several occasions, under their old Chairman, asked for the power to purchase and extinguish their debentures, and having eventually under the present Chairman withdrawn that request. The Hon'ble Member would be more convincing in making a point of this circumstance had he shown any disposition to accede to the requests of the Corporation, for powers for which they have urgently and persistently pressed. The Hon'ble Member is anxious that old debentures should be held ready for sale, and wishes us to regard the sale of old debentures as not a borrowing by the Corporation. He seems not to appreciate that the sale of old debentures is a floatation of a loan, with the disadvantage of a very large number of debentures, of different issues, being thrown on to the market at the same time. The sale of old debentures is no less a borrowing by the Corporation from the public than the money obtained on the issue of new debentures. My Lord, I think there are many advantages to the Corporation in cancelling their old debentures. With a limit of time it is difficult to treat this matter freely, but I will try to state them briefly: non-payment of commission to banks and brokerage; avoidance of discount on sale of old debentures for repayment of other debentures at due date; debentures held in the Sinking Fund are of various dates for repayment, while the dates of repayment of the whole issue of new debentures of a loan are necessarily the same, and would ordinarily be for a period to run longer than in the case of old debentures, a circumstance more acceptable to investors; issue of new debentures is widely advertised; in the sale of old debentures the broker has to seek out purchasers; all these circumstances are in favour of the issue of new debentures. I may add that the discount, if any, on the floatation of new debentures may be minimised or avoided altogether by advertising a minimum rate that will be accepted."

New clause 141 AAA (1), as proposed by the Hon'ble Mr. Apcar, was then put to the vote and lost.

The Hon'ble Mr. Apcar then proceeded to move his proposed new clause 141 AAA (2) and said:—

"Of course I do not question your Lordship's ruling on the subject of the time limit, but there not being enough time I cannot do justice to my statement, and I will again have to hurry through as quickly as I can.

The power to purchase debentures for cancellation with money from the Municipal Fund (which is a fund distinct from the Sinking Fund) is even more important than the power of cancelling debentures purchased from money taken out of the Sinking Fund, because the cancellation under the former power will completely extinguish the debt, not only to the extent of the face value of the debenture cancelled, but also the loan charges payable on that amount, because the money for the purchase not having been withdrawn from the Sinking Fund, the interest payable to prevent a shortage need not be recouped.

In Great Britain, rent received from land acquired out of Capital funds is payable to the Loans Fund, which seems only fair. I have not ventured so far, although I am entirely in its favour. But clearly it would be only equitable that the profit made on the resale of land which has been acquired out of borrowed money should be allowed to go towards the reduction of the indebtedness of the Corporation and the consequent increase of borrowing power.

I do not think the extent to which our cash balances run is generally appreciated. Last year the cash balances were in the Revenue Fund Rs. 23,58,113, in the Loan Fund Rs. 26,34,320.

We are concerned only with the cash balances in the Revenue Fund, the money in the Loan Fund being earmarked for particular works on account of which money has been borrowed. The latter cash balances, however, show the amount of money on which loan charges are being paid, but which still are unutilized.

The cash balance in the Revenue Fund is due to money having been collected from the rate-payers in excess of the requirements of the year. I will avoid entering upon this thorny subject in the present discussion. I could go into detail and give remarkable instances in this connection, all of which have occurred under the present constitution of the Corporation. I need only mention in general terms that the Corporation have been in the habit of exacting money from the rate-payers of Calcutta in the form of rates; and the Corporation having got the money have left a large portion unutilised. The unutilised balance the Corporation had no right to have exacted. The statutory obligation is to keep a minimum sum of Rs. 2 lakhs as the cash balance. This sum is insufficient to meet the cost of our establishment, the bills of contractors remaining unpaid for work completed in the closing month of the previous year, or to be done shortly after, all payable before the revenue of the Corporation begins to come in, and is available in the early days of the new financial year. But Rs. 6 lakhs would be amply sufficient for all such purposes, and Rs. 10 lakhs, which it has been the custom to reserve, has been shown to be far larger than is wanted.

Very large sums continue to be shown year after year to accumulate as cash balances. It has been difficult to suggest a definite method how to treat these sums. It would not be a feasible idea to give the money back to those from whom it had been taken. Nor would the reduction of rates be quite satisfactory, because many persons would unduly profit who had not contributed to the cash balance. It of course would be best if rate-payers were never compelled to pay so much in excess of requirements; but the Corporation having become possessed of these large sums, collected on the part of Commissioners perhaps innocently, I submit the fairest plan would be to give the power to the Corporation, which I propose, to spread the benefit over a series of years as could be done by completely extinguishing debentures, and so reduce the annual loan charges for which the revenue otherwise would continue to be liable. It may happen that surplus cash to a large extent is available, when there is no immediate prospect of a loan. The power which I ask for could then be exercised with great advantage. I have made it clear in my proposal that the discretion of the Corporation would not be interfered with. It is only desired to empower the Corporation, when the opportunity occurs, to use such surplus cash as might be available to purchase and cancel their debentures, in the manner I have stated, after the Commissioners have had free scope to utilize the money in such manner as they might think fit.

Before I close my remarks I will comment on the references I have heard made to the "depletion" of the Sinking Fund, and to the necessity for holding in the Sinking Fund the investments made out of the monies of that fund, described as "liquid assets," to be ready for realization to provide funds for the redemption of debentures on due date. A misconception underlies each of these ideas.

A Sinking Fund before maturity can never be said to become "depleted" by reason of the cancellation of debentures held in the Sinking Fund. If debentures in the fund are cancelled, although put out of circulation, the paper cancelled does not become worthless, because by cancellation the principal amount due on the debenture cancelled is repaid, and one of the conditions of such cancellation is that the loan charges on that amount cancelled shall continue to be paid into the Sinking Fund."

The Hon'ble Mr. PAYNE said :—

"Is not Mr. Aparcar speaking on the first part of his amendment?"

The Hon'ble Mr. APCAR said :—

"The Hon'ble Member is quite correct in checking me. In the hurry of my statement, I have not kept the distinction clear at the moment in referring to the Sinking Fund. Of course where there is the complete extinction of the debt itself, there will be no interest to pay on the amount given for the purchase of a debenture. These powers that I desire, I think, are very necessary to us, because the Corporation hold on occasions large amounts of cash balances. It may very well happen that no loan is to be issued for a period. The opportunity will then be given for the cancellation of these debentures, and the Municipal fund can then be fully used for such a purpose. Even then it will not be used except, in the first instance, with the sanction of the Corporation, who will have full discretion to decide what amount is available for the cancellation of these debentures. If they are willing to allow them to be used, I think it is the proper method of using their cash balances. When they have large amounts paid into their funds from the proceeds of the sale of lands, I submit the best method would be not to return it to rate-payers of any one year by the reduction of rates, when perhaps rate-payers who have not contributed towards the payment for the land will benefit, but to spread the benefit over as large a field as possible by the cancellation of debentures in the manner proposed in my amendment."

"The object of the Hon'ble Member in putting this amendment is that that Corporation may be allowed the purchase of Municipal debentures for extinction and cancellation from time to time out of the sale-proceeds of any land or other undertaking belonging to the Corporation, or out of any other available funds, which may in the opinion of the Corporation be not required at an early date. That is sufficiently wide to give them power to purchase with money out of the loan fund, which may not be required to be applied at an early date. That of course the Hon'ble Member did not mean, and of course he will agree that it is impossible to agree to an amendment that is wide enough to include that. Taking the sale-proceeds of lands and other available revenue funds, there is no necessity for anything in the Bill to give the Corporation power to buy debentures out of that money. They have the power already and they do invest their surplus funds in their own debentures. The only point is the Hon'ble Member wishes to give them power to extinguish them when they have bought them. What is the effect of that? In the first place the Corporation continue to pay Sinking Fund charges under clause 136 of the Bill. There is no provision for adjusting the Sinking Fund payments and such adjustment would be a complicated proceeding.

At the end of the period when a loan matures, the rate-payers of the Corporation of that date will receive a bonus of the amount, which the Corporation now pay off. The Corporation will now save themselves from paying interest, and the saving will be a present for the rate-payers of 20 years hence. I would not personally object to that, but it is rather against the Hon'ble Member's previous arguments. What is really gained by cancelling the debentures? The municipality have the power of using these debentures again. Why should they not keep it? By cancelling, they do not save the Sinking Fund charge. If the debentures are not cancelled, they simply pay the interest from revenue to revenue; they pay by book debit; they pay to themselves; and at the same time they have got these securities. The cash balance is now high, but we do not know if the Corporation may not be in a very tight corner in a few years' time. Why should the rate-payers now forego the benefit of this reserve cash balance in order to benefit those who come after 20 years? At present, if they have got their debentures in existence, they put them on the market without going to the Government of India for a new loan and raise the money in an emergency. It seems to me that it is really more advantageous to the Corporation to keep their own money in an investment, which they can realise, rather than lock it up entirely for the sole benefit of future generations."

The Hon'ble RAI RADHA CHARAN PAL BAHADUR said:—

"My Lord, I may inform the Council that when this question was raised in the Corporation by the Hon'ble Mr. Apar, it was opposed by a considerable section of the Commissioners, and although it was carried by a majority, the majority was very small. The question however was raised almost at the last moment and it could not be discussed at a full meeting.

The disadvantage arising from the proposal of the Hon'ble Mr. Apar has been well explained by the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill. At present, my Lord, the practice is so simple that there is no difficulty in utilizing the sale-proceeds of surplus lands, and, if we are so inclined, to utilize the surplus cash balance, whether of Revenue or Capital Funds, for the purpose of works to be carried out of borrowed funds. If we estimate that 40 lakhs of rupees are required to be spent in the ensuing year on account of works to be carried out of loan funds, and if we find that 10 lakhs are available from sale of surplus lands and cash balance in the Capital Fund, we set off that amount against the total amount spent on loan works, and we borrow with the sanction of Government 30 lakhs of rupees.

Then, my Lord, as far as I understand, this motion will also apply to the Revenue cash balance. As has been explained by the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill the Revenue cash balance of one year would have to be carried down for the benefit of posterity, and the very principle in support of which the Hon'ble Member has been fighting is against this. It will accelerate the repayment of the loans before the period they are due. I think, my Lord, this motion should not be accepted by the Council."

The Hon'ble Mr. APCAR said:—

"My Lord, there is a misapprehension in respect of my amendment. The money to be utilized can be only out of the Municipal funds which is distinct from loan funds. And when the debenture is extinguished the Corporation would not continue to make the annual contribution on the amount of the debenture cancelled, and it is provided specifically that the dividend and interest will also cease to be paid. Why should it not be at the discretion of the Corporation to utilize in this way any small amount remaining in the cash balance which may not be required for other purposes? I am wholly unable to follow the idea of any inconsistency on my part in proposing the amendment. I think that was sufficiently touched upon in a late Corporation meeting, not to have the same arguments reproduced now. My objection is, and always has been, that those who are not benefiting from any work should not be made to pay for its cost. Here with the extinction all payments cease, and there is nothing but benefit; there is no injury, no prejudice to anyone, and if the debentures are extinguished, the payment of interest stops. There is no question of accelerating any loans or prejudice to anybody. The whole question again is not understood. We hear a good deal when the Corporation are against any measure, and it is made much of. But when the Corporation are in favour of a measure, why should not that be taken into account? My Lord, this is a very useful power to give to the Corporation to exercise at their option, and I ask that it be granted to them.

New clause 141 AAA (2), as proposed by the Hon'ble Mr. Apar, was then put to the vote and lost.

The Hon'ble Member then withdrew his proposal as to the insertion of a new clause 141 AAAA, which formed the third portion of his amendment.

The following motion was also, by leave of the President, withdrawn:—

List of Amendments—Motion No. 73 B. The Hon'ble Mr. Apar to move that the following words be added at the end of clause 141 AA (3), namely, "save and except when any debenture is cancelled under section 141 AAA."

CALCUTTA MUNICIPAL (LOANS) BILL, 1914.

The discussion on the Calcutta Municipal (Loans) Bill was resumed.

The following motions were, by leave of the President, withdrawn :—

New clause 141 AAA.

List of Amendments—Motion No. 74. The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur to move that, after clause 141 AA, the following be inserted, namely :—

“ 141 AAA. The Corporation may, before the due date of repayment, cancel any municipal debenture held in the Sinking Fund, and, on such cancellation, the debt, to the extent of the nominal value of such debenture, shall be deemed to be extinguished :—

Power of Corporation to cancel municipal debentures held in the Sinking Fund.

Provided that when—

- (a) any debenture is so cancelled, or
- (b) any portion of the Sinking Fund is applied towards the repayment of any debenture at any due date or in exercise of borrowing powers sanctioned by the Government of India, the Corporation shall continue to pay into the Sinking Fund half-yearly interest at the rate prescribed in section 136 (2) for the unexpired term of the loan in respect of which the debenture was issued.”

List of Amendments—Motion No. 74 A. The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur to move that, after clause 141 AA, the following be inserted, namely :—

“ 141 AAA. The Corporation may, before the due date of repayment, cancel any municipal debenture held in the Sinking Fund, and, on such cancellation, the debt, to the extent of the nominal value of such debenture, shall be deemed to be extinguished :—

Power of Corporation to cancel municipal debentures held in the Sinking Fund.

Provided that when any debenture is so cancelled, the Corporation shall continue to pay into the Sinking Fund half-yearly interest at the rate prescribed in section 136, sub-section (2), in addition to the half-yearly contribution which would have been paid into the Sinking Fund, for the unexpired term of the loan in respect of which the debenture so cancelled was issued had such debenture not been so cancelled.”

Clause 141 B.

List of Amendments—Motion No. 75. The Hon'ble Mr. Byomkes Chakravarti to move that, for the first four lines of clause 141 B, the following be substituted, namely :—

“ 141 B. The Corporation shall not apply any portion of the Sinking Fund to any purpose other than the repayment of a loan or any part thereof.”

List of Amendments—Motion No. 76. The Hon'ble Mr. Apcar to move that, for the first four lines of clause 141 B, the following be substituted, namely :—

“141 B. The Corporation shall not apply any portion of the Sinking Fund to any purpose other than the repayment of a loan or any part thereof.”

Motion No. 77. The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur to move that, for the first four lines of clause 141 B, the following be substituted, namely :—

“No money at credit of the Sinking Fund shall be applied to any purpose other than the discharge of any loan or part of a loan, provided that if, after the full discharge of any loan, there remains any surplus to its credit in the separate account kept in respect thereof under section 136 (3), such surplus may, with the previous sanction of the Local Government, be transferred from the Sinking Fund to the General Fund of the Corporation.”

List of Amendments—Motion No. 77 A. The Hon'ble Mr. Stephenson moved that, for the existing provisos to clause 141 B, the following be substituted, namely :—

“Provided that—

- (i) when any loan, or part thereof, which was raised after the commencement of the Calcutta Municipal (Loans) Act, 1914, has been consolidated under section 140, the Corporation shall transfer to the Sinking Fund established for such consolidated loan the sum standing at credit of the Sinking Fund of the original loan, or, if part only of a loan has been consolidated, then such part of the sum standing at credit of the Sinking Fund of the original loan as is proportionate to the amount of the original loan which is incorporated in the consolidated loan ; and
- (ii) when any loan, or part thereof, which was raised before the commencement of the Calcutta Municipal (Loans) Act, 1914, has been consolidated, the Corporation shall transfer such amounts as the Government of India may direct from the Sinking Fund maintained under section 138, clause (1), and from Sinking Fund A maintained before the commencement of the said Act to the Sinking Fund established for consolidated loans under section 140, sub-section (4).”

He said :—“The only difference between the motion that I move now and the Bill is that we have to alter the dates in consequence of the postponement of the Bill. Instead of referring to different dates we put in “after the commencement of the Calcutta Municipal (Loans) Act, 1914” and “before the commencement of the Calcutta Municipal (Loans) Act, 1914.”

The Hon'ble RAI RADHA CHARAN PAL BAHADUR said :—

“My Lord, I think it is intended that the amount to be transferred from the existing Sinking Fund shall be determined according to calculation and not as the Government of India might direct. I don't know if I shall be in order to suggest an amendment now. The Hon'ble mover may modify it.”

The Hon'ble MR. STEPHENSON said :—

“The Hon'ble Member was in the Select Committee when they adopted this. He has forgotten the discussion on the subject. The reason this wording was adopted is that the calculation was so intricate as to what amount should be transferred that the Select Committee decided that it was no good trying to put it into the Bill, and that it would be better to have one ordinary provision which would cover all cases. It is certainly intended that the calculation should be made according to the principle enunciated in the Bill; that is to say, the amount which should have been in the Sinking Fund on that date will be transferred. They found difficulty in putting that into the Bill and the Select Committee, including the Hon'ble Member himself, decided to adopt the present wording."

The motion was then put and agreed to.

The following motions were, by leave of the President, withdrawn :—

- List of Amendments—Motion No. 78. The Hon'ble Mr. Apcar to move that the words "Act Amendment" be substituted for the brackets and word "(Loans)" in clause 141 B.
- List of Amendments—Motion No. 79. The Hon'ble Mr. Apcar to move that the words and figures "separate account kept under section 141 AAAA (I)(a)" be substituted for the words "Sinking Fund established for such consolidated loan" in lines 4 and 5 of proviso (i) to clause 141 B.
- List of Amendments—Motion No. 80. The Hon'ble Mr. Byomkes Chakravarti to move that the words and figures "separate account kept under section 136 (3)" be substituted for the words "Sinking Fund established for such consolidated loan" in lines 4 and 5 of proviso (i) to clause 141 B.
- List of Amendments—Motion No. 81. The Hon'ble Mr. Apcar to move that the words "separate account" be substituted for the words "Sinking Fund" in line 6 of proviso (i) to clause 141 B.
- List of Amendments—Motion No. 82. The Hon'ble Mr. Apcar to move that the words and figures "separate account kept under section 141 AAAA (I)(a)" be substituted for the words "Sinking Fund" in lines 8 and 9 of proviso (i) to clause 141 B.
- List of Amendments—Motion No. 83. The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur to move that the words and figures "separate account kept under section 136 (3)" be substituted for the words "Sinking Fund" in lines 8 and 9 of proviso (i) to clause 141 B.
- List of Amendments—Motion No. 84. The Hon'ble Mr. Apcar to move that the figures "136" be substituted for the words and figures "138, clause (I)" in line 6 of proviso (ii) to clause 141 B, and that the words and figures "and from Sinking Fund A maintained before the commencement of the Calcutta Municipal (Loans) Act, 1914," in lines 6 to 8 of the same proviso, be omitted.
- List of Amendments—Motion No. 85. The Hon'ble Mr. Byomkes Chakravarti to move that the figures "136" be substituted for the words and figures "138, clause (I)," in line 6 of proviso (ii) to clause 141 B, and that the words and figures "and from Sinking Fund A maintained before the commencement of the Calcutta Municipal (Loans) Act, 1914," in lines 6 to 8 of the same proviso, be omitted.
- List of Amendments—Motion No. 86. The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur to move that the figures "136" be substituted for the words and figures "138, clause (I)," in line 6 of proviso (ii) to clause 141 B, and that the words and figures "and from Sinking Fund A maintained before the commencement of the Calcutta Municipal (Loans) Act, 1914," in lines 6 to 8 of the same proviso, be omitted.

List of Amendments—Motion No. 87. The Hon'ble Mr. Apar moved that the present clause 141 B be numbered 141 B (1) and that the following sub-clause be added at the end of that clause, namely :—

“(2) Notwithstanding anything contained in this section, the Corporation may, in its discretion, employ any portion of the Sinking Fund in the construction of works for which a loan has been sanctioned by Government under the provisions of this Act :

Provided that the Corporation shall continue to pay into the Sinking Fund, until the expiry of the prescribed period of such loan, the same half-yearly contribution that would have been payable to the said Fund if the money thus employed had been raised by the issue of debentures.”

He said :—“This amendment. I must frankly confess, is not in the form in which I should prefer to see it. Indeed, it had escaped my memory until your Lordship called upon me to move it, that this amendment still retained its place in the Agenda after my amendment of yesterday evening had fallen through, on which I had relied for the power to apply the Sinking Fund instead of borrowing in the open market. I, however, will move the amendment because I think that certain questions underlie it which should be considered, and particularly I want an opportunity to say that I did not intentionally withdraw my amendment of the clause of which I had given notice in the agenda as clause 141A. I, of course, do not desire here to question any ruling of your Lordship, but I may be permitted to say that I had no idea of resiling from my position. I did not dream when I did not seek to press against the Hon'ble Member in charge, what I offered to him rather as a suggestion, namely, the mutation of clauses 141A to 128A, that I would be putting it out of my power to move the clause relating to the application of the Sinking Fund in the exercise of borrowing powers, a proposal which I always have considered among the most important among my amendments.

The last letter from the Government to the Corporation to which I before have drawn attention, dated the 1st of the present month of January, refers to the desire of the Corporation to obtain the power to utilise their Sinking Fund in the manner I have mentioned. I ask attention to paragraph 7 of that letter which commences as follows :—

‘The next suggestion is that the Corporation should be specially empowered to apply the Sinking Fund in exercise of its borrowing powers. No arguments are adduced in favour of this course, and it is practically admitted that the Corporation is able to attain the desired object by means of its existing powers to buy its own debentures and the power proposed to be given in the Bill for reserving a portion of loan debenture for the investment of Sinking Funds.’

It is very remarkable that arguments should be expected in asking for a power that has been so well known and so widely exercised for a long time in Great Britain. It is to be found in the Birmingham Water Act of 1892, in the St. Helen's Corporation Act of 1898 and has been carefully elaborated in the Birmingham Corporation Act of 1903 from where I took the terms of my amendment which most unfortunately I have been precluded from moving in our proceedings. It is to be found also in the Local Government Board Stock Regulation of 1901 both for Urban Districts and County Councils. These enactments I mention because I have them in my possession. But we know from the proceedings of the Select Committee of the House Commons in 1908 and 1909 how generally they had been adopted in local Acts of Municipal Corporations in Great Britain. It has been so greatly utilised that in the Corporation of Birmingham alone we find that from the year 1892 to 1909 the sum of £1,585,297 was so used out of Sinking Funds; and if the Corporation of Glasgow had not utilised their Sinking Funds in the same manner, the Registrar of that Corporation writes to me that he calculates that they would have lost over a million of money if they had invested their Sinking Funds. And yet a point is made of the circumstance that we had not advanced arguments in support of our request. If they are not known I submit that we should expect them to be known to the Government when undertaking such important legislation as the present one. And there is a very extraordinary misconception in the assertion that the Corporation practically admit that they are able to attain the desired object by means of its existing power to buy its own debentures. What in truth is admitted here is the principle, by the Government, that our Sinking Fund can be utilised; that goes a long way in our favour in argument, but it falls short of the power we seek. And it is still more remarkable that the Government should think that by giving the power to the Corporation to tender for their own debentures, they will be getting the power they seek. The main point in the desire of the Corporation for the power is that they need not, if it is granted to them, go into the market to borrow and they then would not need to issue fresh securities, and therefore would make a substantial saving owing to stamp duty not being payable. It would be well to have clearly before us the terms of the clause relied upon as giving us the same power as we seek. In clause 141 AA of the Bill power is given to reserve or set apart, with the sanction of the Government of India, any portion of the debentures to be issued on account of any loan, and sub-clause 2 runs as follows:—

‘The issue of any such debentures to the Chairman as aforesaid shall not operate to extinguish or cancel such debentures, but every debenture so issued shall be valid in all respects as if issued to and in the name of any other person.’

It will therefore be seen that any portion of the debentures which may be reserved for the Corporation will be as if issued to any other person: that it must form a part of the issue of debentures and the debentures reserved must be regularly stamped exactly as debentures are stamped which are issued to the public. That power is wholly distinct from that for which I contend. The crux of the question is that in the power the Corporation want, no fresh securities will be issued, and no stamp duty will be payable on them and the Corporation. The utilisation of the monies of the Sinking Fund in the capital work of a Municipal Corporation is not depletion but investment, and the best form of investment for the Sinking Fund.

It must be perfectly clear that when monies are withdrawn from the Sinking Fund there is no injury done to the Sinking Fund because the equivalent of interest would continue to be contributed. Whenever monies are withdrawn from the Sinking Fund, in the manner we desire, we should remove from our minds the idea that the Sinking Fund is being depleted. It is not depletion of the Sinking Fund, but investment and the very best form of treatment of the monies of the Sinking Fund. This is quite well recognised in English practice, and I ask that some indulgence be permitted to me with regard to the remarks that I have heard made in this connection. Before maturity the Sinking Fund cannot be said to be depleted by reason of the utilization of the monies of the Sinking Fund in our capital works. If money is withdrawn or borrowed from the Sinking Fund, it is not dissipated but continues to earn the loan charges—that is, annual contribution and interest—on the money withdrawn. Loan charges are the only payments required for the complete repayment of a loan, principal and interest. Except the regular payment of loan charges, the Revenue Fund of a Municipal Corporation has no further liability in respect of money withdrawn or of debenture cancelled. And besides the regular receipt of loan charges, the Sinking Fund needs no further help from any quarter to repay loans at due date. The view that was expressed by the City Treasurer of the Birmingham Corporation before the Select Committee of the House of Commons in 1909 (he also represented the Association of Municipal Corporations before that Committee) was confirmed by all the other witnesses before the Select Committee who were connected with, or had any practical experience of, municipal administration:—

“The security on which almost every lender of money to the Corporation relies—I speak from personal experience in negotiating many thousands of loans, as well from a knowledge of the opinions of some of the leading Stock brokers of Birmingham—is the financial standing of the particular Corporation to which he lends money, or whose Stock he takes up, and it is my firm belief that he does not concern himself in the slightest degree as to the technicalities of Loan Funds or Sinking Funds or as to the book-keeping in connection therewith". The Sinking Fund of the Calcutta Corporation, however, would be perfectly safe from any prejudice and the supervision of the Accountant-General would be a further guarantee. As to the security to the lender on debentures, by law and the express contract between him and the Corporation it is the rates and taxes and fees leviable under the Act. The only objection I ever have heard attempted to be raised is that conditions are different here from England. In what are they different in this connection? The security we offer is abundantly sufficient. The procedure to be followed is quite simple. The supervision by the Accountant-General, it surely will not be denied by Government, is as effective as can be exercised by the Local Government Board in England. The only difficulty that I can trace is the want of familiarity by the authorities with a proceeding that is so well known. But when the procedure is so simple and the principle is expressly admitted by the Government, I submit that it would be a hardship to the Corporation to be debarred from receiving the power for which we ask."

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRA NATH RAY said :—

"I should like to say one word with reference to this amendment with the approval of the Government. I would wish to amend the words"—

The PRESIDENT said "order, order. I am afraid due notice is required to move any amendment, so it is improper for the Hon'ble Member to seek to move an amendment now without notice."

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRA NATH RAY :—

"Then I support this amendment of Mr. Apcar's because it may be that there will be a financial crisis in the Province and although we may have money in our own till we will not be able to utilise the money. We know full well that a few years ago when Mr. Greer was Chairman of the Corporation he and Mr. Mukerji had to borrow money from the Bank of Bengal, Rs. 4 lakhs on their own personal securities. The time may come when we may have to face any such difficulties and having money in our own till we will not be able to utilise that money. It is when we are going to legislate in a matter that we should provide against all contingencies. It is simply to utilise monies in our own coffers that Mr. Apcar asks that this clause should be inserted. It may be with the sanction of Government that this money may be utilised, and it is for that reason that I wanted to put in that clause, but, if that is not accepted, the amendment as it now is might be accepted."

The Hon'ble MR. APCAR said :—

"For my own part I cannot seriously press my amendment. I think it is defective in its terms and I intended to alter it to a more correct form. When I already have published in the agenda what I consider to be the correct form, I feel it would not be fair if I did not recognise that the present form was defective."

The motion was then, by leave of the President, withdrawn.

List of Amendments—Motion No. 88. The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur moved that the word "Chairman" be substituted for the word "Corporation" in line 1 of clause 141 C (I).

He said :—

"This section I believe requires the Corporation to prepare some Financial Statement (141 C). "The Corporation shall at the end of every financial year prepare a statement." What I venture to submit to your Lordship is that this statement will have to be prepared by the Executive and I think the proper wording is "the Chairman shall." It is a simple verbal amendment and I do not think that the member in charge of the Bill has any objection."

The Hon'ble Mr. STEPHENSON said :—

"In framing the Bill the word "Corporation" was used because it is in accordance with statutory precedent in England that all statutory obligations should be placed on the Corporation and not on any officer of the Corporation. It has been brought to the notice of Government that in the case of the Calcutta Corporation the statutory functions are by the Calcutta Act divided between the Chairman and the Corporation. The Corporation therefore does not necessarily include the Chairman. They are two bodies and the main executive functions have been placed in the hands of the Chairman. In these circumstances Government is prepared to accept the amendment and place the onus on the Chairman."

The motion was then put and agreed to.

List of Amendments—Motion No. 89. The Hon'ble Mr. Apear to move that the words "The Sinking Fund" be substituted for the words "All Sinking Funds" in line 1 of clause 141 E (1).

List of Amendments—Motion No. 90. The Hon'ble Mr. Apear to move that the word "the" be substituted for the word "any" in line 1 of clause 141 E (2).

List of Amendments—Motion No. 91. The Hon'ble Mr. Apear to move that the word "the" be substituted for the word "any" in line 2 of clause 141 E (3).

List of Amendments—Motion No. 91A. The Hon'ble Mr. Apear to move that the word "any" be substituted for the word "all" at the commencement of line 1 of clause 141 E (1).

List of Amendments—Motion No. 91 B. The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur moved that the word "may" be substituted for the word "shall" in the penultimate line of clause 141 E (3).

He said :—"My Lord, certain difficulties might arise as to the disposal of the surplus fund, and my amendment is aimed at guarding against those difficulties. I do not wish that it should be made obligatory upon the Corporation to transfer the excess sum to the General Fund. If it is a small sum it may remain there; if a large sum then it can be so transferred. And this should be left to the discretion of the Corporation. I do not think I need dilate upon the point any further, as it is only a small amendment."

The Hon'ble Mr. STEPHENSON said :—

"In the original Bill, the word was 'may.' In the Select Committee it was changed into 'shall' as the Corporation expressly desired it to be. At that time the Trustees were in charge of the Sinking Fund, and it was felt possible that the Trustees might not exercise their discretion in the way that the Corporation desired. Therefore it was altered to 'shall.' But now, as the management of the Sinking Fund to be entirely under the Corporation, I think it is quite right that the section should be modified and that the word should be 'may.' I therefore accept the amendment."

The motion was then put and agreed to.

The following motion was, by leave of the President, withdrawn :—

List of Amendments—Motion No. 92. The Hon'ble Mr. Apear to move that the word "Fund" be substituted for the word "Funds" in lines 2 and 4 of the proviso to clause 141 F.

The Hon'ble Mr. Stephenson, with the permission of His Excellency the President, moved that in the place of Amendment No. 69 A, as passed in Council on the 14th January 1914, the words "for the purpose of investing any portion of its funds (including Sinking Funds)" be substituted, and be placed at the beginning of the clause.

He said :—

The amendment of the Hon'ble Mr. Apar in regard to this matter was accepted yesterday. But I am advised that from a drafting point of view that amendment is defective. I therefore propose a verbal modification, and I think the Council will accept it.

The Hon'ble Mr. APCAR said :—

"I quite agree with the Hon'ble mover. I think the amendment now is in better form. My amendment was worded in the form that appears in the agenda as my mind was directed towards the possibility of the Corporation loans being consolidated and a Sinking Fund for it being required. I think the new form is much better."

The motion was then put and agreed to.

List of Business—Motion No. 17. The Hon'ble Mr. Stephenson moved that the Secretary be directed to renumber the clauses and sub-clauses of the Bill in consecutive order, and to make corresponding alterations in all cross-references thereto.

The motion was put and agreed to.

List of Business—Motion No. 18. The Hon'ble Mr. Stephenson moved that the Bill, as amended in Council, be passed.

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRA NATH BANERJI said :—

"My Lord, I beg to call attention to clause (2) of rule 47 of our Legislative Business Rules.

My Lord, having regard to the importance of the Bill and the very serious amendments which have been made in it in Council, it seems to me that the Bill should not be passed at this stage, but that these amendments with the Bill should be published and then at the next meeting the Bill may be passed."

The Hon'ble Mr. STEPHENSON said :—

"I hope that Your Excellency will exercise your power of suspending this particular rule. The Hon'ble Member has given no reason why the passing of this Bill should be postponed."

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRA NATH BANERJI said :—

"I have given reasons. I said that the Bill was very important."

The Hon'ble Mr. STEPHENSON said :—

"Postponing the passing of the Bill to the next meeting would serve no useful purpose whatever. We cannot discuss the Bill any further. It is now only a question of the passing of the Bill. No further discussion on it is permissible. It would be an unnecessary waste of time if we postpone the passing of the Bill."

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRA NATH BANERJI said :—

"My Lord, may I be permitted to make a reply?"

The PRESIDENT said :—

"I am afraid not. We cannot enter upon a discussion of the rule to which the Hon'ble Member refers. I agree with the Hon'ble Mr. Stephenson that this is a case in which I may properly exercise my discretion to suspend the operation of the rule, and I now accordingly put the Hon'ble Mr. Stephenson's motion to the Council."

The motion was agreed to, and the Bill was accordingly passed.

RESOLUTIONS.

(Under the Rules for the discussion of matters of general public interest.)

List of Business—Motion No. 19. The Hon'ble Maulvi A. K. Faz-ul-Haq moved the following Resolution :—

This Council recommends to the Governor in Council that—

- (i) steps be taken to place specially selected Muhammadan Inspectors in charge of Muhammadan education in all the divisions of the Presidency, and
- (ii) the orders recalling the special Inspectors in charge of Muhammadan education to general duty be withdrawn.

He said :—“ My Lord, I may say at once that in moving this Resolution, I do not wish to advocate any system by which the educational problems of this country would be ticked off as pertaining to a particular community or that these various communities should be placed in close compartments in any matters that make for educational advancement and progress. Speaking for myself, my Lord, I confess that I have no faith in any policy of separatism of this kind. But I hope this Council will bear me out when I say that for some reason or other the Muhammadan community is far from being in line with the other advanced communities of this country and that they have required, and for some time to come will no doubt require, some help, encouragement and assistance in educational matters. My Lord, when His Excellency the Viceroy visited Dacca soon after the Durbar announcements it was pressed upon His Excellency's notice by a very large and influential deputation of the Muhammadan community of Eastern Bengal that one of the apprehensions of the Muhammadan community after the Durbar announcements was this, that in consequence of the reconstitution of this Presidency, there might be a setback in the educational advancement in the districts of East Bengal. His Excellency was pleased to give a pledge that, so far as possible, Government will take all possible steps to prevent any setback in this educational progress. I believe that, so far as the Muhammadan community is concerned, it is perhaps as a partial fulfilment of that pledge that a special officer has been appointed to look after Muhammadan education. But how far the appointment of this officer would push forward the cause of Muhammadan education I will not attempt to say. It is no use troubling the Council now by dilating on that point. But I think that officers should be appointed for inspection purposes who know local conditions, and it would not be difficult to find such men from the Muhammadan community. It may be that the arrangements which I propose may be of a tentative character. It may be that some time must elapse before the special officer comes to grapple with the situation and study local conditions, but till that time comes or until some other arrangements are made, I think the appointment of this special officer will be practically useless, unless he is assisted by specially qualified men knowing local conditions and necessities. For these reasons I move my resolution and I need not detain the Council any longer.”

The Hon'ble NAWAB SYED SHAMS-UL HUDA said :—

“ My Lord, I desire to intervene in this somewhat early stage of the debate in the hope that it may effect a saving of the time of this Council. At the time when we considered the question of appointing a special officer for Muhammadan education, there were two special Inspectors in the two divisions of West Bengal, namely, Burdwan and Presidency. We thought that it would not be right that the special officer's work should be confined to East Bengal only, and that West Bengal should have the benefit of this special officer. In proposing the appointment of this officer we promised that the two special Inspectors in the Presidency and Burdwan Divisions would, after the appointment of this special officer, be absorbed in the general staff. Accordingly, when Mr. Taylor was appointed a special officer for Muhammadan education, these two officers were recalled from their special duty but this created a certain amount of uneasiness in the Muhammadan community and that sentiment was voiced in various ways. After carefully considering the matter, we thought that Mr. Taylor would not be effectively assisted in his duties unless there were a few special inspecting officers to help him, at any rate for some time to come, and we have decided temporarily to appoint five inspecting officers in the five divisions of this Presidency. The appointment will be temporary, because we do not desire in any way to prejudice what is being done in the office of the Director of Public Instruction as regards the reorganization of the inspecting staff. Therefore, for the present, we have decided to appoint these five officers and I hope that this statement will satisfy my friend the Hon'ble mover of the resolution."

The Hon'ble MAULVI FAZ-UL-HAQ said :—

"My Lord, after what has fallen from the Hon'ble Member, I do not wish to press my resolution, because I have got practically all that I wanted."

The resolution was then, by leave of the President, withdrawn.

List of Business—Motion No. 20. The moving of the following Resolution was postponed by the President, under rule 10 of the Resolution Rules, to the next meeting of the Council :—

The Hon'ble Babu Surendra Nath Ray to move the following Resolution :—

This Council recommends to the Governor in Council that the proposal to abolish the Engineering College at Sibpur be dropped, and that the said college be either retained at Sibpur, or, if its present site is considered unsuitable,—

- (i) be removed to a suitable site in Calcutta or its immediate vicinity, or
- (ii) be made a branch of the proposed Technological Institute in Calcutta.

The PRESIDENT said :—

"The Hon'ble Mr. Apcar has made a request to me to be allowed to make a personal explanation and I grant him leave to make that explanation."

The Hon'ble MR. APCAR said :—

"My Lord, I crave permission to make a personal explanation. I am very sorry to find that the Hon'ble Mr. McLeod is under the impression that I cast aspersions upon the credit of his firm and of the companies of which his firm are agents. The Hon'ble Sir William Duke was in the chair as President, when the incident occurred, and I feel sure that he will corroborate me that I did not say anything which was unparliamentary. It is difficult for me to understand how my words could bear the interpretation placed on them. However, my Lord, since the Hon'ble Mr. McLeod is under the impression I have mentioned, permit me to say that my reference to his firm and his companies was made in the course of an argumentum ad absurdum to meet an argument that had been advanced by him. If it is any satisfaction to him I can assure the Hon'ble Member that he is under a misapprehension. I certainly had no intention to disparage either the credit of his firm or that of his companies in any way.

My Lord, I would be ready to apologise for any mistake I may make. I cannot, however, undertake to apologise for any mistake supposed under a misapprehension to have been made. But I am ready to give an explanation to remove any such misapprehension, which I now very willingly do. And I hope that it is to my hon'ble friend's satisfaction."

The Hon'ble MR. McLEOD said :—

"I have much pleasure in accepting the explanation which Mr. Apcar has made. There must of course be a good deal of give and take in this Council, but when a reference is made to matters outside the business of the Council, I do not think that it is quite permissible. However, I fully accept Mr. Apcar's explanation."

ADJOURNMENT.

The Council was adjourned to Friday, the 27th February, 1914, at 11 A.M.

BRITISH POSSESSIONS.

Caution when approaching British Ports.

No. 74 (first publication).—The following particulars, etc., relative to the above, issued by the British Admiralty (No. 1 of 1914), are republished :—

PART I.

CLOSING OF PORTS.

(1) My Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, having taken into consideration the fact that local or other circumstances may arise in which it may be necessary, on account of periodical exercises, manœuvres, or otherwise, to forbid all entrance to certain ports of the Empire, this is to give Notice that on approaching the shores of the United Kingdom, or any of the ports or localities of the British Empire, referred to in Part III of this Notice, a sharp look-out should be kept for the signals described in the following paragraph, and for the vessels mentioned in paragraph (5), Part II, of this Notice, and the distinguishing and other signals made by them. In the event of such signals being displayed, the port or locality should be approached with great caution, as it may be apprehended that obstructions may exist.

(2) If entrance to a port is prohibited, three red vertical lights by night, or three red vertical balls by day, will be exhibited in some conspicuous position, in or near to its approach, which signals will also be shown by the vessels indicated in paragraph (5), Part II, of this Notice.

If these signals are displayed, vessels must either proceed to the position marked "Examination Anchorage" on the Admiralty charts and anchor there, or keep the sea.

(3) At all the ports or localities at home or abroad referred to in Part III of this Notice, search-lights are occasionally exhibited for exercise.

Instructions have been given to avoid directing moveable search-lights during practice on to vessels under way, but mariners are warned that great care should be taken to keep a sharp look-out for the signals indicated in paragraph (2) above, when search-lights are observed to be working.

PART II.

EXAMINATION SERVICE.

(4) Under certain circumstances it may become necessary to take special measures to examine vessels desiring to enter the ports or localities at home or abroad, referred to in Part III of this Notice.

(5) In such case, vessels carrying the distinguishing flags or lights mentioned in paragraph (7) will be charged with the duty of examining ships which desire to enter the ports and of allotting positions in which they shall anchor. If Government vessels, or vessels belonging to the local port authority, are found patrolling in the offing, merchant vessels are advised to communicate with such vessels with a view to obtaining information as to the course on which they should approach the Examination anchorage. Such communication will not be necessary in cases where the pilot on board has already received this information from the local authorities.

(6) As the institution of the Examination Service at any port will never be publicly advertised, especial care should be taken in approaching the ports, by day or night, to keep a sharp look-out for any vessel carrying the flags or lights mentioned in paragraph (7), and to be ready to "bring to" at once when hailed by her or warned by the firing of a gun or sound rocket.

In entering by night any of the ports mentioned below in Part III, serious delay and risk will be avoided if four efficient all-round lamps, two red and two white, are kept available for use.

(7) By day the distinguishing flags of the Examination Steamer will be a special flag (white and red horizontal surrounded by a blue border) and a blue ensign.

Also, three red vertical balls if the port is closed.

By night the steamer will carry :—

- (a) Three red vertical lights if the port is closed.
 (b) Three white vertical lights if the port is open.

The above lights will be carried in addition to the ordinary navigation lights, and will show an unbroken light around the horizon.

(8) Masters are warned that, before attempting to enter any of these ports when the Examination Service is in force, they must in their own interests strictly obey all instructions given to them by the Examination Steamer. In the absence of any instructions from the Examination Steamer they must proceed to the position marked "Examination Anchorage" on the Admiralty Charts and anchor there, or keep the sea.

Whilst at anchor in the Examination anchorage Masters are warned that they must not lower any boats (except to avoid accident), communicate with the shore, work cables, move the ship, or allow anyone to leave the ship, without permission from the Examination Steamer.

(9) In case of fog, Masters of vessels are enjoined to use the utmost care, and the Examination Anchorage itself should be approached with caution.

(10) The pilots attached to the ports will be acquainted with the regulations to be followed.

BRITISH EMPIRE.

No. 75 (first publication).—The following particulars, etc., relative to the above, issued by the British Admiralty (No. 2 of 1914), are republished:—

Any vessel approaching a port in the British Empire when searchlights are being worked, and finding that they interfere with her safe navigation, may make use of the following signals, either singly or combined:—

(a) By flashing lamp, four short flashes followed by one long flash.

(b) By-whistle, siren, or fog-horn, four short blasts followed by one long blast.

Whenever possible, both flashing lamp signals and sound signals should be used.

On these signals being made, the searchlights will be worked, as far as circumstances will permit, so as to cause the least inconvenience, being either extinguished, raised, or altered in direction.

The signals should not be used without real necessity, as unless the vessel is actually in the rays of a searchlight it is impossible to know which searchlight is affected.

Note.

These signals are designed to assist mariners and do not render the Government liable in any way.

ADMIRALTY PUBLICATIONS.

The introduction of TRUE bearings.

No. 76 (first publication).—The following particulars, etc., relative to the above, issued by the British Admiralty (No. 4 of 1914), are republished:—

Former Notices.—No. 1619 of 1911, No. 2 of 1912 and No. 3 of 1913 (This office No. 61 of 1912.)

Notice is hereby given that TRUE bearings are being gradually introduced in all Admiralty Publications.

Details of the new system are as follows:—

(a) On charts:

A new pattern compass is being gradually introduced which enables True Bearings to be laid off on the chart in addition to Magnetic Bearings. (See diagram overleaf.)

The compass consists of two graduated circles, clearly separated from each other.

The outer circle is a True compass, graduated from 0° (True North) to 360°, measured clockwise.

The inner circle is a magnetic compass, graduated in points and in degrees from 0° to 90° as heretofore.

The bearings of leading and clearing marks, etc., are given both True and Magnetic, and a note to this effect is placed in the title of the charts. (See overleaf.)

Example.—The bearing N. 62° W. true, with a Variation of 8° Westerly, will be shown thus: 298° (N. 54° W. Mag.).

(b) In Sailing Directions :

Bearings will be given as True only, in degrees from  $0^{\circ}$  (North) to  $360^{\circ}$ , measured clockwise; and a note to this effect will be given in the title page, in the Advertisement, and in the page immediately preceding page 1 of all volumes of Sailing Directions. The Variation will continue to be given on each page as at present, so that Magnetic bearings may be obtained when required.

This alteration only applies to new editions of Sailing Directions and their Supplements. In the case of Sailing Directions in which Magnetic bearings are still given, Magnetic bearings will be given in their Supplements.

(c) In Notices to Mariners :

All bearings are given both True and Magnetic in a similar manner to that adopted on charts.

(d) Lists of Lights :

Bearings will be given in all Parts of the List of Lights for 1914 as True only, in degrees from  $0^{\circ}$  (North) to  $360^{\circ}$ , measured clockwise.

On each page of the List of Lights, a footnote is placed stating that all bearings are TRUE FROM SEAWARD.

PATTERN OF COMPASS.

(adopted after June 1911).

Addition to title of Chart

Bearings are given both True and Magnetic thus  $298^{\circ}$  ( $N 54^{\circ} W$  Mag)

RESOLUTION ON THE EMBANKMENT AND DRAINAGE REPORTS FOR THE YEAR 1912-13.

No. 3337.

IRRIGATION DEPARTMENT.

Dated Calcutta, the 3rd February 1914.

RESOLUTION.

READ—

The Embankment and Drainage Reports for the year 1912-13.

THE expenditure incurred on works and repairs (exclusive of book charges for establishment and tools and plant) during the year amounted to Rs. 5,16,009.

2. The total length of embankments of all classes maintained by Government in this Presidency is 1,352 miles and 2,681 feet; and these protect an area of 3,524,535 acres. These embankments are generally effective against ordinary high floods, but a few are liable to be overtopped during exceptionally high floods.

3. Floods.—The only high floods during the year were in the Bhagirathi, Mathabhanga and Jalangi rivers in the Central Circle. In the South-Western Circle a moderate flood occurred in the Cossye river on the 18th August 1912. There was also a flood in the Barchowka Jheel which skirts the Argowal embankment in its 21st to 24th miles; this was mainly due to heavy rainfall and the insufficient provision for drainage afforded by the Balliaghye main drain, which has in recent years silted up considerably. In the Damodar river there were only six freshets during the year, but no damage was done to the embankments and there was no loss of crops in the spill area.

4. Breaches.—There were no breaches in any of the Schedule D and takavi embankments during the year. In the Cossye and Northern Drainage and Embankment Divisions 60 cuts were allowed in the embankments for the purpose of irrigation and drainage, as well as for boro cultivation.

5. Surveys and Investigations.—The survey of the Moraganga from Garia to Surjipur was completed. A survey was made in connection with the proposed retirement of the Buxi khal embankment. Another survey was in progress during the year for a line of canal from Hara to Kuttali. A survey was made by the Railway Department in conjunction with the Public Works Department for the preparation of a chart of the Bidyadhari river at Bansra to ascertain the present conditions prevailing at that place.

About one-fourth of the total length of the Bhagirathi embankments, starting from Plassey, was levelled to the ground.

6. Original works.—The outlay under this head during the year amounted to the sum of Rs. 28,143, which was expended chiefly on the re-excavation of the Kausiki Channel, the construction of an Inspection lungalow at Utterbhag, the Bonar khal sluice in the Government Estate at Port Canning, quarters for a Public Works Department Subdivisional Officer at Seijberia and the provision of additional accommodation for the office of the Executive Engineer at Midnapore.

7. Ordinary repairs.—The expenditure during the year was Rs. 3,21,837 as against Rs. 3,71,803 in the year 1911-12. The reduction in outlay was due to the fact that there was less expenditure during the year on retired lines.

8. Retired lines.—During the year the amount spent on retired lines, including breach filling and flood damage repairs, was Rs. 57,991 as against Rs. 1,17,361 in the preceding year.

9. Works undertaken under the provisions of the Bengal Drainage Act, VI of 1880.—The Dankuni, Howrah, Rajapur and Burojolla Drainage works, in charge of the Executive Engineer, Northern Drainage and Embankment Division, were maintained in good order during the year at a cost of Rs. 22,727 against the average amount of Rs. 11,300 fixed for their maintenance. The high cost of maintenance is due to silt-clearance work in the Bally khal and special repairs to the inner gates of the Baidyabati and Bonderbil sluices.

10. Works undertaken under the provisions of the Bengal Sanitary Drainage Act, VIII of 1895.—The only work which has as yet been carried out under this Act is the Magra Hât Drainage Scheme in the 24-Parganas district, the object being to drain the swamps in an area of 290 square miles around Magra Hât within the embankments of the 24-Parganas. The work is estimated to cost Rs. 20,73,091 and the expenditure to the end of the year amounted to Rs. 19,94,089, of which Rs. 47,459 were expended during the year. It is expected that the capital account will be finally closed by the 31st March 1914. The scheme also provides for navigation, and draft Navigation rules and a schedule of tolls are now under consideration. It is expected that tolls will be levied from 15th April 1914.

11. Drainage works carried out under the provisions of the Bengal Embankment Act, II of 1882.—The Argowal Drainage project was practically completed during the year; the total expenditure to the end of the year amounted to Rs. 1,61,538, against the sanctioned estimate for Rs. 1,65,549, the outlay of the year being Rs. 8,950. The several minor works were in progress or were completed. A large number of sluices in the Schedule D embankments were maintained under the provisions of this Act at the cost of the estates benefited.

12. Drainage works carried out at the cost of Government but not under the provisions of any Act.—The total expenditure to the end of the year on the Bagjolla Drainage scheme with its outfall into the Kristopur Canal, which was completed in the previous year, was Rs. 77,628 against the sanctioned estimate for Rs. 1,28,439. The culvert at the head will not be undertaken for the present. The land charges have not yet been finally adjusted by the Civil Department. The work has proved satisfactory, and it is expected that with the improvement of the subsidiary drains the sanitary condition of the locality will be greatly improved.

13. Maintenance and repairs.—The Bullee bhil drainage work in the 24-Parganas district, the Balliaghye main and branch drains and the 22 khas tahsil khals in the Midnapore district were maintained by this Department.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.*Third and Final Report on the Winter Rice Crop of Bengal, 1913-14.

(Note.—On the average of the five years ending 1911-12, the area under winter rice in Bengal represents some 19·9 per cent. of the total area under rice in British India.)

Character of the Season.—Since the issue of the second forecast in December, the weather has been generally dry and no further injury is reported to have been caused to the crop.

Acresage.—According to the figures furnished by District Officers, the area sown this year is 14,511,200 acres against 15,313,900 acres of last year, or a decrease of about 5 per cent. The normal area under the crop is returned as 16,075,300 acres. The decrease is reported to be due to the extension of jute cultivation and unfavourable weather at the time of sowing.

Outturn.—In Nadia, Dinajpur, Darjeeling, Bakarganj and Tippera a better crop has been harvested than was expected when the second forecast was issued; but in Jessore, Hooghly, Jalpaiguri, Rangpur, Dacca, Mymensingh and Chittagong, the estimates of outturn are somewhat below those of the previous forecast. In the remaining districts the estimates are unchanged.

From the Appendix I attached to the report it will be seen that six districts report more than a normal crop, viz., Malda (125 per cent.), Birbhum (117 per cent.), Rangpur (114 per cent.), Bakarganj (110 per cent.), Rajshahi (105 per cent.) and Dinajpur (103 per cent.). Five districts, viz., Khulna, Darjeeling, Burdwan, Pabna and Noakhali, report a normal crop. Thirteen districts report a crop between 70 and 95 per cent. and the three remaining districts, namely, Jessore, Midnapore and Howrah, report a crop as low as between 60 and 67 per cent.

According to District Officers' estimates the provincial outturn works out to 92 per cent. of the normal against 98 per cent. of last year.

On the basis of the normal yield of 12 maunds of clean grain per acre the total provincial outturn as worked out from District Officers' estimates amounts to 117,700,600 cwts. against 132,312,100 cwts. of last year, or a decrease of about 11 per cent.

APPENDIX I.

Third and Final Report on Winter Rice Crop of 1913-14.

DISTRICT.	Estimated normal area under winter rice.	ESTIMATED AREA UNDER WINTER RICE.		TAKING 100 TO REPRESENT THE NORMAL, WHAT WOULD BE THE AVERAGE OUTTURN PER ACRE CROPPED.		Date by which the harvesting generally commenced this year, and whether that date was early, normal or late.	REMARKS BY DISTRICT OFFICERS.
		Last year (1912-13).	This year (1913-14).	Last year.	This year.
24 Parganas ...	Acres. 899,700	Acres. 827,400	Acres. 777,700	88	75	November. Normal.	The heavy rain in June did much damage to the crop especially in low lands. Hence the outturn is much below the normal.
Nadia ...	126,300	135,300	124,300*	88	83	Middle of November. Normal.	The decrease in the area sown as compared with last year was due to unfavourable weather conditions. The decrease in area as compared with the second forecast is due to a revision of estimates in the Nakasipara and Chakdah thanas. Much damage was done to the crop on account of excessive rainfall in Sadar, Chhadauga and Bana-ghat subdivisions. The outturn is therefore below the normal.
Murshidabad	245,600	337,900	286,600	83	92	Middle of November. Normal.	The decrease in area as compared with last year is due to floods in Kandi subdivision and to excessive rain at the time of sowing in other subdivisions. The outturn is below the normal owing to the damage caused by floods.
Jessore ...	568,100	466,300	406,100	117	62	November. Normal.	The decrease in area as compared with last year was due to heavy rainfall. Excessive rain did harm in the earlier stage and stood in the way of the growth of the crop. Since the submission of the second forecast there has been no damage to the crop. The outturn is poor on account of the damage done by rain and flood.
Khulna ...	358,700	739,500	732,500	123	100	Beginning of November. Normal.	The decrease in area sown as compared with last year was due to want of rain at the beginning and excessive rain afterwards. Since the submission of the second forecast very small damage has been done by flood and insect-pests. The outturn is normal.
Burdwan ...	874,800	706,000	746,000	92	100	End of November. Normal.	The increase in area compared with last year was due to favourable rainfall during the sowing season. The damage done to the crop by flood and excessive rain in September is from 1 to 2 annas over the flooded area. Since the submission of the second forecast the weather conditions have been fair on the whole.
Birbhum ...	604,600	428,400	586,100	75	117	Second week of November. Early.	The increase of area this year is due to good rainfall. The outturn is good owing to favourable weather conditions.
Bankura ...	510,600	476,400	480,000	83	83	End of December. Normal.	The increase of area this year was due to favourable weather conditions at the sowing time. The weather was favourable for the growth of the crop, but the floods of the Damodar and Bhepo damaged the crop to some extent, causing the outturn to fall below the normal.
Midnapore ...	1,406,000	1,618,400	1,112,400*	100	60	Second week of November.	The decrease of area as compared with the estimate in the second forecast is due to revision. The falling off in outturn was due to damage caused by excessive rain and flood in the beginning of the season.
Hooghly ...	376,700	351,400	240,600	96	84	First week of December. Normal.	The decrease of area compared with last year was due to heavy rainfall and floods in August. The outturn is below the normal on account of the damage caused by the flood.
Howrah ...	125,300	106,600	99,500	83	67	End of November.	The decrease in area this year is due to excessive rain. The favourable weather conditions in September and October benefited the crop, but the outturn is below the normal owing to the damage done by the floods.
Rajshahi ...	697,000	502,400	479,700	75	105	First week of December. Normal.	The decrease in area as compared with that of last year is due to heavy rain which submerged and destroyed the plants in thana Baraigram. Since the submission of the second forecast the weather conditions have been favourable. The outturn is estimated to be above the normal owing to the continuance of favourable weather conditions till the harvesting season.

* Revised since the second forecast.

	Acres.	Acres.	Acres.
Dinajpur ...	1,120,300	986,000	1,016,400	70	103	By the end of November. Normal.	The increase in area as compared with that of last year is due partly to timely rainfall and partly to placing some jute lands under winter rice. The weather conditions have been favourable and the outturn is a little above the normal.
Jalpaiguri ...	551,300	537,400	492,400	90	85	Beginning of December. Normal.	Since the submission of the second forecast the weather was favourable, except for rain in December, which damaged the crop in some places. The low outturn is due to unfavourable weather at the time of transplantation and harvesting.
Darjeeling ...	65,200	37,100	36,800	92	100	Middle of November. Normal.	The weather conditions were favourable.
Rangpur ...	822,300	746,500	705,000	100	114	Last week of November. Normal.	The weather conditions were good. This year's area has been revised after careful enquiry.
Bogra ...	303,000	303,000	303,000	75	95	Beginning of December. Normal.	The outturn is better than last year.
Pabna ...	566,000	470,000	470,000	110	100	Third week of November.	Nothing has happened since the submission of the second forecast to interfere with a normal outturn.
Maida ...	300,000	309,000	309,000	100	125	End of November. Normal.	Owing to early cultivation and favourable weather since the transplantation the outturn is better than last year.
Dacca ...	633,100	693,600	547,800	93	73	November. Normal.	The decrease in area this year is due to extension of jute cultivation. Early rainfall, which was heavy at the beginning of the season, hampered the growth of the crop. Slight damage was also caused by insects and low floods. Hence the outturn is short in spite of good weather conditions since the submission of the second forecast.
Mymensingh ...	1,126,700	992,500	962,700	103	88	Beginning of December. Normal.	The increase of area as compared with the second forecast is due to the fact that 7,500 acres of land which was destroyed by flood were grown with rice paddy after subsidence of water in Kishorganj subdivision, and the decrease of area as compared with last year's final forecast is due to want of rain in Netrokona subdivision at sowing time and flood in some places of Kishorganj subdivision. The low outturn is due to damage by flood and insects in Netrokona and Kishorganj subdivisions.
Faridpur ...	561,000	427,000	423,800	83	70	November. Normal.	The crop suffered to some extent on account of deficiency of rain in September, but was much benefited by good rain in October. The flood was very low this year and adversely affected the crop in the Madaripur subdivision. Large area under paddy in Gopalganj subdivision was destroyed by early rise of water in June. Hence the outturn is low.
Bakarganj ...	1,300,000	1,329,200	1,395,000	100	110	December. Normal.	The decrease of area this year is due to expansion of jute cultivation. The weather conditions were good. Although some damage was caused by floods and insects in places, there has been a bumper crop in many parts. Nowhere is the crop below the normal.
Chittagong ...	418,400	419,400	421,400	110	95	Middle of November.	The increase in area this year is due to extension of cultivation owing to rise in the price of rice. The outturn was generally normal, but some damage was done by excessive rain in low lands.
Tippera ...	724,400	735,000	760,000	100	80	Ditto	The increase in area is due to the fact that some new lands were cultivated near the hills this year. The low outturn is due to the fact that much damage was done by flood to broadcasted paddy and also by insect-pests.

The decrease in area as compared with the area of last year is partly due to floods in Parasuram and Chagalnaya in Feni subdivision and partly to damage done by w/s in one thana. Since the submission of the second forecast the weather conditions were good on the whole.
Chittagong Hill Tracts.	15,800	23,000	23,000	90	90	22nd November. Little late.	The weather conditions were favourable since transplantation. Some damage, however, was reported to have been caused by a kind of pest called leda . Hence the outturn is below the normal.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.

FOURTH REPORT ON THE COTTON CROPS OF BENGAL, 1913-14.

[NOTE.—On the average of the five years ending 1911.12, the area under cotton crops in Bengal represents some 0.2 per cent. of the total area under cotton in India.]

Character of the Season.—The early crop is chiefly grown in the Chittagong Hill Tracts, in the State of Hill Tippera, and to a small extent in the districts of Bankura and Midnapore. The late crop is grown only in the last two districts. The early crop is generally sown before the rains and the late crop partly before and partly after the rains. Weather conditions have not been favourable for the growth of the early crop. The condition of the late cotton so far is reported to be fairly good. Considerable damage has been done to the early crop by untimely and excessive rain in the Chittagong Hill Tracts and Hill Tippera, thus affecting the outturn greatly.

Area sown.—The total area sown with the early crop is reported to be 49,098 acres against 49,250 acres last year, the decrease being due to untimely and excessive rain in Hill Tippera and the Chittagong Hill Tracts.

The area sown with late cotton is reported to be 1,900 acres against the same area last year.

DRAFT RULES FOR THE MAGRA HÂT CHANNELS.

1. Every vessel entering or making use of the Magra Hât channels shall be liable to measurement for the purpose of ascertaining the tolls payable. In case of any reasonable doubt, the persons appointed by the Governor in Council as Collectors of Tolls or Navigation Canal Officers shall have authority to again measure a vessel notwithstanding that it was measured before.

2. Vessels for the purpose of the determination of maundage shall be divided into three classes as follows:—

Class I.—To include all vessels of the usual native types of build known as saltees, but not bonâ fide tal (or palm-tree) dongas and not exceeding 50 maunds by canal measurement.

Class II.—To include all other vessels of usual native types of build or cutters.

Class III.—To include all steamers, flats, barges and other square-built boats.

The net maundage of every vessel, whether laden or empty, shall, for the purposes of the Canals Act, 1864, and of these rules be determined by the following measurements:—

CLASS I.

A.—The product of one-quarter the inside length of the vessel, measured along the centre line from stem to stern, multiplied by the interior greatest breadth of the vessel multiplied by three-quarters of the depth, measured from the top of the vessel amidships to the interior bottom of the vessel is to be taken as equal to the number of maunds upon which toll shall be levied.

B.—The measurement of the length to be made in feet, rejecting inches, and of the breadth and depth in feet and quarters of a foot, rejecting any remainder of less than a quarter of a foot.

C.—Any vessel the maundage of which calculated as above exceeds 50 maunds shall be reckoned as a vessel under class II.

CLASS II.

A.—The product of one-quarter the length of the vessel from stem to stern measured outside and along the water line, multiplied by the greatest interior breadth of the vessel multiplied by the greatest interior depth from the water line to the interior bottom of the vessel, is to be taken as equal to the number of maunds upon which tolls shall be levied.

B.—The measurement of the length is to be made in feet, rejecting inches, the measurement of the breadth and depth is to be made in feet and quarters of a foot, rejecting any remainder less than a quarter of a foot.

C.—The maundage on which the amount of toll is calculated shall be reckoned to the nearest integral multiple of  $12\frac{1}{2}$  maunds, rejecting any remainder of less than  $12\frac{1}{2}$  maunds. In the case of boats exceeding 500 maunds by measurement the maundage shall be reckoned to the nearest integral multiple of 50 maunds rejecting any remainder of less than 50 maunds.

CLASS III.

A.—For vessels of class III, the number of maunds obtained by the system of measurement prescribed for vessels of class II shall be increased by one-half. For vessels of this class exceeding 1,000 maunds by measurement, the maundage shall be reckoned to the nearest integral multiple of 100 maunds rejecting any remainder of less than 100 maunds. In the case of steamers, the maundage determined as above shall be reduced by one-third as an allowance for engine space.

B.—In case of steamers that have been surveyed under the Inland Steam-vessels Act, 1884, the registered tonnage entered in the certificate may be accepted as the tonnage of the steamer in lieu of measurement.

3. All vessels under class I, known and defined as saltees, will be charged under a system of compounded tollage in accordance with rules contained in Appendix A.

4. Every vessel included in classes II and III entering or passing along the canal shall be furnished with a ticket on paying the prescribed toll. The ticket shall specify the station at which it has been issued, the name of the person in charge of the vessel, the date on which the voyage commenced, the point to which the vessel may proceed on the line of navigation, the maundage of the vessel, the amount of toll charged, the number of days allowed for the voyage, and the date of such last day. The number of days so allowed without additional payment shall be calculated as follows:—

Boats.—One day for every eight miles or portion of eight miles, to be traversed together with one day for every 100 maunds of measurement or part of 100 maunds.

Flots (timber).—One day for every five miles for any number of timbers not exceeding fifty, and one day for every additional fifty or part of fifty.

Rifts (bamboos).—One day for every five miles for any number not exceeding five hundred and one day for every additional five hundred or part of five hundred.

5. Every vessel which does not complete its voyage within the number of days allowed by rule 4 shall, for each day or part of a day in excess, be liable to an extra charge equal to one-half of the toll payable on the maundage of the vessel as per the Schedule of Rates in Appendix B, provided that in no case shall the demurrage charged exceed Rs. 5 per diem. The Superintending Engineer may, at his discretion, exempt any boats on any line of navigation, or any portion of line of navigation from the payment required by this rule.

Exemption from payment of demurrage may, at the discretion of the Collector of Tolls, be granted for vessels detained in the channels (steamers broken down and boats damaged) by stress of weather, should immediate notice of detention, for the information of the Collector of Tolls, Magra Hat channels, be given to the nearest toll-station.

6. All tolls are payable on demand and shall be paid at the toll-station before a vessel is permitted to proceed: Provided that the Collector of Tolls may, at his discretion, permit vessels belonging to individuals or firms of recognised standing to proceed without prepayment on an undertaking that the bills for tollage due shall be liquidated monthly on presentation.

7. The ticket must be kept on board the vessel and must be produced for inspection when demanded by any person authorised to do so. If, on demand, the ticket is not produced, such person shall assess the tollage as provided in rule 2, and shall require payment of toll, and unless and until the toll is paid, or the original ticket or a duplicate is produced as evidence that toll has already been paid, the vessel will be liable to seizure and detention in accordance with the provisions of section 9 of the Canals Act, 1864.

8. Duplicates of lost tickets, of which the numbers and dates can be satisfactorily established, will be granted by the Collector of Tolls on payment of a sum of Re. 1. Provided that for tickets on which the total tollage is less than Rs. 4. the fee to be charged for a duplicate shall be one-quarter of the total tollage with a minimum of As. 4.

9. A vessel, which has been detained under these rules or under section 9 of the said Act, may not be removed from the canal without the order of the Collector of Tolls until the toll due has been paid. During such detention the manjhi, owner or agent must make arrangements for the safety of the vessel and cargo.

10. All vessels, whether the property of Government or of private owners, are liable for toll, except those exempted by the provisions of Bengal Government Circular No. 11., dated the 11th July 1906.

11. Vessels may be hauled up for repairs on the banks of the canals with the previous written permission of the Supervisor or Navigation Canal Officer. A rent calculated at one-sixth the rate of ordinary demurrage will be charged for the time the vessel occupies the bank.

12. At places where mooring posts have been provided by the Supervisor or Navigation Canal Officer, vessels desiring to moor shall be made fast in single line along the banks to such posts in such manner as the Supervisor or Navigation Canal Officer may direct, and shall not be moored in any other manner.

13. The Supervisor or Navigation Canal Officer may, by written notice to be posted at the toll offices, prohibit the dropping of anchors or the putting up of bamboos or luggees in any specified part of the canals or on the banks.

14. Vessels shall be allowed to make fast in single line along the canal banks in such manner as may be directed by the Supervisor or Navigation Canal Officer from time to time, and no boat shall be made fast or be placed outside of boats so secured. No boat or raft shall be placed in such a position as to endanger the safety or obstruct the passage of other boats. Every vessel, when stationary, shall be securely fastened, and shall at all times have some person in attendance on board. Every vessel in motion shall have a sufficient crew.

15. Vessels passing through the canals shall keep in separate lines, empty boats keeping close to the bank, and those that are laden in the centre.

16. In portions of the canals where only one towing-path exists, vessels shall moor on the side opposite to the towing-path, and the towing-path side shall always be kept clear.

17. Iron-built cargo boats, with outside angle iron projecting beyond the wooden fenders, will not be allowed to enter the locks unless permanent fenders are fixed over the edges of the angle iron so as to prevent them from causing damage to the locks.

18. No fire, or open, unprotected light of any description shall be used on boats containing petroleum, jute, hay or straw in any place prohibited by the Navigation Canal Officer or Supervisor, and no fire, or open, or unprotected light (except in the case of steamers, the galley and engine-room fires and the electric light) shall be used on any vessel while in a lock basin.

19. No person shall wilfully or negligently allow a vessel to sink in the canals.

20. In every case of a sunken vessel, whether due to negligence or otherwise, the Supervisor or Navigation Canal Officer and his subordinates shall offer every assistance in removing the same.

If in three days after the occurrence of a wreck it is seen that prompt measures are not being taken by the owner to remove the sunken vessel from the line of navigation, the Supervisor or Navigation Canal Officer and his subordinates shall make their own arrangements for the removal of the same at the expense of the owner, provided that, in cases where navigation is seriously obstructed, arrangements may be made at once to remove the wreck.

21. When a sunken vessel has been recovered, the Supervisor or Navigation Canal Officer shall cause notices to be posted at the locks, toll offices or other prominent places calling on those concerned to pay to the Collector of Tolls all toll or demurrage which may be due, as well as the expenses incurred in the recovery of the vessel and cargo. Should the sum due be not paid within fifteen days of the date of notice, the vessel and its furniture, or so much of it as may be necessary for the recovery of the dues, will be sold under the procedure directed in section 9 of the Canals Act, 1864.

22. The purchaser of a vessel sold under the provisions of section 9 of the said Act shall have the right to take it out of the canal on the day of purchase, or within such time as may be allowed by the Collector of Tolls, without payment of tolls.

23. When any laden vessel which has sunk has been recovered, or when any laden vessel has been seized under the provisions of the said Act or of these rules, the Supervisor or Navigation Canal Officer shall give immediate notice of the recovery or seizure to the owner of the cargo or his agent, requiring the removal of the cargo without delay and informing him that he will be required to pay all expenses necessary for the proper custody and storage of the cargo until removed.

24. If the Supervisor or Navigation Canal Officer be unable to ascertain the name and place of business or the abode of the owner of the cargo of such vessel, the notice prescribed in rule 21 shall be effected by a notice exhibited in his office and by advertisement in at least one English and one vernacular Calcutta newspaper.

25. No steam-vessel, whose length exceeds thirty feet, shall ply in the Magra Hât channels except in the following:—Diamond Harbour creek, Usti Nainan outfall, Nazra khal, Sangrampur khal up to Sangrampur bridge, and the Sarjipur outer khal up to the Surjipur bridge.

Bills introduced in the Bengal Legislative Council, Reports of Select Committees presented or to be presented to that Council, and Bills published before introduction in that Council.

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL.

NOTIFICATION.

No. 230L., dated the 30th January, 1914.—His Excellency the President having been pleased to order, under rule 39 (b) of the Bengal Legislative Rules, 1912, the publication of the Report of the Select Committee to which the Bill “to consolidate and amend the law relating to the Port of Chittagong,” was referred, the Report of the said Committee, with the Bill, as amended by them, annexed, is hereby published for general information.

REPORT OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE ON THE CHITTAGONG PORT BILL, 1914.

We, the undersigned Members of the Select Committee, to which the Bill "to consolidate and amend the law relating to the Port of Chittagong", was referred, have considered the Bill, and have the honour to submit this our Report with the Bill, as amended by us, annexed thereto. In reprinting the Bill, the changes made by us have been underlined, but in the present Report we refer specifically to such changes only as appear to us to be of some importance. Several purely verbal alterations are not discussed.

2. Clause 4.—Definitions.—We have decided to omit the definition of "river" which, though contained in the existing Act, does not appear in the corresponding sections of the Calcutta or Rangoon Port Acts (Ben. Act III of 1890 and Bur. Act IV of 1905), and might, in our opinion, give rise to difficulties; while we have added to the clause several definitions which appear to us to be necessary. These definitions (e.g., of "Commissioner", "dock", "wharf" and "goods") follow precisely the wording of the same definitions in the Calcutta Port Act, 1890 (Ben. Act III of 1890), for it appears to us to be convenient that ports situated in the same Presidency should, in a matter of this kind, be governed by an identical law. Similarly, other existing definitions, notably those of "pier" and "vessel", have been assimilated to the definitions which find a place in the Calcutta Port Act, 1890 (Ben. Act III of 1890).

3. Clause 12, proviso (i).—We have thought it desirable to enlarge the provisions of this enactment on the lines of the first proviso to section 17 of the Calcutta Port Act, 1890 (Ben. Act III of 1890) so as to include within the operation of the clause any Act for the registration of joint-stock companies passed either in India or in the United Kingdom.

4. Clause 23.—With a view to obviate any possible confusion which might arise as a result of a nomination made by the Agent of the Assam-Bengal Railway Company under this clause, we have added a sub-clause which prescribes that no nominee of the Agent shall exercise any of the functions contemplated by the clause until the Agent has informed the Chairman of the Commissioners of the fact of such nomination.

5. Clause 25.—(1) We have amplified sub-clause (a) on the lines of clause (d) of section 16 of the Rangoon Port Act, 1905 (Bur. Act IV of 1905) so that no doubts as to the quorum necessary for the transaction of business may in any circumstances arise; and

(2) in the proviso to sub-clause (d) of this clause, we have thought it well to add a provision that the mere fact that a Commissioner has a direct or indirect 'share' or 'interest', such as is described in any of the provisos to clause 12, shall not debar him from voting on any proposal which may come before the Port Commissioners in regard to the issue of a notification or order under clauses 43, 44 or 45 of the Bill.

6. Clause 26.—(1) The words "in meeting" have been inserted by us after the words "The Commissioners" in the first line of this clause, as it is clear that the by-laws here contemplated should be made by the Commissioners in meeting only and not by "the Commissioners" within the meaning of clause 27. In clause 35 these words already find a place and their omission was apparently an oversight. A similar addition has been made by us in clause 39.

(2) Sub-clause (e) of this clause strikes us as being too wide having regard to the general powers to make by-laws conferred upon the Commissioners by clause 39, and we have consequently restricted its application to the provisions of Chapter III only.

7. Clause 34.—An insertion of the words "in meeting", similar to that referred to in the first part of the preceding paragraph, has been made by us in the latter part of this clause, it being obviously the intention of the Bill that any temporary appointment exceeding three months in duration should be made by the Commissioners in meeting only.

8. Clause 35.—It was suggested to us that power should be conferred upon the Commissioners to make by-laws for determining the conditions under which pensions, gratuities or compassionate allowances may be paid to any officer or servant of the Commissioners injured, or to the surviving relatives of any such officer or servant killed, in the execution of his duty. We agree that a provision of this kind is desirable and we have accordingly here inserted, as sub-clause (1) (e1), a provision analogous to clause (g) of sub-clause (1) of section 31 of the Calcutta Port Act, 1890 (Ben. Act III of 1890). A consequential amendment has been made in clause 84 (2).

9. Clause 37.—The clause, as introduced, confers power upon the Commissioners to regulate the “conduct and behaviour” of pilots. We think there should be a similar power for regulating the “duties” of these officers, and we have modified the clause accordingly.

10. Clause 39.—(1) Having regard to the provisions of section 24 of the Bengal General Clauses Act, 1899 (Ben. Act I of 1899), sub-clauses (2) and (4) of this clause appear to be unnecessary. The insertion of a provision requiring previous publication in the first line of the clause will suffice to ensure the adoption of the procedure desired. We have accordingly struck out these two sub-clauses.

(2) Sub-clause (1) (h) of this clause, as drafted, strikes us as having too indeterminate an application and we have accordingly inserted the words “within the port” in the fourth line in order to make it clear that the docks, wharves, quays, etc., referred to must be situated within the port.

11. Clauses 43, 44, and 45.—In these clauses the words “abutting on the river”, which are intended in each case to cover the “docks, wharves, quays, stages, jetties, or piers,” referred to, might be construed from their present position as applying to the piers only, and it has therefore been necessary to redraft the first few lines of each of these clauses. No change of substance, however, has been made in any of them.

12. Clause 46.—It seems to us desirable that, before any notification under clause 43 or any order under clauses 44 or 45 is issued, the draft of the proposed notification or order should be published in the Calcutta Gazette, and we have accordingly inserted a provision to that effect in this clause. A similar provision has been made by us in sub-clause (5) of clause 58 requiring the previous publication of the draft of any notification which is intended to impose a river-due on goods landed or shipped at the port.

13. Clause 49.—In order to remove all doubts as to the competency of the Local Government to grant exemption, if they see fit, from any of the provisions of Chapter V, we have made a small verbal alteration in this clause which should serve to obviate any possible controversy over this matter.

14. Clause 53.—This clause, as drafted, is too wide in that it might be held to imply that it was incumbent upon the master of a vessel of the type herein contemplated to stop at every station established by the Commissioners for the registration of river-borne traffic and to make a declaration of his cargo thereat. We have accordingly amended the clause so that it may be apparent that it will suffice if the master, when entering or leaving the port, calls at one or other of these registration stations.

15. Clause 57.—From this clause, as introduced, it might be inferred that the Commissioners had power to frame a scale of tolls, dues, rates, etc., for the use of jetties, etc., belonging to the Assam-Bengal Railway Company, which of course is not intended. We have therefore more precisely defined the operation of the clause by an amendment of sub-clause (1) (a) (i).

16. Clause 82.—This clause, in its original form, compels the Commissioners to bank with the “Bank of Bengal in Chittagong”; but it appears to us to be preferable to follow the lines of the recent Rangoon Port (Amendment) Act, 1912 (Bur. Act III of 1912, section 12), in this respect, and to provide that the Commissioners shall be free to select their bank or banks subject to the previous approval of the Local Government. We have amended the clause accordingly.

17. Clause 103.—An amendment, consequential to that made by us in clause 12, has been introduced in the proviso to this clause.

18. Clause 112.—As no docks have as yet been constructed in the Chittagong Port, the word “docks” is out of place in this clause, and has therefore been struck out.

19. We recommend that the Bill, as thus amended, be passed.

“Whereas His Majesty, by virtue of the authority conferred on Him by the Copyright Act, 1911, and having regard to the provisions of the Berlin Copyright Convention, was pleased to make an Order in Council, dated the 24th day of June 1912 (hereinafter called the Principal Order), extending the protection of the said Act to certain classes of works to which protection is guaranteed by the said Convention:

And whereas it is provided in Article (2), proviso (i), of the Principal Order that Sections 1 (2) (d) and 19 of the Copyright Act, 1911, and such other part or parts thereof as confer upon the owner of the copyright in a literary, dramatic or musical work the exclusive right of making any record, perforated roll, cinematograph film, or other contrivance by means of which the work may be mechanically performed and such other part or parts thereof as confer copyright in any record or perforated roll shall not apply in the case of any work of which the country of origin is Italy:

Applications can only be considered so far as the requisite space is available. They should reach the management in Dar-es-Salaam not later than April 1st.

To ensure due attention large exhibits should be accompanied with a sketch plan with full details of the structure intended and particulars as to size, etc.

Applications when once made cannot be withdrawn.

4. ADMISSION OF EXHIBITS.

Permission to show exhibits and their disposal in the various groups is accorded by a permit from the Home Working Committee, which reserves the right to refuse without explanation applications or articles for exhibition.

5. EXHIBITORS NOT DOMICILED IN DAR-ES-SALAAM.

Exhibitors who have no agent in the Protectorate or who do not intend to send a special representative to the Exhibition can obtain the names of firms or persons willing to act as such. No responsibility is accepted by the Committee in this connexion.

6. FEES FOR EXHIBITION ROOM.

(a) The charges for the rent of ground area or wall space are as follows :—

In closed rooms, 30 marks per square metre.

In open halls, 20    "    "    "

Out of doors, 10    "    "    "

Every square metre commenced will be reckoned full and whatever shape the space required may be the nearest rectangular measure will be taken as the basis of computation. Charges for special situations unless in the open, such particularly as are open on three or four sides, will be increased by from 20 per cent. to 60 per cent. and are subject to special arrangement.

Wall spaces will not be rented for a smaller size than 3 sq. m. Rate of charge, 6 marks per sq. m. Should wall space without ground space be rented so that it becomes necessary to leave a passage or space free, the latter will be charged for.

The minimum charge for an exhibit independent of size is 60 marks.

Cattle and birds will only be allowed in open spaces. The charges therefor are per head :—

Cattle	...	...	1.00	} Stall money.
Smaller animals	...	...	.50

Fodder, etc., will be provided and charged for at cost price by the Management, if desired.

Arrangements for housing animals at night will be made by the Management.

Veterinary supervision and, if necessary, treatment will be furnished gratis during the exhibition.

(b) Combined exhibits by several exhibitors will be reckoned as one. The names of the combined exhibitors must be stated in the application. They must choose a representative, who will pay the rent and be responsible to the Home Working Committee in all matters. All sharers in a combined exhibit, however, are responsible for the carrying out of the conditions imposed in the Exhibition contract.

(c) Half of the rent is payable on receipt of the permit to exhibit; the remaining half must be paid not more than three months later.

(d) The granting of a permit to exhibit on application pledges the applicant to pay the rent of the space allotted, whether the exhibits arrive late or not at all. If it be shown afterwards that more than the allotted space was occupied the rent is to be increased by so much.

(e) In case of mistakes arising or in case exhibits should be returned (section 7) the Committee is only responsible for the refund of the rent paid for the place in question and not for compensation.

The Committee reserves to itself the right to grant reductions in rent in special cases.

7. ASSIGNMENT OF SPACES, DELIVERY, EXHIBITION AND DECORATION.

(a) Spaces allotted will be placed at an early date at the disposal of the person renting them. All preparatory work in connexion with exhibits must be finished 14 days before the opening of the exhibition, except in the case of live animals, fresh vegetables, etc., for which a later date can be arranged.

In the case of every structure to be erected inclusive of heating apparatus, etc., a sketch must be submitted through the Home Working Committee.

The Committee will endeavour to obtain the usual special reductions on freights by sea and rail for the exhibits, as well as entry free of duty.

Special arrangements are being made with local forwarding agents for carriage of exhibits from railway station or steamer at reduced rates and the names of these agents will be communicated at request by the Home Committee.

(b) Exhibits must be provided with the name of the exhibitor in clear writing as well as the designation Exhibit (Ausstellungsgut). The exhibits or the cases, packing, etc., must have the number assigned in the permit written on them.

(c) The erection of special structures and the delivery and setting in place of the exhibits must be done at the cost and risk of the exhibitor or his responsible agent. Should the exhibits not be delivered or not be in place by a date which will be communicated in good time by the Committee, the latter has the right to declare the place forfeited. The same holds good if the rent is not paid at the proper date. The refund of rent paid in part or in full is impossible and the exhibitor has no claim to compensation.

(d) Exhibits must not be set up in such a way as to affect detrimentally the adjoining stand or to overhang. The same rule applies to advertising placards, decorations, etc., the setting up of which is subject to the approval of the Committee. Should any exhibitor, who does not set up any private structure in the exhibition room, desire to erect a partition or wall he must previously obtain sanction and the Committee has the right to dispose of the back of the said partition for the benefit of the exhibition.

(e) Every exhibitor is responsible for the decoration of his stand which must not interfere with the general view. The use of inflammable material for this purpose is forbidden.

If the exhibition stand be not ready on the due date the Committee has the right to undertake this itself at the cost of the exhibitor or to utilise the space in some other way without giving the exhibitor any claim to compensation or refund of rent paid.

(f) The Committee has the right to remove from the exhibition at the cost of the exhibitor any exhibit which is liable to cause danger or fire, or is ill-smelling, which does not correspond to the description given in the application, or for any other reason is offensive, without giving the exhibitor any claim to compensation.

(g) All packings must be removed from the exhibition not later than eight days before the opening thereof. Otherwise this will be done at the cost of the exhibitor by the Committee who will then dispose of the articles removed without any payment to the owner.

(h) Exhibitors have no right to allow other persons to occupy either wholly or in part the spaces assigned to them without the permission in writing of the Committee. In case of urgent necessity the Committee has the right to change the allotted space.

8. PROVISION OF AND RENT FOR MOTIVE POWER.

Exhibitors must give timely notice if they wish their exhibits to be shown in operation. They will be subject to special regulations. Electricity can be supplied at the established price and further particulars will be supplied by the Committee on application in Dar-es-Salaam or in Berlin. All arrangements for supplying the current will be made by the Committee at the cost of the exhibitor who will make a proportionate advance before the electricity is supplied.

9. ENTRANCE.

All exhibitors or accredited representatives have free entry to the exhibition. Employees of exhibitors in attendance on the exhibits receive non-transferable service tickets, price 1 rupee each.

10. CUSTODY AND CLEANING OF EXHIBITS.

A general supervision of the exhibits will be undertaken by the personnel of the Committee. Fire and light can only be obtained by exhibitors with the sanction of the Management.

The Committee is not responsible for losses or damage of any kind. The general cleaning of the exhibition will be done by the Management, but each exhibitor is responsible for keeping his own space clean and in order. Otherwise this will be done by the Management at his expense. All cleaning must be finished daily before visiting hours.

All exhibits are to remain uncovered during visiting hours and neither they nor the stand numbers may be removed before the exhibition is closed.

11. FIRE INSURANCE.

Articles on exhibition in the closed rooms or in the corrugated-iron sheds can be insured by the Committee, which will endeavour to obtain low premiums from the companies represented here. Insurance charges must be paid by the exhibitor with the second instalment of the rent.

12. ADVERTISEMENT IN THE EXHIBITION.

Business documents and advertisements may not be distributed on the exhibition grounds outside the exhibitor's stand and must in every case receive the express sanction of the Committee.

13. SALE OF EXHIBITS.

Exhibits may be sold if they are announced as for sale in the application. They must be marked "For sale" and the price shown. 10 per cent. sale commission is to be paid to the Committee on all articles sold and they may only be removed from the stand during the exhibition if they are at once replaced with similar exhibits. Special conditions attach to the sale of commodities in bulk, also to the sale of picture post-cards, etc. Goods must not be offered for sale in such a manner as to cause annoyance in any way or permission to sell may be withdrawn without giving any claim to refund of the commission or compensation of any kind.

14. PHOTOGRAPHS, SKETCHES, ETC.

Exhibitors and all other persons are forbidden, unless written sanction has been obtained from the Committee, to photograph, sketch or draw any particular exhibits in the exhibition grounds.

15. ORDER OF ARRANGEMENT.

An order of arrangement, binding on all exhibitors, will be published later.

16. EXHIBITION CATALOGUES.

An official catalogue will be published. Rates of charges for the insertion of particulars regarding exhibits may be obtained from the Home Committee.

17. MARKS OF DISTINCTION AND PRIZES.

These will be accorded by a Committee of experts for exceptional merit on the part of exhibitors or their collaborators. Exhibitors may make suggestions, but may only serve on the Prize Committee if they are not competing. Medals, etc., will be awarded by various Societies and possibly by the State.

18. REMOVAL AND DESPATCH OF EXHIBITS.

Exhibits may not be removed from their proper place in the exhibition until the latter is over without permission in writing from the Committee.

After close of the exhibition the exhibits must be removed from the grounds within four weeks. Structures, foundations and debris must be removed within the same space of time and the place restored to its former condition. The removal of exhibits is only permitted on production of the removal permit which will be granted on payment of all fees. The removal of all debris, etc., connected with the exhibition as well as the restoration of the ground to its former condition must be carried out at the cost and risk of the exhibitors. The same holds good of the removal of all exhibits.

In case of delay the removal or setting aside of exhibits will be carried out by the Management at the cost of the exhibitor and exhibits not removed in time will be forfeited. Should fees in arrear and other expenses not be covered by the sale of such exhibits, the Committee's claim on the exhibitor holds good.

19. CLAIMS.

Claims of whatever description must be brought to the notice of the Management or the Home Working Committee not later than eight weeks after the close of the exhibition and if dismissed may be made the subject of legal proceedings within four weeks from the date of receipt of the decision. Later claims cannot therefore be entertained.

20. LAW COURT.

For hearing law-suits arising between the Home Working Committee and the exhibitors their representatives, employees and agents, the competent court is the Amtsgericht Berlin-Mitte or the Landgericht I, Berlin.

For hearing law-suits arising between the Management and the exhibitors, their representatives, employees and agents, the Court at Dar-es-Salaam is competent.

21. CONCLUSION.

The exhibitors pledge themselves, by handing in the proper application duly filled in, to accept the terms above for themselves, their representatives, employees and agents and agree to comply with all other rules made by the Committee or Management in the interests of the exhibition.

Any form of agreement other than the above is only legally valid if properly drawn up in writing.

PROSPECTUS OF THE GOVERNMENT COMMERCIAL INSTITUTE.

THE Government Commercial Institute, Calcutta, affords a training of a practical and businesslike character, well up to date and capable of direct application to the commerce and trade of the city. It is neither a business college in which the academic element exceeds the vocational in relative importance nor a secondary school of commerce, but a higher school of commerce in which the vocational element predominates but in a liberal manner.

2 There is a specialised Day Course extending over two years, ending in the Commercial Course Final Examination. Provision is also made for more advanced and more technical instruction by means of evening lectures on Advanced Book-keeping, high speed in Shorthand and Typewriting, Political Economy, Mercantile Law, Annuities and Insurance, and Banking and Currency, ending annually in Commercial Course Special Examinations in each of the subjects. These lectures are intended to give persons already employed in business a chance of improving their efficiency as first-rate Shorthand-writers, Typists or Book-keepers, and of gaining an intelligent insight into the economical, financial or legal principles on which commerce is based.

3. The aim of the Institute is to turn out a type of young man who, if he has received a thorough grounding in the ordinary school subjects, especially in English, has the makings of a useful assistant either in commercial firms or in Government offices generally, and who, if he is destined for commercial life and is willing to avail himself of the facilities offered for more advanced and more technical instruction by means of evening lectures, has the makings of a more useful assistant aspiring to be a businessman.

THE DAY COURSE.

4. There are two day classes—a first-year class and a second-year class. For the students of these classes the following course of study is prescribed:—

- (1) Modern English, and especially English correspondence, including commercial correspondence, letter drafting and précis-writing.
- (2) Arithmetic, including commercial and mental arithmetic.
- (3) One of the following languages, namely, Bengali, Hindi, Urdu, Uriya, French, German or Latin.
- (4) One of the following subjects, namely, book-keeping, shorthand-writing or typewriting.
- (5) Commercial Geography.

Arrangements are made to enable those students who may wish to do so to take up two or all of the following subjects, namely, book-keeping shorthand-writing and typewriting.

English.—The English teaching is as severely practical as it can be made. In the first-year class, the students regularly practise dictation and essay-writing. They also practise writing easy letters, both official and business, as between a private man and a firm, and making index and précis of such letters.

In the second-year class they study the advanced stages of Commercial Practice or Business Methods and are drilled constantly to work out complete transactions, enabling them to appreciate not only the exact relation which one item bears to another but also the place of each in the completed whole, the transactions given in outline furnishing material for unaided work on the part of the students. They now practise making index and continuous précis, not only of all the series of letters arising in the transactions given but also of longer official letters and their replies from such bodies as Chambers of Commerce and other Associations. Their papers are corrected and returned soon after they are submitted. No text-books being prescribed, the students are under no temptation to cram, their capacity to write simple correct English with perspicuity and brevity thus developing under careful guidance.

Modern Bengali, including Bengali commercial correspondence, etc.—In Bengali “Kapalkundaja” by Bankim Chandra Chatterjee is prescribed as a text-book affording a model for style and diction. Besides this language work, practices and principles obtaining in the commercial transactions covering different branches are also taught in Bengali, giving the students a further opportunity to learn them and to practise drafting business letters in their mother-tongue. They are required also to make index and précis, in Bengali, of commercial letters.

In order that they may be able to express themselves clearly and accurately in Bengali and in English and with a view more effectively to supplement the practical teaching in English, special attention is paid to translation of passages from English into Bengali and retranslation after some time has elapsed, and vice versa.

Commercial Geography.—The course in Commercial Geography deals specially with the relations of cause and effect that hold good between the general principles of geography and the occurrence, production, and exchange of commodities. It also deals in an elementary way with the history of commodities.

The Commercial Geography text-books used are “Commercial Geography of the World” by A. J. Herbertson, “A Short Commercial Geography” by L. W. Lyde, “Elementary Commercial Geography” by H. R. Mill, and “A School Economic Atlas” by J. G. Bartholomew.

Commercial and Mental Arithmetic.—In Arithmetic the students are taught addition, subtraction, multiplication and division—simple and compound; approximation in multiplication and division; G. C. M. and L. C. M.; fractions—vulgar and decimal; practice; proportion—simple and compound (i.e., simple rule of three and double rule of three); the metric system; percentages, commission, etc.; proportional division; profit and loss; mixtures; interest—simple and compound; present worth and discount; stocks and shares; exchange—chain rule; square root. Grant and Hill’s “Commercial Arithmetic” and “Mental Arithmetic” are used.

Shorthand.—During the first-year of the course the students are thoroughly grounded in the theory of Pitman’s Shorthand and are expected to attain a speed of 50 words per minute at the end of the year. “Pitman’s Shorthand Instructor” is the text-book used. Throughout the second-year they practise speed. The minimum speed sought to be attained is 80 words per minute. The best students are found to attain a speed of 120 words a minute. In the Final Examination speed tests are held at 80, 100, 120 and 140 words per minute.

Typewriting.—The “Touch” system of Typewriting is carefully taught from the beginning. No particular text-book is used. The students are required to attain a minimum speed of 30 words per minute at the end of the two years’ course. Dexterous students are found capable of attaining the maximum speed prescribed for the examination, viz., 55 words per minute. The intermediate standard of speed test is 40 words per minute. They have also to pass a tabulating examination corresponding to each speed test.

Book-keeping.—The full course of the Day classes in Book-keeping includes instruction in the elementary stage. It is expected that a student shall have a satisfactory grounding in English and Arithmetic. In this course there is taught a Double Entry system with simple accounts and commercial transactions. Students are taught to open and keep the following books: Journal, Purchase Day Book, Sales Day Book, Cash Book, Bill Book and Ledger. Instruction is also given in making entries for outgoing and incoming single consignments. In connection with these books instruction is given in Trial Balance and preparation of Balance Sheet and Profit and Loss Accounts.

5. The students pay an admission fee of Rs. 3. The monthly tuition fee is Rs. 3. The text-books which the students have to buy cost about Rs. 16.

6. The classes are held between 11 A.M. and 4 P.M. except on Saturdays, when they are held between 11 A.M. and 2 P.M. Students of typewriting are allowed to stay later for extra practice.

7. The session begins annually about the end of June and closes about the end of April. The usual Autumn and Christmas holidays are given.

8. Candidates who have passed the Matriculation examination are eligible for admission. Others are admitted, provided they satisfy the Education Department, by passing a preliminary test examination of a similar standard, that they have sufficient general education to enable them to derive advantage from the teaching.

9. Graduates and Intermediates may be admitted in the second-year class, provided they take up only Typewriting among the subjects mentioned in section (4), paragraph 4. They may be allowed to take up Shorthand or Book-keeping, provided they have sufficient knowledge in Shorthand or Book-keeping, as the case may be.

10. Candidates for admission should send in their applications to the Principal annually before the end of June.

THE EVENING COURSE.

The session begins annually about the end of June and closes about the middle of April.

11. There are at present Evening classes for the following subjects: Shorthand-writing, Typewriting and Book-keeping.

12. If classes can be formed, arrangements will be made for the delivery of lectures on Political Economy, Annuities and Insurance, Mercantile Law, Modern English, and Banking and Currency. Fees are paid according to the number of lectures delivered in each subject. Classes were formed last year in all the subjects except Modern English.

13. A student may be a member of one or more classes at his option.

14. Shorthand.—Students are admitted in July and also in December every year. The examination is held in April. For the session July to November the fee is Rs. 12, payable in four instalments of Rs. 3 each. Only those having a minimum speed of 60 words per minute are admitted in July. For the session December to mid-April, the fee is Rs. 16, payable in four instalments of Rs. 4 each. Those having a speed of 80 words a minute or more are admitted in December. Speed classes are so held as to enable a student to attain any of the four grades of speed required for the Special Examination, viz., 80, 100, 120 and 140 words per minute. There is no Theory class in the evening. The class sits at 6 P.M. daily (except on Saturdays and holidays).

15. Typewriting.—Beginners are admitted in July. They are carefully taught the "Touch" system. Advanced students are also admitted in this session. In December, only students having a speed of at least 20 words per minute are admitted. No beginner can join this session. By mid-April, when the examination is held, the minimum speed sought to be attained is 35 words per minute and the maximum is 60 words per minute. There is an intermediate speed test at 45 words per minute. For each of the three speed tests there is a corresponding accuracy test in tabulating, which is carefully taught. The fee is the same as that of the Shorthand class; but a reduction of Re. 1 per instalment of each of the two fees payable by a student, who is simultaneously a member of both the Shorthand and Typewriting classes, is granted, and the same reduction per instalment of each of the three fees payable is made when a student is simultaneously a member of three classes, viz., Shorthand, Typewriting and Book-keeping. The Typewriting class is divided into two groups, the first of which practise from 5 to 6-30 P.M. and the second from 6-30 to 8 P.M. (except on Saturdays and holidays).

16. Book-keeping.—The full course of the evening classes in Book-keeping includes instruction in two stages—the Elementary and the Advanced. Preparatory to the Elementary work it is expected that a student shall have a satisfactory grounding in English and Arithmetic—

(a) In the first-year class, ending with the Commercial Course Special Examination in Elementary Book-keeping, the course is similar to that prescribed for the day course.

(b) In the second-year class ending in the Commercial Course Special Examination in Advanced Book-keeping, the course includes matters as under:—

In the advanced stage there is considered the nature of capital, whether as money or property, stocks, shares, classification of capital, revenue accounts, the use of departmental ledgers, also the establishment and recoupment of sinking funds, investment accounts, public, railway, gas and water companies accounts. Joint-stock companies' accounts are dealt with completely. Instruction is also given in joint consignments, partnerships, contracts, etc. The nature and purposes of allowances to be made for depreciation in value of property are also made clear.

The fee for the Elementary Book-keeping class is Rs. 24, payable in eight instalments of Rs. 3 each, and that of the other Book-keeping class is Rs. 32, payable in eight instalments of Rs. 4 each. A reduction of Re. 1 per instalment of each of the two fees payable by a student who is a member simultaneously of two of the classes in Shorthand, Typewriting or Book-keeping will be granted, and the same reduction is granted per instalment of each of the three fees payable by a student who is a member simultaneously of three of the classes in Shorthand, Typewriting and Book-keeping.

17. Candidates who have attended the lectures in the day course will be eligible for admission to the evening course. Others will be admitted, provided they appear qualified for the class or classes they seek to join. Candidates for admission to Typewriting and the first-year Book-keeping classes must show that they have sufficient general education. Candidates for admission to the Shorthand and the second-year Book-keeping classes must show that they have sufficient knowledge of Shorthand or Book-keeping, as the case may be.

18. Examinations.—The following examinations are held annually in April:—

- (1) The Commercial Course Final Examination.
- (2) A Special Examination in Mercantile Law.
- (3) Ditto ditto Banking and Currency.
- (4) Ditto ditto Outline of Political Economy.
- (5) Ditto ditto Annuities and Insurance.
- (6) Ditto ditto Modern English.
- (7) Ditto ditto Book-keeping (Elementary).
- (8) Ditto ditto Book-keeping (Advanced).
- (9) Ditto ditto Shorthand-writing.
- (10) Ditto ditto Typewriting.

The fee is Rs. 5 for each Special Examination and Rs. 8 for the Final Examination.

19. Scholarships.—It has been proposed that three scholarships of Rs. 12 each will be awarded to those among the students admitted in the first-year Day class in the Government Commercial Institute, who have secured the highest number of marks in English in the Matriculation examination of the Calcutta University, and that three scholarships of Rs. 20 each will be awarded to the students of the second-year Day class who will obtain the highest total number of marks at a preliminary examination to be held at the end of the first year for the purpose of awarding the scholarships and determining promotion. These proposals, however, have not yet been sanctioned.

Prizes.—First and second prizes of Rs. 75 and Rs. 50 respectively will be offered by the Bengal Chamber of Commerce for competition by the students of the Day class and another prize of Rs. 50 will be offered by the same body for competition among the students of the Evening classes in each of the following subjects:—

Mercantile Law, Banking and Currency, Annuities and Insurance, Political Economy, Modern English, Shorthand and Advanced Book-keeping.

Three prizes are offered by the Remington Typewriter Company to be awarded to the three students of the Institute obtaining the highest marks for efficiency in Typewriting.

A prize of Rs. 50 has been offered by the Hon'ble Rai Sitanath Roy Bahadur to be awarded to the student who would pass in Banking and Currency, heading the list, in the Commercial Course Special Examination.

20. The Commercial Course Final Examination at the end of the two years' Day course and the Commercial Course Special Examinations in each of the subjects specified for evening lectures at the end of each year are controlled by the Commercial Course Advisory and Examination Board, a body consisting of educational officers and gentlemen engaged in commerce in Calcutta. On the results of these examinations certificates are granted by the Education Department, these certificates being endorsed by the Secretary, Bengal Chamber of Commerce, which body, as also the Bengal National Chamber of Commerce, have undertaken to publish the list of the successful candidates.

21. Up till now the Institute has turned out 312 successful candidates in the Final and Special Examinations. All of these are now employed in various offices, both mercantile and Government. A good many of them, viz., those that had joined either the Day or Evening classes with a tolerably fair grounding in English and could, therefore, make the best use of the training received here, have risen above the level and are now drawing from Rs. 60 to Rs. 120, some of them having even received two or three increases in the course of a year and are reported to be shaping very well in their respective spheres.

22. The Bengal Chamber of Commerce has issued a circular letter containing a request to its members to make it a rule to take the passed students of the Day classes, whenever possible, in preference to other clerks.

In its Notification No. 4122Mis., dated the 24th November 1911, the Government has recognised the comprehensiveness and thoroughness of the course of studies prescribed for our Final Examination by adopting it, with slight elimination and addition, for the Secretariat Clerical Service Examination, and has declared our successful candidates in the Final Examination as eligible to appear for it along with those who have passed the Intermediate and higher examinations of an Indian University.

23. Candidates for admission should send in their applications to the Principal annually before the end of June.

Public Works Department, Bengal.

NOTICE.

FOR maintenance and working of the Barkal Tramway and rolling-stock from Peshkehera to Chaltatali, 1½ miles long, on the right bank of the river Karnafuh, in the Chittagong Hill Tracts.

The Superintendent, Chittagong Hill Tracts, Public Works Department, invites tenders for the above work for a period of 12 months from 1st April 1914. A copy of specification for the said work is given in schedule A. A summary of conditions, maximum rates for passengers and luggages, etc., on which the contract will be drawn up, can be seen from the subjoined copy of current agreement with contractor Babu Kailash Chandra Mitra, of Suvarnagram, Dacca, given in schedule B.

The undersigned is prepared to consider any subsidy if required for the maintenance of the service.

A list of rolling-stock, plant, bridges, buildings and furniture, etc., to be maintained is given in schedule C.

Each tender must be accompanied by earnest money in currency notes, amounting to Rs. 25 only, which will be returned in case of the tender not being accepted, and will be treated as security in the case of the successful tenderer.

Tenders must be forwarded in sealed cover, addressed to the Superintendent, Chittagong Hill Tracts, Public Works Department, Rangamati, and must reach him on or before the 27th March 1914. The cover should be superscribed in red ink "Tender for working and maintenance of the tramway line, rolling-stock, etc., at Barkal from April 1914, to be opened on the 29th March 1914." Unless so superscribed they are liable to be returned without consideration.

The Superintendent, Chittagong Hill Tracts, does not bind himself to accept the lowest tender or to assign any reason for non-acceptance.

O. Mawson, Superintendent, Chittagong Hill Tracts.

Rangamati, the 4th March 1914.

SCHEDULE A.

Specification.

For working the Barkal Tramway and maintenance of the line and the rolling-stock the contractor will employ a work agent and a staff of (say) six men at Barkal, varying in strength according to the traffic and stress of work on the line.

The contractor will be responsible for keeping waterways and approaches of bridges perfectly clear all through the year and taking care of all bridges and culverts on the tramway and of Government buildings and for executing petty repairs thereto as occasion arises (save annual repairs to bridges and buildings) and for the safe custody of all furniture and stores at Barkal. All stores used up or rendered unserviceable by the contractor must be replaced at his cost.

Except where the line is fairly level and straight, the trollymen must not get on the trolly especially when it is running down a slope. Sleepers should be well packed with earth to give an even bearing surface and necessary camber to the rails. The line should be maintained in smooth uniform straight lines and curves, the inside of adjacent rail heads being kept in one uniform-line (to prevent jolting and breakage of wheels, axle-boxes, etc.) by properly placing the sleepers and keying the rails thereto.

All worn-out parts of trucks and trollies to be renewed and all damaged or broken parts to be replaced by the contractor.

Axle-boxes of trucks should always be kept well lubricated with oil, etc., and to be maintained in a perfectly clean condition. All wrought-iron or steel work to be painted with redlead paint.

The whole length of the line, about  $1\frac{1}{2}$  miles in length, to be kept clear of slips caused by rain or otherwise and of all jungle growth all through the year for a width of about 60 feet.

Similarly the approaches to the rest-houses and to the river in the different places on the line should be properly maintained and kept clear of jungle, etc., to the usual width.

A clear width of 10 feet for road-way with ordinary barrelled surface of road, side drains and cross drains for free drainage with small cut as outlets or water passage at short intervals from the outer drains to prevent the tract being cut away by the drainage should be maintained by widening where necessary with about two feet wide side parapet of earth to prevent accidents and to stop derailed tracks.

After the rains are over, all irregularities or hollows in the roadway should first be levelled off, and when this is done, fresh earth cut from the hill side added so as to make up the road to the prescribed section, that is to give a camber or rise of 1 in 12 inches, the centre of the roadway. The new earthwork must be consolidated by ramming or rolling early in the morning of the day following that on which it is put on the road, so as both to retain the moisture in the soil, and to take advantage of the dew before it evaporates.

SCHEDULE B.

Contract between the Superintendent, Chittagong Hill Tracts, on behalf of the Secretary of State for India in Council on one side, and on the other Babu Kailash Chandra Mittra, son of late Ram Kinkor Mittra, of Suvarnagram, thana Munshiganj, district Dacca, the executor of the estate of the late Roy Abhoya Charan Mittra Bahadur.

  - (f) Goods weighing more than 6 maunds and carried in one truck to be charged at 2 annas per maund.
  - (g) Ordinarily the goods to be carried over the tramway in any single day will not be less than 60 maunds or more than 80 maunds, but in special cases the Superintendent, Chittagong Hill Tracts, or the District Engineer may direct the contractor to exceed the above to any reasonable extent.
- (4) That half-yearly return of stores will be submitted at close of each half-year and periodical return of traffic will be submitted at the end of each month or as may be required.
- (5) That the undertaking and everything appertaining thereto shall be maintained and repaired efficiently to the satisfaction and according to the instructions and orders of the Superintendent and the District Engineer, Chittagong Hill Tracts, and that the contractor's books and accounts be open to the inspection of the said officers at all times, and without the permission of the said Superintendent and District Engineer nothing shall be removed nor any alteration in the work made. In the event of any defects in the maintenance, repairs or proper working the same can be mended by the said officers at my expense and the contract may also be summarily terminated, all losses being recovered from me.
- (6) That in the event of any dispute arising an appeal shall lie to the Superintendent, Chittagong Hill Tracts, whose decision shall be final.

Position.—At flagstaff on Ras Marbut (Steamer point).

Lat.  $12^{\circ} 47\frac{1}{2}'$  N., long.  $44^{\circ} 58\frac{1}{2}'$  E.

I.—Cautionary Signal.

The square flag W of the International Code, hoisted as a cautionary signal, indicates the existence of disturbed weather off some part of the west coast of India or in the neighbourhood of the port, or the advance of a cyclonic storm across the Indian Peninsula, from the Bay of Bengal, which may hence shortly cross the Western Ghats of India and give squally or stormy weather in the Arabian sea. The disturbed conditions may, in any of these cases, pass away without giving stormy cyclonic weather to the ports on the west coast of India or to the adjacent parts of the Arabian sea, in which case the cautionary signal will be taken down, as soon as it is certain that stormy weather will not shortly follow.

If, however, the disturbed weather be the first indication of the probable formation or approach of a cyclonic storm, this cautionary signal will be followed by one of the ordinary storm signals, indicating the probable position, character and track of the approaching storms. This signal would be hoisted if the disturbing conditions were thought likely to affect either Aden or the tracks of vessels leaving Aden.

II.—Warning Signal.

The warning signal, viz., a ball by day and a red light by night, will be hoisted (a) when a storm has formed and is threatening to advance towards Aden, though still at a considerable distance; or (b) when a storm has formed and is not likely to affect Aden, but to cross the tracks of vessels leaving Aden.

III.—Danger Signals.

(1) By day, a cone apex downwards, or by night, a red light vertically above a white light indicates that a cyclonic storm (probably of slight to moderate intensity) may affect the port, and that its centre will probably pass considerably to the southward of the port in a westerly direction.

(2) By day, a cone apex upwards, and by night, a red light vertically below a white light indicates that a cyclonic storm (probably of slight to moderate intensity) may affect the port, and that its centre will probably cross considerably to the north-east of Aden.

(3) By day, a drum, and by night, two red lights in a vertical line indicates that a cyclonic storm (probably of slight to moderate intensity) will probably cross the coast over or near the port.

IV.—Great Danger Signals.

In order to indicate that a cyclonic storm in the sea area near the port is of great intensity, a ball (by day) or a red light (by night) is added to the corresponding danger signal.

(1) By day, a cone apex downwards, and ball below, and by night, two red lights with a white light below arranged in a vertical line indicate that a cyclonic storm of great intensity may affect the port, and that its centre will probably pass considerably to the southward of the port in a westerly direction.

(2) By day, a cone apex upwards and ball below, and by night, two red lights with a white light above in a vertical line indicate that a cyclonic storm of great intensity may affect the port and that its centre will probably cross the coast considerably to the north-east of the port.

(3) By day, a drum with a ball below, or by night, three red lights in a vertical line indicate that a cyclonic storm of great intensity will probably cross the coast over or near to the port.

RESOLUTION REVIEWING THE REPORTS ON THE WORKING OF DISTRICT BOARDS IN BENGAL DURING 1912-13.

MUNICIPAL DEPARTMENT.

LOCAL SELF-GOVT.

CALCUTTA, THE 23RD MARCH 1914.

RESOLUTION—No. 1097 L.S.-G.

READ—

The Reports from the Commissioners of Divisions on the working of District Boards in Bengal during the year 1912-13.

THE year 1912-13 was marked by an extension of the privileges of local self-government throughout the Presidency. The powers of District Boards in the matter of sanctioning estimates were enlarged and the control hitherto exercised by Commissioners over their budgets was curtailed. Local Boards in some instances were given greater powers and responsibilities, notably the Local Board of Asansol, to which the control over all the roads within its jurisdiction was delegated, a corresponding portion of the road cess being transferred to the Local Board and a competent Assistant Engineer appointed for the subdivision. A still greater advance was made in the expansion of Union Committees and the consolidation of the unions already in existence. Eleven of these bodies introduced taxation for local sanitation.

These enhanced powers were accompanied by substantial increase in the income of District Boards, and thus conditions were unusually favourable to progress. But the result of the year's work is somewhat disappointing; for despite the increase in their receipts the expenditure by District Boards actually declined, and the closing balances rose to a sum nearly equal to half the annual ordinary expenditure. This failure of local bodies to make full use of their resources in spite of their enhanced powers and greater freedom from control is the most striking feature of the year's work, and the reduction of the heavy balances is a problem which deserves their most careful attention.

By far the largest item of expenditure is Civil works. This declined by more than two lakhs of rupees, and the percentage on total expenditure fell from 56·4 to 53·7. Education, on the contrary, showed an increase of two lakhs and the percentage rose from 21·9 to 25·3. But this increase in expenditure was not commensurate with the rise in the receipts which amounted to 4½ lakhs, giving a total of 16·3 per cent. of the Boards' income as compared with 10·7 per cent. in the previous year.

Medical relief and sanitation received rather more attention than before, but the expenditure on sanitary measures is wholly inadequate to the needs of the Presidency. Drainage and arboriculture were for the most part neglected. On the other hand considerable activity was shown in the extension of light railways, and this is the healthiest sign of the year's record.

The number of District Boards remained unchanged, while that of Local Boards increased by one owing to the establishment of a new Local Board at Gopalganj in the district of Faridpur. The Union at Lowada in the district of Midnapore was abolished, while new unions were formed at Bolpur, Dubrajpur and Rampurhat in the district of Birbhum, at Boinehee and Janai in the district of Hooghly and at Narail in the district of Jessore.

2. District Boards.—There are 25 District Boards in the Presidency. They held 387 meetings in all during the year as compared with 379 in the previous year. Of these 10 proved abortive for want of a quorum as against 18 in 1911-12. With the exception of Murshidabad all the District Boards met at least once a month. The total number of members was 509, of whom 132 held ex-officio appointments, 168 were nominated members and 209 were elected. The attendance of both officials and non-officials showed some improvement during the year.

3. Local Boards.—The total number of meetings held during the year by the 72 Local Boards in the Presidency was 858, of which 67 failed for want of a quorum.

The increase of 2 in the total number of meetings and the decrease of 21 in the number of those that proved abortive indicate that the members are taking greater interest in the working of the Boards.

Twenty-eight Local Boards failed to meet once a month. Irregularity in the meetings of the Boards is again most noticeable in the Presidency Division, and particularly in the Murshidabad district. The Local Board of Kandi held only five meetings. The explanation given is that more meetings were not necessary for the disposal of the work, but this merely discloses the lack of interest taken by the members in the work.

4. Elections.—General elections were held in the districts of Jessore, Murshidabad, Mymensingh, Faridpur, Bakarganj and Pabna. In the Sadar Local Board, Burdwan, the general election which was unfinished at the close of the preceding year was completed. In the majority of cases elections proved successful; they failed in thana Jangipur in the district of Murshidabad, in seven thanas out of seventeen in the district of Jessore, in thana Palong in the Madaripur subdivision of the district of Faridpur and in thana Santhia under the Sadar subdivision of the district of Pabna. The vacancies in these thanas were filled by nomination.

5. Powers of District and Local Boards.—During the year under report effect was given to the orders of Government restricting the Commissioners' supervision over the District funds budgets to certain specified points and allowing re-appropriation by the District Boards of the budget grants under minor heads subordinate to the same major head, with the general sanction of the Commissioner to be conveyed at the time of passing the budget.

The powers of District Boards in the matter of sanctioning estimates were also extended during the year. Under the extended powers District Boards of the first, second and third classes can give final sanction to estimates for new works up to Rs. 10,000, Rs. 2,500 and Rs. 1,500, respectively, and to estimates for repairs up to any amount. Formerly the limits were respectively Rs. 2,500, Rs. 1,000 and Rs. 500 in the case of new works, and Rs. 5,000, Rs. 2,000 and Rs. 1,000 in the case of repairs.

The Local Boards were vested with full powers in the preparation of their detailed budgets and were thus allowed a free hand in making allotments for works under their charge according to local necessity, the District Board making only a lump grant to these bodies. On the representation of the Indian Mining Association the Government sanctioned the transfer of all roads lying within the Asansol subdivision, which were previously managed by the District Board, to the control and management of the Asansol Local Board. A qualified Assistant Engineer was appointed, and a portion of the cess receipts made over to the Local Board.
